Grantsville, Md., May 4.—Jennie Spiker, a daughter of Mrs. Maria Spiker, died April 25th in Miner's Hospital, Frostburg, from a complication of diseases. She had been admitted several weeks prior to her death because of burns she received from upsetting a pail of hot water, when she became unconscious, caused by convulsions. The funeral was held on Thursday from Mt. Zion M. E. church, Rev. J. E. Johnson, pastor. Beside her mother, Miss Spiker is survived by three brothers, Thomas and Guernie, of Grantsville; Charles, of New Germany; and five sisters: Emma, at home; Mrs. Ida Ebaugh, of Meyersdale; Mary Swauger, New Germany; Rells Spiker and Susie Crowe, both of National, Md. She was nearly 31 years of age.

A dramatic program was given at the Holmes and Wallace Studios last Thursday evening. The following numbers made up the program:

Scene from "Madcap Duchess," Miss Mabel Younkin and Miss Lulu Pope; Juvenile Act, Rosie's Doll, Miss Wilma Schaefer; Scene from "Faust," Siebel, Mrs. Harold Miller, Margarita, Mrs. Harry Bender; Fanny Squeers' Tea-Party, English Comedy. Fanny Squeers, Miss Dorothy Edwards, Matilda Price, Miss Helen Falk; Nicholas Nicklehy, Mr. Clyde Miller, John Browdie, Mr. Lee Roy Shumaker. Incidental music: Valse, Neidlinger; Scherzo, Beethoven and Caprice, Wachs, played by Mrs. Sylvia Diefenbach.

Belmont Miller, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Miller, while playing along the stream on South side of the Pike at rear of Mr. John Hanft's property on Sunday afternoon, fell face forward into the water. Had it not been for a group of his playmates being near and having presence of mind to drag him out, he would have drowned. He was pretty thoroughly chilled by the time he got home, but apparently none the worse for his experience.

With the coming of May, comes the announcement from the Citizens Light, Heat and Power Company of Meyersdale, that the rates for current will be reduced from 12 cents per kilowatt to 10 cents, and a still further reduction when a large number of kilowatts are used; also a special rate for heating purposes. This convenience has not been available in the locality until this time. The Citizens Company was absorbed by the Associated Gas and Electric interests last fall. Certainly a large corporation cannot be blamed for gouging the public when it reduces the rate and furnishes additional facilities and conveniences. The business houses of the town are especially appreciative of this service, for already the American Restaurant has installed a Frigidaire ice cream cabinet to keep their assortment of creams in the pink of condition, also at the Keller Drug Store, an ice cream cabinet has been put in.

The Kitchen Cabinet Orchestra of First M. E. church, Frostburg, will give a program of music and entertainment here in the W. O. W. Hall on Thursday, May 12th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church. They promise something pleasing and decidedly different from what has been offered the public heretofore. The proceeds will be divided between the Ladies' Aid Society here and the entertainers. The orchestra is giving this musical treat with a view to raising sufficient money to install chimes in their fine, large church in Frostburg.

The students of the Junior and Senior classes of High school gave a three act comedy, "A Poor Married Man," on Friday and Saturday evenings to well filled houses. It was the livest and funniest given yet and met the approval of the audiences.

The following is an advertisement published last week by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Campany, which certainly is timely and worthy of the attention of every parent and guardian of children. We give it here for the good that may be accomplished for the children and the community: "This is a clumsy world for children. They are constantly running into barbed wires of our grown-up principles and conventions. Every year thousands of them get into trouble which brings them before the Juvenile Courts for punishment or wisely tempered mercy. Rarely are these unfortunate youngsters really bad. Nearly always the hidden cause behind their waywardness is lack of training or proper guidance at home. Oftentimes, physical conditions cause their abnormality. When health is restored the vicious tendencies often disappear. Warm-hearted men and women in all parts of the country are doing splendid work in helping to salvage these bits of human driftwood. Organizations have been formed which send volunteer representatives to Juvenile Courts to take boys and girls on probation and to save them from slipping into lives of crime. The kindly folk who do this work are 'Friends at Court' to these youngsters. Delinquent children are by no means found to come only from homes of poverty. From well-to-do, and very rich homes have come children with tendencies toward crime which amazed their parents. Too late these fathers and mothers learned that in reality they never had know their sons and daughters. May first has been set aside by the nation as a day on which mothers and fathers, philanthropists and public-spirited men and women, interested in America's future, join in one great purpose—the big, important work of checking up the health of the children of this country. It is a great forward step to set aside a definite day to have eyes, ears, noses, throats and teeth examined for possible physical defects. But why stop half-way? Examine minds just as thoroughly for possible mental troubles. In May, then, after you good fathers and mothers have found out whether or not your children are sound and healthy, physically, you will want to have an old-fashioned, heart-to-heart talk with the youngsters and learn what they are thinking about, who their companions are, and where they spend their time. More especially will you want to do this if you have ever spent a few hours in a Juvenile Court where you will have learned that they, young offenders in nearly every instance, land in court because of bad companions or want of proper home training. Lacking a friend at home, a child may need a friend at court."

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

This is to give notice to the taxpayers of Garrett county that the annual levy for 1927 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 15 Chapter 56, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent will be allowed, and after the first day of January all county taxes shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid. The treasurer shall take the discount from and charge the interest on the tax bill for the county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid, and shall note the same upon the books and upon the receipts given on the taxes paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of state and county taxes are paid when the same is made."

Under the provisions of Section 48 of Chapter 620 of the Acts of 1916, all the state taxes shall be due and payable on and after the first day of July in the year in which the same are levied, and if not paid on or before the first day of September of said year, shall bear interest from said date at the rate of six per cent per annum. No discount is allowed on state taxes.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The First National Bank of Cumberland, Maryland, a corporation, vs. The Advance Development Company, a corporation; John Crosby Brydon and Nell H. Brydon, his wife; William Schley Brydon and Della E. Brydon, his wife, and Louis B. Brydon and Grace B. Brydon, his wife.

No. 2743 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to have a decree passed declaring void, vacating and annulling two deeds.

The Bill alleges that on or about the 6th day of February, 1922, the plaintiff, The First National Bank of Cumberland, Maryland, discounted a note of the defendant Louis B. Brydon, in the sum of Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($7,500.00) Dollars, and that ever since said time and at the present time the said indebtedness with interest thereon is an outstanding and subsisting indebtedness due the plaintiff; that at said time the said Louis B. Brydon was the owner of a one-third undivided interest in land in Garrett county, Maryland, containing about forty seven acres, which was conveyed to the said Louis B. Brydon, John Crosby Brydon and William Schley Brydon by deed of Susan V. Brydon and husband, dated the 5th day of September, 1896, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county in Liber E. Z. T. No. 30, folio 477; that at said time the said Louis B. Brydon had out of his own moneys and property advanced and paid to the said John Crosby Brydon and William Schley Brydon an amount of money, equal to and in excess of their value and ownership in the aforesaid property, and in order to secure the same to the defendant, Louis B. Brydon, the said John Crosby Brydon and wife, and William Schley Brydon and wife, without consideration, except said indebtedness, did on June 1, 1926, execute a deed to The Advance Development Company, a corporation, of all of their right, title and interest in said property, same being recorded among said Land Records in Liber E. Z. T. No. 93, folio 411.

The Bill further alleges that the defendant being all the time indebted to the plaintiff as aforesaid did prior to January 26, 1926, cause to be incorporated The Advance Development Company and did, without any consideration moving from the said The Advance Development Company to the said Louis B. Brydon, execute a deed in connection with his said wife for a pretended consideration of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars of all of his right, title and interest in the aforesaid real estate; that at the time of the execution and delivery of the aforesaid deeds from John Crosby Brydon and wife, and William Schley Brydon and wife, to The Advance Development Company, and the said deed from Louis B. Brydon and wife to The Advance Development Company, the said defendant Louis B. Brydon was indebted as aforesaid to the plaintiff, and that at the time of the making of both of said deeds, he did not have the means of paying said indebtedness out of any other property except the property so conveyed, and at said time he was also largely indebted to other persons and was insolvent; that said conveyances were made to The Advance Development Company for a simulated and pretended consideration, and that the effect of the same was to hinder, delay and defraud your complainant of its just and lawful claim.

The Bill further alleges that the said Louis B. Brydon and Grace B. Brydon, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing in Taylor county, West Virginia, and that the said William Schley Brydon and Della E. Brydon, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing in Barbour county, West Virginia.

The Bill prays for a decree of Court declaring to be void, vacating and annulling both of the aforesaid deeds to The Advance Development Company, and for other relief.

It is thereupon this 21st day of March, 1927, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 6th day of May, 1927, give notice to the said absent and non-resident defendants of the object and substance of this Bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 23rd day of May, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Peder Emanuel Baasland vs. Jenny Baasland.

No. 2747 Equity. In the Circuit Court of Garrett county.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii for the plaintiff from the defendant.

1. That the plaintiff was married on the 4th day of September, 1917, he was married to his wife Jenny Baasland, nee Jenny Hansen, at Little Falls, N. Y., and lived with her as man and wife until the latter part of October, 1917.

2. That although the conduct of the plaintiff toward the defendant has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant, on or about the latter part of October, 1917, without just cause, abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years, and is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable hope of reconciliation.

The Bill then states that the plaintiff has resided in the State of Maryland for more than two years, and that the defendant is a non-resident of this State.

The Bill further states that no children were born to the parties as a result of said marriage.

The Bill then prays for a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii, for general relief and for order of publication against the defendant.

It is thereupon this 18th day of April, 1927, by the Circuit Court of Garrett county, in Equity, ordered, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 20th day of May, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 5th day of June, 1927, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

WHO'S WHO IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

Former Garrett Countian One of 6,000 Mentioned in Washington's Who's Who

William A. Kimmell, one of the "6,000" whose names and life histories appear in the 1926-27 edition of Who's Who in the Nation's Capital, was born in Garrett county.

To have one's name so listed is a distinction, for Washington is replete with notable persons and only 6,000 of the city's half-million persons appear in the 700-page volume which is published every two years. The book contains the names and biographies to date of a carefully selected group, including the Presidents, his cabinet, important executives, scientists, authors, newspaper men, educators, and professional men and women.

Mr. Kimmell's biography, as it appears in Who's Who in the Nation's Capital, and as furnished to Ransdell Inc., publishers, is as follows:

KIMMELL, William Alexander, building contractor; b. Nov. 21, 1859, Bloomington, Md., s. Peter and Elizabeth Susan (Brandt) Kimmell. Graduate, Maryland high school. Began as apprentice in constructing and contracting business; established present business, 1886; has built 19 churches in D. C., including St. Paul's M. E. Church, Berean Baptist Church, Temple Baptist Church, Grace Baptist Church, Church of the Advent (Protestant Episcopal); also Pythian Temple and King Building, of U. S. Soldiers' Home. Member: Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Ass'n, Mid City Citizens' Ass'n, Masonic Order (Past Master, Pentalpha Lodge, No. 23, 1901-04, Past High Priest, Mt. Horeb Chapter, No. 7; Past Patron, Martha Chapter No. 4, O. E. S., 1901-1925; K. of P. (Past Grand Chancellor; Grand Keeper of Records and Seal). Widower; four children, Frederick Francis, and three married daughters. Home: 1512 Columbia Rd. Office: 508 Evans Building.

Making Child Health Day Worth While

"What we want to do in Maryland is to make every day 'Child Health Day,'" was the way Dr. J. H. Knox, Jr., Chief of the State Bureau of Child Hygiene and Chairman of the State Committee for Child Health Day summed up the underlying purpose of the Child Health Day celebrations that are being held throughout the State this month, in connection with the nationwide observance of the day.

"And," he continued, "the responsibility for securing for every child his right to health and happiness and the proper sort of care, physical, mental and spiritual, rests with the grown-ups.

"The responsibilities that will ultimately fall upon the shoulders of the boys and girls of today will be even greater than those that this generation has borne. It is only the part of wisdom for men and women to do all that can be done to conserve and strengthen the lives of the children to meet their future burdens.

"Much has already been done in Maryland to reduce the health hazards for young children. Only half as many babies die now during the first years of life as was true twenty-five years ago. But we still have much to learn, and much to accomplish, and perhaps the most pressing duty before us, is to spread to every home what is now common knowledge about the best ways of caring for our children.

"If we had an infant death rate throughout Maryland as low as that in the country as a whole, we would save about four hundred additional baby lives every year.

"There is also much unnecessary illness and suffering among the older children. We can depend upon the more intelligent and alert citizens to recognize these facts and to do everything in their power to safeguard the health of these young citizens. But they must do even more than that. The purpose of our Child Health Day celebrations will be completely lost if they do not stimulate those who appreciate the value of child life to pass the message along to the more indifferent and less responsible groups in their own communities.

"Here is where the influence of our Parent-Teacher Associations and of similar organizations can be of the utmost help."

NOTICE TO THE FARMERS

It is rumored and being told by certain representatives of an International dealer close to Garrett Co., and in the territory of Oakland Farm Supply Co. of Oakland, Md., that Moline Repairs cannot be gotten for Moline machinery. We offer a reward of $25 to the party that brings any part of Moline machinery that has been manufactured by the Moline Co. since it was a manufacturing concern that we fail to get any piece of repair for any implement made by them. We also ask that this lying propaganda be not considered by any person in Garrett Co., or who has good reasoning within their power, to realize that the story being told is a base lie. We ask proof for any one stating this unreasonable tale of woe.

11 U. S. PRISONERS NOW IN GARRETT COUNTY JAIL

Number Committed to Various County Prisons Now Exceeds One Hundred

Fourteen Federal prisoners were brought to the county jail in Oakland yesterday morning, the men in charge of three guards arriving here at two o'clock, the trip having been made in a bus chartered by United States Marshal George W. Collier for the purpose, whose duty it is to find shelter and board for wards of the Government sentenced in United States District Court since the Jail Board in Baltimore has refused to receive them following a dispute with the Government over the daily maintenance rate.

With the fourteen men brought to Oakland the total of Federal prisoners committed to county penal institutions numbers more than a hundred.

The Cumberland jail is said to be filled and the prison at Hagerstown is reported to be filled to capacity. There is still room for more at the jail at Ellicott City, it is said, but this institution is being held in reserve for what is termed "temporary emergency" use.

Deputies Voice Objections.

Just what the Government is doing to make peace with the Jail Board could not be learned. Federal officails in Bnltimore have asserted that they are in the dark on the subject. The only objection has been voiced by Mr. Collier's deputies, who must accompany the prisoners on their trips to county jails. "To go from here to Cumberland or Oakland means a trip of several hours and consequent loss of sleep."

The strain, they say, is being felt and they are beginning to complain.

BOWLING LEAGUE COMES TO CLOSE TUESDAY

Methodist Team Proclaimed Winners

Monday evening brought to a close the activities of the Bowling League at the Recreation bowling alleys when the Methodists were proclaimed the winners of the contests which have been played since the first day of February.

Excepting a recess during Holy Week, which was unanimously decided upon by the teams in the League, the games have been played every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for more than three months.

The League was organized for the expressed purpose of promoting a stronger fraternal feeling between the organizations represented in the line-up, and a very good fellowship and spirit was very pronounced from the beginning until the end.

The Methodists proved more skillful with the ball and rolled up a higher score than any other contenders for the championship. Even from the beginning the Methodists were looked upon as the winners.

The following score was attained by the respective teams:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Methodist	49	14	778
Brotherhood	45	18	714
Gortner	31	32	492
Lutheran	30	33	476
Rotary	30	33	476

Swanton 4-H Club Holds Successful Entertainment.

On Saturday night May 7th, the 4-H Girl's Club at Swanton held an entertainment in the Swanton school. Miss Dorothy Welch and Miss Nina Sweitzer, High school girls and leaders of this Club, were in charge of the evening's entertainment and program. The program itself was planned for the mothers and carried out the thought of Mother's Dny, even to the giving of a flower to each mother present. Three girls from the 4-H Cluh at Painter school also took part in the program.

After the program refreshments were sold. A grab hag furnished a good hit of merriment and a guess cake was sold. Over one hundred people attended this social and the 4-H Club made over $20. With the proceeds they hope to improve their club room at Swanton and send one or two worthy girls to the Allegany-Garrett County Cluh Camp in July.

GARRETT CO. FARMERS STARTED ON TOUR TODAY

Seventy Agriculturalists Leave By Automobile For State College

This morning at six o'clock, not with-standing the rain and consequent unfavorable conditions that tend to mar a pleasure trip by automobile, a large party of farmers who reside in Garrett county left here for College Park and other points east on a pleasure and educational trip.

At points north of Oakland the party was joined by other farmers, the number being augmented very materially by those from Accident, Friendsville and Grantsville.

The tour was arranged by County Agent J. L. McGlone who spent several weeks in his efforts to make the tour a success and in interesting those composing the party.

The tour will include a visit to Washington, D. C., and a number of large Western Maryland apple orchards in the vicinity of Hancock, Arlington, Va., and other places of interest.

At College Park on Saturday, Dr. Patterson, the State Director, will make an address of welcome to the visitors, where the guests will be quartered and shown many interesting things about the college.

Transportation to and from College Park is being furnished by the Old Trails Bus Company and in private cars owned by Charles Layman, Geo. W. Diefenbach, Wm. Turner, W. M. Whiteford, John Carter, W. E. Tarbell, M. M. Humbertson and County Agent McGlone.

Persons Under Bond Journey To Cumberland In Vain

A number of persons who had given bond for appearance at the spring term of the United States Court in Cumberland, the second Monday in May, reported Monday morning not knowing the session had been called off, it is said because of lack of funds with which to meet its expenses, due to the killing of the appropriation bill by the Senate filibuster.

Alleged violators of the Volstead act from Hancock and points in Allegany and Garrett counties were on hand to find all quiet about the Federal Building and no evidence that court would be held. It is understood that the local officials recently received official notice that court would be called off.

The bonds of the accused hold good until trial takes place. It has been thought that one of the United States judges would be there to act in cases where pleas of guilty would be entered. Some of the cases may be disposed of in Baltimore before the fall session of court there.

Sunday School Workers to Meet In County-Wide Efficiency Conference June 1st

Under the supervision of Dr. Frank M. McKibben, new General Secretary of the Maryland Sunday School Association, and Rev. Maurice R. Hamm, Finance and Organization Superintendent, a county-wide efficiency conference will be held in St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, on Wednesday, June 1st. All pastors, Sunday school superintendents, county and district officers are being particularly urged to be present and other workers and leaders in Sunday school work in the county are also invited.

The session will open with a dinner conference in the Sunday school room of St. Mark's Church, at which all for whom reservations have been made will spend an hour or more eating, listening to addresses by the leaders and discussing various Sunday school problems. This will be followed by another session in the main nuditorium of the Church, at which time addresses will be made by the General Secretary nnd Mr. Hamm, and further discussion relative to the county work will be carried on. This session will be open to all Sunday school leaders and workers. There will be no registration or other fee at this conference, but a small charge will be made to defray the expense of the supper.

Pastors, superintendents, county and district officers and other leaders and workers are urged to keep the above date open and plan to attend this conference.

GRANTSVILLE.

(By G. W. Diefenbach)

Death of Leo J. Beachy.

Grantsville, Md., May 11th,—Leo J. Beachy, the crippled photographer and writer who did more to make Mt. Nebo well known than any other, died at the home of his father at noon, May 5th. Mr. Beachy had been a sufferer from locomotor ataxia since the age of 14, which started in a mild form and continued to grow gradually worse, until he became almost helpless. Several weeks ago he developed heart trouble which was the direct cause of his death. He taught school for a number of years, until compelled to give it up because of his disability; then he devoted his time to photography, bee keeping and writing. He was especially successful in his photographic work, having accumulated a most excellent group of views taken in this county and nearby points in Pennsylvania, which have had a very wide sale on post-cards. He was gifted with the powers of description, and his writings are excellent pen pictures of the places he wrote about. He also wrote items of historic value. His contributions appeared quite regularly in The Christian Monitor, the Mennonite church publication and at least one travel article, of especial value to tourists about Western Maryland, which appeared in Motor Travel, together with several of his famous views. He also published a book, "Letters and Poems to Isabell." All of his work which is best known and most appreciated by the public was done under difficulties, due to his physical disability, but with it was a wonderful disposition of cheer and hope not often found in those with the best of health. For a number of years he has been cared for by his sister, Kate, who patiently assisted him. He is survived by his father, Jonas J. Beachy, 96 years of age, and still in good health; two brothers, Elmer J., and Edward J.; and four sister, Kate, who patiently assisted Mary Custer and Miss Kate, all of Grantsville, and Mrs. Christina Unzicker, of near Goshen, Indiana.

The funeral was held from the Casselman Mennonite Church on Saturday morning, conducted by undertaker Winterberg; Rev. Noah E. Miller, of Springs, had charge of the services and burial in the church cemetery near by. The pall bearers were Galen and Harrison Beachy, Bruce and Daniel Durst, Bruce Warnick and Roy I. Kinsinger. Mr. Beachy was born at Mt. Nebo, March 29th, 1874, and attained the age of 52 years, living his entire life in his father's home.

Dr. Bayard T. Keller.

Dr. Bayard T. Keller, of Cuyhoga Falls, Ohio, died at his home on May 6th, from paralysis. Dr. Keller was a brother of the late Dr. G. C. Keller, and began his practice here at the age of 21 years, in 1871, succeeding Dr. Carr. While practicing here he was married to Miss Elizabeth J. Casteel, of near Oakland, and in 1882 moved to Oakland where he practiced until he removed to Ohio, where he was active until his death. He was born at Cumberland in 1850; graduated from the University of Maryland, Baltimore, and immediately took up the practice of his profession here. He was a very active man, loved his work and enjoyed travel, having passed through Grantsville in January enroute to Florida where he spent several months every winter, almost always traveling hy motor and most of the time driving his car. He is survived by the following children, his wife having died eight years ago: His son, Dr. D. C. Keller, with whom he was associated in the practice of medicine and made his home; Bayard T. Keller, Mrs. Alice Burroughs and Mrs. Nellie Straight, of Cuyhoga Falls, and Charles Keller, of Iowa; also two sisters, Mrs. Alice Getty, Meyersdale, Pa., and Mrs. J. Madison Willis, of Washington Court House, Ohio. Mrs. Ella B. Keller attended the funeral which was held on Monday.

Benefits Held For Flood Sufferers.

Two community benefits were held last week for the Mississippi Valley flood sufferers. On Wednesday evening a pageant was given at the Holmes and Wallace Studios, which was built around the incidents described in the hook, "The Fair Mississippi," by Mary N. Murphy, which was very touching and descriptive of the distress undergone by those in the flood area. The attendance was splendid and an offering of $27.00 was given. The characters and those taking them follow: East, Miss Viola Swauger; West, Miss Helen Folk; North, Miss Dorothy Younkin; South, Mrs. Christine Bender; Sea Coast, Mrs. Irma Miller; Mountains, Miss Esther Zehner; Generosity, Miss Christena Winterhcrg; Mississippi Valley, Mrs. S. I. Diefenhach, and Columbia, Mrs. Stewart Rodamer.

On Thursday a 500 party was given at the Victoria Hotel by the members of the Bridge Cluh. Contrihutions were received at the door, which amounted to $31.50. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bender, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Whiteford, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Fahey, Mrs. Annie E. Getty, Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, Mrs. A. J. Bender, Mrs. Marshall Beachy, Mrs. Harold Boucher, Misses Beulah Engle, Ruth Keller, Maud Bevans, Ruth Stanton, Mary C. and Maggie Dorsey, Ethel Broadwater and Miss Elrick; Messrs. Wm. G. Keller, Dr. J. H. Dorsey, Prof. I. M. Staley, Wm. Winterberg, Norman Patton, Frank Getty, Edgar Stanton, William Getty, Asa M. Miller, John L. Livengood, and Captain C. C. Nathan.

Fair Association Considers Community Building.

The Community Fair Association held a meeting on Wednesday evening of last week at the school at which time three members were elected to the board of directors, namely: William Winterberg, H. P. Miller and J. A. Beachy. The principal item of business was planning for a new exhibition hall to replace the one recently burned. It was suggested that a building be erected of sufficient proportions and arrangements so that it could be used for a community hall, which is much needed in Grantsville. It is felt that with the aid of the entire community a very substantial structure could be erected which would be a real community benefit. No action was taken. The matter will be decided soon by the Board of Directors.

Miss Stanton to Graduate as Nurse.

Miss Harriet Elizabeth Stanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Stanton, will graduate with a class of twelve from the James Walker Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses at Wilmington, N. C., on May 12th. Miss Stanton stands second in her class. She will take post-graduate work, remaining at the hospital until Octoher.

School Activities.

A Health Conference for mothers and children will be held at the school building May 20th at 10 a. m. The idea of the conference is to examine the children who are to enter school in September for any possible defects. Those needing medical or dental treatment will he referred to their own doctors. This conference will be conducted by Miss Rhesa King, County Health Nurse.

State Superintendent of High Schools, Mr. N. H. Klingiman, visited the school on Thursday, accompanied by County Superintendene F. E. Rathbun. Mr. Klingiman administered a battery of mathematics and English tests to the first year class. Eighteen new reference volumens in History, English and Science have heen added to the High school library.

A faculty luncheon was served by the Sophomore Home Economics class in the Domestic Science room at noon last Friday. The luncheon ended the project for the year as required of the class. It was planned and worked out according to calories and cost per individual person. The table decorations were violets, and the English style of table service was used. Miss Kate Banatyne and Mrs. M. W. Whiteford were the guests.

The Poultry Club of the High school held a meeting last Friday afternoon. The boys discussed their problems, their successes and failures in raising chickens. The Club has received 700 Barred Rocks, White Leghorns and Light Brahma chicks from a hatchery in Ohio. Most of the members have been successful in caring for them so far. The Club will set an incubator with 250 eggs at the school this week, as a school experiment.

The young people of the Pope, Turner and Boucher school communities will give a play, "Bashful Mr. Bobbs," at the Turner school on Friday night, May 13th; at Avilton Hall, Wednesday night May 18th, and at Boucher school Friday night, May 20. The proceeds will be used to procure needed equipment for the three schools. The cast of characters are: Katherine Henderson, Margaret Loraditch; Frederick Henderson, her brother, Gordon Boucher; Obadiah Stump, Clyde Dahlgren; Mrs. Wiggins, Mary Martha Miller; Bashful Mr. Bobbs, Claude Pope; Marston Bobbs, (anything but bashful), Arthur Dahlgren; Jean Graham, Alverta Miller; Celesta Vanderpool, Regina Loraditch; Julia, her maid, Frosty Turner; Frances, Genevieve Pope; Rosalie, Lulu Pope.

The following named pupils from Turner school were on the honor roll for the month of April: Laura and Sara Turner, Virginia Warne, Bernice Beachy, Albert and Byard Newman.

Social.

Paul Wisseman entertained in his home last Friday evening the Dramatic Club of Grantsville, of which he is a member. The members present were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, Otto Bender, Casper Loechel, Enos Folk and Helen Loechel. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Baird, Harry Gingerich, Walter Otto and Walter Wisseman. The diversion of the evening was music and games, followed by a buffet lunch consisting of chicken sandwiches, cake and cocoa.

A surprise dinner was given Mr. and Mrs. Henry Witzgall, of near Jennings, last Sunday by their friends and relatives. Mrs. Witzgall has been failing in health for some time, but enjoyed the day immensely. Those attending were, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beachy, Mr. and Mrs. John Yommer, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Yommer, Mr. and Mrs. Willami Yommer and children, Mrs. Samuel Hare, Mrs. Stephen Custer, Mr. George Yommer, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Hoover, Ida C. A delightful surprise dinner was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs Jacob Beachy, recently, the occasion being Mr. Beachy's 64th birthday. The guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beachy and daughter, Estella, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Baker and son, Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Beachy and children, L. H. Diefenbach and Miss Alma Ross, all of Grantsville and vicinity; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Spoerlein and sons of Somerset, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook and sons, of Frostburg, Md.

Mrs. Alice Steiner and sister, Mrs. Alvin F. Getty, gave a birthday dinner at their home in Cumberland last Tuesday evening in honor of the latter's husband by way of celebrating his 70th birthday anniversary. Among the guest were, Mrs. Ella B. Keller and Mrs. Annie E. Getty, of town; Mrs. Alice Getty and Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Lichty, of Meyersdale. Mr. Getty is a native of Grantsville, a son of the late Senator William R. Getty, and brother of Mrs. Ella B. Keller and Mrs. Bruce Lichty. He has been connected with the First National Bank of Cumberland for a number of years and is held in high esteem in business and social circles in the Queen City, as well as here in his native town. He has outlived his brothers, Dr. O. G., Clarence, John O., and Charles, and his many friends hope he will live many years beyond the three score and ten which he has happily attained.

Local Teacher is Successful in Taneytown.

The fifth annual High school Eisteddfod inter-scholastic music competition in Carroll county, Md., was given at the Alumni Hall of Western Maryland College at Westminster recently. The twelve High schools of the county competed in chorus, solo and orchestra work, supervised by Mrs. Gertrude Morgan Shipley, a former music supervisor of the Maryland State Normal School at Frostburg. The Taneytown school, of which Miss Viola Broadwater is teacher of music, was awarded second prize in the contest. She also was director of the orchestra and solo work. This is Miss Broadwater's first year as teacher of public school music, and her friends will be pleased to know she is progressing so well. The Eisteddfod contest is the largest work of the school year in Carroll county.

W. E. Livengood Hurt—Others Escape When Car Upsets.

W. E. (Bert) Livengood, of Springs, Pa., well known in this section as a driller of wells, who is employed hy McCabe & Co., at Friedens, Pa., while on his way to work early Monday morning of last week, narrowly escaped what might have been a fatal accident. He was accompanied by Miss Twila Galnet and Glen Otto, all in Livengood's Ford coupe, and while going up a steep grade near Somerset, Pa., something went wrong, causing the car to start backward down the hill without any brake control, save the emergency. In order to avoid a bad wreck, Livengood steered the car off the road which caused it to upset. Miss Gelnet and Mr. Otto escaped unhurt but Livengood received a severely sprained arm and shoulder and has not been ahle to work since.

Another Wreck Saturday Night.

An automohile wreck occurred on the Transylvania Trail, Saturday night at the same place where Cecil Meyers, of Cumberland, lost his life several weeks ago. George Garlet, accompanied hy Carl Swauger were riding in Joseph Swauger's car, which was struck on the side hy another machine driven by a young man, Miller hy name, from Greenville, Township in Pennsylvania. The Swauger car had the running board and wheels torn off the left side and a wheel was torn off the Miller car beside other damages to it. None of the occupants were hurt. The wreck, it is claimed, was purely accidental, however, it drew a large crowd of passers-by because of its happening in the same place of the fatal Meyers accident.

Lesson for May 15

PETER AT PENTECOST

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2.

GOLDEN TEXT—Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.—Acts 2:38.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Preaches About Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Gift of Power.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Peter at Pentecost.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of Spiritual Power.

I. The Day of Pentecost Fully Come (vv. 1-13).

1. Significance of the day (v. 1).

Pentecost is from a Greek word meaning "fifty." It was the feast held fifty days after the wave sheaf offering (Lev. 23:16). The wave sheaf typifies the resurrection of Christ (I Cor. 15:20-23).

2. The gift of the Holy Spirit (vv. 2-4).

On this day the Holy Spirit descended upon the disciples. From that time forth He would work on a new basis, having the crucified, risen and ascended Christ to present to the world.

3. Upon whom the Spirit came (v. 1; cf. 1:13-15).

The twelve and others, both men and women to the number of one hundred and twenty, showing that the gift of the Holy Spirit was for all believers, not merely the apostles.

4. The marks of the Spirit (vv. 2-4).

These marks were external and internal.

(1) External.

(a) The sound of a mighty wind (v. 2). This is suggestive of the mysterious, pervasive and powerful energy of the Spirit.

(b) The tongues of flame (v.3). Each of the one hundred and twenty was crowned with such a tongue. Tongues show the practical purpose of the Spirit's gift—witnessing.

(c) Speaking in foreign tongues (v. 4). This was a temporary endowment for a special purpose.

(2) Internal.

This is seen in the transformation wrought in the disciples. Peter, who shortly before this, cowered before a Jewish maid, now with lion boldness stands before the chief rulers and declares that they had murdered their King, therefore guilty before God.

5. The effects (vv. 5-13).

(1) The multitude were filled with amazement and wonder. The gift of the Spirit transforms common men into men of power and influence.

(2) Some mocked and foolishly attempted to account for this remarkable occurrence. They accused the disciples of being intoxicated.

II. Peter's Sermon (vv. 14-47).

1. The introduction (vv. 14-21).

(1) Defense of the disciples against the charge of being drunk (v. 15). This he does by citing Jewish custom showing that they would not be drunk at such an early hour of the day.

(2) A scriptural explanation. He showed that this was a partial fulfillment of that which Joel predicted would come to pass (vv. 16-21; cf. Joel 2:28-32) before the messianic judgment, viz., an outpouring of the Holy Spirit and the salvation of all who call upon the name of the Lord.

2. The proposition, or theme (v. 36).

This was the messiahship of Jesus.

3. The argument (vv. 22-36). It was threefold.

(1) From Christ's works (v. 22). He was approved of God among the Jews by His miracles, wonders and signs which God did by Him in their midst with which they were familiar.

(2) From His resurrection (vv. 23-32). The Old Testament Scriptures had foretold the death and resurrection of Christ (I's. 16:8-10). The disciples were living witnesses of Christ's resurrection for they had seen and talked with Him, and handled Him since the resurrection (v. 32).

(3) From His ascension to be on the right hand of God (v. 32). The proof that He had ascended on high was the wonderful miracle of the Spirit's operation in their midst; for He had said that upon His ascension into heaven He would send forth the Spirit.

4. The effect of the sermon (vv. 37-42).

Many people were convicted of their sins, some three thousand of whom repented and were baptized. The daily life of these believers was proof of the Spirit's gift.

LINCOLN'S MOTHER BORN IN MINERAL CO., W. VA.

Story of Search That Fixes The Site On Mike's Run

(By William E. Barton)

The cabin where Nancy Hanks gave to the world her great son, Abraham Lincoln, is enshrined in a granite temple and belongs to the United States Government; but the cabin where she herself was born disappeared, and no one on earth remembered or suspected its location. All conjectures, and confident declarations less reliable than conjectuures, went far wide of the truth, no one of them coming within a hundred miles of the actual location.

In the cold of a bitter winter, 1783-4, at the end of one or the beginning of the other year, this child of a mother who was under 45 when the third U. S. Census was made in the summer of 1810, and who probably had not passed her nineteenth birthday, when her baby was born, first woke to the harsh and cruel realities of an unfriendly world.

President Lincoln did not know where his mother was born, and he had not much inclination to inquire. He knew that his father, Thomas Lincoln, was born in Rockingham county, in the Shenandoah Valley, and, like nearly all information that he had obtained through his father concerning his family history on the paternal side, this was correct. But all the Hankses of his mother's generation known to him were dead before he made any investigation, and the next generation was born in Kentucky.

No one manifested any curiosity on this subject until 1865, and then nothing was learned that gave to Lincoln's mother a local habitation. The first systematic effort to locate the place of her birth was in 1899. A little book appeared in that year, followed by the beautifully printed "Ancestry of Lincoln," by Lea & Hutchinson, and this seemed to settle the matter. The Lincoln centenary occurred ten years later, and the floods of literature that were then poured out unanimously accepted this story, so far as I am aware—save in the case of one or two scurrilous screeds that do not deserve to be mentioned even as exceptions or for purposes of rebuke.

The Accepted Story.

According to the 1899 story, the Hanks family in the United States began with Benjamin Hanks, who arrived in Plymouth, Mass., in 1699. His third son, William, disappeared from Massachusetts records. He was born on Fed. 11, 1704, and I presume died in childhood, but I do not know. In-as-much as no record was found in Massachusetts of his having married or of his having owned land, this 1899 story assumed that he migrated to Virginia and there became the progenitor of the Hanks family in that State—thus giving all the New England Hankses a blood relationship with President Lincoln. That was not only the documentary basis of the story; it appeared also to be its motive. And a very heavy superstructure was built upon what was probably no better foundation than the early demise of one of the numerous Hanks babies.

This 1899 story went on to affirm that the Hankses, after a period of incubation in tidewater Vigrinia, went to Amelia county, in Central Virginia, and were there in the '80's.

When I got at the actual writing my "Life of Lincoln" of course I had to investigate this matter—or take it as it was fed to me, the way other authors had been doing for a quarter century. And the more I learned the more I was disturbed.

I wrote to the Clerk of the Courts in Amelia county for certified copies of all Hanks records, deeds, wills, marriages and so on, and he sent me exactly six entries, all in the years before the Revolution. Two Hanks families moved into Amelia county and soon moved out again. One bought one piece of land and the other bought two, and what they bought they later sold in the same tracts. There was not a will, not a marriage; there was in fact, nothing like what had been published. And the Clerk, who had been County Judge, said it would be no use spending time and money to go there, for he knew the records and there positively were no other Hanks records there.

Later, I went to Amelia county and made a thorough search of my own. I found just those six Hanks entries, and no others. But I had a long talk with the judge, then the Clerk, who told me all about all my predecessors there. And I found out where the Hankses came from that had got into the 1899 story.

They were not Hankses at all. Their name was Hawks, and they belonged to a wholly separate family that was in Amelia before the two Hankses came, and is still there. Any one can get any kind of record he wants about some Hawks, and to change the name to Hanks is a very easy thing.

I continued to work in Richmond, with many disappointments and meager gleanings. Ordinary sources of information failed amazingly, But I began to get scattered and inconsequental records of Hankses in the counties of Richmond, Lancaster and Rappahannock. The last of these names applied to a county afterward obliterated by division, which name was subsequently revived and given to an entirely different county. As for Richmond county, at first I supposed it was the county of which the City of Richmond was county seat. But it is a rural county at the lower end of the Northern Neck. It still has no railway.

After a while I discovered that these entries in three counties were really all in one locality, which was shuttlecocked from county to county. And I began to want to go there.

After some delays on account of roads and my other engagements, I did go, and I was able to secure rather surprisingly good assistance.

But where and when was Nancy Hanks born?

Abraham Lincoln said his mother was born in Virginia, was in her twenty-third year when she married his father. She was born in the latter part of 1783 or the first part of 1784. That is positively all we know. The other dates were manufactured to order and are wholly unreliable.

Was the family of Joseph Hanks in Richmond county in 1783 or 1784?

They were not there then, but had not been gone long. Joseph was administrator of his mother's estate, which was settled in 1782, but he had already moved, and came back from somewhere to file his final papers. Where did he go and come back from?

I hope not every author knows how much free labor he can get out of the Government of the United States, and I suspect that the Census Bureau gets as little public credit as any branch of the Government. May the Lord bless the Census Bureau for what they have done for me!

It had not occuurred to me to ask that bureau to find the family of Joseph Hanks in 1874, for I knew that family was in Richmond county, Va., in 1781, and in Kentucky before 1790, and the first United States census was made in 1790. But now came one of those miracles no one could have predicted. The Virginia enumeration included certain data collected in 1782 and 1784. Joseph Hanks, white, with a family of eleven, was in Hampshire county, Va., in the new section on Patterson's Creek, in 1782, and was gone in 1784.

In that enumeration there was no division as to age or sex. But here were Joseph and Ann Hanks and their nine children a hundred miles away from where anybody had ever imagined they had ever been.

Removed to Kentucky.

I then wrote to the Clerk of Hampshire county for records and could find only two. Joseph Hanks had a good title to his land, albeit the land was not paid for in full, and he mortgaged his farm in March, 1784, for a pitiful sum, paid by a thrifty Pennsylvian German neighbor, Peter Putman, and the whole Hanks family hastened away to Kentucky.

The clerk wrote that there were positively no more records, but I wanted to go to Hampshire county. I had a notion that I might discover the actual birthplace of the President's mother. I was able to make a fairly good map of the farm. It adjoined the farm of Peter Putman, which lay along Patterson's Creek, at the mouth of Mike's Run.

The United States Geological Survey had furnished me with large scale maps, and I had a large number of descriptive data. One morning at 7 o'clock I started out in a car from the Ford garage, and appropriately the car was a Lincoln. We followed the road as I described it, and my rough maps and the good ones from Washington told me all I needed to know. We found Mike's Run, a really pretty stream, though bearing a plebeian name. The Putman house, now the Arnold house, was just where I expected. We found the old road and turned up Mike's Run as far as the heavy car could go.

We found the foundation stones of the home of Joseph Hanks, and the spring from which his family obtained water. It was above the forks and between the forks of Mike's Run, a "drain," or as the deed called it a "dreen," of Patterson Creek.

This information, first published in the New York Times in February, 1925, and shortly afterwards in my "Life of Lincoln," naturally created some local interest, which crystallized into the movement to rebuild the cabin, out of log buildings in the vicinage, and place it on its original foundation, to clear and beautify the spring, and make a practicable road to the spot.

On Tuesday, April 19, an invited company gathered at the site of the cabin of Joseph Hanks for final investigation and certification. Old deeds and patents had given clearly the location of the farm. George Terry had the patent from Lord Fairfax, and he assigned it to Peter Hartman, who in 1781 assigned it to Joseph Hanks. Between it and Patterson's Creek, and including the mouth of Mike's Run, lay the farm of Peter Putnam. When Peter died his original farm and the Hanks addition were divided to secure the dower rights of his wife. Peter left a good estate, including two barrels of whiskey, one of which was reserved for "use at the sail" and the other at the said sale brought, including barrel, $4.76. Peter's coffin cost $5, which was a rather high price.

The Lost Chain Found.

The description of the divided farm, by its references to the forks of the stream, helped to show the location of the cabin. Dr. G. Martin, experienced local surveyor, came with many old records and local surveys. The place where there had been a human habitation, between the right and centre forks of the creek, had been found, and also the spring which supplied it with water. By digging a few inches below the surface the corners of the stone foundation of the cabin were found in place. The four corners were marked by stones from the original foundation and rails were carried and placed to indicate the line of the walls.

At a dinner in the evening, in Keyser, an organization was formed with instructions to procure papers of incorporation and secure an option on the site with expectation of building a road to the place. The site is five miles up Patterson's Creek to the bridge of Mike's Run, and one and three-fourths miles up the run, from the village of Burlington, Mineral county, West Virginia. Burlington is on the National Road, the historic Northwestern turnpike, midway between Keyser and Romney.

Flood Prevention Plans Should Include Reforestation and Control of Soil Erosion, Says Department of Agriculture.

The greatest flood disaster this country has ever known is bringing a realization of the need for a well established policy of flood prevention, says the United States Department of Agriculture in calling attention to two important factors in the control of the rapid run-off of water—reforestation and the reduction of soil erosion. The importance of forests in this respect has long been emphasized, says the department, but until recently very little attention has been given to the effect of the continued destructive washing of large areas of cultivated farm land and pasture lands. If proper attention were given to reforestating rough lands unsuited to agriculture, to maintaining good forest cover at the headwaters of rivers, and to the prevention of rapid run-off on all sloping farm lands, the department believes the problem of flood control would be less difficult.

"Reforestation and forest protection," says E. A. Sherman, associate forester of the Forest Service, "will unquestionably enter into any plan for the future control of the Mississippi. Claims that the present flood is due to forest destruction or claims that reforestation has no bearing upon flood prevention are both exaggerations. Every acre of land in the immense catchment basin of the Mississippi system contributes, in one form or another, at one time or another, to the flood problem. It is idle to say the scores of millions of acres of forest land within this basin have no relation to the flood problem. The plans for preventing a recurrence of a flood of this magnitude must, as one of their essential factors, include the reforestation of the headwaters of the Mississippi and its tributaries."

"Failure to hold the absorptive surface soil of fields and pastures against the denudation of erosin," says H. H. Bennett of the Bureau of Soils, "has contributed to a much more rapid removal of the water that falls upon these eroded lands. The mellow top soil that is gone was far more retentive of moisture than the comparatively impervious subsoil that sheet erosion has left behind." Mr. Bennett believes this wastage of the soil has as much to do with the constantly increasing floods as all other factors. He says that many streams, navigable a generation ago, are now clogged with soil debris. He gives as examples of such clogged rivers the Coldwater and Tallahatchie of northern Mississippi.

"Failure to build terraces on sloping fields generally and to plant grass and trees on the steeper lands highly susceptible to rain wash," says Mr. Bennett, "accounts for much of the excess of water now sweeping down the Mississippi. If this kind of soil wastage on an enormous scale is not stopped, there is little likelihood that floods will be controlled. Practically nothing is being done about this phase of flood prevention. There are no hillside terraces north of the Arkansas River. Eighteen inches of top soil has been removed from the youthful fields in some parts of northeastern Kansas. The entire top soil is gone from hundreds of thousands of acres in western Virginia, western Pennsylvania, eastern Kentucky and southeastern Ohio. From these lands rain water courses much faster to the Mississippi than formerly. Terraces and grass woodlots, forests, and other soil-binding and soil building crops will vastly improve the flood situation; not only will they slow up the run-off of water, but they will save the most valuable part of the soil and will reduce the clogging of streams which cuts down their carrying capacity, and adds to the flood danger."

"In making comprehensive plans it will be necessary, in my opinion, to consider forests as affecting run-off, snow melting, surface erosion, channel cutting, and silting. Extensive reforestation in the long run by retarding the run-off will supplement the artificial engineering work. Every dollar expended in reforesting denuded land will return with interest through the sale of forest products and water power and stimulation of industry. Flood prevention will come as a by-product without actual cost.

"In at least one region the present flood has raised the question whether the reclamation of bottom lands has not gone too far. Efforts are now under way for a bond issue to purchase bottom land along the Illinois River, a tributary of the Mississippi, in order that the overflow lands may be restored to their original function. Conservation agencies point out that this land has a great additional value for timber growing and game breeding, which, with reduced flood control costs, would tend to offset the loss of agricultural value."

The particular flood prevention recommendation of the Department of Agriculture may be summed up briefly as follows: The general reduction of soil erosion to prevent rapid run-off and the clogging of streams; largely increased efforts by the States and Federal Government and private owners for coperative forest fire control; largely increased programs for public forests on tributary headwaters both by the Federal and State Governments; a much larger program of tree planting on denuded forest lands; encouragement of farmers and other land owners, through State and Federal aid, to plant trees on rough lands along water courses; and a study of the possibilities of restoring some of the bottom lands to their original condition as carriers of flood waters and producers of forests and game.

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Apropos of "Journalism Week" the New York Times recently commented in a somewhat fatherly tone upon the lives and purposes of small city papers. They can do many praiseworthy things, it pointed ont, which metropolitan journals achieve for their cities slowly or not at all, such as improving water supplies, stablizing municipal finances, arousing interest in better agriculture and, in brief, keeping their communities up to the mark. This is no easy goal, and any newspaper which helps its district toward it earns its salt. The small city publication has, undoubtedly, a clear "call" to good works, and more often than not the call is obeyed although the whole of the world, base and noble, must go into a successful newspaper, whether it be large or small, and a paper that was militant for civic virtue and nothing more than that would make dreary reading.

Apart from these opportunities for intimate and direct community service, however, there is surprisingly little difference today—in essential respects—between the big city papers and the smaller. The last ten years have seen a transformation in the rural and town press. The great agencies for gathering and dispatching news serve these as swiftly as they serve the cities, so that sometimes the backwoods—a term now out of date—scoops the metropolis.

The same syndicate writers that entertain the tired business man endeavor to please the farmer. The wires bring the village whatever it wants to know just as promptly as they inform Broadway, and the air, that newest, speediest and most amazing courier, carries news from the mid-Atlantic to the mid-West as fast as it can reach the coast—a statement which would have been regarded as certainly insane and possibly blasphemous a century ago. No place is isolated any more unless it prefers to be, as China does—and while this may appear to many a mixed blessing, it plainly makes for uniformly better newspapers.

And yet it is true that even though it commands Djinns and Pucks as marvelous as those which feed the very freshest meat, the small town paper, like the small town man, probably gets more fun out of life than its urban brothers. Hundreds of its subscribers it knows "personally." There is a chance for pleasant and amiable gossip, while in the big cities there is not much room for this sort of thing unless it reaches the proportions of scandal. Almost pathetically New York tries to develop that neighborly community feeling which small towns enjoy. Accounts of a policeman holding up traffic for a cat to cross the street or a flapper helping blind men are printed and reprinted to show that the big heart is there. In a little town kindness is not news.

It has been the recent good fortune of the smaller city papers to add metropolitan news and features service to its old time neighborliness. Its nerves have not had to be developed at the expense of its heart. In being up to date it has not neglected to remain a bit old-fashioned. There is room for the latest dispatches from the antipodes and also for sociable as well as social notes.

THE AMERICAN PRESS

In his recent New York address, President Coolidge spoke of the value and even necessity of a press that is thoroughly American. With this idea, every real American, regardless of politics, will of course be in hearty agreement with the President. Fortunately the bulk of the American press is thoroughly American. Mistakes in policy which the great majority of our papers may make, if any, are due not to lack of Americanism, but to a misunderstanding of the subject. This is as it should be, for as the President says, "an American press which has all the privileges which it enjoys under our institutions and which derives its support from the progress and well being of our people ought to be first of all thoroughly American."

A thorough understanding of our foreign relations and of world events is not always easy. The reason lies not in any obtuseness on the part of our editors or undue reticence on the part of the State Department. Unfortunately most of the great news-gathering facilities, outside our American press associations and our American correspondents abroad, are in the hands of foreign interests.

These foreign interests naturally see things through the eyes of their own governments, and the interests of these foreign governments, which control the press associations are not always parallel to the best interests of the United States. Our State Department may be in touch with the true situation but it is not always advisable or politics for the State Department to make public all that it knows. To do so would not tend to promote world peace, but world discord. In other words, it is sometimes as inadvisable for the State Department of one nation to tell what it knows or suspects about its neighbors as it is for an individual to do the same thing.

As a result of these handicaps, and because of the news-control facilities of some of these foreign nations, we are at times subjected to an unsuspected flood of propaganda, on Chinese affairs and other world situations in which our support is sought for some policy or other. All of this makes it a little difficult for the average American editor always to arrive at the true situation and that he makes as fine a score in this game as he does speaks highly of his intelligence and judgment. The propaganda game is not a new one. It has been employed by various Old World nations for centuries.

There are of course a few American newspapers which are controlled by international minds but these are fortunately in the minority, and the public is getting pretty well on to them.

Let us therefore thank Providence for our real American press. May it multiply and prosper, and let us do everything we can as individuals to support it.

BILLIONS TO BE SPENT IN 1927 ROAD BUILDING

More than a billion dollars will be spent this year for highway construction and improvements, according to figures received from government department.

It is planned to construct 28,841 miles of new roads. For new bridges $56,000,000 will be expended. Another $27,000,000 will he used for reconstructing existing roads.

Not only is the nation wisely spending large suums of money for good roads, but the highway engineer is building more expertly. The modern roadbuilder builds for safety. No longer does he depend much on warning signs and devices. Instead, if necessary, he eliminates curves, avoids railroad crossings and reduces steep grades. In doing so he minimizes greatly the possibility of accidents at those places.

It is interesting to note that $27,000,000 is available for the reconstruction of good roads. The necessity for building wider highways and for widening roads is most evident. Traffic must continue to move rapidly, otherwise congestion becomes more and more a problem.

For the upkeep and maintenance of 239,847 miles of roads, $126,000,000 is available and expected to be used by the various states. The total expenditure provided in the state programs through their highway departments is placed at $648,483,000. In addition to that figure, approximately $477,000,000 is expected to be spent by counties and other lesser subdivisions of the government.

Estimated total road mileage to be built by state highway departments includes 6,957 miles of earth improved roads; 12,395 miles of sand, gravel and macadam roads, and 7,489 miles of ashphalt, concrete and brick highways.

Millions of dollars for good roads! The economic influence of improved highways is a story that would fill a hook. Think of the effect on real estate values alone that such roads will have. Such highways will result, also, in a further disintegration of urban life and further development of suburban and rural life.

In truth it can he said that as a country improves its highways it progresses socially and economically.

STATE PER CAPITA COST PUT AT $10.78

The cost of operating and maintaining the various departments of the Maryland State government in the fiscal year of 1926 was $10.78 for each inhabitant, and the revenue derived during the same period amounted to $14.74 per capita, according to an analysis of the State's financial statistics made public by the Department of Commerce recently.

The per capita figures were based on reports for the fiscal year ending September 30, which showed that expenditures during the year totaled $16,978,570, and that receipts amounted to $23,218,243. The per capita cost of operating and maintaining the general departments of the State government in 1925 was $10.69, the report showed, and for the same period ten years ago was $5.49.

In addition to the expenses of the general departments, the digest listed payments incident to public service enterprises at $151,313; interest on debt, $1,442,810, and outlays for permanent improvements, $4,330,791, thereby making the total for all purposes $22,903,484. It was pointed out that this total included all expenditures of the year whether from current revenues or from proceeds of bond issues.

Among the larger items noted in the list of governmental expenses was $7,129,007 for highways, of which $3,548,238 was for the maintenance and $3,580,769 for construction.

The total revenue of the State—$23,218,243—was $4,645,550 more than the total payments for permanent improvements and $314,759 more than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. The excess of revenue receipts was said to have been reflected in cash balances not shown in the summary.

The State's net indebtednesss as of September 30, 1926, was reported at $22,491,478, or $14.28 per capita. In 1925 the per capita indebtedness was $14.22 and in 1917 it was $14.34.

The 1926 assessed valuation of property in Mayland subject to ad valorem taxation was $2,188,965,190 and the amount of taxes levied was $5,545,401, or $3.52 per capita. The 1925 per capita levy was $3.40 and in 1917 it was $2.72.

HEALTH CONFERENCE

The annual conference of health officers and boards of health will be held under the auspices of the State Board of Health, at Osler Hall, Baltimore, Friday and Saturday, May 27 and 28. The sessions on Friday will be devoted to special problems of public health; those on Saturday to public health nursing activities.

Invitations to attend the conference have been extended to physicians, health officers, public health nurses, county commissioners, mayors of all cities, members of town councils, State county and local superintendents and commissioners of schools and others interested in public health activities throughout the State. The following program for the sessions on Friday, has been announced by Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health.

Morning session, 10 o'clock. Dr. John S. Fulton, presiding:

"The Cause and Prevention of Early Infant Mortality," Dr. J. Whitridge Williams, Professor of Obstetrics, Johns Hopkins University.

Discussion: Dr. J. M. H. Rowland, Dean of University of Maryland Medical School; Dr. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., Chief Bureau of Child Hygiene, State Department of Health.

"Public Health Work With School Children," Mr. George Fox, Superintendent of Schools, Anne Arundel county.

Discussion: Mr. Edwin W. Broome, Superintendent Montgomery County Schools; Mr. G. Lloyd Palmer, Superintendent Frederick County Schools.

Opening address by Governor Ritchie.

"Personal Hygiene," Dr. Wm. H. Howell, Director School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University.

"Institutional Care," Dr. Victor F. Cullen, Superintendent State Sanatorium.

"The Health Officer," Dr. Elmer C. Kefauver, Health Officer of Frederick County.

"The Public Health Nurse," Miss Jane B. Newman, Superintendent of Nurses, Baltimore City; Miss Ruth Yingling, Public Health Nurse, Somerset County.

The session on Saturday will be presided over by Mrs. Ethel Monroe Troy, State Advisory Nurse.

Knocking The Knockers

Dr. S. Parke Cadman, president of the Federal Council of Churches, recently said at Fort Wayne, Ind.: "Is it not true that our exclusion of people with advanced ideas like the bolshevists, shows that we are afraid of them and the changes they might bring about?"

The only possible answer to this inquiry is "Yes." For the same reason that we exclude the bubonic plague, yellow fever, Asiatic cholera, vegetable blights and professional criminals. We are "afraid of them and the changes they might bring about." For reasons that appeal to all sane, patriotic Americans having some regard for the welfare and safety of their country and their countrymen, we exclude them.

Mere academic ideas are not a menace. The theory of communism has been preached and even practiced in this country for more than a century, without interference. There is a distinct difference between the mere airing of ideas, and the preaching of violent revolution. Dr. Cadman could not object to a store box orator railing against religin outside his church, but if the agitator subscribed to a philosophy involving the burning of the church and the killing of the pastor and congregation he would begin to believe that so-called "free-speech" should have its limitations. Dr. Cadman knows that a fundamental doctrin of bolshevism is the necessity of overthrowing by violence all governments not committed to communism. He knows that in the bolshevist "Chamber of Horrors" at Moscow a prominent exhibit is the Constitution of the United States, inscribed: "The most dangerous enemy of mankind." He knows that Lenin and Trotzky and all the major and minor bolshevist prophets have declared that the United States is the chief obstacle to the world-wide program of bolshevism and must be destroyed in order to make the communist cause triumphant.

Knowing all this, and that Christianity and all religion are marked for destruction by bolshevism, Dr. Cadman pleads for the "right" of bolshevists to enter this country at will and preach their insurrectionary program. Professing a disbelief in war, he is willing to have this "holy war" preached against a land in which real freedom of speech and religious liberty exists, in favor of an autocratic military government in which both are sternly suppressed.

Madison truly says in the Federalist: "Liberty may be destroyed by the abusese of liberty as well as by the abuses of power. There are numerous instances of the former as well as of the latter. The former, rather than the latter, are apparently most to be apprehended by the United States."

Preaching here the violent overthrow of the government of the United States in order that there may be reared on the ruins an atheistic, proscriptive and expropriating government like that of Soviet Russia is an abuse of free speech, rejected by the American instinct of self preservation. Well may the American people fear the advocates of violent revolution, but, indeed, more than these their deluded apologists and defenders. To permit the alien agents of bolshevism to come within our gates on the ground that our people can withstand their intrigue, is like exposing one's self to small pox on the ground that one with a perfect constitution ought to be able to withstand the germs.

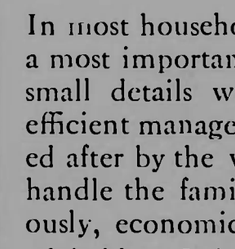
A Woman's Job.

In most households, family finance presents a most important problem. The numerous small details which are so necessary to efficient management usually must be looked after by the woman. It is her job to handle the family's money, to buy judiciously, economically and to retrench when advisable. It is a responsible occupation.



Every home manager who has these problems to cope with will find Garrett National a courteous, helpful assistant, always anxious and glad to render every possible service.

You are invited to make this bank headquarters for your savings and checking accounts.

The home of friendly, courteous helpfulness.

Measure your value by years

You are worth a fortune

THE average man (or woman in business) in a working lifetime earns from $25,000 to $100,000 or more.

If this substantial fortune were received at one time, few people would be imprudent enough to spend it all. Yet many squander the labor of a lifetime in living up to their incomes year after year.

Will you allow it all to slip from you?

If you start in time and put aside a moderate portion of your income regularly you can look forward to the certainty of a secure financial future.

The beginning of the Thrift habit is the most important step. And the best way to start on the road to financial independence is to open an account with us for regular deposits to grow with compound interest.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The First National Bank of Cumberland, Maryland, a corporation, vs. The Advance Development Company, a corporation; John Crosby Brydon and Nell H. Brydon, his wife; William Schley Brydon and Della E. Brydon, his wife, and Louis B. Brydon and Grace B. Brydon, his wife.

No. 2743 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to have a decree passed declaring void, vacating and annulling two deeds.

The Bill alleges that on or about the 6th day of February, 1922, the plaintiff, The First National Bank of Cumberland, Maryland, discounted a note of the defendant Louis B. Brydon, in the sum of Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($7,500.00) Dollars, and that ever since said time and at the present time the said indebtedness with interest thereon is an outstanding and subsisting indebtedness due the plaintiff; that at said time the said Louis B. Brydon was the owner of a one-third undivided interest in land in Garrett county, Maryland, containing about forty seven acres, which was conveyed to the said Louis B. Brydon, John Croshy Brydon and William Schley Brydon by deed of Susan V. Brydon and husband, dated the 5th day of September, 1896, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county in Liber E. Z. T. No. 30, folio 477; that at said time the said Louis B. Brydon had out of his own moneys and property advanced and paid to the said John Crosby Brydon and William Schley Brydon an amount of money, equal to and in excess of their value and ownership in the aforesaid property, and in order to secure the same to the defendant, Louis B. Brydon, the said John Crosby Brydon and wife, and William Schley Brydon and wife, without consideration, except said indebtedness, did on June 1, 1926, execute a deed to The Advance Development Company, a corporation, of all of their right, title and interest in said property, same being recorded among said Land Records in Liber E. Z. T. No. 93, folio 411.

The Bill further alleges that the defendant being all the time indebted to the plaintiff as aforesaid did prior to January 26, 1926, cause to be incorporated The Advance Development Company and did, without any consideration moving from the said The Advance Development Company to the said Louis B. Brydon, execute a deed in connection with his said wife for a pretended consideration of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars of all of his right, title and interest in the aforesaid real estate; that at the time of the execution and delivery of the aforesaid deeds from John Crosby Brydon and wife, and William Schley Brydon and wife, to The Advance Development Company, and the said deed from Louis B. Brydon and wife to The Advance Development Company, the said defendant Louis B. Brydon was indebted as aforesaid to the plaintiff, and that at the time of the making of hoth of said deeds, he did not have the means of paying said indebtedness out of any other property except the property so conveyed, and at said time he was also largely indebted to other persons and was insolvent; that said conveyances were made to The Advance Development Company for a simulated and pretended consideration, and that the effect of the same was to hinder, delay and defraud your complainant of its just and lawful claim.

The Bill further alleges that the said Louis B. Brydon and Grace B. Brydon, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing in Taylor county, West Virginia, and that the said William Schley Brydon and Della E. Brydon, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing in Barbour county, West Virginia.

The Bill prays for a decree of Court declaring to be void, vacating and annulling hoth of the aforesaid deeds to The Advance Development Company, and for other relief.

It is thereupon this 31st day of March, 1927, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 6th day of May, 1927, give notice to the said absent and non-resident defendants of the object and substance of this Bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 23rd day of May, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

This is to give notice to the taxpayers of Garrett county that the annual levy for 1927 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45 Chapter 56, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent will be allowed, and after the first day of January all county taxes shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid. The treasurer shall take the discount from and charge the interest on the tax bill for the county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid, and shall note the same upon the books and upon the receipts given on the taxes paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of state and county taxes are paid when the same is made."

Under the provisions of Section 48 of Chapter 630 of the Acts of 1916, all the state taxes shall be due and payable on and after the first day of July in the year in which the same are levied, and if not paid on or before the first day of September of said year, shall bear interest from said date at the rate of six per cent per annum. No discount is allowed on state taxes.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Peder Emanuel Baasland vs. Jenny Baasland.

No. 2747 Equity. In the Circuit Court of Garrett county.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii for the plaintiff from the defendant.

1. The Bill states that on the 4th day of September, 1917, he was married to his wife Jenny Baasland, nee Jenny Hansen, at Little Falls, N. Y., and lived with her as man and wife until the latter part of October, 1917.

2. That although the conduct of the plaintiff toward the defendant has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant, on or about the latter part of October, 1917, without just cause, abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years, and is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable hope of reconciliation.

The Bill then states that the plaintiff has resided in the State of Maryland for more than two years, and that the defendant is a non-resident of this State.

The Bill further states that no children were horn to the parties as a result of said marriage.

The Bill then prays for a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii, for general relief and for order of publication against the defendant.

It is thereupon this 18th day of April, 1927, by the Circuit Court of Garrett county, in Equity, ordered, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 20th day of May, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 5th day of June, 1927, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Dependability, Fine Appearance and Economy — now the world's most Popular Gear-Shift Truck!

In every section of the country Chevrolet Truck sales are breaking all previous records — establishing Chevrolet as the world's most popular gear-shift commercial car.

This decisive preference for Chevrolet is based on a matchless combination of dependability, economy and fine appearance — plus the public's confidence in a product of General Motors.

Chevrolet dependability under every condition of usage has long been traditional; yet recent improvements in the powerful Chevrolet valve-in-head motor—improvements typified by a new AC air cleaner and AC oil filter — have made Chevrolet Trucks even more dependable, with even longer life, greater operating economy and more satisfactory performance.

If you use trucks in your business—come in! Learn for yourself why Chevrolet performance has proved so satisfactory for every type of user—from the single truck operator to the largest fleet owner!

SECOND LIBERTY BONDS TO BE PAID OR EXCHANGED

Mellon Calls Second Liberty Loan Bonds for Payment November 15, 1927

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Secretary Mellon has called for payment on November 15, 1927, all outstanding Second Liberty Loan bonds. Interest on these bonds will cease on November 15, 1927. Approximately $1,700,000,000 of these bonds are now outstanding.

While the bonds will be paid on November 15, 1927, it is quite probable that during the next six months the Treasury will extend to the holders of the Second Liberty bonds an opportunity to exchange them for other Government securities. No announcements has as yet been made as to the type of security to be offered in exchange, or the date on which the exchange offer may be expected. The Treasury explains that the terms of the bonds require that a notice be given to the public six months in advance of the redemption date. The Secretary's announcement, therefore, does not mean that the bonds will be paid at the present time, but merely places the holders on notice that their bonds will be redeemed on November 15, and will cease to bear interest on that date.

If holders of Second Liberties desire to have their bonds redeemed, they should present them for payment on November 15, 1927, but if they desire other Government obligations in place of their Seconds, they should watch for further announcement and notify their bank to keep them informed of any exchange offering that may later be made by the Treasury.

In 1917 and 1918, it will be recalled, when the Government was selling bonds of the several Liberty Loans, a nation-wide campaign was conducted, every available facility being used to reach the public and sell the bonds. The situation is now practically reversed, and the Government is preparing to redeem or exchange some of these bonds. While no such elaborate canvass is contemplated for the redemption notice as was undertaken in 1917, the Treasury nevertheless is making a special effort to inform the holders of Second Liberty Loan bonds that their bonds will cease to bear interest on November 15th. Banks and trust companies throughout the country will be asked to cooperate with the Government in spreading the news of this call for redemption, and in advising the holders of bonds that the Treasury will probably offer new securities in exchange. For the first time the radio will be used by the Government as a means of reaching millions of bondholders. An announcement will shortly be broadcast from the large radio stations of the country.

The importance of acquainting bondholders with the fact that their bonds have been called for payment is emphasized by the Treasury's records of previous calls for redemption or exchange. These records show that there are still outstanding at the present time, in the hands of the public, about $30,000,000 in Government securities upon which interest has ceased. Included in this amount are $3,600,000 in Victory notes which ceased to bear interest in 1922 and 1923. There are also outstanding $14,500,000 in temporary bonds of the several Liberty Loans, to which were attached only a limited number of interest coupons. The last coupons matured some seven years ago. The holders of these temporary bonds have neglected to exchange them for permanent bonds having the full number of interest coupons attached, and until such exchange is made they have no means of collecting the interest. In face of these facts, the Treasury is especially anxious that the present announcement reach as many Second Liberty Loan bondholders as it is possible to reach through the press, the radio, and the banks of the county.

The Second Liberty Loan, which was issued in November, 1917, was the second large loan floated by the Government during the World War, and while this loan does not mature until 1942, the condition of the money market and of the Government's finances makes is possible and advisable to call the bonds for redemption in November.

TO ALL HOLDERS OF SECOND LIBERTY LOAN BONDS

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION

All outstanding Second Liberty Loan 4 per cent bonds of 1927-42 (Second 4's) and all outstanding Second Liberty Loan Converted 4¼ per cent bonds of 1927-42 (Second 4¼'s) are called for redemption on November 15, 1927, pursuant to the terms of their issue. Interest on all Second 4's and Second 4¼'s will cease on said redemption date, November 15, 1927.

Holders of Second 4's and Second 4¼'s will be entitled to have the bonds redeemed and paid at par on November 15, 1927. Such holders may, however, in advance of November 15, 1927, be offered the privilege of exchanging all or part of their bonds for other interest-bearing obligations of the United States. Holders who desire to avail themselves of the exchange privilege, if and when announced, should request their bank or trust company to notify them when information regarding the exchange offering is received.

Further information may be obtained from any Federal Reserve Bank or branch, or from the Commissioner of the Public Debt, Treasury Department, Washington.

A. W. MELLON,
Secretary of the Treasury.

"Ghost Money"

"Money" nnd other articles made out of tinfoil, and intended for the special use of depnrted spirits, provides the town of Shaoching, China, with a curious and profitable industry.

All day long the din of thousnnds of hammers pounding on anvils can be heard, and the production of these symbols for depnrted spirits is snid to bring in £3,000,000 a year.

The symbolic money is made by hnnd, the tin being hnmmered out on anvils until a surprising thinness is obtnined. Although the "money" is intended for the nse of the dead, there is considerable trnffic in the nshes of the fires burnt at the tombs where the "money" is pinced. The tin is extracted from the nshes nnd used again to make more "money."—London Tit-Bits.

Sugar Cane in America

Sugar cane was introduced into the New world shortly after its discovery, and it is recorded that in 1518 many sugar mills were in operation on the Island of Santo Domingo. It was not until 1751, however, that the plant was grown in continental Americn, as a result of the importation of cuttings by Jesuits in Louisiana. From thnt time it was cultivated in a desultory manner until the end of the Eighteenth century, when the failure of indigo and other crops forced the Louisiana planters to turn their attention to the manufacture of sugar as a source of revenue. Establishment of the American sugar cane industry may be said to date from 1795, when the first successful mill began operations on a plantation about six miles from New Orleans.

FLOOD PREVENTION

The future of flood prevention, at least to the extent of averting such a disaster as that now visiting the lower Mississippi Valley, seems to be cleared up by the statements of Brig. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, and Secretary Hoover. These officials, both engineers of widely recognized competence, are agreed, after having examined the flood situation at first hand, that protection can be had by building up the levees. This seems to be a fairly simple solution of the problem, so far as one section of the country is concerned.

In his report to the sceretary of war General Jadwin stated there should be an expenditure of 100 million dollnrs or more on levees of the Mississippi. He explained the levees should be built to a height of twenty-seven feet, the average now being twenty-two feet. The engineer's confidence in this form of protection is indicated in the further statement that three to four times the area now flooded would have been inundated had it not heen for the construction work on the levees in the last few years. The activity necessary is not altogether the responsibility of the government, for states are required by congress to provide one-third the expense of flood protection and some of those now affected by the high waters have failed to meet this obligation.

Disnsters always have their lesson. Often is seems only misfortune of a heavy kind can bring the awakening necessary for future security. If out of the destruction that at present is being wrought in wide areas of the southern states there comes the constructive action that will make such another happening an improbability the lesson of this flood will have been learned.

Calvin Coolidge's Old Teacher Recalls That Lad Expressed In His Own Way Decided Opinions About Cleanliness And Hash

(From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

Ernest C. Carpenter, of New Haven, Conn., arrived in St. Louis yesterday to relate anecdotes of the President's boyhood. The former school teacher exhibited his record of the school term for 1885, showing that the future President was listed "Calvin G.," which Carpenter took to indicate he had in defenseless infancy been burdened with the name of a grandfather, Gnlusha.

"Calvin was not an active, noisy, rough-and-tumble sort of boy," Carpenter related, "but he had an odd way of saying things.

"Jennie Chamberlain, who was working for the family, told me that one time the boy came in very dirty. She suggested water. 'Well, I don't know about that,' he twanged. 'I've heard of people drowning in water.' A former classmate of the President at Amherst told me an incident at a student's boarding house. Hash became a daily dish. One night, just before dinner, Coolidge missed a cat which was as much a fixture as the hash. 'Where's that cat?' he asked. They told him it was somewhere about, but he demanded to see it. Eventually they found it and brought it in. 'Now,' he said, relieved, 'you can bring on the hash.'"

ELECTRICITY TO REPLACE STEAM ON NEARBY LINE

If Test Made Thursday Is Successful New Kind of Motive Power Is To Be Used

What may prove to be the inauguration of electric motive power on the Morgantown and Kingwood branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was a trial run Thursday from M. and K. Junction to Morgantown of a gaso-electric motor drawing two passenger coaches in addition to the one in which the motor is located.

Officials of the Cumberland Division of the B. & O. were on the try-out special in addition to officials from Baltimore and several local employes. The result of the run will not be known until after all the officials have submitted notes of their observations.

The new gaso-electric coach left Cumberland Wednesday for M. and K. Junction and remained there over night for the trip the next morning to Morgantown.

Under normal conditions the gaso-electric coach will be capable of handling two railroad cars in addition to the car in which it is housed. In an emergency such as holiday traffic the motor can haul three loaded passenger coaches.

The motor which made the trial run is only capable of producing slightly over 300 horsepower, but it was intimated by railroad officials that this drawing power could easily be increased.

If results are satisfactory, the electric motor coach will be put on the M. and K. branch permanently.

Legion Outlines Program For Decoration Day

With the expressed purpose of arranging a better Decoration Day program than usual, the members of Proctor Kildow Post American Legion met in session last Monday evening and made a tentative program for the occasion.

A petition will be circulated among the business houses by the Post for the purpose of having all places of business closed on the holiday.

It is the desire of the Post to have all ex-service men in the line of march, and a special invitation is extended to veterans of the Civil and Spanish American Wars to be the guests of honor on that day, when transportation over the town will be provided, as also special provisions made for the comfort of the older comrades.

The meeting of the Post on Monday was of the nature of a "smoker" and almost a full attendence of the membership was present.

AUTO WRECK ON THIRD STREET CAUSES ARREST

Second Warrant Alleging Theft of Chickens Piles Up Trouble

George Strawser, of near Deer Park, was placed under arrest last Thursday afternoon following an automobile collision on Third street at the intersection of Green street when the car he was driving ran into a light truck belonging to J. J. Nicola, of Rock Lodge. The truck lost a wheel, while the Strawser car was pretty badly wrecked forward. Strawser was accompanied by Mrs. Bowers, who lives at The Anchorage Farm. The woman was thrown against the wind-shield and received a number of cuts about her face by the broken glass. Mrs. Bowers was taken to Dr. McComas' office by Strawser, where Constable Andrew Shartzer served a warrant on Strawser in which Mrs. Andrew Pysell charged him with the theft of a number of chickens from her premises near Deer Park.

At a hearing before Justice West, Strawser was fined $15 and costs for using markers other than his own on the car he was driving.

Another charge that of reckless driving, was determined by Justice Gonder, who fined him $10 and costs.

Justice Gonder also held Strawser in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the June session of the grand jury on the larceny charge preferred by Mrs. Pysell.

Bowling League Series of Games Gives M. E. Team First Place

The series of bowling games played by the Oakland Bowling League during the past winter, closed on the evening of the 9th and on Tuesday evening at the William-James Hotel the players banqueted, fifty or more being present.

W. W. Dawson was the toastmaster. Delbert Davis addressed the assembled guests, his talk being based upon the "Threefold man—physical, mental and moral," and from this he drew a mental picture of mankind should he endeavor to fully develop the dual natures.

Dr. Moore, of the M. E. church, presented prizes. donated by Joseph Hinebaugh, owner of the bowling alley, to Kenneth Stahl, Fred Peddicord and the individual members of the winning team—the Methodist Episcopal. James Kerins, to whom Dr. Moore paid a compliment when he said "Jim had played hard and lost, his score being 0000, was given the consolation prize— a nice lemon.

MISS SLOAN ADDRESSES MANY OAKLAND WOMEN

Preliminary To Holding A Clinic For Crippled Children

A meeting was held in the Court House at Oakland Thursday afternoon for the purpose of advancing the objects of the clinic to be held in the Court House in Oakland at 9 a. m., Saturday, May 28th. The clinic will be an examination of all persons of the county who are crippled in any way with a view of having these conditions corrected at a later date. These examinations will be without any cost whatever to those examined.

Garrett county is very fortunate in having the clinic in charge of Dr. George Bennett, who is associated with the Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore, Dr. Bennett will be assisted by Miss Rhesa King, the public health nurse of Garrett county, who will render assistance later to all those patients who are advised to have these defects corrected.

Mr. F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, announces that all of the teachers in the public schools of the county have been made acquainted with the plans and purposes of this clinic so that they may assist all those in need of such advice to secure the remedial suggestions in this ready way without any cost or obligations whatever to the patient.

The clinic for these crippled people, no difference being made as to the particular type of the affliction or inconvenience, is being held under the auspices of the Oakland Civic Club.

The meeting was opened and closed by prayer by Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, of Oakland.

Miss Tecla Fundenburg, president of the Oakland Civic Club, presided during the session.

Miss Anne Sloan, of Lonaconing, who has dedicated her life and means towards relieving the conditions of crippled people wherever possible, since she had once been such an unfortunate cripple and had been cured, delivered an address that was highly inspirational and gave everyone present an inward desire to get to work, and assist in every possible way to give publicity to the purposes of the clinic, and to bend every effort to make it the greatest possible success.

Many of the patients who attend the clinic and their friends and relatives will bring their lunches with them in orded to facilitate the work of the day in giving every available assistance to those seeking corrections of their afflictions.

Similar clinics have been held elsewhere in Maryland and their results have been very gratifying. There have been many instances in which cripples, who had never walked in their lives, through following the advice given at the clinic, were able to do so in a thoroughly normal manner. Others who had never been able to wear shoes were able likewise to wear them with comfort. Many similar instances of defective spines, arms and even minor troubles have resulted in equally startling improvements. No difference what type of crippled ailment, all such patients will be examined and advice given without cost.

Anyone acquainted with a case of any party who should and would like to attend the clinic and who does not have the means of transportation to get to Oakland to attend the clinic will assist greatly by notifying Mrs. Milton Sincell, Oakland, Md., of any such party. Mrs. Sincell will then arrange for the necessary transportation of any such party.

The committee in charge of the clinic, upon the part of the Oakland Civic Club, consist of: Mrs. Milton Sincell, chairman, Oakland; Miss Grace Jones, Oakland; Mrs. N. I. Broadwater, Oakland; Mrs. Paul Naylor, Oakland; Mrs. W. W. Grant, Oakland; Mrs. F. E. Rathbun, Oakland; Mrs. Arthur Scrogum, Accident; Mrs. Joseph Fahey, Grantsville; Mrs. Lawrence Friend, Friendsville; Mrs. Minnie Wilson, Bloomington; Mrs. John Spence, Kitzmiller; Mrs. Thomas Seymour, Kempton. Any memher of this committee will be glad to render any assistance to any party or patient that may be interested in participating in its benefits and opportunities.

The following parties also attended the meeting held in the Court House Tuesday afternoon and any one of them will be pleased to render similar assistance: Mrs. Owen Treacy, Mrs. James Treacy, Mrs. James Willison, Miss Mary Drake Naylor, Mrs. Paul Naylor, Mrs. Nanniene Offutt, Mrs. J. D. Darby, Mrs. Scott Jones, Miss Grace Jones, Mrs. Milton Sincell, Mrs. W. W. Grant, Mrs. H. A. Loraditch, Mrs. Benjamin H. Sincell, Rev. C. A. Shilke, Miss Tecla Fundenburg, Miss Anne Sloan, Miss Rhesa King and F. E. Rathbun.

FOURTH COMMUNITY SALE TO TAKE PLACE MAY 31

Oakland Merchants To Participate In Drive For Business

In recent months Oakland merchants have combined in conducting community sales in which each individual merchant or firm used one article as a leader to draw trade to their places of business. This plan worked out successfully in the three sales heretofore conducted, bringing as they did many people to Oakland to do their shopping who had prior to the date of the first sale done their buying at other points.

The fourth sale will occur on Tuesday, May 31st, the Business Men's Association having fixed that date at a recent meeting of the publicity committee, upon which date the County-wide Athletic Meet will be held and the Health Day program, the latter under the direction of Miss King, County Health Nurse, will be carried out. The latter feature is something entirely new to Garrett countians and gives promise of being a highly interesting event.

Next Week's Republican will carry a full page advertisement of the bargains to be offered by the local merchants at the community sale, and posters announcing it will be mailed to all parts of this and adjoining counties by the publicity committee.

The committee requests that every merchant in the town join in making the sale the success it should be and that they have their advertisement "copy" ready for the solicitor when he or she calls for the same on Friday morning of the present week.

DRIVER OF CAR FINED $100

Morgantown Man Found Guilty On State Charge

Holmes Browning, of Morgantown, West Va., was arrested Sunday afternoon by Sheriff Casteel who charged him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Monday morning in Justice Gonder's court Browning was fined $100 and costs, which he paid.

Dennis Litman, also of Morgantown, who was in the car when Browning was arrested, was fined for being drunk and disorderly.

Masonic Home

At the recent communication of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Maryland, held in Baltimore. which was attended by Messrs. W. W. Dawson and Harland L. Jones, of Oakland, the purchase of a tract of land lying north-east of Baltimore, for the purpose of establishing a home for Masons and their dependants, was authorized. The tract comprises a little over 200 acres, and the purchase price was $50,000. The improvements to be placed upon the property will cost about $1,000,000.

Engagement Announced

An engagement of interest, announced recently, is that of Miss Esther Knight Dette, of Litchfield, Conn., and Boston, to Mr. James Fairfax Hamill, son of Mrs. and the late Mr. Gilmor Semmes Hamill, Jr., of Oakland, Md.

Mr. Hamill attended the Boys' Latin School in Baltimore and was graduated from Princeton Unviersity in 1925. He is a law student at Harvard and recently was appointed one of the American delegates to the Geneva Institute of International Relations. He is a member of the Baltimore Country Club.

Miss Dette is a student at Radcliffe College. The wedding will take place early in September.

COMMITTEE.

To Become Pastor At Red House

Rev. Walter E. Waybright the recently elected pastor of the Eglon charge of the United Lutheran Church, graduated from Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, during this past week. He will immediately take charge of his work there and will occupy his pulpits in all three of his churches next Sunday —Texas in the morning, Eglon in the afternoon and Red House in the evening.

Rev. Waybright has been a diligent student through his college and seminary studies. He was the bookman at the seminary during the past year, and held other positions of honor, and is well qualified for the work he has chosen.

Miss Hochensmith, who is at present a teacher in the High school at Taneytown, Md., will become Mrs. Waybright upon the close of that school and after a honeymoon of several weeks they will occupy the parsonage at Red House.

H. A. LORADITCH HEAD OF LOCAL SCHOOL BOARD

Was Chosen President At Meeting of Board Tuesday Afternoon

H. A. Loraditch, of Oakland, was elected president of the Garrett County Board of Education at a meeting of the members of that body on Tuesday afternoon.

At this meeting, former State Senator John W. McCullough, recently appointed by Governor Ritchie, participated in the proceedings and nominated Mr. John O. Thayer as vice-president of the board.

School requirements in various parts of the county was discussed by the Board, especially the need of new buildings at Swanton, Bloomington, Gorman, Dodson-Shallmar and Friendsville, at which latter place a high school building will eventually be erected, but owing to the lack of funds none of the buildings above specified can be built this year, according to the decision of the Board.

Pythian Sisters' Activities

The local temple of Pythian Sisters was highly honored on Monday night, May 16th, by a visit from the Grand Chief of the Domain of Maryland, together with the District Deputy and Grand Inner Guard, who is a member of the local temple, and resides in Oakland. The delegation, who are members of Morning Star Temple No. 1, Lonaconing, Md., made the trip by automobile and comprising the party were Grand Chief Ethel Greenhhorn, District Deputy Eva Boettcher, Past Chiefs Mary Burt, Edith Holden, Nellie Burt, Mae Donaldson, Marion Picken, Mae Mitchell, Elza Jones, Elizabeth Love, Bessie Eilbeck, Elizabeth Burt, Mae Matthews and Jeanette Mitchell.

Garrett Temple feels justly proud to be thus honored by an official visit from such a distinguished aggregation of officers of the Grand Lodge and of Morning Star Temple. Much of vital interest was presented by the Grand Chief and remarks were made by various other visiting members. Grand Inner Guard Emma K. Altstetter responded in an able manner, After the business session of lodge a real social time was held and refreshments were served.

Garrett Temple is rapidly forging to the front and great achievement is expected under the able leadership of Most Excellent Chief Margaret Townshend, who presides over the local temple. Every officer and member stand ready to assist in any way possible to promote the interest and welfare of Garrett Temple.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

The regular monthly meeting of the Oakland Home-makers' Club will be held at the parish house of St. Paul's M. E. church, Friday, May 20th, at 2:30 o'clock, at which time matters of importance will be discussed, and a full attendance of the membership is urged.

KODAK SAFETY FILM

BEANS AND HER MODEL

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

"CAN of beans, Miss?" The apple-cheeked grocery clerk asked the question with a note of assurance that indicated a good deal of familarity with the habits of his customers and with those of the slim blue-eyed girl in the blue suit that had been pressed and repressed until the threadbare material shone with a determined shinIness that fairly proclaimed its outlived usefulness.

As he spoke, the clerk reached up on the shelf, and taking down a can of beans wrapped it decorously in white paper and set it on the counter. Mabel Sherill wondered what he would do if she ordered something besides beans. But with the same automatic observance of custom she took out her small flat pocketbook and paid for the beans. Then with the can in her hand she left the store. She was seething with rebellion, as she trudged along the pavement.

"Beans are nourishing! Beans are economical," argued a stern voice mentally. "Beans are—Oh, be quiet!" she suddenly exclaimed aloud, heedless of the astonished stare of a man in a green hat who paused and gazed after her. "I hate beans. I never want to eat another bean in my life. I've lived on beans and bread and bread and beans for the last six months, and I suppose I'll have to live on them for an indefinite period."

It was the very indefiniteness of that "period" that troubled the girl. She had come to the city with such high hopes of success. She had a little money and it had looked like such a large amount to her. It would have been quite a large amount in the little town she came from. Here it had melted like April snow under a warm spring sun. There was nothing left of it. And the few commissions she was beginning to receive for the new drawings she had managed to sell melted, too.

"Money never burns any one's pocket here," she went on still talking aloud regardless of the astonished stares of the people she met. "It doesn't get a chance to burn because it doesn't stay in one's pocket long enough. Three little orders for drawIngs to illustrate some men's clothing ads this week. That's all. And maybe I won't get any more orders for a month. If I were a story girl I'd just go home and marry the boy back there and live happy ever after. But there isn't any boy back there. There—there isn't anybody."

A sudden mist of tears dimmed the girl's blue eyes. The dimness prevented her from seeing the imperative wave of the traffic officer to remain on the sidewalk. She stepped off the curbing directly into the path of a very new, very shining coupe.

Uttering a sharp cry of fright, she dodged backward. But the can of beans flew out of her hand. It landed precisely in front of one of the wheels of the new coupe. There was a metallic jingle and a queer "plop" as the wheel passed over it.

"My beans, oh, my beans!" wailed the girl, as she looked at the crushed can. "I am well punished for grumbling. Now I'll eat bread without beans."

"Oh, I say, I'm sorry!" announced the driver of the coupe, as he clambered out of his shining little car and surveyed the wrecked can and the trickle of beans. He put his hand in his pocket. "Let me pay for them," he urged.

Mabel shook her head. "It was my fault," she told him. "I ought to have been more careful. It was very good of you to stop. Most drivers would have laughed and kept on going."

The young man smiled, a frank flashing smile that was like sunshine. "I've seen the time in my life when a can of beans meant considerable, too," he remarked. "I know symptoms, you see, Miss Sherill."

Mabel's eyes opened wide. She wondered how he knew her name. There was something familiar about his laughing countenance. But the next moment she forgot her surprise. The young man was garbed in the very latest style of overcoat, a trim graceful garment that fitted him precisely. He wore a hat a little darker shade of tan and brown gloves. "I wonder—" she began, and stopped, an embarrassed flood of color sweeping up to her bright hair.

"You wonder what?" quizzed the young man gayly. "After that you'll just have to tell me."

Mabel laughed. "I draw," she told him, with a twinkle of fun in her eyes, "and my last assignment happens to be a group of figures for a clothing advertisement. The central figure is to wear an overcoat and hat exactly like those you are wearing."

"And you were thinking how much better you could draw from a living figure than from a dummy model," finished the young man. "Let me take you to your home or boarding place and I'll pose for you. I have a little time to spare."

"But—but I don't know you," stammered Mabel uncertainly.

"Are you sure?" asked the young man. He chuckled, as she shook her head. "Well, that's flattering," he commented jokingly. "Don't you remember the manager of the advertising department at Smith & Young's, introducing you to Tad Laurence?"

The girl blushed. "He did introduce me to a young man," she admitted, "but I was so busy thinking about getting an order I didn't remember you."

"And after I asked for an introduction!" ejaculated Tad Laurence, with a gusty sigh. "Alas for my conceit! It's crushed, dead, slain entirely."

"You have enough left," laughed Mabel. "I believe I will let you take me to my rooming house. If you don't mind posing in Mrs. Grady's back parlor, I'd like to do some sketches of you. My sketches have been stiff lately. But you certainly are a picture in that overcoat and hat."

"A compliment at last!" said Tad, as he helped her into the little car. "Thank you. I sell overcoats and suits for Smith & Young. So you see I'm really a walking ad."

In Mrs. Grady's dingy little back parlor Tad posed with his overcoat on and with it off, with his hat on his head and with it in his hand. He strutted about like a belligerent fighting cock and he spread himself languidly over the back of a chair. He assumed every pose he could think of. And at last when he actually had to go he asked permission to come again.

"May I?" he pleaded meekly.

"You may," said Mabel. "I'll make you a cupful of tea on the gas jet. And we'll have bean sandwiches. Do you like them?"

"I love 'em," said Tad fervently. "Beans are my favorite dish."

And looking after him as he drove away, Mabel was glad for the first time in her life that there wasn't any boy "back there." She laughed suddenly.

"Beans never were my favorite dish," she remarked, "but I'm not sure that they won't be."

Early American Fight for Liberty of Press

The fight for liberty of the press in America was started by the New England Courant, established by James Franklin, elder brother of Benjamin, at Boston in 1721. The Courant was from its start an "opposition" newspaper, the first in the colonies, according to Dr. W. G. Bleyer of the University of Wisconsin, who discovered the only existing file, so far as known, of the first sixteen numbers of the paper in the British museum at London.

Notations on the margin of the papers indicate that the file was originally the property of Benjamin Franklin, who worked for a time as a printer in his brother's shop, and who was listed as the publisher of the paper after James had been imprisoned and forbidden to publish the Courant longer because of attacks on the Puritan ruling powers in Massachusetts.

The first four issues of the Courant were largely taken up with the discussion of inoculation for smallpox. Inoculation was favored by the Puritan leaders and opposed by certain physicians and leaders of the Church of England faction in Massachusetts. From the point of view of the development of journalism the Courant is significant as the first American paper to question the authority of the church in matters of every-day life.

Gloomy Gorges Home of Norse Mythology

Whenever I come to the beautiful Sogne fjord in Norway, that hundred miles of wild, gloomy gorges, where old Norse mythology had its last home, I am haunted with the stern beauty of this grand old land's history and landscape. These rugged rocks towering at times 4,000 feet above the deeps of the fjord echoed the clamorous war cries of viking warriors for ages. In the mysterious recesses of its wandering ravines the trolls and gnomes of fell and forest and the worshipers of Odin, Thor and Freyer held out longest against the faith of "the White Christ." So mysterious are some of these ravines that the sun does not penetrate for weeks together. Northward stretches the Jostedalbrae, the largest ice field in Europe, covering an area of nearly 600 square miles, where the tourist who wants thrills and everlasting memories of nature's majesty can find them every day.—From "My European Excursions," by Robert Petre.

Given Long Prison Term

Roy Gardener, a notorious train robber of the West, was imprisoned six years ago in the Arizona state penitentiary. Shortly after that he was pardoned by the governor, then captured again and imprisoned on McNeil Island, five miles off the coast of Washington. After six months of confinement he, with several other prisoners, made one of the most daring escapes ever attempted by swimming to the mainland. He was later caught in a holdup and, preferring imprisonment to being guilty of murder, by which means he could have escaped, he was sentenced to 25 years in another federal prison which term he is now serving.

Won Fame as Biographer

James Boswell, born in Edinburgh in 1740, came of a family that had distinguished itself at the Scottish bar and on the bench. He, too, became a lawyer, but he is remembered as a literary man because of his "Life of Johnson," the learned Dr. Samuel Johnson, the literary dictator of the Eighteenth century. Boswell is described by Macaulay as the "first of biographers." His "Life of Johnson" is remarkable for minuteness and accuracy and its wealth of literary anecdotes. Boswell died in 1795.

MILK CLEAN AND COLD NOT EASILY SOURED

Protections That Can Be Relied Upon To Protect It

Cleanliness and coldness are the two protections that can be relied upon to prevent sour milk and milk with a high bacteria count from becoming troublesome dilficulties to the dairyman during the warm days of late spring and summer, says J. A. Conover, Dairy Specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

"Dirt that falls into the milk and unclean utensils introduce many thousands of bacteria into the milk and these rapidly multiply into millions during warm weather. As a first step in preventing trouble of this sort, the stable should be kept clean and well bedded.

"It is a good plan to clip the udders and flanks of the cows and to wipe these parts with a clean, damp cloth before milking. If very dirty, the flanks and udder should be washed with water and dried with a clean cloth. If hand milking is done, the milker should have clean, dry hands and should be provided with a clean suit or apron. Only covered milk pails should be used.

"The milk should be cooled as soon as possible after milking. This can be done by setting the cans of milk in a tank of cool water, deep enough to cover them to the neck. The milk should be stirred at intervals until it becomes as cool as the water will make it and should then be left in the tank until time for shipment. The cooling tank should be arranged so that fresh water will flow through it. If this is not possible, the water in the tank should be changed occasionally for satisfactory results.

"A quicker method of cooling milk is to run it over a surface cooler through which a stream of cool water is flowing. The milk should be cooled and held at a temperature of fifty degrees or under.

"The milk should be kept covered with a piece of canvas or a clean blanket during its trip to the roadside platform or receiving station. Milk standing in the sun will warm up in a very short time to a point where the bacteria will multiply rapidly.

"It will be well for the producer to see that his milk is given proper care by the transportation agencies and that it reaches its destination at a temperature no higher than it had when it left the farm.

"All dairy utensils, including cans that are returned from the plant, should be kept scrupulously clean. They should first be washed in cold or tepid water, then thoroughly washed in hot water to which some good dairy washing compound has been added, rinsed in hot water and finally sterilized in steam or boiling water. The utensils should then be turned upside down to dry, or if put in a sterilizer, should be dried by turning the steam into the drying coils."

Religious Intolerance

Such tragedies as that which occurred in a rural community near Texarkana, Ark., are rare results of religious controversies. Two men, brothers-in-law, "shot it out" when they disagreed as to the origin of the Bible. Both were fatally wounded.

There were many more religious disputes in the past than now. Even considering the wide sweep of the question of fundamentalism versus modernism, there is less personal contention than in earlier times. The fundamentalists and modernists confine themselves largely to public discourses and to writing. Man to man the world is more tolerant, even at a time when intolerance expresses itself in extensive organization, says the Kansas City Star.

Many persons whose childhood or youth was spent in rural sections or in villages can recall community controversies, sometimes almost reaching the feud stage, over questions of Biblical interpretation. Impromptu debates were likely to occur whenever men met, sometimes leading to violent encounters. Rival churches became hostile. Doctrinal sermons, bitter and provocative, were not infrequent. Contention often reached the stage where unwittingly the effort seemed to be not to further the cause of religion, but to tear down the doctrine of some other denomination. Sermons and personal arguments were for and against infant baptism; for and against some form of baptism—sprinkling, pouring or immersion; for and against the ordinance of feet-washing, as observed by the Dunkards and several other denominations; for and against using organs in the churches, and so on.

Many of the contenders studied their Bibles assiduously. Mostly they were profoundly sincere. But the literalists found themselves in conflict with the interpreters. There were few disputes as to the Biblical story of creation, and almost none as to the origin of man; All accepted the traditional attitude of these things. But the New Testament furnished many subjects for argument, and those who engaged in it kept themselves in turmoil and often made of religious practice something very different from religious theory or philosophy.

There still is bigotry. There still is religious intolerance. There still is ignorance and unreason in religious matters. But the present generation very largely has eliminated the individual, denominational and community bitterness that once prevailed so extensively.

SUITABLE FOODS

AS THE apple is now almost a year-round fruit, because of cold storage and better transportation, it finds a place in some form in almost every day's menus.

Cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with a layer of sliced apples, sprinkle with one tablespoonful of cinnamon well mixed with one-half cupful of brown sugar, dot with bits of butter. Alternate these layers until the pudding dish is full. Cover and bake until the apples are soft. Remove to brown the top. Serve hot or cold with lemon, hard or cider sauce.

Springtime Sandwiches.

Press the yolks of four hard-cooked eggs and finely chop the whites. Chop fine small red radishes unpeeled—there should be one-half cupful—also chop enough green onions to make half a cupful. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with salad dressing. Spread thin slices of bread with butter, cover with a lettuce leaf that has been dipped into French dressing and drained. Spread an equal number of slices of bread with the egg mixture and put together in pairs. Trim off the edges and cut into triangles.

Date, Fig and Prune Sandwiches.

Remove the stones from dates and large fancy prunes. Have an equal weight (one-half pound of each) dates, figs and prunes. Pass them through the meat chopper. For each cupful of the mixture allow half a cupful of walnuts, chopped. Moisten with orange marmalade and use as a filling for buttered brown bread sandwiches. Cut into triangles and serve with afternoon tea.

College Girl's Sandwiches.

Grate rich cheese or mash three Neufchatel cheeses with a wooden spoon and mix with enough creamed butter to make a paste. Add one dozen finely chopped olives, chop three pimentoes and put through a sieve; add the pulp to the cheese mixture. Now add one-half cupful of nutmeats, season with salt, paprika and cayenne. Spread on white bread, trim and cut in any desired shape.

GIRLIGAGS

"Americans spend more money for chewing gum than for books," says Lowbrow Loretta, "but after all that isn't strange. Chewing gum doesn't leave a bad taste in your mouth."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE OLD HIGHWAY

IT STRETCHES out before you, packed hard by the millions of tired feet that have climbed its hills as you are climbing to reach the goal; far off there in the hazy distance.

You sometimes strain your eyes in looking forward, and wonder whether your strength will endure until the end of the monotonous journey.

In such moments there are evidences of weakness in your heart, lack of faith, and inclination to loiter a while in the luring shade of the trees by the wayside, where the birds are singing in sheer joy of existence.

Then comes the thought that this is not the time for rest, but the hour for serious endeavor, so you hold your place in the waving throng, call again upon your vanishing courage and press forward determined to win.

You vision the worn, resolute, dust-covered humans who before you were born passed along this same old highway, refusing to falter in their march until they had clasped to their breasts the coveted prizes they were seeking.

You remember how as a boy or a girl you thrilled with eager ambition as you read the stories of these humans' achievements—how you then resolved to emulate their examples and write your name beside theirs.

But now that your dreamings are over you begin to doubt your ability to do.

You realize that to make your way along the ancient highway, you must call up all your power of will, all your patience and hold firmly to your high purpose. You must work, work, work!

There is no other way by which you can attain your pictured goal. There are no back doors through which you can sneak and grab your prize, for the world is on guard taking note of your smiles and frowns, your deportment and fervor, or laxity and possible craftiness.

And the world and the old highway, in spite of all sayings to the contrary, will give you liberal reward, provide you hold steadfastly to truth, honor, loyalty and diligence, as did the great men and women whose bodies have mingled with the dust, but whose names still live to shine resplendently till the end of time.

FOR THE GOOSE—

IT TAKES more than honeyed words to give you a sweet taste in your mouth.

A lover makes life a jewel box for a woman, but he keeps the key.

A woman likes to see the lovelight creep into a man's eye. But she likes to have her best friend see it, too.

FOR THE GANDER—

The guy that wants to chase another feller over three fences has got to climb over at least two himself.

No man feels he can really understand a woman—especially if he is married to her. But every woman thinks she can understand a man—particularly if she is married to him.

A lion's skin may be useless, but it ain't cheap.

Why is it the parts of a newspaper written for women is full of articles on How to Hold a Husband, but nobody ever saw a column on the men's page devoted to holdin' a wife?

GRANTSVILLE.

(By G. W. Diefenbach)

Grantsville, Md., May 18.—Last Thursday twenty-one students and several farmers, accompanied by Prof. M. W. Whiteford, journeyed to College Park, Md., with delegations from the schools at Accident, Friendsville and Oakland, accompanied by the agriculture teachers from those places, to attend the University of Maryland live stock day events put on there last Saturday. The program was arranged by the Student's Live Stock Club of the University and was a day packed full of interesting events. The Garrett county students at the University are well represented in the club. Henry Yost, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Yost, is treasurer and had charge of accommodations for visitors; Samuel Winterberg, son of Wm. Winterberg, had charge of the sheep division; Emerson Bishoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bishoff, of Oakland, is secretary, while Merle Hershberger, son of Mrs. Ida Hershberger, took second place in the fitting and showing contest for dairy cows. Merle fitted and showed a jersey. The visiting students and farmers were the interested spectators at these events, and were also shown over the University grounds, the experimental plots of grains and grasses, the dairy plant, where students are taught how to handle milk, make butter and cheese, also ice cream, and last but not least, the poultry division, where the famous egg laying contest has been in progress for some time. We might mention that the White Leghorns are ahead in the contest.

On Saturday afternoon the University students gave a horse show, with the privilege of the public making a showing and competing for the prizes. There were six classes: Farmers' class, saddle horses, ridden by ladies only; jumping, handicap; saddle horses, ridden by ladies and men; touch and go jumping and pulling. The visitors were conducted over the U. S. Department of Agriculture stock farm at Beltsville, Md., and the farm given over to plants, grains and grasses at Arlington, Va. The unoccupied time was taken up by visiting the public buildings in Washington, Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, Va., and Arlington cemetery at Arlington, Va. All were much pleased with the visit to the University and the city. Those in the party from Grantsville were Prof. M. W. Whiteford, H. P. Miller, William Winterberg, Charles Layman, Forest Michael, Asa M. Miller, William Turner, Forest Beachy and G. W. Diefenbach. The students in the party were William Turner, Jr., Alvin and Clyde Beachy, Leroy Shoemaker, Ralph Younkin, Walter Reichenbecher, Paul Wisseman, Russell Krause, Markel Stanton, Harry Doerr, Henry Patton, Rexford Bittinger, John Blocher, Luther Miller and Paul Livengood.

A very appreciative audience greeted the ladies of the M. E. Church of Frostburg, composing the "Kitchen Cabinet Orchestra" at their entertainment given in the W. O. W. Hall last Thursday evening, directed by Mrs. Babel Kemp Durst, who also sang several solos. The other soloists who were much appreciated were James Bond, Mrs. Esther Harvey, Miss Nellie Connor and Miss Nelle Raley. Prof. Gunnett was violinist, and Miss Mabel Meyers was piano accompanist. The entertainers kept the audience in laughter during the entire evening with their songs and the instruments used.

Directors of the Grantsville Community Fair Association held a meeting last week at which time the board was re-organized as follows: President, H. P. Miller; vice-president, J. A. Beachy, and treasurer, William Winterberg. A secretary will be appointed at a later meeting. It was decided to hold the fair on September 15th and 16th.

Mrs. Levi Gontz died at her home near Meyersdale on Monday, May 9. The funeral was held on Wednesday from the church at Summit Mills. Mrs. Gontz was a sister of Lewis Hockman, Mrs. John Failinger, Mrs. John Harmon, of Cove, and Henry Hockman, of Cumberland; also the late Fred Hockman, of the Cove.

For the purpose of boosting more extensive tourist travel over the National Highway, a membership campaign in the new National Highway Association has been started. W. T. Schenck, of Uniontown, Pa., secretary of the Association is in charge of the campaign. The Association wishes to obtain sufficient funds, through new membership dues, to advertise tourist travel over the Highway to a much larger extent that at present.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Reformed church met at the home of Mrs. Harry O. Miller last Thursday, where a quilting was held. The attendance was good, despite the disagreeable weather and very bad roads. A delicious buffet lunch was served by Mrs. Miller.

The preliminary boys' declamation contest was held at the High school on Monday afternoon, in which Clyde Miller was awarded first place and Leroy Shumaker, second. The county-wide contest will be held in Oakland on Friday evening of this week.

Cool and very wet weather has delayed farm operations a great deal in this locality. Much oats is yet to be sown, very few potatoes have been planted and preparations for corn planting have been hindered considerably.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS.

By FRANK R. KENT.

BARBERS AND BOOZERS

It is interesting the number of different angles from which the prohibition issue, the only one, we are told, in which the people are really concerned, can be viewed. Take for example the viewpoint of the barber on one of the crack deluxe railroad trains running between St. Louis and the East. Barbers as a rule are reasonably intelligent fellows with a tendency to talk politics. This one was above the average and with the tendency well developed.

One day last week on the way East he conversed with a customer as follows: "Sure, I like a drink just like the rest of you, but I'm politically dry just the same, although prohibition is dead against my business interests. If we had liquor in this country and on this train the way we used to have it I could make three to five times as much money at this job as I make now. Give any ordinary man two or three drinks and he's rich. Right away a lot of them begin to feel like Rockefeller. As soon as they get tight they don't care no more for a dollar bill than they do for an oak leaf. If we had liquor these days my tips would quadruple. Men would pile on this train after a hard night, or start in to liquor up in the club car and then come in here to get fixed up. When they get through they would toss me a dollar bill or say 'Keep the change' from a five spot and go out feeling big as a battleship.

Last week I had a fellow in here tanked right up to the eyeballs. He threw his arms around my neck and sang like a crow with the croup till he went to sleep in the chair. After I got through with him he got up and handed me three five-dollar bills. I didn't want to take it and says to him: 'Hold on, friend, ain't you overstepping a bit?' He rammed the stuff in my pocket, sang some more and begged me to go in to lunch with him. You get one like that once in a while now and if it wasn't for prohibition we'd get a lot of 'em.

"But honest, it ain't worth it—not to me anyway. You may think I'm a sort of a damn fool but it ain't worth it. I don't make much more than a living at this and the extra money would come in pretty good, but look what you got to put up with. When I get a man in the chair I like to do a good job on him and I like some sensible conversation. Generally I get it. He gives me a chance to talk and sometimes he tells me something and we can have a little argument over politics or something. I know it ain't good business and maybe there ain't many barbers like me, but I'd rather get a ten-cent tip from an agreeable customer that didn't have a grouch than fifty cents from a liberal drunk that blew a stale breath in my face, beat me on the back, tried to break up the furniture or went to sleep in the chair. The way I look at it there is something to this business besides the size of the tips.

"I live in New York and I'm a Republican. I vote for Al Smith all right when he runs for Governor, but I ain't going to vote for him on no wet platform for President—and that's flat. I know it's easy to get hooch in New York and St. Louis and a lot of other places now, but it ain't as easy as it might be and I don't believe in making it no easier. It's expensive and the stuff ain't good and it's inconvenient to carry it around. The talk about there being more drinking now than there was before Prohibition is the bunk and everybody with any sense knows it.

"I ain't exactly a dry and while I don't want it made any easier to get liquor I don't believe I want it made any harder. What's all the hollering about anyhow? Things suit me all right. People who have got to have their liquor, or think they have, can get it all right, but it ain't around every corner or on every train or at your elbow everywhere you turn, which certainly keeps it away from a lot of fellows who won't take the trouble or pay the price. When I'm off in New York I like to slip around and look up a few. I like to feel rich too, but I don't do much of it. It costs too much and carting a bottle around is a lot of trouble.

"And so far as the barbering business on this train is concerned I'm satisfied to lose the big tips for the sake of a little peace and conversation such as this. I'm a barber, not a boozer."

All of which made the size of the trip from a relatively sober customer something to consider.

Whatever may have been Calvin Coolidge's views fifteen years ago on the question of third terms, they have no bearing on his qualifications for another term of office. Under the Constitution the people have the right to elect to the presidency any qualified man they may choose. Naturally Mr. Coolidge's qualifications will be under discussion as the nominating convention approaches. His policies will be considered. Voters who do not believe him qualified, or who disagree with his policies, will be perfectly justified in opposing his nomination. But the opinions he may have expressed years ago, and the fact that he served several months of President Harding's unexpired term, do not enter into the situation—except as they are dragged in by persons who oppose the Coolidge renomination on other grounds.

KNOCKING THE KNOCKERS

A few weeks ago every knocker of the American government was agitating the American policy in Nicarauga and Mexico. We were told that we were on the brink of bloody war as the result of, the impudence of the American government in insisting upon the protection of American life and property in these countries. These critics did not change the policy of the government, but the developments of the intervening period constitute a sorry reflection on the common sense of the knockers, if, indeed, something more sinster than lack of judgment is not responsible for their futile hullabalioo.

Uncle Sam has stopped the war in Nicaragua, with its loss of life and property and paralysis of industry, agriculture and employment. Nothing more terrible is going to happen there than that the Nicaraguan factions have agreed to settle their troubles with ballots instead of Mausers and machetes, with the U. S. Marines standing by to see that everybody gets fair play. Mexico shows some signs of returning sanity and order, and relations between the Mexican and American governments have undergone a distinct improvement. Instead of starting war in the republics to the south of us, we have prevented war and have demonstrated that the United States will not be frightened out of asserting its rights under international law and the Monroe Doctrine.

Senator Lynn Frazer, of North Dakota, the socialist statesman who affects Republicanism only on election day, is engaged in a transcontinental trip crusading against the American government's policy in Mexico and Nicaragua. If he does not cut his journey short, both problems will be satisfactorily solved before he gets back to the home plate. Accompanying Senator Frazer are two pink publicists, one of them a radical farm editor and the other a gentleman who acquired unenviable notoriety through his association with the group surrounding Ludwig Martens, one time unofficial soviet ambassador to the United States, who left the country upon the urgent invitation of the American government.

Senator Frazer is author of a resolution for a constitutional amendment which would prohibit the United States government from spending any money whatever in national defense in case of armed insurrection or invasion. A hearing was held upon this resolution by the Senate Judiciary Committee, and it was attended by a group of women, mostly of the pink and red persuasion, one of them an advocate of the slackers' oath, and another a "pacifist" female who declared last year: "We must have peace through communism, by revolution, peaceful if possible, bloody if necessary." It is not difficult to fathom the support of such a resolution by those who seek the violent overthrow of the government of the United States, or its annexation as a province of soviet Russia, but just how any patriotic American could favor a proposal involving national suicide is not exactly clear.

Lincoln Steffens, once notorious as a magazine muck-raker, calmly tells a New York audience that he now believes that all his early theories were "bunk." It is to be hoped that some of the rest of the radical yell-leaders will sooner or later reach that stage of mental maturity where they will be able to see what is already obvious to those Americans whose seat of thought is the brain rather than the bile.

SEVENTY SAD YEARS

Clarence Darrow, whose mind is admitted to be one the keenest in America "looks back over 70 sad years." according to a story written by him on his 70th birthday.

We don't wonder that the evening of life for one of the greatest criminal lawyers in American history should be edged with clouds. There has been little in his public career or private life to bring anything but memories of wistful sadness.

Admittedly one of the greatest men in his sphere, Darrow has—professionally—allied himself with the negative forces of American life. We remember, back in 1925, when the prohibition issue was hot, hearing Darrow denounce the efforts to eradicate liquor from national life. And in the years that have followed we've followed him—through the Scopes anti-evolution trial, the Leopold-Loeb case, the Detroit Negro case.

We've listened to his views as published over the world, Darrow has always been good newspaper "copy." We've seen his advocacy to race equality, of the return of saloon days, his defense of athiesm, of many other things that, to us, are equally obnoxious and indefensible.

During this career of public notoriety Darrow has grown rich. Today, at 70, he has almost anything that a successful career could bring him. Yet he views life backward as "70 sad years."

They can't help it, because they have been without God. The price of success has been the result of ignoring the Supreme Power. During the years of his strength he was sufficient unto himself, but in the years of reflection, the past and its achievements don't loom up so delightfully.

"I don't believe people are happier or more contented than they were years ago," he asserts. Men of his class cannot be, because they have neglected the only source of living joy.

Public Health Nursing

Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health, announces the following program for the public health nurses session of the Annual Conference of Health Officers and Boards of Health at Osler Hall Friday and Saturday, May 27 and 28:

"History of Public Health Nursing,' Dr. J. P. Franklin, Chief, Bureau of Communicable Diseases, Baltimore City Department of Health.

"The Art of Belonging," Miss Lillian McDaniel, President of the State Organization for Public Health Nursing.

"Working out a Health Education Project," with a demonstration of available material. Miss Helen G. Andres, Baltimore Dairy Council.

"Question Box."

The session will be held on Saturday morning.

Speaking of public health nursing in a recent radio talk, Mrs. Ethel Monroe Troy, State Advisory Nurse, referred to the gradual growth of public health nursing activities throughout the State. "The number of public health nurses engaged in work in the counties" she said, "has more than doubled in the last five years. In 1920 nine counties had some form of nursing service. Two years later, four more counties had fallen into line, with twenty nurses in the field, and now every one of the twenty-three counties is supplied with one or more nurses, with a total of forty-nine nurses in the field.

"The activities of the nurses are directed by the Deputy State Health officer of the district to which they are assigned. The duties of the rural nurses are varied. They include instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick in the home, particularly with regard to communicable diseases in order that these diseases may be controlled. The nurse assists the health officer in the examination of school children and follows up the cases for which special care has been advised. She assists at the tuberculosis clinics and at the child health conferences at which the slogan is 'Learn How to Keep the Well Baby Well.' She is the practicing physician's ally. The busy physician orders what is to be done, the public health nurse shows how it is done. And so they work together.

"When recommending nurses for employment in the counties, the State Department of Health looks for the following qualifications: High school graduation or its equivalent; graduation from a recognized training school for nurses giving a three year's course; registration in the State of Maryland. These are required. It is also desirable for the nurse to have a course in public health nursing, or a year's experience in public health nursing under a nurse supervisor."

Mr. David F. Cooper, of near Wilson, W. Va., was in town on business yesterday morning when he called at The Republican office.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Renninger returned home Monday after having spent the week-end in Morgantown, West Va., with relatives.

Mrs. Harland L. Jones, after having visited her sister, Mrs. Zacharias, in Chambersburg, Pa., several days, returned to Oakland last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart went to Frostburg yesterday to attend the funeral of the former's grandfather, John R. Stewart, whose death occurred Monday.

District Warden A. L. Sines, of Garrett county, as the semi-official long range weather prognosticator for the Department, claims to have forecasted the light fire season in the early spring. To show real faith in him, the wardens in Garrett county should refrain from throwing away their overshoes and should keep their heavy underwear out of the moth balls for a while longer for A. L. Sines has also predicted ten inches more of snow before the summer. The question is, can he make good?—Maryland Forestry News Letter.

Mr. and Mrs. Parley DeBerry and daughter, Miss Helen DeBerry, of Romney, West Va., were guests of Mrs. D. E. Offutt at her home in Oakland, last Friday.

Mr. Edward W. Helbig left Oakland Sunday for Baltimore, where he has entered Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment. He will be confined to the institution four to six weeks.

Prof. C. S. Richardson, head of Public Speaking, College Park, will address the five Homemaker's Clubs in this section of the county on June 8th. Watch papers for further announcements.

Mr. Earl Thayer, who is employed on a hydro-electric project located near Salisbury, N. C., arrived at his home here last Thursday to remain until the latter part of the month when he will return south.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A Smouse and their son motored to Baltimore on Sunday where Mrs. Smouse will remain a short time visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lawrence. Mr. Smouse returned to Oakland Tuesday night.

Miss Frances Miller entertained the Tri-Mu class last Thursday evening at her home. There were twelve members present and the evening was a delightful one. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Cecil Thayer, formerly of near Oakland, was brought here Friday from his home in Morgantown to receive medical treatment by Dr. McComas. Mr. Thayer was accompanied by his wife and are at the Central Hotel.

The Tri-Mu Sunday School class of the M. E. church will hold a food sale and luncheon in the Gas office Saturday, May 28, beginning at ten o'clock. Lunch will be served at the noon hour. Everybody plan to eat your lunch there on that date.

Mrs. Henry W. McComas is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Lawrence, in Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence contemplate moving back to Oakland about June 1st and will occupy an apartment in Mrs. Edward Smouse's residence.

Dr. Henry W. McComas has purchased the Wallace property located at the head of Second street, upon which he contemplates building a bungalow type residence. The property comprises two and one-half acres and is now improved by a small dwelling in which Mrs. Wallace resided until her death recently.

Mr. Albert T. White, formerly of Loch Lynn, now superintendent of the Odd Fellow's Home at Frederick, spent a day or two of last week at his former home and in Oakland, returning to Frederick Saturday. He was accompanied by one of his daughters.

The Crellin Boys Band, in connection with the Youghiogheny Rifle and Revolver Association, is already engaged in making plans for an all day picnic to be held in the Charles Ream grove on Saturday, July 2nd. The affair will be extensively advertised in the Republican and otherwise.

State Senator A. D. Naylor went to Hagerstown Saturday where he attended the funeral of Senator A. R. Hagner, whose death occurred Thursday afternoon as the result of pneumonia. Senator Naylor was accompanied to Hagerstown by his daughter Miss Mary Drake Naylor, returning to Oakland Monday after having spent Sunday at the former's old home near Maritnsburg, West Va.

Hinebaugh, and the address was made by Rev. J. E. Font, of Keyser, W. Va.. Miss Grace Falkenstein sang a solo, which was highly pleasing.

Mr. Burt Wilson Now At Leesburg, Florida, Writes of Conditions There And Is Anxious To Return To Garrett County.

Leesburg, Fla., May 9, 1927.

To the Editor of The Republican:

So many Garrett county folk have asked me about conditions here that I deem it of general interest to your readers.

The "boom" of 1925 is over and Florida is again normal. A lot of people that invested in real estate at boom prices later found out they had paid too much, therefore there has not been so much speculating since. However, the past winter was one of the most pleasant we have spent here and fresh vegetables, berries, and fruits are plentiful and cheap now.

The Spring months are the best time in the year here. Florida truly is the land of flowers and sunshine in the springtime, but remember the season here is fully three months earlier than in Garrett county. Most vegetables are planted in February and harvested in April and May.

We now have ripe blackberries and melons. Strawberries can be had from January until June, and oranges will hang on the trees for months ripe and ready to pick at any time. I especially notice one tree in our yard that had good fruit on when we arrived here last October and some of the same crop still remains on the tree with no noticeable difference in quality.

However pleasant the winter and springtime here I do not consider this any better part of the country to live in than Maryland, take it the year 'round.

The summer months are much pleasanter in the mountains and we are anxious to get beak to our old home and among our good friends in the home-land.

BURT WILSON

NORTH GLADE.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Lohr, a daughter.

The bad weather has been very discouraging to farmers.

Mr. Elmer Bernard has moved onto the C. C. Mason farm.

Rev. D. B. Brown held an interesting Mother's Day service at this place.

Commissioner Orendorf was looking over some of our terrible roads recently. The road past North Glade church and school, for nearly a mile, is as bad as any he saw.

It has been suggested that our telephone system be reorganized. To this suggestion all will certainly most heartily agree. Our lines have practically been out of commission for quite a while.

Rev. Anderson will preach for us Sunday morning, May 22nd inst. All are cordially invited to be present and take part in the Sunday school service preceding the sermon. More interest in religious matters is badly needed.

It was May Day, 1927, when Mr. Maynard Moon, accompanied by his brother Russell, of Cumberland, left home, motoring to Oakland; visited Mr. Tower's office, thence securing the services of Dr. Moore, who pronounced his charming friend, Miss Leora Bernard, and himself man and wife. Next day he and his bride returned home to receive many hearty congratulations. We are glad to have them reside here.

DISTURBED SLEEP

Caused From Bladder Irritation Is Nature's Signal of "Danger Ahead."

Joseph Dow, R. 5, Trenton, N. J., says: "My rest at night was disturbed 10 to 20 times. Lithiated Buchu has reduced this and entirely relieved me of that terrible burning and smarting. I was told there was no help for me. I want others to know and will tell or write my experience."

Lithiated Buchu is not a patent medicine. The formula is on the package. It acts on the bladder as epsom salts do on the bowels. Drives out abnormal deposits, lessens acids, thereby relieving the irritation which causes "disturbed sleep." Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at Gonder's Pharmacy.

PETER HEALS THE LAME MAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:1-4:31.

GOLDEN TEXT—Neither is there salvation in any other for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.—Acts 4:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Heals a Lame Man.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Gifts That Money Cannot Buy.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Giving Our Best for Others.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Gifts That Are Better Than Money.

I. Peter Healing the Lame Man (Acts 3:1-10).

1. The place (vv. 1, 2).

Peter and John were on their way to the house of worship. This man had been placed at the entrance of the place of worship where he might receive the sympathetic attention of worshipers.

2. The man (v. 2).

This beggar was infirm from his birth. He was now more than forty years old (4:22) and had brought his ailment with him into the world. When he saw Peter and John he asked alms.

3. The method (vv. 3-8).

(1) The man's attention gained (v. 4).

Peter and John commanded him to look on them.

(2) Peter commanded him in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth to rise and walk (v. 6).

(3) Peter took him by the right hand (v. 7).

4. The man's response (v. 8).

Strength came to his feet and ankle-bones at once. He stood, he walked, he leaped and shouted praises to God.

5. The effect (vv. 9-11).

The people were so filled with wonder and amazement that they ran together to behold this wonderful thing. Note:

(1) This helpless beggar had to be carried to the temple gate. Men and women out of Christ are so helpless that they need to be brought where the light of God can be applied to them.

II. Peter Witnessing Before the Multitude (2:12-26).

Though this miracle directed the attention of the people to Peter and John, Peter immediately turned their attention from himself to Christ. He told them that it was faith in Jesus Christ whom God had glorified and whom they had deliberately betrayed and crucified that had healed this man.

III. Peter In Prison for Christ's Sake (4:1-4).

It was his fidelity to Christ that brought him this persecution. Observe:

1. The leaders—priests and Sadducees—in this persecution (vv. 1, 2).

The priests were intolerant because these new teachers were encroaching upon their functions.

2. The result (vv. 3, 4).

Though they were held in bondage by chains, Christ continued to work. The number of believers had greatly increased.

IV. Peter Witnessing Before the Sanhedrin (4:5-21).

1. The inquiry (vv. 5-7).

This inquiry admitted the reality of the miracle. They wanted to know what it signified.

2. Peter's answer (vv. 8-12).

Being filled with the Holy Spirit, Peter calmly and graciously answered. He showed them that they were not on trial as evildoers but for doing good to the helpless and needy man. Since they could not deny the miracle he boldly declared that it had been done in the name of Jesus Christ whom they had crucified and God had raised from the dead.

3. The impression upon the Sanhedrin (vv. 13-22).

(1) They marveled (vv. 1-13).

They saw that Peter's behavior and words were as unusual as the miracle.

(2) They took knowledge that Peter and John had been with Jesus (v. 13).

(3) They forbade them to speak in Christ's name (v. 18).

(4) Peter and John's reply (vv. 19, 20).

They expressed their determination to obey God rather than men.

(5) Their release (v. 21).

Seeing the people were on their side, there was no way to punish them.

V. The Church at Prayer (vv. 23-31).

As soon as Peter and John were set free, they hastened away to their fellow disciples and told them their experience. They praised God for deliverance and prayed for boldness to speak the Word of God.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Mrs. Campbell, of Norfolk, Va., has returned to her cottage here, the Braethorn, and has it open for guests.

Mr. Oswald, who had been ill in Washington, D. C., has returned to his home here.

Mrs. J. A. Hayden is yet quite a sufferer, but is able to walk around a little.

Mr. Costola Wood, who fell one day last week and ruptured his appendix, was rushed to a hospital in Cumberland for an operation. He is still in a critical condition.

The Parent-Teacher Association is putting on quite an entertaining program this Thursday evening.

We will certainly be glad when the lowering clouds are lifted and we have sunshine again.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Peder Emanuel Baasland vs. Jenny Baasland.

No. 2747 Equity. In the Circuit Court of Garrett county.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii for the plaintiff from the defendant.

1. The Bill states that on the 4th day of September, 1917, he was married to his wife Jenny Baasland, nee Jenny Hansen, at Little Falls, N. Y., and lived with her as man and wife until the latter part of October, 1917.

2. That although the conduct of the plaintiff toward the defendant has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant, on or about the latter part of October, 1917, without just cause, abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years, and is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable hope of reconciliation.

The Bill then states that the plaintiff has resided in the State of Maryland for more than two years, and that the defendant is a non-resident of this State.

The Bill further states that no children were born to the parties as a result of said marriage.

The Bill then prays for a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii, for general relief and for order of publication against the defendant.

It is thereupon this 18th day of April, 1927, by the Circuit Court of Garrett county, in Equity, ordered, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 20th day of May, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 5th day of June, 1927, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

This is to give notice to the taxpayers of Garrett county that the annual levy for 1927 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45 Chapter 56, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent will be allowed, and after the first day of January all county taxes shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid. The treasurer shall take the discount from and charge the interest on the tax bill for the county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid, and shall note the same upon the books and upon the receipts given on the taxes paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of state and county taxes are paid when the same is made."

Under the provisions of Section 48 of Chapter 630 of the Acts of 1916, all the state taxes shall be due and payable on and after the first day of July in the year in which the same are levied, and if not paid on or before the first day of September of said year, shall bear interest from said date at the rate of six per cent per annum. No discount is allowed on state taxes.

Specially-Built Fisher Body — Strikingly Beautiful Duco Colors—Elegantly Appointed —The Aristocrat of All Chevrolets

Again Chevrolet revolutionizes every previous conception of quality and elegance in a low-priced automobile by presenting the Imperial Landau—a new model whose distinction and smartness entitle it to comparison with the costliest custom-built cars.

Its specially-built Fisher body reveals all the masterly craftsmanship for which the Fisher name is famous. The finish is lustrous black Duco, with embellishments of brilliant chasseur red.

With oblong windows—with nickeled windshield rim and landau bows—with vaulted roof, and with top and rear quarter in mouse gray textile leather, this aristocrat of all Chevrolets is one of the most strikingly beautiful cars to be seen on the streets and highways.

And, of course, it has all the power, speed and smoothness—all the flashing acceleration, finger-tip steering and unfailing dependability that have brought to Chevrolet such world-wide fame.

This beautiful car is now on display in our showroom. Come and see it. You will be delighted to learn that a car so low in price provides such commanding individuality and style!

NEW STATE FISH LAWS GO IN EFFECT JUNE 1

State Game Warden Outlines Principal Provisions to Joseph E. Weaver in Letter

Changes in the State fish laws, as enacted at the recent session of the Legislature and which become effective June 1, are set forth in a letter from E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, to the game warden for Garrett county.

State-wide angler's license applying to all points above tidewater, cost residents of State $1, and nonresidents $5.

Open season on trout April 1 to June 30 inclusive; on bass and all other species of game fish found above tide-water points July 1 to November 30 inclusive.

It will be lawful to use dipnets for suckers and other coarse fish February 1 to April 1.

Lawful to set outlines and trout line provided no one line shall carry more than 25 hooks and be baited with dead bait only.

Unlawful to take in any one day more than 20 trout or bass of any species.

The changes will be noted with considerable interest in this locality where there are many sportsmen interested in fishing. Particular interest is manifest in the law relative to use of dipnets.

Keen followers of the sports are requesting sportsmen to refrain from using dipnets at this time inasmuch as fish are spawning and it will have considerable effect on the supply later.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

Garrett County Agricultural Tour to College Park a Success

During the early hours of Thursday morning many men and boys could be seen traveling toward Grantsville where they were to meet and start on a tour through Maryland, Washington, D. C. and Virginia.

After assembling at Grantsville the party was divided into four sections. Each agricultural teacher took charge of the number from his section of the county. Mr. M. W. Whiteford Grantsville; Mr. W. E. Tarbell, Accident; Mr. John Carter, Friendsville; Mr. O. T. Graser, Oakland, and County Agent McGlone as pilot.

Mr. M. D. Moore, County Agent of Washington county, guided the party through his county. The first visit was to the orchard of Mr. R. S. Dillon, Hancock, Maryland. Here Mr. Moore explained the various experiments which were being conducted. The methods and value of spraying were explained; also the use of orchard equipment.

The party then traveled to Mr. W. H. Cunningham's farm. Mr. Cunningham explained every phase of farming; also told of his hard but successful battle in building up his ideal farm. Following the talk by Mr. Cunningham the party inspected his barns, Belgian horses, Shropshire sheep, Poland China hogs and Guernsey cattle. Leaving the Cunningham farm Mr. Moore and Mr. Cunningham traveled with the party through the Antietam battle field where Civil War battles were fought.

Moving southward the party was met in Frederick by Mr. Shoemaker, County Agent of Frederick county, who conducted them to Mr. Wertheimer's farm, the home of the World's record Holstein bull. Mr. Wertheim met the party and accompanied them while on the visit. After a short talk the tour moved on the the University of Maryland where they remained for the night.

Friday morning, under the guidance ance of Mr. K. A. Clark, specialist of the University of Maryland, the party toured to Beltsville, where they were met by Mr. Woodward, superintendent of the dairy department, who conducted them through the dairy barns and sheep department. Mr. K. Warner explained the methods of curing and handling meat for market. He also stressed on the proper feeding methods.

The afternoon was spent visiting the Arlington Farms and Washington. Dr. Albert F. Wood, director of research for the department of agriculture, welcomed the men and boys to Washington and said the department would always be glad to have them inspect the work. He also expressed his wish to see many more men and boys from Garrett county, and hoped they would arrange many more tours.

Leaving the department of agriculture, Mr. T. W. Harvey, of the Extension Service, accompanied the party to the Arlington farms. Mr. Butterfield, superintendent of the farm, conducted the men and boys through the experimental plots and good road experiments where each part of the work was explained.

From the Arlington farms the party journeyed to Arlington cemetery where they visited the tomb of the unknown soldier, General Lee's mansion, and the mast of the battleship Maine, after which they returned to College Park by the way of Fort Meyer, the U. S. cavalry school.

Friday night Dr. T. B. Symons, Director of Maryland Extension Service, arranged a moving picture show and then welcomed the party. Dr. Symons said he was pleased to have the honor of talking to a group of men and boys from Garrett county and hoped they would come again. He also said he hoped the ladies of Garrett county would attend the short course in June.

No special arrangements were made for Saturday and the various groups divided, some remaining at the University to attend the cattle and horse show, others visited various places of interest in Washington and Virginia. Sunday the party returned to Garrett county, many being very tired from their hard trip but mostly satisfied.

T. B. Testing in Garrett County

Many farmers being interested to have their herds tested for tuberculosis and in response to the wishes the County Agent has requested Dr. T. B. Symons, Director of Extension Service, University of Maryland, to take some action in regards to this matter.

Dr. T. B. Symons has taken this matter up with the Board and received the following reply from Dr. E. B. Simonds, Acting Inspector in charge of tuberculosis eradication.

"In reference to your letter of April 28th, enclosing a letter from Mr. J. L. McGlone, County Agent of Garrett county, in regard to testing cattle for tuberculosis in this county, the state appropriation is made to match Federal funds in hand for the balance of this fiscal year, and arrangements have been made in Frederick county and on the Eastern shore to test highly infected districts until July 1st. During July, August and September our efforts will be directed entirely to retest work and for this reason we probably will not be able to do any work in Garrett county until the State appropriation is available October 1st. If Mr. McGlone will get these herds listed, that he wishes taken care of, we will make every effort to do the work this fall."

This opportunity to have the cows tested for tuberculosis should be considered by the farmers of Garrett county as a wonderful opportunity because the demands are many throughout the State. In order that the farmers derive this benefit they should write at once to the County Agent and make this request so he may take care of the wishes in the order they are received.

Arrangements have been made to have Dr. George A. Smith, Cumberland, to visit Garrett county Saturday, May 28th, to test the herds where they have been accredited. Any farmer wishing Dr. Smith's services should notify the County Agent as soon as possible.

J. L. M'GLONE,
County Agent.

DEER PARK.

Mr. Walter Hardesty went to Westernport on Tuesday where he will spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Jeffries and daughter Ellen, of Cumberland, visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Schley Nestor and daughter, of West Virginia Junction, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Soelters, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Salem Broadwater spent Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilson's.

Mr. Ernest Tasker, of Bloomington, and Mr. Courtney Tasker, of Aurora, spent Sunday with their parents here.

Mrs. Earl George spent Thursday in Cumberland.

Mrs. James Junkins received a message notifying her of the death of her father, Mr. A. J. Smith, at St. George, W. Va., on May 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Wattenschaidt and Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson and family, of Lonaconing, visited Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilson on Friday.

The League anniversary program entitled "The World Gone After Him," given on Sunday evening, was well rendered.

Miss Bessie Keys was a visitor at the home of F. N. Reis on Sunday.

The Deer Park Hotel is being made ready for opening on May 27th. Some of the help having arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McNemar visited in Keyser the latter part of last week.

Excited Automobile Drivers

A good many automobile drivers, particularly the younger fellows, act in a very excited way when they get behind a steering wheel. There may not be any need for them to get to any place in a hurry, but they feel an intense urge to keep up with the procession on the roads, and get ahead of it if possible. If they think that some car or pedestrain is taking a bit of the right of way that belongs to them, they are keen to insist on their own supposed rights. Many more accidents would result from this type of driving if people did not jump to get out of their way.

Many of these fellows think rather quickly, so that they get by without accidents longer than one expects. But some day they will run up against someone who is equally anxious for his right-of-way, and a collision is likely to result.

The excited folk may be able to get by out on the country roads where they can reel off the miles to suit themselves, though even there their haste oftens leads them to land in a ditch or try to butt a railroad train off the track.

But when such drivers get into the traffic in town and city centers, and have to extricate themselves from tangled situations from which they should have kept out, then their swift acting minds can not quite judge what someone else is going to do, and they get into trouble.

If the traffic is crowded at any particular point, it usually only takes a minute of time to wait until the jam has pessed, and then one can proceed at a cautious rate in safety. Good automobile driving calls for a very calm temperment. These folk would better practice fishing for a few years and see if the serene philosophy that is willing to wait until the fish are ready to bite, will not enable them to drive an automobile in a way safer to themselves and the public.

Joy of Life.

To watch the corn grow, and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over ploughshare or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy; they have always had the power of doing this, they never will have power to do more. The world's prosperity or adversity depends upon our knowing and teaching those few things.—John Ruskin.

THREE EVENTFUL DAYS THIS AND NEXT WEEKK

Orthopedic Clinic Saturday, Decoration Day Monday, Health Day-Athletic Meet Tuesday

Dr. George Bennett, orthopedic specialist of Johns Hopkins Hospital, will come to Oakland on Saturday, May 28th, where he will hold a clinic for any persons who may be crippled in any way. Dr. Bennett will hold the clinic at the Court House, beginning at 9 o'clock a. m.

The clinic is for the examination of any persons who are crippled, and who present themselves at the Court House on Saturday. The services of Dr. Bennett are free to the public, arrangements having been made with this eminent surgeon by Miss Anne Sloan, of Lonaconing, who has devoted her life since the World War to the crippled people of this State.

It is the object of this clinic to bring the crippled people of Garrett county to Dr. Bennett, who will make a complete examination of the condition hoping to have the same corrected at a later date, either by operation or by treatment. It has been made possible to render the service of treatment or even an operation free of charge to the patient, if necessary, as arrangements can be made for full or partial payments in the hospital. In all probability any operations which might be necessary will be performed in Baltimore.

Miss Rhesa King, the Public Health Nurse for Garrett county, and Mrs. Milton Sincell, chairman of public welfare of the local Civic Club, which organization is sponsoring the movement, will make final arrangements for patients to be taken to the hospital for care and treatment.

Anyone acquainted with a case of any person who would like to come for the clinic and would come if transportation were provided, are asked to communicate with Mrs. Milton Sincell, who has been promised the use of many cars throughout the county, and who will arrange with one of the donors of cars from a nearby section, who will gladly bring the person to the clinic and make the return trip immediately after the examination.

A special request is extended all exservice men of the World War to assemble, in uniform if possible, at the City Hall, at 9:30 o'clock on Monday, May 30th, to pay tribute to their comrades who paid the supreme sacrifice while in the service and to those who have since been laid to rest, and also to the Civil War veterans.

To the guests of honor on that day, who are the veterans of the Civil and Spanish American Wars, a request has been made by the officers of the local Legion Post that they also report at the City Hall, at about the same time as the younger men, where automobiles will be provided for their transportation in the parade which will start promptly at 10 o'clock.

The Legion is cooperating with the local Order of Knights of Pythias and Oakland Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, and a striking parade is assured. There will be two bands in the line of march—the Crellin and the Oakland bands.

County Agent J. L. McGlone, an exservice man, will make the address at the cemetery for the Legion, and the Knights of Pythias will observe their usual Memorial Day program.

It is understood that all places of business will close at the hour of 1:30 o'clock Monday morning and will remain closed the entire day.

Child Health Day and Athletic Meet Will Draw Large Crowd on Tuesday

The weather being favorable on Tuesday, one of the largest crowds to visit Oakland in many years is expected for the Child Health Day and the Public School Athletic Meet which will be held at the Fair Grounds on that day.

A large street parade at 10 o'clock will bring everybody to town early in the morning, and an extensive program has been arranged by Miss Rhesa King, and others for the Child Health Day and by Mr. Franklin E. Rathbun and others for the annual Field Day Meet, which will afford amusement and pleasure throughout the day.

A very pleasing feature of the day will be the May Day program, which will be held at 11 o'clock following the street parade. This program is fostered by the State Department of Health and is usually held the first part of May, but owing to the unsettled condition of the weather here at that time it was deemed advisable by Miss King to observe the occasion in connection with the Annual Field Day Meet, and therefore the children will present their part of the day's program on the Fair grounds, at the west end of Liberty street, just before the noon hour.

The afternoon will be taken up with the running off of the several athletic events, which will be under the supervision of the Public Athletic League of Maryland.

In order to promote interest in the parade and to make it a huge success, special prizes are offered for the following features: $25 for the best representative of health, entered as a float or a group by any school; $10 for the best representation of some phase of health by a pre-school child, to be judged on originality and effectiveness. The prizes are made possible through the generosity of the Knights of Pythias, the Knights of Columbus, the Garrett National Bank, the First National Bank, the Rotary Club and the Civic Club.

Timely addresses on different phases of health will be delivered by Dr. Henry W. McComas and Mr. Franklin E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, following the May-pole dances and the crowning of the May queen.

If the weather is inclement the events will not take place, and a future date will be announced.

GRAND AND PETIT JURORS DRAWN FOR JUNE TERM

Chief Judge D. L. Sloan Officiates—C. A. Bender, Grantsville, Foreman

Last Saturday morning Chief Judge D. L. Sloan, of Cumberland, came to Oakland and in the presence of members of the bar and court officials, drew the names of the grand and petit jurors from the jury box to serve at the June term of the Circuit Court which will convene on Monday, June 6th.

Charles A. Bender, of Grantsville, was named as foreman of the grand jury, which in addition to Mr. Bender, will be composed of the following named citizens:

Chas. W. Soelters, Patrick J. Garrett, Charles Savage, Thomas W. Ebent, Elmer J. Beachy, Roland R. Gilbert, Charles C. Mason, Clifton J. Clark, Jacob J. Glotfelty, James H. Umbel, Leslie H. Rodeheaver, Philo T. Lipscomb, William R. Beckman, Stanley Ashby, J. Edward Moomaw, Dallas H. Riley, Willey S. Friend, W. Harrison Sines, William A. Custer, Floyd Lee, John N. Michael, William P. Bennett.

Petit Jurors.

Ernest Townshend, John O. Wilhelm, John J. Magruder, William MacDonald, Raymond T. Winters, Cyrus S. Wolf, John W. Steyer, James M. Wilson, George E. Sloan, Charles E. Bernard, Mahlon S. Brenneman, Playford Friend, Clarence C. Stephens, Frederick P. Miller, Homer C. Shaffer, Harry Nutter, Abel A. DeWitt, D. R. Deming, Ernest Bowser, Charles U. Edwards, Richard D. Johnson, Nimrod F. Dove, Benjamin Knepp, Oliver C. Miller, Alpheus H. Friend.

Knights of Pythias to Hold Picnic Sunday

Members of Oakland Lodge N. 113, Knights of Pythias, and their families will journey to Table Rock Sunday afternoon and spend the remaining hours of the day and evening enjoying the "great open spaces," and a basket picnic at 5 o'clock.

Two bands, the Crellin Boys Band and the Oakland band will accompany the picnicers and furnish music the entire afternoon with a special combined band concert in the evening.

A baseball game between the "Bulls" and "Bears" will be staged soon after the arrival of the party at the Rock and the line of umpires follow: Guy O. Yutzy, strikes and balls; John Forman, bases; H. L. Stemple, right field; J. Mutt Bell, left field, and Albert L. Lee will be the official scorer.

The members and their families will leave Castle Hall at 1 o'clock in automobiles and will reach their destination easily in an hours time.

Mr. Walter W. Dawson is master of ceremonies.

The entire membership of the lodge and their families are urged to be present by the committee in charge of the affair, and a jolly, good time is assured.

Scholarships Offered Citizen Soldiers at C. M. T. Camps

In addition to the many scholarships and other awards previously announced, two qualified citizen-soldiers who demonstrate their ability to deliver the "Message to Garcia" at the Citizens' Military Training Camp, Fort Eustis, Virginia, this coming July, will receive in return free scholarships (tuition and college fees) to the William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Virginia.

Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college, will act as sponsor for three of the many C. M. T. C. dances at which William and Mary girls will couple with citizen-soldiers and trip the "light fantastic."

Two of the best military bands are now stationed at Fort Eustice. It is a foregone conclusion that the band concerts will attract many. For these dances, however, the boys will probably "borrow" the necessary instruments and provide the harmony for these occasions.

DAN MOSSER SHOT AND KILLED BY MABEL SWAN THIS MORNING

Woman Has Message Sent Summoning Sheriff and Physician.

Mabel Swan, said to be a graduate nurse, having received her training in a Baltimore hospital, is under arrest charged with having shot and killed Daniel Mosser, of Keyser, W. Va., about ten o'clock this morning. The shooting took place at the Mosser farm, a mile North of Swanton, upon which the Swan woman has been a tenant for several months.

Monday, following information received by the local and Federal prohibition officers, the place was raided where several hundred gallons of mash, about five gallons of liquor and a coil were found under a tent, and destroyed. It is presumed by the officers that Mosser, hearing of the raid went to the farm to rid it of the undesirable tenant and a quarrel ensued, followed by the shooting.

Mosser was employed as a hostler in the Keyser shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He worked last night and arrived at Swanton about nine o'clock this morning, going to the farm at once.

At ten o'clock the Swan woman appeared at the Swanton railroad station and requested the agent to telephone to Sheriff Casteel to "come to her place at once and to bring a doctor with him, as she had shot Dan Mosser, but did not know whether he was dead or not."

The dead man was aged 40 years, and he is survived by his wife and four children; one brother, T. R. Mosser, of Deer Park, who is a B. & O. engineer; and by three sisters, Mrs. Dolly Friend and Mrs. Truman Sweitzer, of Swanton, and Mrs. T. G. Diehl, of Cumberland.

The Swan woman is an eccentric character, and until she went to the Swanton community lived on a farm west of Oakland. She always dressed like a man, wearing knee-high gum boots and made a living by driving a coal or lumber wagon, as occasion required. It is said that upon one occasion she was heard to remark that two things would not be tolerated on her farm—a man and a hog.

The woman appears to be about forty years of age, is slightly built, and is quite active in her movements.

Sheriff Casteel upon going to the Mosser place, found the woman, who gave herself up, and who stated that the dead man had tried to break into the house to collect the rent due him; that she had shot him with a .22 calibre rifle and apparently does not regret the deed.

The officer brought his prisoner to Oakland, arriving here at 2 o'clock, and she is now in jail.

An inquest will be held this afternoon to be conducted by Justice Gonder, who will impanel the jury.

Officers Make Raid

Local and Federal officers raided Isaac Coulter's place near Swanton Tuesday when they found a large quantity of moonshine in the making, which they destroyed. Coulter saw the officers first and made his escape through the woods.

DISTRICT AND MUNICIPAL ASSESSORS ARE APPOINTED

County Commissioners Name Officials To Place Values on Real and Personal Holdings

At a special meeting of the County Commission held Saturday, district and municipal assessors were appointed to make a general assessment of all real and personal property in the county according to the assessment law which provides for an assessment every five years.

In addition to appointing these officials, the Commissioners awarded a contract for the building of a bridge to span Buffalo Run, near Selbysport, to the Concrete Steel Bridge Company of Clarksburg, West Va. The structure will be 43 feet long with a roadway 14 feet wide. The contract price is $3,600.

Assessors named by the Board are as follows:

District No. 6—M. H. Frankhouser.

District No. 8—Harry Stahl.

District No. 9—Thos. J. Johnson.

District No. 10—J. W. Kimmell.

District No. 12—Perry H. Broadwater.

District No. 13—John A. Wilson.

District No. 14—Chas. F. Glotfelty and J. Alvin Friend.

District No. 15—George B. Brown.

Friendsville—Dr. A. J. Mason and C. W. Friend.

Oakland—John Ault and John S. Gnegy.

Kitzmiller—E. F. Feichtner and E. S. Burns.

These officers will be given their work in a short time.

BOX SOCIAL

Elder Hill School cordially invites you to attend a social Saturday night, May 28th. A string band will furnish the music. Everybody welcome.

DIED.

MRS. FREDERICK A. THAYER.

Yesterday afternoon at four o'clock announcement of the sudden death of Mrs. Margaret Peddicord Thayer, wife of Fred. A. Thayer, Sr., of Oakland, shocked the entire community, her death being caused by a heart attack which she suffered while asleep.

Mrs. Thayer was aged 64 years and was the daughter of the late Thomas J. Peddicord. She was born in Montgomery county, Md., and came to Oakland with her parents when she was quite young. October 1, 1884, she became the wife of Mr. Thayer and to this union four children were born, but one of these died in infancy. The others are Miss Mary Rebecca, professor of English at Wooster, Ohio; Ralph T. and Frederick A. Thayer, of Oakland.

Mrs. Thayer was an exponent of true Christianity. During her lifetime she was a member of St. Paul's M. E. church and gave of her time and talents to the several activities of that denomination.

At this time no definite arrangements have been completed concerning the funeral of the deceased.

MRS CHRISTIE MAE MAXEY.

Word has been received in Oakland of the death of Mrs. Christie Mae Maxey, which occurred at her home in Chico, California on May 12th after an illness of three years of paralysis.

Mrs. Maxey was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fulmer, former residents of Oakland, and was aged 49 years. She was born at McHenry, Garrett county, Maryland, and for a number of years after coming to Oakland with her parents she was employed in the store of J. M. Davis & Son.

Mrs. Maxey is survived by her husband, and by her parents, who reside in Akron, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. A. C. Suddarth, also of Akron, and by one brother, Frederick, of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

Interment of Mrs. Maxey's remains was made at Chico, Calif., on Saturday, May 14th.

76 TO GRADUATE FROM COUNTY HIGHS IN JUNE

Largest Number To Be Graduated From Local Schools in Any One Year.

The present members of the graduating classes of the five high schools of Garrett county who wil be graduated in June upon the dates given below, when the schools close for the year, if the members of the classes meet the requirements still necessary for their graduation, are as follows:

Friendsville High School, June 16.

Grantsville High School, June 16.

Pearl Meek Beachy, Viola Ethel Butler, Ruth Brunelle Emory, Helen Uena Folk, Mildred Anna Opel, Maud Genevieve Pope, Walter Martin Reichenbecher, Velora Virginia Swauger, Paul Conrad Wisseman. Total 9.

Accident High School, June 15.

Oakland High School, June 16.

Mildred Belle Casteel, Doris Helen Colaw, D. McClelland Dixon, Virginia Arlena Dodge, John Mitchell Franklin, Douglas Owen Helbig, Lillian Margaret Holtschneider, Mary Elma Jankey, Lola Reith King, Cecelia Elizabeth Lawton, James Albert Lee, Nellie Virginia Murphy, Corda Ellen Nine, Lucille Evelyn Ours, Thelma Jaunita Ready, Dorothy Mae Sembower, Mildred Ruth VanSickle, Gerald Albert Biggs, Ralph Wayne Blake, Carlton Edward Bowser, Mary Sylvester Faherty, Ruth Vera Fike, Norrene Florence Hostetler, Lona Kight, Pauline Smouse, Myrtle Kathryne White, Beatrice Elberta Willt, G. Harold Yutzy, S. Edmund Butler, Mary Jane Offutt, Melva Irene Smouse, Hazel Maude Nine, Louise Lewis. Total 33.

Kitzmiller High School, June 15.

Vivian Gale Sapp, Lulu Mae Sharpless, Virginia June Barrack, Lillian Magdalene Heck, Virginia Nannette Wilson, Mildred Laudene McKean, Marian Elizabeth Yencensky, Edna Cuppett Lewis, Amy Mildred Sharpless, Louise Browning, Robert Maurice Campbell, Lewis Edward Baldwin. Total 12.

The number of students going out from the five high schools of the county since 1912, when the first class was graduated from the Oakland high school, including those who are slated for graduation this year, totals 549 young men and young women.

A steady increase is noted from 1912 to 1917, when, supposedly, on account of the World War, a decrease in the number of graduates continued until the year 1921, or until conditions among the youth of the county became more settled, from which time an increase of almost 400 per cent is accredited in 1927.

In the year 1913 Friendsville high school graduated its first class consisting of five members. In 1922, Kitzmiller witnessed the first graduation exercises from its high school when eight members of the school went out beyond the limits of the public school system, either to enter higher temples of learning or to face the world with what they had received from their instructors in the public schools of the county. Grantsville and Accident high school were evidently instituted the same year, for in June, 1923, the first classes to be graduated from these institutions held their exercises in their respective school buildings.

FRIENDSVILLE YOUTH BEST ORATOR IN RECENT MEET

Virgil Ryland Wins First Prize At Dawson Declamation Contest Held In Oakland.

Virgil Ryland, member of the graduating class of Friendsville High School, won first place and a valuable award for his school's library last Friday vening at the Walter W. Dawson Declamation Contest held in the Maryland Theatre in Oakland.

Mr. Ryland won first place over four contestants from the remaining high schools of the county, namely: Grantsville, Oakland, Accident and Kitzmiller.

Clark Walker, of Kitzmiller high school won second place in the contest while Kenneth Stahl of Oakland high, was awarded third place by the judges.

The winners of the second and third places, respectively, won for the libraries of their schools nine volumes of a very attractive seventeen volume set of books bearing the title "The Book of Literature," a comprehensive anthology of the best literature extant, treating on ancient, medieval and modern literature, and twelve volumes of a very useful twenty-three volume set of 'The Pocket University." This set of books is composed of a collection of literature representing over four hundred authors and is a valuable adjunct to the Oakland high school library, where it will be placed by the winner.

Mr. Ryland, by winning the contest, makes possible the addition to the Friendsville library ten volumes of a beautiful twenty volume set of "Carpenter's World Travels." The volumes are valuable to the school library and are composed of "familiar talks about countries and peoples."

The theatre on this occasion was well filled by an interested audience. The contest was interspersed with musical numbers which consisted of a Hawaiian guitar solo by Wilmer Brown of the Oakland school; a "Bridget O'Flynn," by Messrs. Moore and Arnold, of the Kitzmiller school, and a piano solo by Miss Alverta Dillon, of the Accident school.

Mr. Walter W. Dawson, who sponsored the contest, which is financed by the First National Bank of Oakland, of which Mr. Dawson is the cashier, presided during the evening.

The entire audience seemed well pleased with the decision of the three judges, who were Mr. R. F. Myers, superintendent of schools, Tunnelton, West Va.; Mr. R. E. King, principal of the Kingwood (West Va.) grammar school, and Rev. Dr. M. O. Magnuson, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Kingwood, West Va.

The winners were proclaimed by the judges for their stage appearance, which counted ten points; interpretation, maximum 50 points; memory, maximum 20 points, and pronunciation and enunciation, which had a maximum count of 20 points.

The young men representing the Accident and Grantsville high schools were Clyde Miller and Edward Miller, respectively.

Oakland High School News

Junior-Senior Prom.

The Junior Class of the Oakland High School is entertaining the Senior Class at a dance to be held in the school auditorium on Friday, May 27, 1927, at 8:30 o'clock. The hall will be decorated in blue and silver, the Senior colors, and the music will be furnished by the Oakland Orchestra. Parents and friends will be invited to act as chaperones.

Typewriting Contest.

At the invitation of Mr. C. L. Kapp, Principal of the Allegany High School, Cumberland, Md., the Oakland High School is entering one contestant in the preliminary of the International Contest, which is to be held in New York, in October. Miss Myrtle Kight of the Junior Class is representing Oakland High in the elimination contest held Saturday, May 28, at Alleghany High School, Cumberland, Maryland.

The many friends of County Agent J. L. McGlone will regret to learn of an attack of la grippe which he has been trying to overcome for a week or more. Mr. McGlone has made an effort to work with his farmer friends since contracting the disease, but after on hour or two at his office, or making a short trip into the country is compelled to return to his rooms at the William-James Hotel and remain there for the remainder of the day.

THE HOPELESS CHEST

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

HER heart had danced all day to a tune on her lips—a love tune, old-fashioned perhaps, but enchantingly coupled with the words which ran through her mind endlessly although she did not quite dare utter them. Aunt Jannvice scowled upon love, scowled upon Jean, who was at that moment love's very expression, scowled upon the little chest into which Jean had dropped a bit of carefully accomplished needlework. "Hope chest, indeed! 'Hopeless chest,' I call it," sneered Aunt Jannvice.

Therefore, Jean had not dared tell the old woman that Hugh Hartley had said to her that morning over the telephone:

"Oh, Jean! By the way, Jean! Are you going to be home this evening? If you are I'd like to run over. I've something to tell you."

Something to tell her! Of course, she knew what that was. He was going to ask her to marry him. As if she had not had "Yes" all ready and waiting for him this long time! She laughed at the idea. Dear Hugh! Dear, wonderful Hugh!

No wonder she was happy. No wonder her heart danced and her lips sang, no wonder her eyes were full of tender dreams. A long, long day it had been, though so joyful, but now at least it was done and he would be here in twenty minutes.

She had dressed in her prettiest frock of gold-colored cotton, which made her hair look like black satin and her eyes like pools into which June stars dipped. As she stood before her mirror she thought with intense gratitude and humble hope of the future. To love and be loved, she who had known no love in all her life, for Aunt Jannvice had only taken her out of duty when her parents left her alone and unprovided for, and had no feeling for her other than that duty engendered. It was true she had tried to return every kindness Aunt Jannvice had given her, and for several years now her earnings had been shared with the old woman. It was at the office she had met Hugh and she had begun to love him at once. But it had taken a whole year for him to love her, though that did not matter now. To have her own home—and Hugh. Suddenly she swung away from the mirror and dropping on her knees before the hope chest lifted the lid. All the little fine things she had accumulated in that year lay there breathing forth a scent of violet as of a promise. She caught up a knit dishcloth and pressed it to her lips. Then she closed the lid, arose and ran downstairs and out upon the veranda.

There was moonlight and the rambler rose was a mass of scarlet bloom. Roses and moonlight—and love! Perfection! She sighed and sat down upon the step to wait for her lover.

The street was very still and very bright. She began to hum again that old love tune and then she saw him coming. Her heart burned and she put her hand to her breast.

He was coming quickly with that brisk, sure step of his. She could see him, tall, in the moonlight. When he reached the lilac bush he cut across the tiny grass plot and came to her.

"Oh! Here you are," he said.

"Yes. Here I am," she replied.

He sat down beside her and, taking off his hat, smoothed back his blond hair.

"Peach of a night," he murmured. Then he looked at her. "Isn't it, Jean, huh?"

"Wonderful," she murmured.

Hugh drew a long breath and they sat in silence while the roses breathed perfume and the moonlight and the stillness wove their charm.

"What do you suppose I've come to tell you?" Hugh asked.

"Why—" Then she said the most ridiculous thing she could think of, laughing a little as she spoke. "You are going away!"

"That's it."

The icy blast seemed to strike Jean. She shivered, tried to speak and failed.

"I'm going away tomorrow," Hugh went on. "I'm not kicked out, I'm just leaving. That's what I came over to tell you tonight. I thought you'd take as much interest as anybody."

She was congealing into a motionless, numb thing.

"I'm going to New York," Hugh said. "I know a fellow there. You see, Jenn, they don't pay a man in this office and there is no chance to rise. Seniority rights, you know. Why, I'd have to wait until I was the age of old Culberson before I—I—" Hugh paused, knotting his hands and staring into the moonlit street.

"I don't blame you. I wouldn't stay if I were you," she said feebly.

Later, hours later, she lay awake, her tears exhausted, in a daze of misery, while the moonlight lay in a broad bar of silver on the worn carpet and the roses sent their sweetness in over the sill of her open window. Tomorrow he was going away. Tomorrow she must go on with her work just as if—as if there were no such things as broken hearts and hopeless chests—

The poor little hopeless chest! If its contents had not been so imbued with memory, so sacredly inviolable, she might have sent them flaming up in one wretched linen holocaust. As it was she turned the key and one morning as she went to work she paused and dropped the key into the stream. Almost she wished she could follow it.

Aunt Jannvice said all sorts of things.

"So that Hartley fellow's gone away, eh? Well, I guess you can live without him. I never thought he seemed very much in earnest. You want to look out for a man whose eyebrows come close together that way. Inconstant, that's what it means. Come here from land knows where, stays a year and then away he goes again. I knew all the time you were filling that chest, that you'd never need it on his account, anyway. Maybe after a while, of course, some other fellow will happen by."

Jean, suffering, kept silence. But she drooped and into her eyes came a haunting sadness. Aunt Jannvice said she looked as if she had the "pip."

Then one rainy evening as she sat trying to read—she could no longer do stitchery, poor child—while Aunt Jannvice dozed behind a pretense of scanning the evening paper, there came a snatch at the doorbell. Aunt Jannvice went and came back with a letter—special delivery.

"Who's it from?" the old woman asked.

That was what Jean was wondering. She tore it open and saw his name!

"Hugh's got the best job ever was and he wants me to marry him; he wants to come back and be married right away. He wanted to ask me before he went away, but he wasn't sure and he didn't earn enough here to get married on—oh, Aunt Jannvice!" She flung her arms about the old woman's unwilling form and kissed her.

Ten minutes later Jean was running through the rain to the post office to get there before it closed. She had written a letter, the merest scribble—"I'm so glad. Come. I love you. I'm ready."

The hopeless chest had changed its name at last.

Ingenious Scheme to End Visits From Bore

A laughable story is ascribed to the artist and wit, Oliver Herford, by his associate, Edward Simmons, the painter, as recalled by a writer in the Kansas City Star. One day while Simmons was enjoying an agreeable call at Herford's studio their conversation was interrupted by a peculiar knocking at the door—three loud peremptory knocks at intervals of a second or two and then two more in quick succession.

Herford at once put his finger on his lip and motioned to his caller to be perfectly quiet. Neither man spoke or stirred while the curious knock was repeated. Then they heard the retreating footsteps of the knocker passing down the hall.

Then Herford relaxed his attitude of silent tension and smiled.

"That was Blank," he said, "a thoroughly good and well-meaning fellow, but a most frightful bore. I've stood all the calls from him I could. So I told him that I have given special knocks to all my intimate friends, in order that I might know when they called and let them in at times when I should be unwilling to be disturbed by less congenial callers. Blank was saying only the other night that I must have been out a good deal lately. He hasn't got in to see me since I assigned him his knock!"

British Captain Kind to Captive Americans

Running the blockade between Baltimore and the Maryland eastern shore was an exciting undertaking while the British fleet was in the bay in the War of 1812. On one occasion the packet Messenger, bound for Baltimore, tried to get through and was challenged by the man of war Dragon, mounting 74 guns. On board the Messenger were numerous women and children, but the British officers assured them they need feel no alarm, and to prove it invited them to a banquet on board the Dragon. Captain Barrie of the Dragon was particularly kind to Mrs. Edith Dawson and her two children. Noting that one of the little girls was eating with a pewter spoon, the captain ordered a silver spoon taken from his own locker and presented to the child as a souvenir of the occasion. This spoon is now an heirloom in that child's family.—Baltimore Sun.

Cat Foiled Burglars

That a cat may guard a home from thieves as well as from mice was proved at Oconto, Wis., recently when Pat, a twenty-pound feline, frustrated the attempts of two robbers in the home of his mistress, Mrs. Helen McClelland. The cat, startled by the entrance of the men, rushed to the bedroom where Mrs. McClelland slept and awakened her by jumping on the bed. She investigated the cause of the feline's agitation and heard the intruders making their escape.—Indianapolis News.

Patriotic Utterance

The expression, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute," was used by Charles Pinckney, an American statesman, who was minister to France in 1796. The occasion for this utterance was the request for a gift of money on the part of the French.

Black Not Always an Emblem of Mourning

The widow's mourning cap dates back to the days of ancient Egypt. Egyptian men shaved the beard and the head as a token of mourning. The women, instead of cutting off the hair, concealed it with a close cap. The Romans, who were as a race clean shaven, shaved the head in mourning and wore a wig.

The black band on the sleeve, as a sign of mourning, comes from the days of chivalry. The lady tied a scarf or napkin, as the handkerchief was called, about the arm of her knight. If he was killed in battle she wore the band in memory of him.

Black has so long been the color of grief in Anglo-Saxon countries that it seems a part of the upside-down civilization of the East that Japan and China wear white. But no longer ago than the time of Elizabeth the unfortunate Mary of Scotland wore white on the death of Darnley. Even now the hearse used for children is white, and in England the mourners at funerals of young unmarried persons wear hatbands and sashes of white.

Don't Shoot

Murder with a knife has somewhat gone out, because marks and fingerprints left on the knife are apt to betray the killer. But a short time ago, no one would have thought that a bullet could identify the man who sent it from his gun. Now, science is able to distinguish the scratches and grooves on fatal bullets, and determine from what revolver they were fired, for it seems that each weapon has distinctive marks in the bore of its barrel. When every other trace has been removed, the murderer is still in danger of detection, says the Scientific American, if the criminal has been careless enough to leave a bullet in his victim's body.

Couldn't Help

Coming into the living room one day, Mrs. Noble Smith found her small niece standing by a table and studying with a rather troubled countenance the page of a health magazine, out of which she had unfolded a good-sized picture of a skeleton. So intent was she that she did not notice her aunt until she said: "What's the matter, dear?"—for the child looked so worried.

"Aunt Florence," she said, drawing a long sigh as though she gave up trying to understand it, "here's a man God didn't finish!" — Los Angeles Times.

Then the Flood

Mrs. Rastus (interrupting her neighbor's meal)—Lor' bless you, chile. Kin you be strong and bear up whilst Ah tell you some pow'ful bad news 'bout yo' husband's accident?

Mrs. Sambo—Now what's dat niggah gone an' done? Effen dat no 'count shiftless, scum of humanity is gone an' got hisself killed you jes wait ontwell 'Ah gets dis heah po'k chop finished an' Ah'll sho' you some wailin'.—Capper's Weekly.

Taking Pains

"It isn't too easy," he explained to a friend. "I've to take a lot of trouble to get the shot just right."

With that he put down another ball and addressed it carefully. There was a crash, and the dining-room window was wrecked.

"You took considerable pains with that one," remarked the friend.

His Philosophy

"How dare you throw stones at my little dog?" shrieked the ancient spinster to a coal man.

"The brute bit me, that's why."

"How many times?" inquired the owner, fondling her pet.

"Once, and that's enough, ain't it?"

"Yes—but I saw you throw at him twice, you ruffian," said the woman.

"Ah," grinned the coal man, "once bitten, twice shy, you know."

ANYWHERE TO ANYWHERE—BY TELEPHONE

A COAL COMPANY recently learned that two firms in Milwaukee were in the market for a large tonnage. Instantly it dispatched one of its best men to the Wisconsin city, equipped with favorable prices and terms.

But while their representative sped westward in a fast train, a competitor in Charleston, W. Va., learned of the situation. Immediately he called the two Milwaukee firms by long distance telephone and sold 466 carloads of coal! When the salesman for the first concern arrived the order was lost

The long distance telephone has become the right-hand man of modern business. In tracing shipments, in checking overdue accounts, in building better customer relations, and in direct selling, the magic of voice-to-voice communication is showing direct results on the business balance sheet.

THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1927

MEMORIAL DAY

The Memorial season is approaching. The day is at hand when the thoughtful people of the country will stop to pay homage to the departed heroes who fought in the various wars of the republic. The day will be made occasion for appropriate exercises, for the decoration of the graves of the soldiers of the republic and of other dear ones who have departed from life.

The observance of Memorial Day at the end of May became general after the great Civil War. It has been the custom of America to hallow the graves of its soldiers. This is especially appropriate because our wars have been fought for the extension of human liberty and human rights.

The veterans of the Civil War rendered a double service to their country. They saved the nation from dismemberment, a dismemberment which would have proved fatal to North and South alike. And then, through their organization, when the war was over they consistently fought in the public arena the battles of patriotism and national life.

The veterans of the Civil War are rapidly passing away, and within a few years there will be left of them only a hallowed memory. This is according to the natural law of the universe, a law from which there is no appeal.

But the work of educating the youth of the land in the doctrine of Americanism must go on. Fortunately it will go on. The seed planted by the vetrans of by-gone days has borne fruit. Today there are younger organizations filled with the spirit of patriotism taking up the work of those who have gone from us. The great body of the American people is still soundly patriotic. International-ism, pacifism and communism are active but they cannot prevail so long as our people remember the lessons of the patriots who have gone on before us.

Grantsville, Md., May 25, 1927.—On Sunday evening, May 15th, a most dastardly attempt at murder took place at the William Haning farm, about two miles northwest of Springs, Pa., when Paul, aged 17, third son of Mr. and Mrs. William Haning, came very near being shot to death by an unknown miscreant who was found ransacking the barn at the Haning farm. All but two members of the Haning family attended church services at Springs and upon returning home about 9:30 Mr. Hanning and the the other occupants of the car alighted and went to the house, while Paul drove the car into the storm shed. Before leaving the barn, after having stopped the motor and switched off the lights, he heard an unusual noise in the farther end of the building. Going to the feeding room door where he thought the noise had been, he opened the door and stepped inside. As he did this, a shot was fired which knocked the hat off his head. He immediately fled and another shot was fired after him, the bullet going through a leg of his trousers near the ankle. The young man rushed to the house and reported the matter to his father. The family immediately notified the nearest neighbor by telephone and a number of men in the vicinity responded by hastening to the Haning home to investigate. It was found that the first shot fired, which knocked the young man's hat off his head, would have had deadly effect if it had been aimed an inch or two lower. The bullet entered the left side of his hat just above the band and went out through the opposite side, just a trifle higher than it entered. The bullet tore a hole through the feeding room door, which had been swung open as Paul entered, tearing a splinter off the outside of the door as it passed through. The side of the hat where the bullet entered was scorched with burnt powder, indicating that the shot was fired at very close range. It is believed a 38-calibre revolver was used by the would-be assassin. The investigators did not find anything except some tracks which showed that the desperado left by the upper floor and around the upper side of the barn to the road leading to the S. J. Davis farm. There he took to the sod and could not be tracked any farther. Constable Swartzweider, of Salisbury, was called for but had gone to Somerset with a prisoner and did not make an investigation until Monday morning, when he could get no clue. The supposition is that the prowler entered the upper part of the barn while the Hanings were away to steal grain and other property. The door to the threshing floor and the granary were found open after he had made his escape. While ransacking the barn, he was alarmed by the return of the family from church. He evidently supposed that the driver of the car was going to put the machine on the barn floor and went to the feeding room below, hoping to escape-but the feeding room door was fastened from the outside, preventing his escape in the direction and probably in moving around in the dark stumbled over something, causing the noise which attracted the young man's attention and which brought the two in such close contact. Mr. Haning reports nothing missing and no harm done to any property.

On May 14th Noah Newman died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. W. Westfall, on his farm which Mr. and Mrs. Westfall rented, near the State line about three miles South of Salisbury. Mr. Newman had his home in Salisbury for a number of years, having been compelled to retire from the farm because of physical disabilities. There he conducted a small grocery for several years—so long as his health would permit. A few days before his death he went to his daughter's home to spend some time with her, and though not well, his condition was not considered serious. About 4 a. m. Mrs. Westfall was in his room and left him in a comfortable state, so she thought. At seven she again went to his room and found him dead, lying just as she had left him. He was aged 66 years. The funeral was held from his home on South Grant street, Rev. E. D. Bright, his pastor, officiating; burial in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. He was a charter member of the State Lodge No. 409, Knights of Pythias. His lodge brethren officiated at the burial, the pallbearers all being members of the K. of P. fraternity. He is survived by two children, H. Clay Newman, a traveling salesman, and Mrs. C. W. Westfall. His wife died several years ago.

A very well attended and most interesting meeting was held on Thursday evening last week at the New Germany school, of which Mr. Walter Alexander is the teacher. The occasion was the final meeting of the school year of the Parent-Teacher Association. Following the business session, which was presided over by the President, Mrs. Samuel Otto, Miss Bannatyne, the Grade Supervisor, spoke on morals as taught in the schools, followed by George Diefenbach on the value of a Parent-Teacher Association. Mr. C. J. Otto told in a most interesting manner about the school rooms of seventy years ago. Then the pupils gave a number of recitations, dialogues and plays, the principal ones being "Teaching Young Folks," "Bridget's Mistake," Harry's Pockets," and "The Darkey Wood Dealer." A social session closed the meeting at which the patrons of the school served sandwiches, cake, salads, tea and coffee.

A social was held at the Negro Mountain school last Friday evening, of which Miss Margaret Manley is teacher. It was well attended and the sum of $31 was realized for school improvements. The pupils gave an entertainment and all enjoyed the evening. There was a large attendance.

A Rural Schools Declamation Contest for the Grantsville Unit will be held on Friday evening, June 10th, in the Methodist Church, here as announced by Miss Kate Bannatyne, the Grade Supervisor for this unit. It is expected that a fine showing will be made by the various schools. The work was good last year and there are more entrants for the second contest.

Prof. Alvin J. Miller, a son of Mrs. J. J. Miller, who was engaged in relief work in Europe since 1919, most of the time in Russia, where he was in charge of American and Holland Mennonite Relief, returned home last week, spending some time here. He left for a short business trip to New York the latter part of the week. His plans for the future are as yet indefinite. Before going to Europe, Mr. Miller was engaged in educational work at Kent, Ohio.

Carl, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hutzel, is again at the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, for an operation on account of blood poisoning. This is his fourth operation because of the infection he received late in the winter, and which resulted in this dread disease. His first operation was at a hospital in Meyersdale because of the disease in his face; the second was in the Western Maryland on his side where he was attacked next; the third and fourth operations, also performed at Western Maryland, were on his hip joint and wrist. His condition is favorable for recovery.

The Reformed Sunday School at New Germany was re-organized on May 15th, electing the following officers: C. J. Otto, superintendent; Asa Fresh, assistant superintendent; Miss Alberta Broadwater, secretary; William Warnick, treasurer; Orville Stark, superintendent Home Department; Mrs. Rella Fresh, superintendent Cradle Roll. This makes 54 years in succession that Mr. Otto has been elected superintendent—a record, equaled hy few.

The Woman's Community Club will be entertained on Thursday night of this week hy the Friendsville Cluh at Friendsville. Quite a large number of the ladies are planning to make the trip.

Thieves stole 50 chickens and a choice rooster from Mr. J. A. Beachy's flock one night last week. Several weeks ago Mr. Henry Patton was also relieved of a number of his chickens by an unknown party. Judging from the large amount of property lost in this community to thieves, it's about time for the farmer to take steps for self protection and to teach the thief that there is another way to make a living.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harley McKenzie one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stanton are the proud parents of a son, born May 7.

A son was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins, East Market street, Akron, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins are both natives of this community, she being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fresh, formerly of New Germany, and now living in Frostburg.

Mr. C. J. Otto accompanied his pastor, Rev. E. D. Bright, of Salisbury, to Classis last week, which met in Berlin, Pa.

Mr. E. A. Beachy and his pastor, Rev. S. D. Sigler, are attending Synod, which meets at Luthersburg, Pa., this week.

Austin Broadwater and family, of Salisbury; Forest Simpson and Marshall Broadwater, of Cumberland, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edwards.

William Johnson and family, of Oakland, visited their parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson, on Sunday.

Mrs. Lillie Younkin is spending a few days in Meyersdale this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Price, of Everett, Pa., were week-end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kinsinger.

Mrs. Bruce Bowser, a sister of Mrs. Charles Zehner and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cramer, of Listonburg, Pa., has returned home from the Cresson, Pa. sanatorium, not much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welby, of New York, spent several weeks here with Mrs. Welby's mother, Mrs. Sophia Bowser; upon their return Mrs. Welby's sisters, Mrs. William Deitle, Mrs. Harvey Deitle and Mrs. C. Lee Beachy, accompanied them, where they will visit for several weeks.

Lloyd and Anabel Bowser were Cumberland visitors last Thursday.

Yesterday morning another convenience was given our community by the establishment and operation of the Interstate Bus Line, which is operated between Meyersdale, Pa., and Cumberland, by way of the National Pike and Transylvania Trail. The owners are H. E. Wolford, of Frostburg, Md., and S. W. Reed, of Uniontown, Pa. Old Trails Inn has been designated as a station and waiting room where the bus may be taken for either Meyersdale and points North in Pennsylvania or for Cumberland. Hours of departure for Meyersdale are 7:56 and 11:26 a. m., and 2:46 and 7:26 p. m.; for Cumberland 8:54 a. m., and 1:15, 4:44 and 8:39 p. m.

An all-day picnic and dance is being planned at Avilton for Memorial Day. This affair will be held under the auspices of St. Anne's Catholic church and the proceeds will be applied to the Avilton road fund. A feature will be a baby contest at 2 p. m., after which there will be dancing and an old-fashioned picnic dinner served.

A very enjoyable party was given tnrecently by Miss Velora Swauger at Old Trails Inn, the occasion being her 18th birthday. Dancing was the chief amusement of the evening. There were about thirty guests present.

Rozella Hanft, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanft, had a birthday party recently. Her guests were Ruth and Eleanor Younkin, Anna and Grace Folk, Mary Bevans, Anna Miller, Margaret and Reta Blocher, Pauline Glotfelty, Betty, Luceille, Pauline and Harline Patton, Betty Meager, Florence Davis, Alma and Edith Bittinger, Mildred Paul, Rhoda Shumaker, Grace Swauger and Mary Helen Gnagey. Needless to say, the youngsters enjoyed the affair very much.

Much interest has been displayed by the general public in the flight and safe arrival of Captain Charles A. Lindhergh's non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Missess Mary Dorsey, Tena Winterberg and Ethel Broadwater, Mrs. Annie E. Getty, Mrs. C. A. Bender, and Mrs. Wilda Fahey attended a meeting of the Federated Woman's Clubs of Allegeny county in Cumberland last Thursday. The sessions were held in the Boulevard Hotel.

Women Don't Need Special Service

In most cases they are equally as capable as men when it comes to handling money efficiently. But women do like to transact their banking affairs with an institution which has made special provisions for their comfort and convenience.

Complete facilities have been provided at Garrett National for women who like to transact banking business under modern and pleasant conditions.

Lesson for May 29

PETER UNDAUNTED BY PERSECUTION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 5:17-42.
GOLDEN TEXT—We ought to obey God rather than men.—Acts 5.29.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Shows His Courage.
JUNIOR TOPIC — Peter Speaks Bravely for His Lord.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Standing Firm Under Persecution.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of Courage.

The vindication of the house of God against the hypocritical act of Ananias and Sapphira had a salutary effect upon the people. The hypocrites were deterred from joining the church, but true-hearted men and women were all the more attracted to it, even identifying themselves with it. So great was the stir in Jerusalem that even the sick folk were brought where but the shadow of Peter might fall upon them.

I. The Apostles in Prison (vv. 17-18).

The marvelous success which accompanied the teaching of the apostles was too much for the Sadducees to endure. Their jealous wrath was aroused to such an extent that they laid the cruel hand of persecution upon these witnesses for Christ. Cain was jealous of Abel; Joseph's brethren sold him in slavery because he was the favorite of Jacob. Saul was jealous of David when the women ascribed greater glory to him.

II. The Apostles' Miraculous Deliverance (vv. 19-21).

1. The Lord sent an angel to open the prison and let the prisoners free (v. 19).

There are no doors, nor bolts capable of shutting out God's angel.

2. They were commanded to go at once and speak to the people. (v. 20).

The message they were to deliver was the "Words of this life." Most likely this means eternal life through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

3. Their prompt obedience (v. 21).

By daybreak they were teaching in the temple.

III. The Apostles Tried (vv. 21-32).

1. The meeting of the council (v.21).

In the early morning the Jewish council was convened by the high-priest.

2. Their perplexity (vv. 22-24).

The officer was sent to bring the prisoners, but lo, when they came to the jail it was empty. This news greatly perplexed the council.

3. The apostles again arrested (vv. 25, 26).

When one came with the news that the apostles were teaching in the temple, officers were dispatched to bring them before the council. They refrained from the use of violence because they feared the people.

4. The apostles questioned (vv. 27, 28).

The council demanded of them the reason for not heeding the charge which they had previously given that they should not teach any more in the name of Jesus. This persistent testimony the officers interpreted as an effort to bring the guilt of Jesus' blood upon themselves.

5. The apostle's answer.

Peter boldly replied that they were under obligation to obey God rather than men. He further told them that they were guilty of the murder of Jesus Christ and that God had raised Jesus from the dead and exalted Him to be a Prince and a Savior to give repentance and remission of sins to Israel, and also that He had made the apostles, with the Holy Spirit, witnesses of these things.

IV. The Result (vv. 33-42).

1. They determined to kill the apostles (v. 33).

Peter's stinging words cut to the quick, but their desperate wickedness filled them with murderous hatred instead of moving them to repentance. They could not answer the message, so the only way was to kill their accusers.

2. Gamaliel's counsel (vv. 34-39).

He advised neutrality, assuring them that if it be a work of men it would come to nought, but if it be of God they could not overthrow it because they would be engaged in the hopeless task of fighting against God.

3. The apostles beaten (v. 40).

While heeding Gamaliel's advice, they vented their rage by beating the apostles and charging them not to speak in Christ's name.

4. The behavior of the apostles (vv. 41,42).

They departed with hearts full of joy that they were counted worthy to suffer for the name of Christ. They continued to preach Jesus Christ in public and in private.

An Undivided Heart

An undivided heart which worships God alone, and trusts Him as it should, is raised above all anxiety for earthly wants.

Salvation

Salvation has cost too much for God to give it to a person, when he is not hungry for it.—Echoes.

The Lie

TREASURER'S TAX SALES

—OF—

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

IN GARRETT COUNTY, MD.

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and the several amendments thereto, the undersigned Treasurer of said County will, on at the hour of ten o'clock a. m., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all of the following described pieces and parcels of land, situate, lying and being in Garrett County aforesaid, to-wit:

No. 1—All those lots of ground situate, lying and being in Election District No. 14 of Garrett county and which on the plat of the subdivision of the tract of land called "The Bradley Farm" are known and designated as Lots Nos. 1 and 72, and which lots are fully described in a deed therefor dated March 21, 1917, and recorded in Liber E. Galvin, Nancy Carey, Mame Jorden and Clarence Jorden, her husband; Myrtle Gross and Charles Gross, her husband; Lucele Campbell and Edward Campbell, her husband; Kathleen Shoemaker and Leland Shoemaker, her husbnad; James F. Keedy and Elizabeth Keedy, his wife; Daniel McMahon, Joseph M. McMahon, Leona McMahon, his wife, Rose Ella Wagner, and Wm. B. Wagner, her husband; Mary Jane McMahon, James P. McMahon, Henrietta McMahon, Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, and John Keedy, heirs at law of the said Thomas A. Carey, defendants.

No. 2756 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situate in Garrett county, Maryland, of which Thomas A. Carey died seized and possessed, and to subject the same to the payment of his debts due the plaintiffs and his other creditors, the personal property being insufficient to pay said debts in full, and for an account taken under direction of the Court.

The Bill states: That the said Thomas A. Carey was, in his lifetime, indebted unto the said Rose A. Galvin in the full and just sum of $31.00 on an open account for taxes paid him, a statement thereof is filed and marked Exhibit A, and indebted unto the plaintiff, the said Annie R. Connelly in the sum of $324.00 with interest thereon from April 19, 1926, and costs $7.00 on judgment in the Circuit Court for Garrett county, a copy thereof is filed as a part of this bill and marked Exhibit B; and is also indebted unto the plaintiffs, the said Rose A. Galvin, on judgment, being No. 43 Trials June Term 1922, in Circuit Court for Garrett county, in the sum of $1665.00 with interest thereon from June 17, 1922, and costs $7.00, a certified copy thereof is filed and made a part of this bill, and marked Exhibit C.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, being so indebted as aforesaid, unto the plaintiffs and also unto divers other persons, and having real and personal estate, departed this life on or about the 6th day of October, 1926, intestate, and leaving no widow, but leaving the following heirs at law surviving him, namely, Edward J. Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Annie Carey, both adults and resides in the State of Illinois; James Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Ada Carey, and both of whom are adults and resides in said Garrett county; Rachel Carey, a sister, and an adult and resides in said Garrett county; Rose A. Galvin, a sister, who resides in the State of Pennsylvania; Nancy Carey, a widow of Jacob Carey, a deceased brother, and the following children of the said Jacob Carey, deceased, namely: Mame Jorden, who intermarried with Clarence Jorden, residing in the State of West Virginia, Myrtle Gross, who intermarried with Charles Gross, Lucele Campbell who intermarried with Edward Campbell, all of the State of Virginia; Kathleen Shoemaker who intermarried with Leland Shoemaker, and both of the State of West Virginia, and all nieces of the said Thomas A Carey and daughters of the said Jacob Carey, a deceased brother of said Thomas A. Carey; James F. Keedy, a nephew of said Thomas Carey and a son of Mary J. Carey, a deceased sister, who intermarried with Elizabeth Keedy and resides in the State of West Virginia; and the following children of Lydia McMahon, a deceased sister of the said Thomas A. Carey, and nephews and nieces of the said Thomas A Carey, namely: Daniel P. McMahon, Joseph McMahon, who married Leona McMahon, and all reside in the State of Pennsylvania; Rose Ella Wagner, who married William B. Wagner, who both reside in State of Pennsylvania; Mary Jane McMahon residing in Garrett county; James P. McMahon, who married Henrietta McMahon and reside in State of Michigan; Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, all of Garrett county, and John Keedy, husband of Mary Carey, deceased, whose residence is unknown, but is a non-resident of this State. All of said Defendants are adults.

That administration of all and singular the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey has been granted by the Orphans' Court for Garrett county to one Hugh Carey McMahon of said county, who by virtue thereof has possessed himself of the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey and has sold the same; a copy of said letters of administration granted on said estate of said Thomas A. Carey, filed as a part hereof, marked "Exhibit D."

That the plaintiffs are informed and aver that said personal estate is not sufficient to discharge all the just debts due and owing by said intestate, Thomas A. Carey, at the time of his death, but they are advised the same, now in the hands of the said Hugh Carey McMahon ought to be applied to the payment of the claims of the plaintiffs and other creditors of the said Thomas A. Carey, so far as the sum will extend; and that any deficiency in said personal estate ought to be supplied by a sale of all, or such part as may be necessary, of the real estate of the aforesaid debtor.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, was at the time of his death, seized and possessed of a parcel of land situate in said Garrett county, and known as Military Lot No. 598, containing 50 acres, and also of an undivided one-third interest in and to Military lots Nos. 653, 657 and part of Lot No 655 containing ten acres on South side of said lot from a division line running East and West, and a part of Lot No. 654 being the land lying between Lot No. 657 on South and the land of James Carey on the North side, the said interest being the same which was devised to said Thomas Carey by last will and testament of Daniel Carey, probated and recorded in Orphans' Court for Garrett county.

The Bill prays:

That an account may be taken under direction of this Court of the said debts so as aforesaid due to the plaintiffs and all other debts which were owing by said intestate at the time of his death, and which still remain unpaid; and also of the personal estate and effects of the said intestate received by or for the use of the said administrator aforesaid.

That the said personal estate may be applied, in due course of administration, in payment of the debts of the said intestate due the plaintiffs and all other creditors who may come in and contribute to the expenses of this suit.

That the said real estate of the said Thomas A. Carey, deceased, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose may be sold for the payment of so much of the aforesaid debts as may remain unsatisfied by the application of the personal estate as aforesaid, and for general relief, writ of subpoena against resident defendants, and order of publication against non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon this 23rd day of May, 1927, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of June, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, and warning them to appear in this court either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Fool Friends Scored by Great Naturalist

Luther Burbank preferred his garden experiments to business ventures, but the activities of his friends succeeded in embroiling him in business relations with various people for more than twenty years. His business ventures not only turned out badly, but they took considerable time from his creative work.

"I do not believe any of the men who tried to exploit or subsidize me or my work had base motives," he wrote in the Saturday Evening Post. "On the contrary, most of them were actuated by a desire to increase my usefulness and to widen the scope of my experiments and to broadcast the results over a greater area.

"I would rather have five energetic and competent enemies than one fool friend; now and again my friends have led me astray, and it has cost me a lot of money, a world of trouble and a multitude of worries before I got back on the main track again."

Chevrolet is the only car in its price class offering bodies by Fisher—built as only Fisher can build, and styled as low-priced cars were never styled before!

Bodies by Fisher are everywhere acknowledged to represent the highest order of beauty, luxury, and safety—and never was the superiority of Fisher craftsmanship more evident than in the Most Beautiful Chevrolet.

Despite the lowness of Chevrolet prices, there is not the slightest compromise in design, construction or finish. All embody exactly the principles employed on the highest priced cars—a composite construction of selected hardwood and steel. All are finished in beautiful colors of lustrous, lasting Duco.

Enhancing the beauty of the bodies themselves are numerous features of distinction previously considered exclusive to the costliest cars—features typified by heavy full-crown, one-piece fenders and bullet-type headlamps.

Only the economies of Chevrolet's great volume production make possible such quality at Chevrolet prices—value so outstanding that comparisons cease to exist. Ask for a demonstration!

MARYLAND RURAL WOMEN'S SHORT COURSE

Will be Held at University of Maryland June 13-18th

The University of Maryland Extension Service extends a cordial invitation to the rural women of Maryland to come to College Park June 13 to 18, for the fifth annual Rural Women's Short Course and to share the instruction, the social life and the inspiration of the program that has been arranged by the Home Demonstration Department.

The purpose of this course is to give help to the rural homemakers of Maryland through lectures and demonstrations in the art of homemaking. Equally important will be another side of this Short Course—the opportunity for rural women from every section of Maryland to exchange ideas and experiences with each other. That in itself will be greatly worth while. But in addition to this, the week will give emphasis to the social side of community life. There will be a daily period of community singing, inspirational lectures and social activities.

Courses will be given in Foods and Nutrition, Clothing, Household Management, House Furnishings, Millinery, Landscape Gardening, Home Dairying, Poultry, Health, Parliamentary Law and Citizenship. In addition to this the social plans for the week are especially attractive.

Social Events.

June 13, 7:30 to 9 p. m., Informal Reception Gymnasium.

June 14, 8 p. m., Reception to Rural Women, Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Pearson.

June 15, 3:30 to 5:30 p. m., Tea at Gerneaux Hall by Home Economics Department of the University.

June 16, 3:30 to 5 p. m., Party by Progress Club of College Park.

June 17, 1 p. m., Sightseeing trip to Washington, and picnic.

All expenses for the week at College Park are covered by the $6.00 enrollment fee. Last year twenty women from Garrett county attended the Short Course. This year the goal has been set for twenty-five. Will there be that number?

Events of a Local Character.

The Friendsville Community Club has invited the Grantsville and Accident Community Clubs to spend a social evening with them on Thursday, May 26th. An interesting program has been planned which includes music by the Friendsville High School Orchestra, two short plays and a talk by Miss Maude Bean, County Home Demonstration Agent of Allegany county.

On Wednesday afternoon, June 8, Professor C. S. Richardson, Educational Extension Specialist, from the University of Maryland will address a meeting of the community clubs at the Maryland Theatre. Professor Richardson is a speaker of some note and the committee in charge feels especially favored in securing him for this meeting. His subject, "Education for Citizenship," will be of special interest. Oakland and Loch Lynn Community Clubs are in charge of this meeting, but extend a cordial invitation to all women of Garrett county to attend on June 8th.

Mrs. Renninger was also in receipt of the following letter from National Headquarters of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. J. C. Renninger, Treasurer,
Garrett County Chapter,
American National Red Cross,
Oakland, Md.

My dear Mrs. Renninger,

I am enclosing receipt No. 74143 in the amount of $400.00, the first payment from your chapter on its Mississippi flood relief quota. Will you express to the people of your county our appreciation for the splendid effort which they are making to raise the quota for the Mississippi flood sufferers.

As you doubtless know, we now have approximately 300,000 refugees under care, of whom approximately 150,000 are in some eighty-four refugee camps. The number of refugees in the lower Mississippi Valley is constantly increasing as there are more breaks in the levees and these people must receive not only temporary care, hut assistance over a long period of time, as they will not be able to raise any crops this year. For this reason, we are urging our chapters to make every effort possible to obtain the full amount of their quota as we shall need every cent that we can raise to take care of this added burden. We appreciate your cooperation. Very sincerely yours,

J. ARTHUR JEFFERS,
Assistant to vice-chairman.

BITTINGER.

Last Sunday was the most thoroughly enjoyable day of the season in this section. With the mercury hovering between eighty and ninety and a pleasant breeze blowing, many folk found delight in motoring along the country roads.

Charles J. Sechler and family, of St. Paul, Pa., spent Sunday with relatives and friends in this village.

County Commissioner Harvey Gortner, of Grantsville, was a very pleasant caller in this village one day last week.

Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Campbell, of the Lutheran Church, entertained the young ladies Sunday school classes of the Jennings and Bittinger Sunday schools, at the parsonage, last Saturday evening.

Noah Stark, of Kitzmiller, visited his father and other home folk here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brenneman and little daughter, of St. Paul, visited Mr. Brenneman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Brenneman, near this village, last Sunday.

LOCAL WAR VETERANS HONOR MEMORY OF DEAD

Escorted By Crellin Band, Boy Scouts and Public School Pupils

World War veterans, one Spanish-American soldier, two members of the G. A. R., representing Crook Post of that organization, a troop of Boy Scouts under command of Scoutmaster Scott Shirer, and about fifty members of Garrett Lodge, Knights of Pythias, augmented by public school pupils of Oakland, formed a parade to the cemeteries of Oakland, on Monday and there participated in decorating the graves of sixty-five departed soldiers and an equal number of dead Knights of Pythias who were members during their lifetime of the local or other lodges of that organization.

The procession from the heart of town was further augmented by hundreds of men and women, boys and girls, who made their annual pilgrimage to the city of the dead for the purpose of placing a flower upon the grave of some loved one. The cemeteries presented a lovely appearance, especially after the decoration of the graves had been completed.

The Knights of Pythias had their own services, conducted by the officers of the organization, while, gathered about the grave of their unknown comrade the soldiers conducted ritualistic services and listened to a timely and exceedingly interesting address delivered by one of their number, County Agent McGlone. Mr. McGlone's remarks were somewhat different from the usual Memorial Day address. In it he reviewed, very tersely, the scenes of the war and drew a very spirited picture of the incidents surrounding the interment of the remains of the unknown soldier at Arlington. In addition the speaker paid a tribute to all who had participated in all wars on land and sea, especially those who gave up their lives in defense of their country.

Mr. McGlone was introduced by Commander Delbert Davis of Procter Kildow Post of the American Legion. Following the address "taps" were sounded and the services ended.

A firing squad of eight soldiers marched with fixed bayonets and at the cemetery rendered military honors.

Mr. McGlone's address in full follows:

The Unknown Soldier.

"Veterans of the Civil War, Honorable Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen, and my buddies."

"We are assembled here today to honor our dead. Today is a day that has been set aside to remind us of the close of the Civil War and to honor those who fought and died for a cause that they thought just.

"As time has passed we have tried to forget the Civil War because it was between the men of our country, and in trying to forget we have not only confined this day to the decoration of the soldier dead, but to all those who are near and dear to us that have died.

"And I have often wondered how many of us ever think of and decorate the graves of those we know not. Ah, ladies and gentlemen, as I stand here before you I see a body of men who honor an unknown dead and I have been requested to speak of this unknown one. They could easily have had some statesman to speak—a Senator, a silver tongued orator, or some one with whom you are familiar, but that would not be their wish. It is their desire that one of their buddies tell of the things they saw, what they have read and the stories they have been told, and I have been given that honor.

"As I stand here memories come back to me of November 11, 1921. While standing on Pennsylvania avenue, which is considered the parade ground of the world and located in our National Capitol. In the distance I heard a bugle call and a band playing slow, soft music of the dead.

"Far up the avenue I see a slow moving body of men. As this body draws near I see it is lead hy a General of the United States Army who is followed by a guard of honor, many officers and men of the service. Closely behind moves the Marines and Army bands. As the bands pass, next comes men form all branches of the service. Infantrymen, marines, sailors, National guardsmen, engineers, a hatallion of artillery and squadron of cavalry. Behind these fighting men, most of whom have seen service in France, come the chaplains of the

OAKLAND ROTARY CLUB—

Host To Teachers of High and Grammar Schools

The Oakland Rotary Club at its meeting last Friday evening, had as its guests the teaching force of the Oakland High and Grammar schools, numbering well on to twenty earnest, intelligent men and women.

F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, and a member of the Boys' Work committee of the Rotary, presided during the evening. In his opening remarks, Mr. Rathbun pointed out that "the educational forces of Oakland are exceedingly proud and grateful of this evening's tribute to the local teachers in their having this evidence of appreciation of their labors for the boys and girls during the school year now drawing to its close. It will make them all better class room teacher. They are deeply appreciative of this evening's testimonial of their services for the youth of our community.

"It is a similar source of gratification to the members of the county board of education, all members of which board are present this evening. The board is always pleased over such evidences of puhlic approval of the services of the teachers in our schools.

"County boards of education are more interested today in such things than they once were. In years gone by, school boards were farther removed from actual class room instruction than they are today. They once were a board designed to protect and advance the interests of some political party through detailed professional administration of public schools. The State School Law of 1916, however, had as its purpose the changing of all this. This law was passed upon the recommendations of the General Education Board of New York City, which had made a survey of the schools of the State during 1914-1915. This law of 1916 changed entirely these functions of a county board of education to a board of equity.

"This equity functioning of a county school board, concluded Mr. Rathbun, 'is expressed through its being a board that shall have as its duty reconciling the highest welfare and best interests of the children in the schools with the best interests of the taxpayers of the county as also the interests of the teachers in the schools. And a county board of education is highly efficient that serves most effectively this three-fold purpose of being in fact a lay-board of equity rather than one of political and professional duties."

Short speeches were also made by Miss Conley, principal of the local high school, and by Miss Leary, principal of the grammar school. Douglas Helbig, a member of Oakland High's graduating class, gave a reading, which was well received, and a short address was also made by former senator McCullough, now a member of the local board of education, who, in company with Mr. John O. Thayer, were also guests of the Club during the evening.

Attention! Knights of Pythias.

Garrett Lodge No. 113, Knights of Pythias will pay a fraternal visit to Youghiogheny Lodge at Friendsville on Friday evening. All Knights are requested to be present at Castle Hall a few minutes before seven o'clock in order that the trip to Friendsville will be under way by seven o'clock sharp. The entertainment for the evening's program will be provided for by the local Lodge, while the refreshments will be provided for by the Friendsville Lodge. The Friendsville Lodge has a reputation for preparing a high class repast, and a delightful evening is assurred. The picnic, announced for last Sunday, was postponed on account of the inclement weather prevailing on that day, however, a future date will be announced in a short time, it is said by a member of the committee in charge of arrangements for the occasion.

Mrs. J. W. Hart went to Baltimore Saturday to attend the commencement exercises at Mt. St. Agnes' from which school her granddaughter Miss Julia Anne Shaffer, was graduated yesterday. Mrs. Hart will visit in Washington before her return to Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stevenson and daughter, Miss Dorothy, will leave Oakland tomorrow for College Park, Md., where they will attend the graduating exercises at the University of Maryland. Their daughter, Miss Kathryn Stevenson, is a member of the graduating class.

MABEL SWANN AWAITING HER TRIAL TELLS STORY

Mabel Swann, charged with having shot and killed Daniel Mosser, Keyser, West Va., on last Thursday morning at her farm one mile north of Swanton, is in the Garrett county jail at Oakland and is calmly awaiting her trial, which will come up at the June term of court to convene next Monday. She will be charged with murder.

Immediately after the shooting, the Swann woman notified Sheriff Casteel, and asked that he "come to her place and bring a doctor as she had shot Dan Mosser, but did not know whether he was dead or not." During her stay in jail, she has persisted in her story that she shot in self-defense.

Her Story.

Tuesday evening when questioned about the alleged murder, she refused at first to give further information than had already been given out. Later she began: "It was purely accidental. There was nothing else to do. The man broke into the house through the only door and was rushing toward me very fast. I did not know what he would have done, and there was no escape. I had to shoot to save myself. There was nothing premeditated about it."

Mosser, according to her story, had no right in the first place to rent her the farm as it was held jointly by him and his sister, who resides in Cumberland. The sister, she says, wrote her a letter telling her not to pay Mosser any money until May 30, when all the family was to gather together at Swanton for a picnic.

The fact that Mosser had heard of this was given by the Swann woman as the reason for his attack upon her home in an attempt to force the rent money from her.

"Never Touched Moonshine."

When asked about the corn mash and moonshine found in her house, she exclaimed; "If there was any evidence of liquor in the house it was put there. The many people of Oakland with whom I am acquainted know that I never touched moonshine and never had anything to do with it."

The Swann woman went on to explain that Mosser had always kept one room in the house for his own in which harness, furniture and a lot of other property was stored. She declared that she had never been in the room but once and that was after the raid in which moonshine and mash was discovered in there. According to Sheriff Casteel, liquor was found not only in that one room but in the kitchen and under the mattress of one of the beds.

Body Found in Yard

The body of Mosser, whom she asserts was shot in the front room of the house, was found in the yard about ten feet from the steps when Sheriff Casteel arrived. A stream of blood led from the house to where the body lay.

Came From Baltimore.

Mabel Swann came to Oakland four years ago from Baltimore and lived for a short time on a farm near Oakland. She always dressed like a man, wearing knee-high gum boots and made a living by driving a coal or lumber wagon, as occasion required.

It was reported by people in Kingwood that she had lived in that vicinity for some time, but she emphatically denies this. She said that since she had come from her home in Baltimore, she had been around Oakland and Swanton. She claims to have graduated from some hospital in Baltimore as a nurse, asserting Tuesday evening that she was not a registered nurse but could be if she wanted to.

She has a mother and sister living in Baltimore, but would not disclose where they lived, stating that "she didn't want them to be hothered to death by reporters and inquisitive people."

GARRETT COUNTY FIELD AND HEALTH DAY

Held Under Auspices of Local Boards of Education and Health

The annual field or athletic day in Garrett County, which has been a feature during the closing days of the grammar and high schools of the county in recent years, was given added interest by participation of many of the little folk of less than school age in the parade and May Day festivities conducted at the Garrett County Fair grounds under the auspices of the local Board of Health and directed by Miss Rhesa King, County Health Nurse, assisted by members of the Oakland Civic Club, and others who are interested in better health conditions for the growing boys and girls of the county.

Garrett countians who absented themselves from Oakland on Tuesday and thus missed seeing the parade, and the happy faces of the children composing the crowd of marchers, many of them accompanied by their public school teachers, certainly regretted that fact when their friends and neighbors carried home the report of what had transpired in the county town that day.

Oakland never had a better, happier or more picturesque crowd of children, nor did such a crowd of youngsters ever have a happier day, even though showers interfered to some extent with the program of events, but this was forgotten as soon as the sun shone out after being obliterated for a few minutes at a time.

The parade was marshaled by former mayor H. W. McComas, who is also a member of the Board of Health of Garrett county, and was headed by the combined Crellin and Oakland bands, which organization rendered excellent service throughout the day, both on the streets and at the Fair grounds.

Crellin and Oakland band combined; the Board of County Health and Miss King, County Health Nurse; heralds on ponies preceding the float bearing the king and queen of May and their court composed of ten or more pre-school children; pre-school group of children in automobiles and on floats representing health and other phases of good living, followed by the Child Welfare float arranged by J. E. Harned's Sunday School class; Maryland Tuberculosis Association, followed in turn by school groups from all sections of the county either on foot or on floats.

Prizes for the most striking floats had been offered by organizations of Oakland and these were awarded by the judges to the following:

Child Welfare float, M. E. Sunday School, $25.00; St. Peter's Parochial school, $25.00; Charles Shilke, pre-school child, $10.00.

The judges were Mrs. A. M. Lichenstein, of Cumberland, a graduate nurse and former superintendent of Western Maryland Hospital; Mrs. C. C. McCullough, wife of Dr. McCullough, State Deputy of the Health Department, and Mr. Harvey Weiss, health officer of Cumberland.

At the fair grounds the queen of the May, little Lois Sincell, was crowned by her consort, John Darby, and then a May-pole dance was participated in by the members of the royal party. Field and athletic sports, under direction of the State Department, were then held, the events being as follows:

WHAT THE 4-H CLUB MEANS

A Readable Article on the Subject by Miss Lola King

As many people do not understand just what 4-H Club Work is, Miss Lola King, a member of the Senior 4-H Club at Deer Park, and a club leader of the Junior 4-H Club, has kindly written the following article on 4-H Club work:

In traveling through the different towns of Garrett county I have found that many of the citizens do not know what the 4-H Club is.

The 4-H Club was organized in 1914, following the passage of the Smith-Lever Act. The Smith-Lever Act is a bill which provides for the people of the United States useful and practical information on Agriculture and encourages the same. This is also the purpose of the 4-H Club.

The 4-H Club is a movement that gives boys and girls an opportunity to develop themselves educationally, economically and socially. Boys and girls are given tasks that develop a feeling of responsibility, self-confidence and ambition.

Every true American citizen should have at least some idea of how he is going to serve his country in the future. No country can long endure unless somehow it can produce within itself trained leadership. This is one of the things the boys and girls 4-H Club is striving for— trained leadership.

What is the meaning of the 4-H Club? It stands for the four-fold development of the heart, head, hand and health. Taking each H separately you can understand better what the 4-H's mean.

The first "H" stands for Heart. The heart is the main organ of the body. Without it you could not live. You must have love and courage in your heart before you can accomplish anything. You must be prepared to stand the real test before you can accomplish anything. You must be prepared to stand the real test of friendship. There are many friends who are faithful because their friendship has never been tested. It is when the friend is in trouble, has lost his position or otherwise, that he finds out who is loyal to him. The 4-H boys and girls are loyal; they play the game fairly and they are "Doers of the Word and not hearers only."

The second big "H" stands for the Head. Without a head you would be quite hopeless. But what use is it if you do not use it correctly? A 4-H Club member is taught to observe things correctly. You have two ears and only one mouth so why not tell just the good, and only things which we know are true.

The next "H" stands for the Hands. The Bible tells us "He who would be greatest of all let him serve." That is what God gave us hands for. A 4-H boy or girl is always ready to help those who are in need. You should cooperate with the 4-H Club in your community and help to make it a success. If you do not have a 4-H Club in your community you may find out more about 4-H clubs by asking (1) a club member or local leader; (2) your County Agent; (3) writing to your State Agricultural College; (4) write to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, office of Cooperative Extension Work, Washington, D. C.

The last "H" means Health. Without health you could not enjoy life. In orded to do good work you must have health. Without health one could not make his own life a success.

The 4-H boys and girls build up their bodies through right living. They train their hands to be useful, their minds to think clearly, and their hearts to be kind, sympathetic and true.

In order to keep good health one must have clean surroundings. This is another slogan of the 4-H Club—Cleanliness. "Cleanliness is the next thing to Godliness."

4-H Boys and Girls who are fully developed in these 4-H's are sure to be good and true American citizens. That is what everyone should work toward, "Make the Best Better."

LOLA KING.

DEATH OF AN INFANT.

Nellie Glenna, aged ten months and four days, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haven DeWitt, departed this life on May 23. Her death was a shock to the family, since she was ill for a few hours only. Services prior to the interment which occured in the Deer Park cemetery, were conducted at the parents' home by the Rev. J. F. Eckenrode, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church in Oakland.

TOWNS ALONG THE YOUGH RIVER MAY BE INUNDATED

Government Engineers Said to be Planning Huge Dam for Flood Control Purpose

(By C. Cronin, in Meyersdale (Pa.) Republican.)

Rumors have been floating around here for the past two weeks and many stories have been passed from mouth to mouth regarding the erection of a large dam in the Youghiogheny River near Bidwell, about three miles west of Confluence.

About two weeks ago Assistant Engineer J. B. Walker, of Pittsburgh, with a crew of four men, arrived here and started a preliminary survey for a flood control dam for the United States Government, to prevent repetition of the Mississippi Valley flood catastrophe of the past month.

The report of the preliminary survey is to be made to the United States Senate and will not only cover the flood control possibilities of the dam, but will also consider the hydro-electric possibilities that can be utilized.

According to official figures, the dam, if constructed, will be approximately 220 feet high and over 225 feet wide.

Would Submerge Towns.

This project, if completed, would mean that Confluence itself would be inundated, and it is estimated that water between 65 and 75 feet deep would be over the main portion of the town part of the year. An obstruction in the river at Bidwell of the size proposed would back the water in the Youghiogheny River up as far as Friendsville, Maryland, and besides Confluence would inundate portions of Somerfield and Watsondale, Pa., and Guard and Selbysport, Md., as well as Harnedsville on the Casselman River and Ursina, on Laurel Hill Creek. Miles of State and township roads would also be submerged, including a portion of the National Pike at Somerfield, Pa. The historic three-arch stone bridge at that place, 109 years old, would have to be replaced by a much larger and more elevated bridge and probably a few miles of the old pike itself would have to be re-located and rebuilt. A large portion of State Highway Route 50, between Addison and Somerset, partly completed and other parts under construction at the present time, would have to be abandoned or relocated for many miles.

Damage to Railroads.

One of the largest items of damage to be considered is that which would result to the railroads. Two main line railroads, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Western Maryland, would have to be re-located at an enormous expense. It would be necessary to move the Baltimore & Ohio tracks at least 160 feet up the mountain side, and this would necessitate the relocation and re-construction of the Connellsville Division for an estimated distance of forty miles. The Western Maryland Railroad would be similarly affected and would cause the rebuilding of the railroad tracks.

The yards of the Baltimore and Ohio at Confluence would be inundated and two branches of the Connellsville Division with Confluence as their basic terminal, would probably be abandoned, namely, the Confluence and Oakland branch, 20 miles long, between Confluence and Kendall, Md., affording the towns of Somerfield, Selbysport, Guard and Friendsville, passenger, mail, express and freight service, and the White's Creek branch between Confluence and Unamis, a distance of over nine miles. The latter branch is the only outlet for coal and lumber produced in the vicinity of Dumas, Listonburg, Unamis and other small towns. The property loss and busines loss to the mining and lumber interests would be enormous.

The C. & O. branch is the outlet for a large area of coal and timber lands in three states, Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, and the increased expense in getting products from that tri-state district to the markets would probably stop development of the resources of that territory until other transportation facilities would be provided.

Stupendous Problem.

The railroad situation, as a whole, would be a very great problem. The Baltimore and Ohio line running thru Confluence is the main line of the B. & O. from Chicago and Pittsburgh to Baltimore, Washington and New York. The bulk of through freight both east and west bound, on this division, is very large, and to keep it moving while relocation and re-

GRANTSVILLE.

(By G. W. Diefenbaeh)

Grantsville, June 1,— Earl H. Opel Post, American Legion, Salisbury, Pa., of which a number of the ex-service men of this community are members, held a memorial service here on Sunday morning. The Post was assisted by the Salisbury Band and the Arion Band of Frostburg. The line of march was from the school to the cemetery, where the service was held, and return. The Legion Memorial Service was used which consisted of the memorial prayer, the salute to the dead, and taps, interspersed by several band numbers. Despite the lateness of which it was decided to hold these services and the threatening nature of the weather, they were well attended by the people of the community, and from surrounding localities of Jennings, New Germany, and Keyser Ridge.

Thomas Patrick McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKenzie, and Miss Nellie Leona Garlitz, daugter of Mr. and Mrs. John Garlitz, both of Long Stretch, were married last Thursday morning at Saint Michael's Catholic Church, Frostburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph J. Deppe, assistant rector. The attendants were Clayton Garlitz and Dorothy McKenzie.

Miss Myra Custer, daughter of Mrs. Mary Custer and the late John M. Custer, was crowned queen of the May at the annual May Day festival at the State Normal school, Frostburg, which was held on Tuesday of last week, on the school campus. Miss Custer was elected by a popular vote of the student body. At 8 o'clock, after the students had assembled on the campus, two attendants escorted Miss Custer from the main building to an improvised throne which had been erected in the centre of the campus. After being seated amid the cheers of the students, she was crowned queen of the May with elaborate ceremonies. Following this interesting feature, a series of interpretive dances were given. At the conclusion of the exercises the students were served with strawberries and cream.

Last Thursday evening twenty-two members of the Grantsville Community club journeyed to Friendsville, where they were entertained by the Club there. The Friendsville High school orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. Miss Maud Bean, Allegany County Home Demonstration Agent, was the principal speaker, her talk being on "The Women of Today," which was packed full of inspiration for all. The amusing features of the evening were two short plays, followed by a course of refreshments. Those attending from Grantsville were: Misses Lulu Shaw, Christena Winterberg, Mary C. Dorsey and Ethel Broadwater; Mrs. Lillie B. Younkin, Mrs. Richard Younkin, Mrs. James Younkin, Mrs. Annie E. Getty, Mrs. Fahey, Mrs. Wm. Baker, Mrs. John H. Folk, Mrs. Joel A. Beachy, Mrs. Marshall Beachy, Mrs. Mary Livengood, Mrs. Harold Boucher, Mrs. Peter Miller, Mrs. Harold Miller, Mrs. Annie Stanton, Mrs. S. J. Diefenbaeh, Mrs. C. A. Bender, and Mrs. Ida Hershberger. Grantsville visitors were James Younkin and John H. Folk.

A declamation contest and central closing exercises will be held here on Friday evening, June 10th. Sixteen rural schools in the Grantsville Unit will participate in the program with declamations, songs and other exercises.

The baccalaurate sermon to the graduates of the High school will be delivered by Rev. J. E. Johnson in the Methodist Church, Sunday morning, June 12th, at 10:45 o'clock. Those in the class are Helen Folk, Velora Swauger, Ruth Emory, Mildred Opel, Genevieve Pope, Pearl Beachy, Viola Butler, Walter Reichenbecher and Paul Wisseman. The commencement exercises will be held in the Methodist Church on Thursday evening, June 16th.

The second annual elementary school exhibit and athletice meet was held here last Friday. The following schools participated: Jennings, Mars Hill, Eagle, Grantsville, Long Stretch, Turner, Manadier and Boucher. The exhibits representing the year's work were varied and well done. The highest number of points on school work was scored by Grantsville school. Long Stretch school being second. school exhibit and athletic meet was Nature Study Booklets made by Boucher, Long Stretch and Engle schools; Penmanship, History and Geography booklets made by Grantsville school, and Hygiene Posters and History booklets made by Jennings school. The afternoon was given over to dodgehall, beseball, races, and other athletic events under the direction of F. J. Getty. A picnic lunch was served at the school.

Much work has been done on the addition to Motor Service Company's building, which will double the floor space of that concern. The work is being done under the direction of A. M. Miller. Mr. Miller is also putting the finishing touches to the new home at the Little Crossings for Mr. U. M. Stanton. The foundations have been completed for the dwelling being erected by Roy Wilburn two miles east on the National Pike. The excavating under the Lutheran Church has been completed and the concrete work will soon be started.

C. C. Wisseman, who lives three miles west of town, had a narrow escape from death Monday afternoon while driving on the highway east of his home. He was taking a load of crates to his farm on his wagon when he was suddenly thrown from his seat by its being hit, presumably by a passing car. The fall rendered him unconscious and he did not know what had happened for some time afterward. When able to understand again he was being eared for by a tourist who hurried him to Grantsville where Dr. Davis dressed his wounds, which consisted of a deep cut on his scalp and a bruised shoulder. His son Paul, upon learning of the accident, hastily came to town and found his father being cared for and then accompanied him home. When the wagon was struck the horses became excited and ran away, but they were later caught. Mr. Wisseman is unable to give any account of the accident or how it occurred. He is likewise in the dark concerning the identity of the party responsible, the affair happening so suddenly.

On Monday two cars, a Jordan and a Whippet, were in a head-on collision on the National Highway east of here, near Johnson's, which resulted in a colored man, whose name was not learned, being cut quite severely about his face and hands when he was thrown through the windshield of the car which he was driving. His injuries were dressed by Dr. Davis.

State Superintendent of Schools A. S. Cook, accompanied by G. Lloyd Palmer, county superintendent of Frederick county; B. J. Grymes, county superintendent of Washington county; E. J. McMasters, a member of the State Board of Education, and F. E. Rathbun, of the local board of education, visited the Grantsville school on Monday, besides visiting other schools in the county. In an address given by Mr. McMasters before the students of the State Normal school at Frostburg on Tuesday, he made especial mention of the fine work being done by Miss Jonelle Stoops, teacher in the Mar's Hill school near Grantsville.

Mrs. Florence Schlossnagel, who has been operating a general store in the Cove for a number of years, recently sold the business to Milton Schlossnagel, who took charge one day last week. Mrs. Schlossnagel and her family are now residing with her daughter, Mrs. Francis Glass, on Keyser's Ridge.

H. G. Bill, a brother of C. H. Bill, and a former resident of this place, has recently moved from Morgantown, W. Va., to Wheeling, he having been transferred to the latter city by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in which corporation he holds a responsible position.

G. W. Zeller, Sr., is now convelescing at his home in Frostburg, having been ill for several weeks. Mrs. Zeller had the misfortune to run a needle in her foot some time ago, which necessitated an operation which was performed at the Miners Hospital in Frostburg. She is also convalescing at that place. Mr. Zeller operates the barber shop in connection with the National Hotel here, and Mrs. Zeller is well known in this community, having resided here for several years.

Clayton and Clinton Bittinger, who were visiting their parens in Grafton, West Va., en route to Philadelphia, where they are employed, spent Tuesday night in Grantsville with their aunt, Mrs. J. W. Folk.

Dr. Harry Ryland and family, of Meyersdale, Pa., and Dr. H. B. Ryland, of Pittsburgh, Pa. ,and Walter Coddington, of Mt. Lake Park, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Lillie Younkin.

Wm. Younkin left for Akron, O., on Sunday, where he has obtained employment.

Walter Younkin is suffering from pleura-pneumonia, and Mary Jane Beachy from an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. Barbara Bittinger, who spent a month here with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Folk, went to Crellin on Sunday where she will visit her son, Milton Bittinger.

Mrs. Harry Edwards entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church on Saturday afternoon following their monthly meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Etta V. Engle.

Miss Eleanor Price, of Buckhannon, W. Va., spent the week-end with her sister, Miss Marion Price.

Harvey H. Miller, of Greensburg, Ohio, is spending this week here, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Catharine Opel, who is quite ill, and his daughter, Mrs. Sherman Beachy. Last week he was in Meyersdale where he visited his brother, Mahlon Miller, a former resident of Maple Grove, whose condition is quite serious.

James Miller and Miss Minnie Hurley, of Braddock, Pa., and Miss Minnie Liston and Mrs. James Bullard, of Friendsville, visited Miss Gertrude Hone on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Thompson and daughters and Mrs. George House, of Grindstone, Pa., were Memorial Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kitting, Earl and Charles Bowser, Hershey, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Urban and Clarence Keim, Livingston, Pa., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meager.

Mrs. Ray Goetz, Cumberland, and Mrs. John Engle and son, of Frostburg, spent several days recently with Mrs. E. V. Engle.

Miss Helen Stanton spent the holiday week-end with her parents at Little Crossings, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stanton.

Mrs. Ella Goshorn, of Piedmont, W. Va., and Mrs. Thornton Cooper, of Frostburg, visited J. J. Bender and family on Sunday.

George Simpson and Paul Veverage, of Bretz, W. Va., visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Simpson, at New Germany, and his sister here, Mrs. Harry Edwards, recently.

Charles Platter and Frank Glessner, of Garrett, Pa., spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Platter.

Rev. L. N. Wilson, of Berlin, Pa., filled the pulpit at the Reformed church here last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boucher spent the week-end with John Boucher at Brownsville, Pa.

A large number of pupils from this section attended the athletic meet at Oakland on Tuesday.

Robert Glotfelty, the four year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Glotfelty, underwent an operation at the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland one day last week.

J. W. Folk and son Enos and Otto Bender visited Chapel, Pa., near Philadelphia, last week.

Lloyd Bowser and G. C. King and family, of Wilmerding, Pa., spent part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. King, near Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stanton and son A. C., Jr., and Mrs. Effie Parmer spent the week-end with Mr. Stanton's brother at Hyattsville, Md.

Miss Margaret Broadwater, of Frostburg, Md., was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Marian Broadwater, last Friday.

Services on Sunday will be as follows: Catholic, Mass at 10 a. m.; Methodist, Sunday school at 10 a. m., C. E. at 7 p. m.; Reformed, Sunday school at 10 a .m.; Lutheran, Sunday school at 1.15 p. m., and worship at 2.30 p. m.

Mr. C. J Otto, New Germany; Rev. J. E. Johnson, Miss Ethel Broadwater, G. W. Diefenbaeh, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Lohr, representing several Sunday schools of this community, will attend the Sunday school efficiency conference held in Oakland tonight.

Stephen Durst, a farmer aged about sixty, of Bittinger, was kicked by a horse on Tuesday afternoon. It is reported that his jaw-bone was broken in two places and his skull probably fractured. Dr. N. R. Davis rendered first aid and took him to Miners Hospital at Frostburg, but was immediately sent on to a hospital in Baltimore. Mr. Durst's condition is quite serious.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR BEST VOICES

National Radio Audition Open to Young Singers in This Country.

America's future generation of vocal stars will be disclosed to the world this Fall as another of the wonders due to radio. Every young man or woman with the gift of song, whether from country, town or city, will have an equal chance.

A nation-wide quest for the best young singers and the opening of the door of opportunity to them has been undertaken by the Atwater Kent Foundation, an institution established for scientific and educational purposes by A. Atwater Kent, the Philadelphia radio manufacturer and sponsor of the Sunday night grand opera hour, broadcast over a network of nineteen stations.

The Foundation has announced plans for a "National Radio Audition," to find by competition the best undiscovered voices in the United States. Prizes aggregating $17,500, with tuition for a musical education in certain cases, are offered as follows:

The two winners of first place in the National Audition—a man and a woman—will each receive a gold

A. Atwater Kent,

decoration, $5,000 in cash and two years' tuition in a leading conservatory.

Winners of second prizes will each receive $2,000 in cash and one year's tuition.

Winners of third prizes will each receive $1,000 and one year's tuition.

Winners of fourth prizes will each receive $500.

Winners of fifth prizes will each receive $250.

Musical, civic and women's clubs in each community in each state will be invited to hold local contests to select the best young man and best young woman singers of their towns. These winners will then be certified to a state audition, which will be broadcast by a radio station in each state. A state winner of each sex will be chosen and will receive a silver medal.

The next step is a district audition. The young men and women who have won state honors will be taken to a central broadcasting station in one of five districts, where an audition will be broadcast to select the two winners—a young man and a young woman—from that district.

The two winners in each district will receive gold medals and the ten finalists thus selected will be taken to New York for the final National Audition, to be broadcast over a national network of stations. All expenses of contestants in the district and final auditions, including railroad fare, hotel bills, entertainment, etc., will be paid by the Atwater Kent Foundation.

The spirit and purpose of the National Audition are indicated in a statement by A. Atwater Kent, president of the Foundation, who said:

"The discovery of one of those rare voices, of which each generation produces a very few, seems to me an event of profound national importance. Even when such a voice could give pleasure to only a few thousand people in a year it was a national treasure. Now that millions may enjoy it on the same evening through the medium of radio, such a voice has become priceless.

"The National Radio Audition, supported by the Atwater Kent Foundation, is an undertaking to search the entire country for beautiful voices and to offer these singers an opportunity for full development, recognition and reward."

Must not be over 25 years old; must never have been associated with a professional theatrical or operatic company; must never have been a paid principal in any concert held outside their own states; must declare an intention to follow a musical career and must be free from theatrical or musical contracts

This limitation permits choir singers to enter the auditions, even though they may have received financial compensation for singing in churches. Other groups from which entries are anticipated are students in musical schools and locally prominent singers in high schools and colleges. Musical organizations in each state are also afforded an opportunity to participate.

MORE THAN OLD PLAYFELLOWS

ANGELA TREVOR had known Keith Gordon since the seventh month of her existence. Her mother related laughingly how Mrs. Gordon had come with her baby boy to call and how Angela and Keith had stared at each other, gurgled, and finally fought over a pink teething-ring.

Angela was now thirty-one but she had no intention of marrying her old playfellow. He was only Keith of the teething-ring episode, Keith who had been so handy making a snow man, Keith who had helped her in geometry, and Keith who was still so useful when it came to entertaining her friends. There had never been anybody she liked better, but still she did not like him enough. And Keith, she was certain, felt the same way about her. Neither did he make love to anybody else. No brother and sister could ever have been more casually devoted, more unsentimentally fond of each other.

If Keith dropped in for an evening Angela did not find it necessary to change her dress or rearrange her hair for him. He took her as he found her. Sometimes he played chess with her father, sometimes he gossiped with her mother, sometimes the four of them tried a game of bridge. Occasionally he took her somewhere, but usually the whole "bunch" was included.

Altogether, she accepted Keith as a comfortable bit of furniture in her life. If he had not been there she would have missed him. Seeing he was always available she accepted him as a matter of course.

Tonight he had telephoned, asking her to meet him at the Stockford at seven for dinner and a concert afterward. She had accepted and then had sat calmly down to chat with Mrs. Galwny, who had run in, and to embroider a bit of lingerie.

Mrs. Galwny did not leave until six, and then Angela had to make such a toilet as haste would permit. She left her hair as it was, dabbed on a bit of powder, slipped into her black crepe—it wasn't the most becoming frock she had, but it was the easiest to don and she felt that it would do. Her father, of course, would take her to the Stockford; but her father was late home from the office. There was another delay, the car wouldn't spark or something. But at last she was on her way.

At 7:15 she walked into the Stockford, feeling sure that even though Keith had waited he would not mind.

He was waiting, and she sailed hastily up to him with a smile and explanation.

"We got in a pocket at the corner of Cherry and Market," she said. "I'm sorry, Keith."

"Nothing matters so long as you have really arrived and safely." She had expected that. All the same she thought he seemed annoyed.

And then she saw that he was not alone. The girl who stood near him really belonged to him.

A lovely girl, she was, slender, exquisitely gowned, every dark hair delicately in place, perfect of poise as one who is entirely sure of her appearance.

"Miss Mary Ives," Keith introduced them gravely.

Mary Ives! Not Don Ives' little girl grown into this vision of young womanhood! Why! Don had been something of a beau to Angela when they were fourteen.

It was a shock, but she braced herself to meet the consequences. How had Keith come by this girl, anyway?

"You didn't tell me—" she murmured reproachfully.

"I didn't know. Don telephoned that he had a business engagement while in town and asked me to look out for his little girl." He smiled at the little girl and she smiled back adorably—at him. "I had already asked you so I thought that between us we could give Mary a very good time."

Angela was not sure of that. From the look in Mary's eyes she was convinced that Mary could have had a better time with Keith alone, and she began to feel uneasily that Keith was going to enjoy Mary a lot more than she wished he would. There was another thing, too. She felt mightily uncomfortable when she saw herself presently in the many mirrors of the Stockford dining room. No doubt of it, she looked tousled. The contrast was terrible—she was common in appearance, Mary so fresh and charming. Everybody was looking at Mary; Keith looked at her, too.

It was a bitter hour for Angela and growing more bitter with each moment. Mary could laugh and talk. Mary—she knew with that sixth sense of women—Mary loved to see her squirm. And Keith did not know she was squirming; maybe he did not care.

When she could not eat, Mary inquired tenderly:

"Headache, old dear?" Stressing the "old" ever so little.

The concert afterward! It seemed Mary was studying music and she had the patter of the profession. Angela, whose knowledge, though considerable, lay in other directions, sat silent, and distraught. She began to hate the blithesome Mary; she began to hate Keith. No! If she had hated him she would not have suffered so deeply.

It was over at last. Keith took her home in a taxi—accompanied by Mary. What would they say and do when she was no longer with them? She had never dreamed that she had such a rampant imagination.

She cried on her pillow like a little girl. For she knew now that she loved Keith. How else could she feel than the way she did?

It was terrible next day. They were nearly through dinner when her father remarked casually:

"Keith said he was coming up this evening."

That was all, but the world whirled in rosy waves.

Mother was kind.

"If you want to fix up a little, dear, I'll do the dishes. There aren't many. Mrs. Dix cleared everything up before she went home."

Nobly, however, Angela did her share. Then she flew to her room. She did her hair over and stuck a comb in it, she freshened up her face, she put on her newest and bluest frock. And then she looked at herself, long and critically, in the glass. It paid to take pains.

He was in the living room talking to her parents when she came down. She felt his eyes appraise, realized that the mere fact that she had adorned herself for him meant something new and delightful to him. Never before had she paid him the compliment of such attention.

He rose from the davenport, smiled, put his arm about her and drew her down beside him before the delighted eyes of the older couple.

"Some time, do you know," he said musically, "I think Angela and I are going to be something more than old playfellows?"

As his eyes questioned her Angela spoke daringly, breathless.

"Perhaps we are now," she said.

When Horace Fletcher Scared Hungry Guests

Horace Fletcher, who ardently urged everyone to live to extreme old age by indefinite mastication, so that the word "fletcherize" is now definitely fixed in the English language, and who himself died comparatively young once gave a dinner to which he invited a number of well-known men at Yale, including President Hadley, Professor Lounsbury, Walter Camp and John Hays Hammond.

Knowing his hobby, the guests naturally wondered what they would get to eat. At the appointed time they were shown into a private room at the Graduates' club in New Haven, where they were not surprised to find the table set with the severest simplicity. Instead of china, white crockery was used, and the chief table decorations were three large crockery pitchers filled with ice water. At each place was a crockery saucer containing a shredded wheat biscuit.

The guests sighed. Their worst apprehensions were being confirmed, but just as they had sadly taken their places the head waiter came to the door and announced that by mistake they had been shown into the wrong room. Then Mr. Fletcher appeared and, with an inimitable twinkle in his eye, led his guests into another private dining room, where a most sumptuous repast had been provided.

British Museum Mail Yields Rare Articles

The mail man with the most interesting route in the world is the one who drops his bag at the British museum each morning. And the contents of that bag make far and away the most extraordinary postal delivery received by anyone in England.

Each delivery is a veritable grabbag in curios. Gems, stones, arrowheads old books, rubbish, shells, bits of leather, fossils, postage stamps, live animals, stomachs pickled in alcohol, colas, butterflies, weapons, bones—this is the sort of ragbag collection which the museum officials discover with almost grotesque excitement upon opening the mail in the morning.

Though there is seldom anything of decided value, the mass of stuff is always sorted out and weeded carefully for any rare and valuable curio. Most of the senders expect no acknowledgment or reward—in fact, there is no return address on many of the parcels. Evidently they do it for fun. But is it? Ask the postman.

Champion Gum Chewer

Hard won, but shortly worn, were the laurels of him who brought fame to Chicago by the prowess of his mighty jaws—jaws which set a world's record for chewing gum by masticating forty-four sticks at one time. Henry Williams, nineteen years old, of Baltimore, Md., read about that and surmised that he might do better. He did by pushing in forty-six sticks before he had a mouthful. The chewed gum was examined to see that no untouched sticks were concealed within it, and it was found to be all that could be desired. The forty-six were reduced to one mass of plasticity, weighing exactly two and one-quarter ounces.

Strength in Unity

The expression, "United we stand, divided we fall," was used in a poem entitled "The Flag of Our Union," by George Pope Morris. The earliest use of the words in America was in Dickinson's "Liberty Song," first published in the Boston Gazette on the 18th of July 1768. The thought expressed in the lines, however, is much older, and may be found in the early Roman poems.

TOWNS ALONG THE YOUGH RIVER MAY BE INUNDATED

Government Engineers Said to be Planning Huge Dam for Flood Control Purpose

construction were in progress, with the probabilities of steeper grades resulting would be a serious proposition.

The Western Maryland line running through this section is also a main line, with a large volume of freight trallic. At the present time the Western Maryland is running only two passenger trains, one east and one west, daily.

Considering everything, the damage to the railroads, and the cost of relocating and rebuilding would probably run into many millions of dollars and would be one of the biggest problems to be met.

Another railroad which would be abandoned, if the dam project were completed, is the Ursina and North Fork Railroad, running between Ursina and Humbert, and into the country beyond that point. This railroad is principally a coal and lumber road, and its outlet is at Ursina Junction, where it connects with the Baltimore and Ohio. It serves a large acreage of timber as well as a number of coal mines.

Immense Property Loss.

Confluence, situated 84 miles east of Pittsburgh, receives its name from the junction of the three streams, the Youghiogheny River, the Casselman River and Laurel Hill Creek. It is a thriving community of 1200 population and is admirably adapted for manufacturing sites. It lies at the apex of three converging valleys, all of which would be utilized for impounding water, if the dam were built. These valleys, all being low, would be covered by water for many miles. The land which would be inundated, is of almost incalculable value. The Casselman Valley, in particular, is very low, and with very little fall, and the property damage along this one river alone, would run high in the millions.

Property owners will, of course, be protected in case the project is undertaken, and this will mean the purchase of all the property in the towns of Confluence, Ursina and Harnedsville, as well as a portion of Somerfield and a large portion of lands lying between these towns. It would necessitate the purchase of a large portion of Lower Turkeyfoot Township as well as a portion of Addison Township and Upper Turkeyfoot Township in Somerset county and a portion of Henry Clay Township in Fayette county.

Three Bad Rivers.

The Youghiogheny and Casselman Rivers have their sources in Garrett county, Maryland, and Laurel Hill Creek has its surce in the mountains back of Somerset. The three unite at Confluence to form the main stem of the Youghiogheny, and when all three streams are at flood stage they make a "rip roaring" stream below Confluence, often doing much damage in its onward rush to unite with the Monongahela at McKeesport, and, through the latter, with the Ohio at Pittsburgh.

It is expected that the proposed dam would help much in preventing floods in the Pittsburgh district, as well as in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys. A report was current that the water would be piped from the dam into Pittsburgh to be used for domestic purposes, but this report has been denied. Drainage from coal mines has polluted most of the streams in this vicinity to such an extent as to make it unfit for domestic use, especially the Casselman River. Nevertheless, water is taken from the Youghiogheny River at Connellsville for domestic purposes.

Would Cost Many Millions.

The estimated cost of the project has been reported at anywhere from seven to one hundred million dollars. After much investigation, it is believed that the cost, including property loss and business damages, would not be less than fifty million dollars, and possibly as much as one hundred million.

The property loss would be very heavy, not only because of the total destruction of town sites, but owing to the curtailment of the coal and lumber industries as well. The business loss is almost incalculable. Consideration would have to be given to the merchants, garagemen, insurance men, etc., for their loss of business. Their properties would not only be lost, but their customers and patrons would be scattered and it would require much work to rebuild their trade in some other locality. This loss is of a type that would be very hard to give figures on, and very hard to make a just settlement for.

It is hardly probable that any word of confirmation or rejection of the project will be received here for at least a year, as there will be many technicalities and details to be worked out before any official sanction will be given. It is hardly probable that any of the residents of the threatened localities will be required to move within the next five years and probably not for some years after that period of time.

A COAL COMPANY recently learned that two firms in Milwaukee were in the market for a large tonnage. Instantly it dispatched one of its best men to the Wisconsin city, equipped with favorable prices and terms.

But while their representative sped westward in a fast train, a competitor in Charleston, W. Va., learned of the situation. Immediately he called the two Milwaukee firms by long distance telephone and sold 466 carloads of coal! When the salesman for the first concern arrived the order was lost

The long distance telephone has become the right-hand man of modern business. In tracing shipments, in checking overdue accounts, in building better customer relations, and in direct selling, the magic of voice-to-voice communication is showing direct results on the business balance sheet.

COMMENCERS

Along with June roses and June weddings comes the annual crop of good advice to graduates. "Success" is the topic. The world receives its yearly accession of school-trained youngsters with somewhat the same sense of hopes and fears and responsibilities that it feels for the babies. The boys and girls out of school are born again to new and enlarged phases of life experience, and the world is anxious about them.

What should seem simpler then than that the world should delight its successful ones to give the formula of success to the new-comers? Pass the word along to the novices; you have succeeded; tell them how you did it. The result is disappointing or would be if it were taken seriously.

The old heads can't tell the beginners the how. They themselves know very well how little of their achievement came about by their own efforts; how much was due to an admixture of chance, of favorable circumstances and boosting of others. There is no specific direction making straight the road to success. The elders never can persuade the boys and girls at commencement that they are to tread paths marked with footprints. The optimistic, eager, adventurous spirits, who for a whole year have been accustomed to the dignity of being called "seniors," are bent on nothing less than the conquests of new worlds. Commencement means to commence, not to finish.

It is well. The wisest who have lived have not made the world what it ought to be. The job has not been very well done. Take a chance on the "commencers." There is much that needs commencing. We need better cities and better farms; better government and better citizens; better business and better recreation; better industries and better arts—in the whole category of what has been accomplished there is nothing that could not be better. Turn the graduate loose without too much hampering advice. After all, each must create his world for himself.

THEY MUST BE WATCHED.

The Saturday Evening Post, which by the way, in its policy always stands for real Americanism, recently editorially outlined no less than ten movements, now under way in the United States, backed by minority groups and having for their purpose results not in line with the best interests of the people of the United States. These movements outlined were briefly as follows:

To abandon our citizens and permit the confiscation of their property in Mexico.

To withdraw from the Philippines and abandon our constructive program there.

To withdraw from Nicaragua and set up a government unfriendly to the United States.

To permit any of the southern republics to develop revolution and chaos regnrdless of our interest in the Panama Canal.

To get out of China and leave Americans to their fate.

To get into Russia and let down the bars of their propagandists.

To kill our immigration laws and give us a flood of undesirable immigrants.

To cancel the war debts.

To substitute pink tea socialism for American patriotism.

To hamstring our army and navy in the name of peace.

Those complacent Americans who believe everything will be all right if we just drift along, will find food for serious thought here. The enemies of the country are always busy. It is the patriots who sometimes sleep at the switch in time of profound peace, when the danger does not seem acute.

BREAKING THE LINK

"To break the link between the sick and the well is one of the aims of every activity that is undertaken by the health officer and those associated with him." is the way Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health, summed up the plan of campaign for the control and prevention of diseases that spread from person to person.

"While this is true of every one of the catching diseases, "he continued, "it is especially so of typhoid fever. And in none of them are the efforts farther reaching. A single case of typhoid that is carelessly handled may endanger the health and lives of an entire community and the only safe way is to check the possibility of infection at the sources. Every case that is reported to the Bureau of Communicable Diseases is considered as the possible source of a future epidemic and is treated as such, with instructions to those in the home as to the proper care of the patient and the disposition of the discharges from the patient; protection by vaccination of those nursing the patient or in contact with him; a careful examination of the premises to discover possible sources of contamination of water, milk or food, or to determine the presence of carriers, and an inquiry into other sources of infection.

"Every case of typhoid is due to ignorance, carelessness or uncleanliness. The disease may be spread by carriers, by persons who have been in contact with a patient suffering from typhoid, or by persons who are recovering from it. It may also be carried by flies, or caused by contaminated, food or fingers.

"Against some of these the State Department of Health can and does protect the individual. Against others, the individual can protect himself and also others, by measures which includes boiling all drinking water from sources in any way suspicious, pasteurizing milk, having all fruit and vegetables carefully washed before they are prepared for the table and always washing the hands before eating.

"There is another means of protection that is within the reach of everybody and that should be considered as much a matter of course at this time of the year by everybody who is planning a vacation trip as buying the railroad ticket or getting the necessary supply of gasoline for the machine—that is vaccination against typhoid. The Department supplies the vaccine without charge; the only cost is the doctor's fee. If a doctor is not available, the nearest health officer will give the three inoculations, a week apart, that are necessary to complete the protection. This kind of safeguarding lasts for about two years and should be repeated at the end of that period."

IN THE WEST.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland, who is one of the Democratic Presidential white hopes, has been out in the middle west talking to the folks on the farm. While his trip originated in his desire to dig some presidential post holes for his own political structure, the Governor once again has helped out the Republican situation, so that if his funds run short, necessitating a possible curtailment of his tour, the Republican organization might be willing to give the Governor a little money to help carry on.

One good thing which the Governor has done has been to make plain that while Democrats talk of farm relief, the have no real remedy to offer. Back home in Maryland, Ritchie has made a number of speeches on what should be done for the farmer. Out West, however, straddling the furrows, it is to be noted that while he is as sympathetic as ever, that there is a vagueness in what he thinks he will or can do. Even the Baltimore Sun, his own personal organ, has felt obliged to comment a little peevishly on his attempts to talk to the farmers, and it is fearsome that his poor toothless words may be interpreted by the farmers as meaning something that the Democrats do not intend to do for them.—Kansas City Star.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Rev. W. B. Brook, a Presbyterian minister of Cumberland, has resigned his pastorate there and has moved his household effects to the Park where he is occupying the Kneass cottage. He spent last summer here. We hope he will make this his permanent home.

Mr. and Mrs. Upton Cuppett have returned from Florida and are back in their home here.

The entertainment put on by the Parent-Teacher Association last Thursday evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all. The good eats added much to the occasion.

It was gratifying to see how eager the people were to get the camp meeting programs as Rev. Aspinall passed them out last Sunday. As this great meeting Is interdenominational it is the desire of the committee that ministers and Christian workers will apply for full entertainment whose meager salaries will not permit their attendance. Ahout 85 can apply this year. The membership fee of one dollar per year is greatly helping the financial condition, added to their other liberal contributions.

Rev. Aspinall informed us that the announcements for the summer would be out this week.

Rev. C. A. Shilke, of Oakland, gave us a splendid memorial service Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph, of Washington, D. C., arrived here Saturday evening and have opened their cottage for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frame have moved their household effects from Fairmont to their cottage here, and I am informed they will make this their permanent home.

Some members of the Yoder family arrived here Saturday from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Traver has had a nice entrance made to her cottage.

The M. E. parsonage and Dr. Stone's cottage are being re-roofed.

Mrs. C. S. May is putting Thoburn Inn in shape for head-quarters for the Camp Meeting, June 26th.

Miss Mollie Hamill has opened the "Dixie" for summer guests.

Mrs. K. O. Chance is busy putting Hamilton Hall in readiness for the summer.

Mrs. L. J. Cornwall was visited last week by her daughter and her son from Elkins, West Va.

Mrs. McKee and her two daughters, of Pittsburgh, are in their summer home, here.

DEER PARK.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lipscomb and son, Mrs. F. N. Reis, Mr. Frederick Reis, Misses Melva and Pleasant Reis visited Mrs. Harriet Wright at Altamont on Sunday.

Mrs. Josephine Thrasher, who spent the winter months at Chester, Pa., is visiting relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Cormany and son, Elwood, of West Newton, Pa., have returned home after a visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wright, of Bloomington, visited Mrs. Wright's parents recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tasker left for Bloomington Monday eve where Mr. Tasker is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Jeffries and daughter, Ellen, of Cumberland, were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith for a few days.

The Methodist Church has been painted, which adds greatly to the appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bittinger and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul George and children, and Mr. Wilbur Crispen, of Bob Town, spent a few days here with relatives.

Mrs. Blanche Perkney and child, of Cumberland, spent Decoration Day here with friends.

Messrs. Wallace Beetham, Russel Thrasher, Allan Thrasher and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thrasher and two children were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Thrasher.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holtschneider, one day last week, a son.

Mrs. Emma Jankey is visiting at Barton, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Rodeheaver and Mr. Paul Calderwood, of Washington, visited home folk. Mr. Calderwood returned to Washington Tuesday evening.

Miss Thelma Harvey spent Sunday and Monday with her parents here.

Misses Marie and Willa Hess and Mrs. Genevieve Bartlett, of La Vale, Cumberland, were visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Elsie Lytton and daughter, Mary, of Keyser, visited Mrs. Susan Dawson and Mrs. Sarah McKenzie over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Helbig and son, of Oakland, spent Sunday and Monday with Mrs. Helbig's parents here.

Funeral services for the late Mr. Dan Mosser who formerly resided in Deer Park, but at the time of his death resided at Keyser, were held in the M. E. Church, interment being made in the cemetery here on Monday morning. Rev Fultz, of Loch Lynn Heights; Rev J. E. Johnson, of Grantsville, and Rev. D. B. Brown had charge of the services at the church. The B. & O. Brotherhood of Trainmen conducted the burial rites as their last tribute to their fellow worker.

Mr. and Mrs. Seib and daughter are visiting home folk.

Mrs. Percy Davis is visiting her parents here.

GORTNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alexander, of Accident, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dewitt and family were Sunday visitorrs at Mr. W. C. Welch's.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Dodge and children, of Star City, W. Va., spent the week-end with home folk here.

Mr. nnd Mrs. J. A. Ressler, Misses Martha Moomaw, Minnie Stull, Rhoda Ressler; Messrs Ona Kirk, Elmer and Frank Brillhart, of Scottdale, spent the week-end at Gortner.

Sunday was a red-letter day at the Gortner Union church. Following the Sunday School session was a sermon by Mr. J. A. Ressler on the topic, "Be Steadfast." After an out-door lunch there was a children's meeting conducted by Mr. Fred Brillhart and Mrs. Ressler. Special music, "Be Fnithful," and "Jesus Lover of My Soul," were rendered hy the male chorus of Springs, Pa., and Mr. Ressler gave a talk on his trip to Europe. Sermon in the evening by Mr. Ressler.

"Education is the remedy for most ills, and if young women about to marry were given instructions on how to run a home, taught to cook and sew, and made useful generally, there probably wouldn't be many divorces. Men can't be expected to look at their wives through rose-colored glasses when they are making life a continual unhappy struggle."—Judge Joseph Burge.

O. H. S. Wins $25 Prize From A. D. Naylor & Co.

A. D. Naylor & Co., were hosts to about 50 Maytag washing machine salesmen and representatives of the Maytag Company at a banquet at the William-James Hotel last Thursday evening, some of the salesmen coming from as far as Erie, Pa., for the occasion.

After the banquet, at which a very elaborate chicken dinner was served, the guests and hosts pnraded to the High school building where a singing contest between the High schools of the county was to have been held, but owing to the weather conditions prevailing on that evening it was impossible for the out-of-town school representatives to come to Oakland, and therefore there was no competition for the local school. The representatives of the local school, however, presented a suitable program for the occasion and were presented with the $25 which was awarded for first prize.

BOX SUPPER AND SOCIAL

A box supper and social will be held at the Red House school on Saturday evening, June 4th, to which all are cordially invited. An abundance of good things to eat, and a good time is promised to all.

Are You Your Own Jailer?

If you are living from hand to mouth, never thinking of tomorrow, and making strangers of your dollars each week, you are as much a prisoner as the man who simply gets his keep, making little rocks out of big ones in the penitentiary.

There is a difference however—

You are your own jailer.

It rests entirely with you to break the chains of poverty and want that are bound to weigh you down in later years, by starting a Savings Account with us and beginning this week to save, at least, a part of your earnings regularly.

CLINIC FOR CRIPPLES WAS HELD SATURDAY

Visit of Dr. George Bennett to Oakland, Brought Many Afflicted Ones to Town

Dr. George Bennett's visit to Oakland last Saturday was attended by a marked degree of success, in that 59 patients awaited his services throughout the morning and until the middle of the afternoon when the last patient was examined and his diagnosis stated.

Dr. Bennett's visit here marks the first orthopedic clinic to be held in Garrett county, when all persons who are crippled were invited to accept the services of this eminent man and his assistants free of charge.

The clinic was made possible through the efforts of Miss Anne Sloan, of Lonaconing, who several years ago devoted the remaining years of her life to work among the crippled children of Maryland, and indirectly to the Frostburg District of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, who have financed this most helpful project.

Among the 59 who attended the clinic were children, young men and women, middle aged and elderly people, the majority of whom were encouraged by the physician and his staff. A number of the younger boys and girls have been advised to attend the hospital school, a department at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, where they will receive treatment and at the same time will be taught how to use their crippled limbs. There were two persons at the clinic who will be taken to the hospital for observation, as it was not possible for the physicians to determine the cause of their trouble during their stay in Oakland, and several others were assured of complete recovery by submitting to an operation.

It cannot definitely be stated just how many of those attending the clinic can be assured of a complete recovery until Dr. Bennett returns his report. However he was very much encouraged when he returned to Baltimore Saturday evening.

Accompanying Dr. Bennett and assisting him in his work here were, Mrs. Bennett, wife of Dr. Bennett, Dr. Edwin Weinberg, a former resident of Lonaconing, Md., but now an orthopedic specialist at Johns Hopkins; Miss Nicholas, Dr. Bennett's secretary; Miss Margaret Brogden, social worker-in-chief of the hospital, and Miss Mary E. Church, orthopedic social worker, also of Johns Hopkins. Miss Anne Sloan and her sister, Miss Mildred Sloan, were here for the occasion and expressed their delight for the hugh success the ladies of the Welfare Committee of the Oakland Civic Club had in getting so many people to attend the clinic. The Welfare Committee of the Civic Club, of which Mrs. Milton Sincell is chairman, arranged the program for the day and also the details which made possible the large attendance.

Miss Rhesa King, county health nurse, was very active during this campaign, and by her efforts and those of the public school teachers throughout the county a large number of the patients were located and brought to the clinic.

During the day Messrs. Olin R. Rice and Ulysses G. Hanna, representatives of the Frostburg B. P. O. Elks, visited Dr. Bennett and party at their work, and expressed their appreciation for the services rendered.

Mrs. F. E. Rathbun and a committee from the Civic Club served a delightful lunch at the Court House, which was not only enjoyed and appreciated by those present, but it saved much time for the physicians and party as well as for the patients.

Dr. Bennett and party left the Court House at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and after making a professional call at a home in Oakland to visit a patient who could not be taken to the Court House, left for Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Getty, Los Angeles, Cal., and niece Miss Georgia Allen, Seattle, Wash., spent last night with Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Getty, Allegany street. They left this morning for New York City from which port Mr. and Mrs. Getty will sail on the steamer "Resolute," for Europe, next week.—Cumberland News.

A gratifying report from the bedside of Mrs. John G. Robinson, formerly of Oakland, now of Gettysburg, Pa., who was operated upon at the Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore, about ten days ago, was received on Monday to the effect that the patient is recovering and will be able to return to her home in about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Renninger returned to their home in Oakland on Monday afternoon from Mercersburg, Pa., where they had been for a few days visiting their son Julius, who is a student in the Academy and who will take up a special course there immediately following commencement.

Lesson for June 5

PETER PREACHING TO GENTILES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:1-11 18.

GOLDEN TEXT—For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him.—Rom. 10:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Tells a Foreigner About Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Takes the Gospel to Gentiles.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking the Gospel to All Races.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How the Gospel Overcomes Race Prejudice.

The missionary program of the church having broadened to include the Samaritans, we see in this lesson it still widening and embracing the Gentiles. Through the conversion of Cornelius, the "middle wall of partition" was broken down (Eph. 2:4).

I. Cornelius (10:1, 2).

1. His official position (v. 1).

He was a Roman officer over a company of 100 soldiers.

2. His character (v. 2).

(1) A devout, pious man. (2) He was a praying man. (3) He was charitable. He gave much alms. (4) He was respected by his family.

II. The Supernatural Preparation for the Transition of the Gospel to the Gentiles (10:3-33).

This was of divine arrangement. No barrier is too great to prevent the coming together of persons whom the Lord desires to meet. In order to bring this about:

1. Two visions were given.

(1) The vision of Cornelius (vv. 3-8).

While engaged in prayer, an angel of God announced that his prayer and alms had come before God as a memorial, and instructed him to send to Joppa for Peter who would tell him what to do.

(2) The vision of Peter (vv. 9-16).

This took place while Peter was praying (v. 9). He saw a certain vessel containing clean and unclean animals let down from heaven, and heard the command, "Rise, Peter, kill and eat." Peter protested that he had never eaten any unclean thing. God replied, "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common."

2. A messenger sent from Cornelius (vv. 17-22).

Peter was greatly perplexed over what he had seen, but not for long, for messengers from Cornelius made inquiry at the gate for him. The spirit informed Peter of the matter and bade him go, nothing doubting.

3. The meeting of Cornelius and Peter (vv. 23-33).

(1) Peter took six witnesses along (v. 23).

(2) Cornelius waiting for Peter (v. 24).

He called together his kinsmen and near friends.

(3) Cornelius about to worship Peter (vv. 25, 26).

Peter repudiated his act and protested that he was but a man.

(4) The reciprocal explanation (vv. 27-33).

III. Peter's Sermon (vv. 34-43).

1. The introduction (vv. 34, 35).

He showed that God is no respecter of persons. This does not mean that Cornelius was already in a state of grace, thereby saved, but that he was eligible to hear the gospel and accept the terms of salvation.

2. His discourse (vv. 36-43).

In the discourse he touches briefly upon the mission of Jesus, showing that by means of His baptism and anointing with the Holy Spirit, He was qualified for His work as mediator. He then exhibited the work of Christ:

(1) In His life (vv. 36-39).

It was one of beneficence. He went about doing good, even casting out demons as a proof that God was with Him (v. 38).

(2) In His death (v. 39).

The just suffered for the unjust that He might bring us to God (1 Pet. 3:18).

(3) In His resurrection (vv. 40, 41).

In this discourse is set forth:

(a) The basis of salvation—the crucifixion of Christ.

(b) The scope of salvation—whosoever believeth in Him.

(c) The method of appropriating salvation—believing on Him.

IV. The Holy Spirit Poured Out (vv. 44-48).

This was a new Pentecost.

V. Peter Vindicates His Ministry to the Gentiles (11:1-18).

Being called to account for visiting and eating with Gentiles, Peter rehearsed the whole story in such a way that his narrative took the form of logical argument, and showed how God had set His seal upon the work by the miraculous gift of the Spirit.

Closing the Day

Says Dr. R. A. Torrey: "No bank ever closes its business day until its balance is found to be absolutely correct. And no Christian should close a single day until his accounts with God for that day have been perfectly adjusted alone with Him."

The Best Side

The habit of looking on the best side of every event is worth more than a thousand a year.—Doctor Johnson.

Great Not All From World's High Places

Who would have expected that Goliath's antagonist would emerge from the quiet pastures? "Genius hatches her offspring in strange places." Very humble homes are the birthplaces of mighty emancipations, once said the late Doctor Jowett.

There was a little farm at St. Ives, and the farmer lived a quiet and unsensational life. But the affairs of the nation became more and more confused and threatening. Monarchical power despoiled the people's liberties, and tyranny became rampant. And out from the little farm strode Oliver Cromwell, the ordained of God, to emancipate his country.

There was an obscure rectory at Epworth. The doings in the little rectory were just the quiet practices of simple homes in countless parts of England. And England was becoming brutalized, because its religious life was demoralized. The church was asleep, and the devil was wide awake! And forth from the humble rectory strode John Wesley, the appointed champion of the Lord, to enthuse, to purify, and to sweeten the life of the people.

On what quiet farm is the coming deliverer now laboring? Who knows? —Exchange.

Spirit of Tolerance Recompense for Age

I would not advise anyone to grow old without tolerably good health. There are innumerable rules for preserving that, but the best one is common sense. Muscle and health are not the same thing. Some of the most athletic men I have known worried most about their health.

Hardly anything is worse for health than fussing about it. Probably just fussing—pointless fretting, stewing and boiling over—makes as much trouble in the world as anything else. Particularly, I should say, fussing about one's neighbors; raging and fretting because other persons will not do what you believe they ought to do, or think or vote as you would have them. It is worth while to grow old if only to learn the peace that passeth understanding which comes merely from a willingness to let other persons alone.

Perhaps only experienced age can concede, with a free and unfretful heart, that its neighbors have a perfect right to wear red flannel underclothes and hang them over the front porch railing to dry if they wish to. Having achieved that state of mind, one is in a condition to enjoy life.—Will Payne in the Saturday Evening Post.

To Perpetuate His Name

Greeley wrote in his "Recollections of a Busy Life": "Fame is a vapor; popularity an accident; riches take wings; the only earthly certainty is oblivion; no man can foresee what a day can bring forth; while those who cheer today will often curse tomorrow; and yet I cherish the hope that the journal I projected and established will live and flourish long after I shall have moldered into forgotten dust, being guided by a larger wisdom, a more unerring sagacity to discern the right, though not by an unfaltering readiness, to embrace and defend it at whatever personal cost, and that the stone which covers my ashes may bear to future eyes the still intelligible inspiration, 'Founder of the New York Tribune.'"—From "Horace Greeley," by Don C. Seitz.

Friends

After all this, treat thy friend nobly, love to be with him, do to him all the worthinesses of love and fair endearment, according to thy capacity and his . . . Give him gifts and upbraid him not, and refuse not his kindnesses, and be sure never to despise the smallness or the impropriety of them . . . So must the love of friends sometimes be refreshed with material and low caresses, lest by striving to be too divine it become less human: it must be allowed its share of both; it is human in giving pardon and fair construction, and openness and ingenuity, and keeping secrets; it hath something that is divine because it is beneficent; but much because it is eternal.—Jeremy Taylor.

Unfortunate Letter

In English the letter "e" occurs most frequently, says Frank H. Vizetelly, the dictionary sharp. But it is the most unfortunate character in the alphabet because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. It has its bright side, too, for it is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect, and without it there would be no editors, no printers, no news and no announcers!—Exchange.

Sterling Silver

Sterling silver is silver of a guaranteed purity, which is 925 parts of pure silver in 1,000 parts of the metal; the remainder is copper. The Federal Hallmark act of 1906, relating to gold and silver in interstate and foreign commerce, forbids the marking or labeling of silver as "sterling" unless it is within four-thousandths of this standard. Articles marked "coin silver" should contain 900 parts of pure silver in 1,000 parts of the metal.

TREASURER'S TAX SALES

—OF—

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

Rose A. Galvin and Annie R. Connelly, Plaintiffs, vs. Hugh Carey McMahon, Administrator of Thomas A. Carey, deceased; Edward J. Carey, Annie Carey, his wife; James Carey, Adah Carey, his wife; Rachel Carey, Rose A. Galvin, Nancy Carey, Marie Jorden and Clarence Jorden, her husband; Myrtle Gross and Charles Gross, her husband; Lucele Campbell and Edward Campbell, her husband; Kathleen Shoemaker and Leland Shoemaker, her husband; James F. Keedy and Elizabeth Keedy, his wife; Daniel McMahon, Joseph M. McMahon, Leona McMahon, his wife, Rose Ella Wagner, and Wm. B. Wagner, her husband; Mary Jane McMahon, James P. McMahon, Henrietta McMahon, Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, and John Keedy, heirs at law of the said Thomas A. Carey, defendants.

No. 2756 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situate in Garrett county, Maryland, of which Thomas A. Carey died seized and possessed, and to subject the same to the payment of his debts due the plaintiffs and his other creditors, the personal property being insufficient to pay said debts in full, and for an account taken under direction of the Court.

The Bill states: That the said Thomas A. Carey was, in his lifetime, indebted unto the said Rose A. Galvin in the full and just sum of $31.00 on an open account for taxes paid him, a statement thereof is filed and marked Exhibit A. and indebted unto the plaintiff, the said Annie R. Connelly in the sum of $324.00 with interest thereon from April 19, 1926, and costs $7.00 on judgment in the Circuit Court for Garrett county, a copy thereof is filed as a part of this bill and marked Exhibit B; and is also indebted unto the plaintiffs, the said Rose A. Galvin, on judgment, being No. 43 Trials June Term 1922, in Circuit Court for Garrett county, in the sum of $1665.00 with interest thereon from June 17, 1922, and costs $7.00, a certified copy thereof is filed and made a part of this bill, and marked Exhibit C.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, being so indebted as aforesaid, unto the plaintiffs and also unto divers other persons, and having real and personal estate, departed this life on or about the 6th day of October, 1926, intestate, and leaving no widow, but leaving the following heirs at law surviving him, namely, Edward J. Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Annie Carey, both adults and resides in the State of Illinois; James Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Ada Carey, and both of whom are adults and resides in said Garrett county; Rachel Carey, a sister, and an adult and resides in said Garrett county; Rose A. Galvin, a sister, who resides in the State of Pennsylvania; Nancy Carey, a widow of Jacob Carey, a deceased brother, and the following children of the said Jacob Carey, deceased, namely: Mame Jorden, who intermarried with Clarence Jorden, residing in the State of West Virginia, Myrtle Gross, who intermarried with Charles Gross, Lucele Campbell who intermarried with Edward Campbell, all of the State of Virginia; Kathleen Shoemaker who intermarried with Leland Shoemaker, and both of the State of West Virginia, and all nieces of the said Thomas A Carey and daughters of the said Jacob Carey, a deceased brother of said Thomas A. Carey; James F. Keedy, a nephew of said Thomas Carey and a son of Mary J. Carey, a deceased sister, who intermarried with Elizabeth Keedy and resides in the State of West Virginia; and the following children of Lydia McMahon, a deceased sister of the said Thomas A. Carey, and nephews and nieces of the said Thomas A Carey, namely: Daniel P. McMahon, Joseph McMahon, who married Leona McMahon, and all reside in the State of Pennsylvania; Rose Ella Wagner, who married William B. Wagner, who both reside in State of Pennsylvania; Mary Jane McMahon residing in Garrett county; James P. McMahon, who married Henrietta McMahon and reside in State of Michigan; Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, all of Garrett county, and John Keedy, husband of Mary Carey, deceased, whose residence is unknown, but is a non-resident of this State. All of said Defendants are adults.

That admisistration of all and singular the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey has been granted by the Orphans' Court for Garrett county to one Hugh Carey McMahon of said county, who by virtue thereof has possessed himself of the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey and has sold the same; a copy of said letters of administration granted on said estate of said Thomas A. Carey, filed as a part hereof, marked "Exhibit D."

That the plaintiffs are informed and aver that said personal estate is not sufficient to discharge all the just debts due and owing by said intestate, Thomas A. Carey, at the time of his death, but they are advised the same, now in the hands of the said Hugh Carey McMahon ought to be applied to the payment of the claims of the plaintiffs and other creditors of the said Thomas A. Carey, so far as the sum will extend; and that any deficiency in said personal estate ought to be supplied by a sale of all, or such part as may be necessary, of the real estate of the aforesaid debtor.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, was at the time of his death, seized and possessed of a parcel of land situate in said Garrett county, and known as Military Lot No. 598, containing 50 acres, and also of an undivided one-third interest in and to Military lots Nos. 653, 657 and part of Lot No 655 containing ten acres on South side of said lot from a division line running East and West, and a part of Lot No. 654 being the land lying between Lot No. 657 on South and the land of James Carey on the North side, the said interest being the same which was devised to said Thomas Carey by last will and testament of Daniel Carey, probated and recorded in Orphans' Court for Garrett county.

The Bill prays:

That an account may be taken under direction of this Court of the said debts so as aforesaid due to the plaintiffs and all other debts which were owing by said intestate at the time of his death, and which still remain unpaid; and also of the personal estate and effects of the said intestate received by or for the use of the said administrator aforesaid.

That the said personal estate may be applied, in due course of administration, in payment of the debts of the said intestate due the plaintiffs and all other creditors who may come in and contribute to the expenses of this suit.

That the said real estate of the said Thomas A. Carey, deceased, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose may be sold for the payment of so much of the aforesaid debts as may remain unsatisfied by the application of the personal estate as aforesaid, and for general relief, writ of subpoena against resident defendants, and order of publication against non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon this 23rd day of May, 1927, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of June, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, and warning them to appear in this court either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

for Economical Transportation

A car for her, too!

In thousands of average American homes there are now two automobiles—"a car for her, too," so there may be transportation for the family while "he" drives away to work.

And the family car has such an infinite degree of usefulness! Downtown shopping, taking the children to school, afternoon calls, meeting trains and the many additional trips that must be made to and from the house as a part of every day's routine.

No other car is so admirably suited to a woman's requirements as the Most Beautiful Chevrolet.

With striking new bodies by Fisher, and finished in pleasing colors of lustrous, lasting Duco, it provides in abundant measure the comfort, charm and elegance that women admire in a motor car. It is easy to start because of its Delco-Remy electric starting system—famous the world over for its excellence. It is easy to stop because of powerful, over-size brakes. And it is easy to drive and park because of a modern three-speed transmission, smooth-acting disc clutch, and a semi-reversible steering gear that gives finger-tip steering.

Visit our showroom and see the Most Beautiful Chevrolet. Note the wide variety of body types. Mark their sweeping lines and carefully executed details. LOCAL WAR VETERANS HONOR MEMORY OF DEAD

Escorted By Crellin Band, Boy Scouts and Public School Pupils

Army and Navy, who also have seen service in foreign lands, know of the hell through which these men went for their country and who tried to comfort those who had lost loved ones in the war.

"The procession moves slowly up a long, winding hill and as it reaches the top soldiers, sailors and marines swing to the right and left and stand at attention. The caisson carrying a body approaches. The body is now at the entrance of the Amphitheatre built in honor of the Nation's dead. The band moves forward followed by a choir singing a hymn and as the body is placed on the catafalque the choir chants 'Amen.'

"President Harding now enters, the approaches are now filled with men and women in all walks of life and from all kingdoms and republics across the seas—here to honor the unknown American dead.

"The band now playing the National Anthem, soldiers and sailors stand at attention, civilians uncover their heads and gaze at the casket in the center wrapped in the Stars and Stripes. Then a bugle blows attention. It is the silence call and means that each one present must stand in silence for two minutes and instantly everything was so quiet around tens of thousands of people that one could hear the slightest noise.

"There stood thousands of men and women with his and her thoughts and the body and spirit of the boy in the casket. The strain is too great and in a moment could be heard a sigh, a cough. A Red Cross nurse recalls the sights she had seen on the big front the night of the big drive. They are too strong for her and she leans on the arm of a buddy at her side. Tears begin to fall from mothers' and sweethearts' eyes. They clinch their hands, bite their lips and bow their heads in prayer. Even men who have seen wars and gone through many hardships weaken as the tears fill their eyes. The silence is broken and the band playing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and thousands join in the singing of that anthem.

"President Harding now pays tribute to the unknown boy and decorates the casket with the Congressional Medal of Honor and distinguished Service Cross. The President steps back and one by one representatives of all foreign allies steps to the casket, salutes, says a few words in his mother tongue and then place their medal of honor on the coffin.

"As the last representative of our foreign friends leave the casket a hymn is sung which is followed by the reading of a Psalm. For a moment there is silence and the body is being moved to the tomb. As the procession moved slowly a hymn was sung. As the body reaches the tomb a war mother representing many thousands of Gold Star Mothers, whose sons both known and unknown died over there, steps forward and pays tribute to the boy.

"A moment later an American Indian, dressed in his war time costume, steps forward to honor the unknown dead. Just as the signal to lower the body is given the Chief laid his war bonnet and coup stick on the bier of the nation's son. As the Indian pays his tribute the one-time buddies of the unknown dead fire three salvos of artillery. A moment later a bugler stood at the head of the grave and sounded taps—a soldier's farewell. 'Tis true that taps may mean farewell but still it does not erase the memories of former years.

Perhaps it is some mother standing here whose boy rests in the tomb of the unknown, and if her memory and the boy's could be known, perhaps they would be similar to what one great writer has written. War declared, the call to arms. Boys leaving offices, factories, school and farms going to war for a cause they thought just, and to defend thir country. An old, gray haired mother kissing her only son good-bye. A father with tears in his eyes bidding the boy to be brave and good. The last long kiss of a sweet heart as he boarded the train for the training camp. The first night on the army cot, reville, mess call, his first uniform. Many days of hard training in a camp. A transport leaving a harbor with thousands of young Americans; the last sight of the Statute of Liberty and the landing in France. The first letter back home after landing with the A. E. F.; the long ride in a French box car; the many days of hard training, bayonets, gas masks, long hikes and the many days of waiting to go to the front; the last party with his buddy; the order to advance; zero hour—over the top; out on No Man's Land; the thoughts of the dear ones back home; the whistling shells; the smell of gas; signal lights; the gasping and dying of a buddy; the falling in a shell hole; caught in the barb wire; the sting of pain; blood oozing through his coat; he staggers, he gasps, everything before him turns black. He loses consciousness, falls and dies for his country.

"Perhaps some of you are not familiar with the unknown of whom I speak and for your benefit I will tell the history of the unknown—how he was selected, where and why he was given such a burial and why all nations paid him honor.

"Think back ten long years ago when the call to war was given and recall how thousands of young Americans answered the country's call. Think of the time when they left schools, factories and farms to go and serve their country. Bring back to your memory the time when they sailed for France and try and picture the hell through which they went until the end of the war on November 11, 1918.

"'Tis true the war ended on November 11th and as the boys returned many homes were made happy, but still there were many who were unhappy—their boy did not return. Some only knew that their boy was lost in action and could never be found. To bring back these boys would mean much more sorrow and still some would never be brought back because they were unknown. And still many mothers would rather see their boys rest where they had fought and died. Still America wanted to do something for the many hearts that had been broken by the loss of their boy, and, in order to sooth an aching heart and to honor the American dead, America decided to bring back and bury an unknown soldier—one who had lost everything in life, even his identity.

"In the four American cemeteries in France there were many unmarked graves of soldiers that had lost their identity, and from each of these four cemeteries a body of an unknown was taken. These bodies were sent to Chalon-Sur-Marne, France. Upon their arrival they were placed in a darkened room. Sergeant Younger, of Chicago, picked by General Pershing for his heroic action in France, was blindfolded, placed in this darkened room with a bunch of flowers. He walked around the room and placed these flowers upon one of the caskets, and this casket was chosen as the unknow soldier.

"The body with an escort was sent back to America on the steamship Olympia, and where this casket lay during the voyage a plate marks the spot in honor of the unknown.

"The body was taken from the ship upon its arrival in America and on that day nature seemed to show its sorrow. The skies were dark, and cloudy; the rain gently fell as the casket was being moved.

"When the body arrived at Washington it was taken to the Capitol where it lay in state for 48 hours. During this time thousands of people paid their respects to the unknown soldier.

"On the morning the body was carried to Arlington, nature seemed to show it was pleased with the tribute America was paying its unkonwn boy—the skies were clear, and the sun shown bright in all its glory.

"The tomb of the unknown soldier is in Arlington, Virginia—the National Cemetery where rest the bodies of men who fought in our previous war. In the distance can be seen Washington, the capital of the greatest nation of the world. Between Washington and Arlington gently flows the Potomac River, winding its way towards the seas.

"In this tomb lies the body of an unknown American boy. And it represents a shrine of duty—an honor not only to the dead but also all those who gave service to their country. It is a human weakness to try and solve the mystery of whom this unknown is, but this will never be done. He may be a boy from a factory, a railroad engineer, a clerk in a store, a cowboy from the Western plains, a lumberman from the north, a cotton planter from the south, a stockman from the east, an office boy from California, a miner from Maryland, or a farmer's son.

"Perhaps in this group is a Gold Star Mother whose boy rests in the tomb of the unknown, and then there may be standing here a buddy who shared his last drop of water with him—perhaps some ex-soldeir here carried him to the hospital when he fell.

"All that we know is that he was an American soldier and he died fighting for his country, and we cannot tell whose son he was. Whether he was the son of a millionaire, a preacher, a statesman or pauper, we honor him just the same, and in honoring this boy we do not consider his creed. It makes no difference whether he was a Baptist, Lutheran, Methodist or Catholic—because religion makes no difference with a real American.

"Gold and silver may tarnish away, new lands be discovered, stars fall from the heavens; the land may be swept with fire and water; you may tear down the Washington Monument, destroy the statute of Lincoln; the seas may rise and wash away the Statute of Liberty; great statesmen may be born and rule the world, historians may write many histories, but never will they tell who the unknown soldier is. All that we will ever know is how he was selected, where he lies, and that before his tomb night and day walks a soldier guarding the sacred shrine. And beneath the granite lies the body of an American soldier who fought and died for his country and the tomb in Arlington Cemetery of the unkonwn soldier stands for honor, valor, courage and a duty nobly done."

DIED.

LEROY WILSON FRAKER

LeRoy Wilson Fraker, eldest son of Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Fraker, departed this life May 20th, 1927, age 23 years, 1 month and 11 days. He united with the U. B. Church at the age of 14 years.

While his suffering was intense he bore it patiently, speaking of the home he had over there where the pain and toils of life would be over. Everything was done that loving friends could do, but to no avail, for God called and his work on earth was done, and He took him to live with Him. In speaking to his friends, he said he would not be lonesome over there, that he had friends and loved ones there. While the parting was hard we have the assurance that some sweet day, if we are faithful, we will meet again, where there will be no parting and no goodbyes.

He leaves to mourn his departure a wife and son, father, mother, one brother, an aged grandfather, and a host of relatives and friends.

The funeral was held from the U. B. Church at McHenry, Sunday morning, May 22nd, by Rev F. L. Fultz. Interment was made at Flat Woods cemetery, where the services were conducted by Deer Park Camp of the Woodmen of the World, of which organization he was a member.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fraker desire to express their sincere thanks and appreciation for kindness and sympathy extended during the illness and after the death of their son. Also for the many kind and welcome letters of sympathy; and for the floral tributes.

Card of Thanks.

We wish, in this manner, to thank our many friends for their kindness during our recent great bereavement.

MR. and MRS. HAVEN D'WITT.

BITTINGER.

The eccentric Mahel Swan, now accused of the murder of Daniel Mosser, at the Mosser homestead, near Swanton, on Thursday of last week, was a visitor in this village two days before the shooting of Mosser. The Swan woman was here, according to her statement, for the purpose of renting a farm, as she stated she meant to vacate the Mosser farm, where she then resided.

Silas O. Wiley and wife are visiting relatives here at this writing.

James Spencher and family, of Accident, were callers in this neighborhood last Sunday.

John Shank, of Berlin, Pa., was a business visitor in this village a few days ago.

Gilbert Green motored to Oakland last Friday to attend to some business matters.

Webster and Delbert Detrick, of Farmington, W. Va., spent last Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Detrick, at this place.

Carl Bittinger recently purchased a new Ford roadster of the Motor Service Co., Grantsvillle, and was trying out the machine on Sunday.

James O'Brien and family, of North Glade, spent Sunday with relatives on this side of the mountain.

Oscar Brenneman and family visited relatives near Springs, Pa., last Sunday.

Rev. E. E. Campbell, of the local Lutheran church, has announced that Mr. J. H. Kuhns, of Baltimore, a representative of The National Prohibition League, will deliver an address from the Lutheran pulpit in this village, next Sunday morning, June 5th, at eleven O'clock. Mr. Kuhns will also address the people of Meadow Mountain in their Lutheran church in the afternoon of the same day at two thirty, and at Jennings in the evening at seven thirty. This promises to be a rare treat and Rev. Campbell wishes that as many as possible may attend.

Announcement has also been made that the Busy Workers class, of the Lutheran Sunday School, of this village, will hold a social on the public school grounds next Saturday evening, June 4th, to which the public is cordially invited. Boys, bring your sweet-hearts, and don't forget your pocket books.

MARRIED.

Cropp—Robbins—Robert S. Cropp, of Clnrksburg, and Miss Blanche Robbins, daughter of William Robbins and the late Kittie Mitchell Robbins, of Rosedale, Ohio, obtained a marriage license yesterday in New York City, stating that they would be married in the Municipal chapel. Mr. Cropp was born in Oakland, Md., the son of Mrs. Belle Whetsel Cropp and the late Charles Cropp. Miss Robbins lives at 64 West Eighty-ninth street.

While local relatives had not received word of the marriage last night it was understood when Mr. Cropp left for New York last Saturday that the marriage would take place. The bridegroom has been a resident of Clarksburg since 1911. He is a member of the Cropp Brothers Tailoring establishment. It is not definite where the couple will locate, but it is possible that they will live in the east. They are expected in Clarksburg the first of next week. Mrs. Cropp was reared in this city where she has many friends.—Clarksburg Exponent.

VOLUME 52. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, JUNE 9, 1927. NUMBER 16.

TERM OF THE CIRCUIT COURT NOW IN SESSION

Late Judge Albert A. Doub ding Who Delivered Mas- ry Charge to Grand Jury

June term of the Circuit for Garrett county convened y morning at ten o'clock with e Judge Albert A. Doub pre-several dockets are smaller sual and indications point to a erm unless the grand jury, of Charles A. Bender, of Grants- s foreman, returns a larger r of indictments than is anticnaps the most important to be ht to the attention of the grand s the Mosser murder case where- iss Mabel Swann, said to be a d nurse from Baltimore will be ged with the killing of Daniel er, the crime having been com- d at the Mosser farm upon which Swann was the tenant, on the ning of May 26th. Miss Swann retained W. R. Offutt as her at- ey. The woman is in the Oakland and it is said that she will enter ea of self defense.

dge Doub's charge to the grand was delivered immediately after jurors had been sworn, and was as ows:

ntlemen of the the Grand Jury: t might not be out of place for the urt to congratulate you on this utiful morning which you have to ne into court today.

The Court is required to charge the and Jury by immemorial custom at has prevailed for centuries and so to call to your attention certain ecial statutes by reason of the direc- on of the law as it exists in this ate.

You have just taken a solemn oath be very careful about finding in- ictments: not to present any person y reason of envy, hatred, malice or ll-will, and not to leave any man un- resented by reason of affection, favor good-will, if you may have such eling toward any person whose me may be brought up for your con- deration.

The object of the charge, as I under- tand, is to impress upon the Grand ury the solemnity of their obligation. The lives and property, and the liber- ies of many people are to be largely letermined by the action which you ake as grand jurors. The right to ife and the right to liberty are sacred rights. They are inalienable rights except insofar as they may have been sacrificed by violating the law. It is only, therefore, when men have vio- lated the law that they have lost these rights which are said to be inalienable, and that their lives or their property can be taken away, or their liberties by imprisonment. So, therefore, I want to impress upon you the impor- tance of the oath which you have tak- en and the seriousness of the work in which you are now about to be en- gaged.

There are certain statutes which the law requires the court to call to your attention, and others which it has been customary to mention, and it is to those that I now direct your atten- tion. Sections 3 and 4 of Article 27 of the Code of Public General Laws furnish our statutes against the crime of abortion, that secret vice which in- volves the crime of race suicide. On account of its secrecy itis difficult, per- haps, to secure evidence, and yet the law regards it as of such a grave character as to impose upon the court the special duty of calling it to the attention of the grand jury at every session of this court during jury terms.

Section 79 of article 27 provides that the clerk of this court, the reg- ister of wills, tax collectors, sheriffs and notary publics must pay over the money of the state or of the county at stated intervals, and makes it a crime for them to fail to turn over such funds to the state or to the county at the intervals fixed by law. You are therefore requested to make an investigation as to whether this statute is complied with.

I deem it especially important to call your attention to section 87 of article 27, referring to the crime of desertion of a wife or of children. It seems at this time that the marital obligation in many sections is not treated with that gravity that it re- ceived in former times; that men and women enter into the marriage obli- gation without fully understanding or appreciating the gravity of that re- lation and the responsibilities which they are assuming; the obligation to the children they bring into the world, the obligation of the husband to the wife and of the wife to the husband; and as a result there are many aban- doned wives in almost every com- munity; children deserted by their father or mother, and many of them left to the care and custody of the state or of the county. I ask you, therefore, to give your discriminating attention to any such cases as may be called to your attention. Sometimes wives come before the grand jury and try to indict a husband when the separation is due to the conduct of the wife herself. Therefore you will have to examine these cases with care.

It might not be improper for me to call attention to the statute which was passed a few years ago in this state which makes it a misdemeanor for children to fail to provide for their parents and to maintain and support them in the event of their old age, should they fall into a state of neces- sity so that they are not provided with proper food and shelter. This is a very proper and wise statute, and if you know of such instances of any destitute persons when the sons and daughters are able to provide for them it will be your duty to give con- sideration to such cases.

Sections 244 to 257 of article 27 provided against the crime of gamb- ling, which has gotten to be a very common offense against the law. It is the duty of constables to investigate all such cases and to report violations of this law to the grand jury. I ask you to look into this subject with care and also to find out whether the con- stables of the county are discharging their duties under the law.

Section 286 and those that follow, of article 27, provides against the crime of selling opium, narcotics or other habit-forming drugs. Especial- ly since the passage of the 18th Amendment it seems that the use of drugs is on the increase. There is nothing that so destroys the mind and body of the individual as the use of these narcotics, and I therefore deem it my duty to call it to your serious attention.

Article 27 also contains the law that makes it unlawful to carry con- cealed weapons. It is the duty of the court to call this statute to the special attention of the grand jury. Most of our homicides result directly from the violation of this law, and I want to urge upon you gentlemen, if you know of any violation of this law in your own district, or if any witnesses come before you who can testify to violations of this law I ask you to bring indictments against the parties who under the evidence appear to be guilty of this offense. We had a homicide in Cumberland just last night resulting from nothing else ex- cept the carrying of concealed weap- ons in violation of this general stat- ute.

Another matter that I want to men- tion. As civilization advances and the population increases, and as the re- lations of life become more and more complex, every man must surrender part of his liberty. It may be a para- dox to say, but it is nevertheless true, that the more liberties we have the less we have. No man can be truly free unless the community and the members of it are willing to surren- der a large part of their freedom. When Garrett county was a part of Allegany or of Frederick county, when there were fewer people, then man could have and did have freedom and liberty to do almost as he pleased up here in the mountains when he did not offend against anybody else or do anybody else any harm, but now that the population has become greater and since the means of communication have been increased, so that instead of horses we have automobiles and rail- roads, every man, in making any movement or in performing any act must think of the other man; he must think of his neighbor, or his fellow man. So we have our motor vehicle law, which lays down rules and regu- lations under which it is unlawful, for instance, to drive beyond a certain rate of speed; by which it is made un- lawful to pass a car when you are ap- proaching a curve, or the summit of a grade; unlawful to drive upon the left side of the road, and numerous other provisions are contained in that statute, all of which are intended for the safety of the public. Now the time has come when it almost every term of court in some of our counties and states somebody is indicted for the violation of this law; in many cases for manslaughter, when a life or lives are taken away because par- ties have neglected their duty as laid down under this law. I do not know whether there are any cases of this kind to be investigated by this grand jury but I ask you seriously to con- sider this question in your delibera- tions.

It ought not to be necessary, in a community like this, to call attention to the statute now in force relating to the sale and possession for pur- poses of sale of intoxicating liquors. That law has been in force in this county for many years and since 1921 has been re-enforced by the 18th Amendment to the Constitution and the Volstead Act, passed by Congress in order to enforce that Amendment. I think I will read the 18th Amend- ment to the Grand Jury. It seems to me that perhaps some of us may have forgotten what it is, and it is well, therefore, for the public to have it called to their attention. The Amend- ment is as follows:

"After one year from the ratifica- tion of this article the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohi- bited."

That is the law, and when anybody violates the local liquor law of Gar- rett county he violates that provision of the United States Constitution; and Article 6 of the Constitution reads as follows:

The Senators and representatives before mentioned and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executives and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by Oath or Affirmation, to support this Constitu- tion; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

All members of the state legislature and all executives and judicial offi- cers, both of the United States and of the several states have to take that oath. Then the constitution of our own state provides:

Proclamation!

CLEAN UP and PAINT UP.
KILL THE FLIES!

Come on. Let's put things in order. Our whole town can and should be made as clean and as orderly as it's cleanest home. Then we will have a safer, happier, healthier town.

Ambition in its highest conception is to dream big dreams and make them come true. The splendid ambition to have a town clean and beautiful, is soon to become a reality, by the co-operation of the people.

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor, and with the hearty approval of many far-seeing and zeal- ous citizens, we hereby proclaim

JUNE 20th and 21st as the opening days of a CLEAN UP and PAINT UP CAMPAIGN.

Away with the rubbish piles! Banish the plague spots! Clean up the streets and alleys! Cut the weeds, mow the lawns and trim the hedges! Repair and paint every building that needs it.

We need this thorough cleaning and renovation. It is the sensible thing to do for the health, safety, thrift, pride and happiness of all our people.

It's everybody's job. Every man, woman and child will be expected to help. Let there be no slackers.

L. M. FRALEY, Mayor.

STATE WILL ENFORCE LAW AGAINST SUNDAY ANGLERS

Act Prohibiting Gunning and Fishing In County Was En- acted March 19. 1916.

Sunday fishing on Deep Creek Lake or on any other body of water in Gar- rett county will not be tolerated, stat- ed Julius C. Renninger, State's Attor- ney, last night. There have been num- erous people indulging in that kind of sport and as there is a law against such practice, it will be enforced to the utmost, he warned.

The law prohibiting gunning and fishing in Garrett county on the Sab- bath day was passed March 19, 1896, and has since been in effect. Any law- ful resident of the county can have the person offending arraigned and the penalty involved ranges from ten to one hundred dollars fine, depending upon whether it is the first or second offense.

Following is the law as enacted:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Gen- eral Assembly of Maryland, That any person or persons caught fishing, gunning or hunting in any manner on Sunday in Garrett county, Maryland, shall be deemed guilty of a misde- meanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined for th efirst offense not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars, and for the second offense not less than twenty nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for a bona fide resident of said county to arrest any person detected in the violation of this act, and arraign said person so offending before the nearest justice of the peace of said county; and all fines imposed under the foregoing provis- ions of this act shall go, one-half to the informer and one-half to the School Commissioners of Garrett county, to be applied to the county school fund.

St. Mark's Brotherhood Holds Closing Banquet.

St. Mark's Lutheran Brotherhood closed the activities for the year with a banquet, held in the lecture room of the Church last Tuesday evening.

Fifty-four men and boys were present to enjoy the occasion. W. H. Hinebaugh had charge of the pro- gram, and presided at the meeting. "Wade" and "Bill" led the singing. Reeves Blandford and Lew Hanst both sang solos.

Rev. C. A. Shilke gave the address of the evening, who recounted the ac- complishments of the year, and praised the organization for its ac- complishments. He also set before the Brotherhood the aims of the National Brotherhood for the next year.

Rev. R. Aspinall, of Mt. Lake Park, was the guest of the evening, and made a short address. The Brother- hood gave to the women of the Church who served the banquet, a vote of thanks.

President Henry Lauer asked the men of the Church to look forward with pleasure to the next meeting, which will be held on the first Tues- day evening in September.

STATE GRAND OFFICERS VISIT OAKLAND CHAPTER

Oakland Chapter No. 67. O. E. S.. Receives State Members on Annual Trip

The annual visit of the grand officers of the State was made at the last meeting of the Oakland chapter of Eastern Star on Tuesday evening in the Masonic hall, when the worthy grand patron, Mr. E. Dillehunt, and the worthy great matron, Margaret C. Wolgemuth, were presented to the local members.

The grand officers arrange to visit each chapter in the state once each year, according to Mrs. Delbert Davis, and last Tuesday night was the meeting set aside for this visit. The grand marhal and one of the past worthy grand matrons were also pres- ent.

During the meeting Mrs. Esther Davis made a presentation speech to the worthy grand matron, while Prof. Frank. E. Rathbun, local worthy grand patron, made the presentation speech to the worthy grand patron. He also presented Mrs. Sarah Naylor, local grand matron, with a basket of roses.

Short responses were made by the grand officers and from representa- tives of chapters from Terra Alta, Frosthurg and Kingwood.

A short program followed the busi- ness session, consisting of two read- ings by Miss Theresa Kendall and Kenneth Stahl, a piano solo by Suzan- na Dixon, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Anita Mealy. Refreshments were then served.

Some Large Trout Caught

Saturday last at a point along the shores of Deep Creek Lake, Henry M. Speicher, of Accident, caught two brook trout, one of them a little over 19 inches, and the other slightly above 20 inches. The combined weight of the two fish was 7 pounds.

Friend Speicher did not long main- tain the championship, for on Sunday a gentleman from Baltimore, cast his hook into the water of the lake and succeeded in landing a trout 21 inches long and weighing four pounds.

That brook trout grow to be the size of those caught in the lake was a revelation to many, even among old fishermen, and some would not believe that such fish were caught until they had seen them, consequently on Sun- day evening parking space at Rain- bow Inn was at a premium because of the jam of cars bearing hundreds of men and boys anxious to see the large fish, which was on exhibition at the Inn.

Mr. Speicher brought his catch to Oakland and after exhibiting it to many of his friends had a photograph made which he treasures very highly.

Until Mr. Speicher made his catch the championship was held by F. E. Rathbun, who on Friday caught an 18 inch trout.

Interesting Places of Garrett County Pictured

Pictorial and written descriptions of Oakland and five other nearby re- sorts are listed in a 60-page booklet recently put out by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad under the title of "Sum- mer Resorts and Springs." The three forest reserves of Garrett county are also mentioned as being ideal places in which to spend one's vacation.

Oakland is described as a thriving mountain city to which many people come for the summer months. The booklet states: "Being a complete city in itself, Oakland offers beauty of surrounding scenery, pure water, rest, health and quiet, without isola- tion. Good trout fishing abounds from early spring to early summer in the mountain streams and Youghiogheny river, and the bass come up into the river late in the summer."

For those who like their vacations seasoned with a little wild life, a dash of the woods and mountains, the three reserves of Garrett county are recommended.

Other nearby resorts mentioned in the booklet are Mountain Lake Park, Deer Park Hotel, Aurora, Eglon and Terra Alta, West Virginia, with a short description of each.

TEA COMPANY TO HOLD OUTING FOR EMPLOYEES

More Than 1.000 People, Are Expected To Enjoy Picnic At Fair Grounds July 4th.

Superintendents, managers, clerks, and the families of all workers of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company in this district, will hold a picnic at the Oakland Fair Grounds on July 4, announced "Bill" Parks, manager of the Oakland store, today.

The district, of which the Oakland store is a member, containes approxi- mately 75 establishments including Allegany county and Garrett county, Maryland, and several counties in West Virginia. Clarksburg will be the fartherst point in West Virginia from which members will attend. More than 1,000 people are expected to be present.

There will be several foot races and other events, the winners of which will receive prizes, and there will probably be a few brief talks by sup- erintendents of the company. The picnic will in all probability be a basket picnic, according to Mr. Parks.

Entire Community Will Receive Boost Through Booklet.

The Board of Directors of the Oak- land Commercial Club is busily en- gaged in not only advertising but selling Oakland and vicinity to pros- pective summer visitors, as was evi- denced at a meeting held in the City Hall Tuesday evening, according to Thomas A. Gonder, chairman of the board.

Besides the general routine work which took quite a little time to dis- pose of, preparations were made for the publication of a twenty-four page booklet containing twenty views of interest to the general public, along with a vivid description of the natural resources and the invigorating cli- mate of Garrett county. The booklet will also contain a picture of the 18 to 21 inch trout that have been caught this season in the Deep Creek Lake, which is expected to bring to this sec- tion a large number of men and wom- en who enjoy fishing.

In addition to several views of Deep Creek Lake the booklet will contain views of the famous golf course at Deer Park Hotel, scenes at Mt. Lake Park, along the National Highway, the Cove, Muddy Creek Falls, Swallow Falls, etc.

The booklet will be made a conven- ient size for mailing as an enclosure with a letter in a commercial envelope and will be widely distributed thru- out the country.

Civic Club Activities.

The regular meeting of the Oakland Civic Club was held in the municipal building, Tuesday, afternoon. Re- ports were given on various interests of the Club, and committees named for work during the year. The heads of these committees are: Mrs. Mil- ton Sincell, public welfare; Mrs. Jas. Willison, legislative; Mrs. Bernard Gonder, entertainment; Mrs. Harold Harned, educational.

The next meeting of the club will be held the last Tuesday of the month, June 28th, at the residence of the president of the club, Miss Thekla Fundenberg. A good attendance is requested.

GRAND JURY DELIVERS REPORT AND IS DISMISSED

Body Examined 66 Witnesses And Found Indictments In Numerous Cases

The Grand Jury for the present term of Court made its report to Judge Doub yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and was discharged from further service.

The report of the body follows:

To the Honorable the Judges of the Circuit Court for Garrett county:

The Grand Jury for the June term, 1927, of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, respectfully begs leave to submit the following report:

We have to the best of our abilities inquired into the violation of the crim- inal law and endeavored to faithfully perform all the duties required of us as Grand Jurors, and have been in session for the past three days, and have now completed our laborrs.

We have had before us and exam- ined 66 witnesses and have found presentments and indictments in all these cases wherein we believed that the evidence warranted and justified.

In accordance with the instructions of the Court we have looked over and examined the records of the several county offices which we have found kept in a neat and orderly manner, and desire to commend those in charge for the manner in which they conduct their several offices and the courteous treatment extended us.

We commend the janitor of the court house for the neat and clean condition of the building.

We have examined the Sheriff's residence and the county jail and are pleased to report that the same are kept in a neat and sanitary condition, and that the prisoners are comfortab- ly provided for.

In the examination of the court house we find that numerous repairs are necessary.

The following repairs to the jail should be made:

On the second floor the plastering needs repairing in two places, and the outer walls painted. The spouting on the side of the jail on 4th street should be replaced, as same is entirely gone.

Plastering is also needed in several places of the Sheriff's residence and one bedroom should be re-papered. The tiling in the fire place should be repaired, The roof and spouting on the Sheriff's residence requires re- pairs and the outside wood-work should be painted.

The floor covering in the Sheriff's office should be replaced and an office chair provided for the Sheriff.

The plastering in the first vault in the Clerk's office and in the Register of Wills' office should be promptly re- paired.

The sidewalk on the north side of the court house is in bad condition as well as the front steps. Also the coping on the court house should be given attention by making immediate repairs.

We also would recommend that more filing space be provided in the Clerk's office.

We have ascertained that the County Commissioners of the county have provided an appropriation of $8,000 in their recent levy for repairs to the court house and jail, and are about to make these repairs to said buildings. We would however recom- mend that the County Commissioners begin to first make the repairs to the outside of said buildings in order to more properly protect the interior thereof.

We desire to extend to and com- mend Reverend Charles Shilke of the Lutheran Church for the interest manifested by him in the spiritual welfare of the prisoners in the jail.

We desire to express our appreci- ation and thanks to the State's At- torney Julius C. Renninger, for the courteous and able assistance render- ed the Grand Jury during its sessions.

We extend to his Honor Judge Doub our thanks and appreciation for his consideration and courteous treat- ment shown us during this session.

We now beg to be discharged.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES A. BENDER, foreman.
R. R. GILGERT,
CLIFTON J. CLARK, Clerks.

Following the discharge of the jury court recessed until Monday, when the criminal docket will be called with Chief Judge Sloan presiding.

MRS. REAM SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Bert Ream, age 35, died at her home on Oak street on Monday night, following an attack of paralysis. Funeral services were held Wednes- day with interment at Bray church- yard on the Sang Run road.

She is survived by her husband, who has been employed at the power plant at Deep Creek dam, and one daughter, Alice, 16 years old. The family had been residents of Oakland since March.

Arrested For Peddling Without a State License.

Holmes Browning, an employe of a Morgantown (W. Va.) wholesale pro- duce and fruit concern, was arrested in Oakland yesterday as he was dis- posing of a truck load of watermelons. The charge against the offender was selling goods without first having ob- tained a State license to do so. He will be tried Saturday by Justice West.

PUBLIC LOCAL LAWS

Passed by the General Assembly of Maryland at its 1927 Session

RELATING TO FISHING IN DEEP CREEK LAKE.

CHAPTER 532.

AN ACT to authorize and direct the Conservation Department of Maryland to require all persons fishing or boating on the waters of Deep Creek Lake, located in Garrett County, now under lease to the State of Maryland by the Eastern Land Corporation and the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation, to secure a license therefor; prescribing the manner in which said licenses are to be issued and the cost thereof, and how license fees are to be collected; authorizing the establishment of fish hatcheries thereon and providing for the maintenance thereof; defining the kinds and classes of boats which may be used thereon; requiring all owners of boats to secure a license therefor; prescribing the manner in which said licenses are to be issued, cost and manner of collection thereof; requiring the registration of boats; providing for the policing of said area and prescribing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this Act.

WHEREAS, By the project of the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation, an artificial lake, twelve miles long and an average of half a mile wide, has been formed from a number of mountain streams flowing into it, and is privately owned and under control of the said corporation, and the above corporation and the Eastern Land Corporation, leased on March 5, 1926, for a period of five years to the State of Maryland, under the supervision of the Conservation Department, said lake to be set aside as a fish and game sanctuary, with power to regulate fishing and hunting thereon, and

WHEREAS, Said lake is adaptable to rainbow and brook trout, much sought after by game fishermen of this and other States, and is being constantly stocked by the Conversation Department with the above species of fish, and the waters of the lake admirahly situated for the purpose of rearing young trout, it is proposed to stock this lake with fish and permit the public to fish and hunt on this preserve under certain resrrictions, as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland be and he is hereby authorized and directed to require all persons desiring to fish or boat on that part of the waters of Deep Creek Lake under lease to the State of Maryland, by the Eastern Land Corporation and the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation to obtain a license so to do in the manner and under the conditions hereinafter provided in this Act.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to fish upon the waters referred to in Section 1 of this Act without first obtaining from the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county an annual lcense so to do, and paying therefor in the case of non-residents of the State the sum of five dollars ($5.00), in the case of residents of the State who are non-residents of Garrett county the sum of two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50), and in the case of citizens of Garrett county the sum of one dollar ($1.00), together with a fee of twenty-five cents (25c.) for each license to the Clerk for issuance of same. The Clerk of the Court shall on receipt of the proper fees issue a license and tag, to be supplied by the Conservation Department and said license shall bear the signature of the Conservation Commissioner and shall be countersigned by the Clerk who issues same, who shall at the same time fill out a stub attached to the license blank showing the name and post office address of the licensee, and shall then detach said stub and mail same to the Conservation Department the first day of each and every month in each year. Said license shall specify in addition to the licensee's name and post office address the number of license, date of opening and closing of season, and the creel limit in the area referred to in Section 1 of this Act. Such license shall be void on the first day of January of each year following date of issue. Every licensee, while fishing in the area herein prescribed shall have upon his person the license referred to above and shall also display in a conspicuous manner upon his person a tag or other device bearing his license number. The license must be produced for the inspection of the game wardens, deputy game wardens, sheriffs, constables or other officers or persons demanding to see it. The Clerk shall account for the license fees so collected in full without any deductions or commissions, to the Comptroller in the same manner as receipts from the issuance of gunning licenses are now accounted for. The Comptroller shall place the funds so received to the credit of the Conservation Fund to be used hy the Conservation Commissioner for the purposes hereinafter provided in his Act.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the open season in the area herein described for all fish other than carp and suckers, shall he from the first day of June to the fifteenth day of August, hoth dates inclusive, and then only hy means of rod, hook and line. The creel limit on all fish, except trout of all varieties, shall be not over 50 in the aggregate in one day,—no fish smaller than five inches in length shall he taken. The creel limit on trout shall be not over ten in one day,—no trout under eight inches in length shall be taken.

The Conservation Commissioner shall not at any time during the term of the lease herein referred to close to the public any part of the area except he may at his discretion and for the proper propagation of fish close tributaries to the area for their length, not to exceed three at any one time.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to hunt upon the area herein referred to, as prescrihed in Section 1 of this Act without having first complied with all the requirements contained and specified in the game laws of Maryland.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to operate any power boat using as fuel gasoline, kerosene or any other liquids or material, except that the Conservation Department may, if it deems it necessar, place in operation power boats of any description or size to be used as police boats. Any person or persons desiring to maintain a boat other than power boats shall be permitted so to do, only after having obtained from the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Garrett County an annual license and paying therefor as follows:

One rowboat, $2.50 per annum
Two rowboats or more for hiring, $5.00 per boat per annum
Each sail boat, $5.00 per annum

together with a fee of twenty-five cents (25c.) for each license to the Clerk for issuance of same, said license shall specify the number, name and post office address of licensee, size and kind of boat licensed. Blanks for issuing said licenses shall be supplied to the Clerk by the Conservation Commissioner and countersigned by the Clerk who issues same. The Clerk shall fill out the license in duplicate, one to be given to the licensee and the other to the game warden in charge of the area, who shall register all facts thereon in a registration book to be provided by the Conservation Department for that purpose. The said licensee shall plainly display the number of his license in figures at least four inches in height above the water line on both sides of the bow of the boat. The Clerk of Court shall account for the license fees to the Comptroller in the same manner as described in Section 2 of this Act.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to build, construct or have constructed or place any wharf, pier, dock, float, or any projection along or running into or over the waters of this area without first obtaining from the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland and the lessors of said area a written permit so to do.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland shall appoint a citizen of Maryland to act as deputy game warden in charge of the area herein described. The same powers and duties pertaining to and governing the office of deputy game warden as set forth in the game laws of Maryland shall apply to this office. The game warden and deputy game warden of the State of Maryland shall also have full power to enforce the provisions of this Act. His salary shall be fixed by the Conservation Commissioner not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100) per month. Additional deputy game wardens may be appointed by the Conservation Commissioner. Such additional deputy wardens for said area shall not receive a salary but shall receive as their compensation one-half of all the fines derived from the prosecution of violators of this Act arrested by them.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That said Commissioner is authorized and empowered to establish fish hatcheries on the waters of the areas herein mentioned for the purpose of propagation of fish therein, and in order to help defray the expense connected therewith is authorized to use the funds derived from the issuance of licenses and all fines and penalties arising under the provisions of this Act, except as provided in Section 7 hereof.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That the licenses required under the provisions of this Act are separate from and in addition to any licenses now required by the State of Maryland or Garrett County for fishing or hunting in said county.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That any person violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace of Garrett County, or before the Circuit Court of said county, shall be fined not less than five dollars ($5.00) nor more than fifty dollars ($50.00) for each offense and shall stand committed to jail until said fine together with the costs of prosecution are paid.

Sec. 11. And be it further enacted, That all laws or parts of laws, either general or local, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed to the extent of such inconsistency.

Sec. 12. Nothing in this act shall be considered in any manner as changing, modifying or enlarging any of the terms of the lease from the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation and the Eastern Land Company to the State of Maryland for the use of the Conservation Department of the area involved, nor to affect in any manner the rights, privileges and reservations of the lessors therein.

Sec. 13. And be it further enacted, That this act shall become effective June 1, 1927, and shall continue in force only during the continuance of the leases referred to in Section 1 or any renewal or renewals of said leases.

Approved April 5, 1927.

RELATING TO THE OAKLAND VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHAPTER NO. 408.

AN ACT to provide for the payment hy the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, so long as said fire department remains an active fire fighting organization, the sum of six hundred dollars ($600) annually for its benefit and for certain purposes, and to levy said amount on the assessable property of said county, and to provide for the date on which said payment shall be made.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to pay the sum of six hundred dollars ($600.00) annually to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, so long as said fire department remains an active fire fighting organization, for its benefit, said sum of money to be used by the said fire department for the purchase, repair or maintenance of fire fighting equipment.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said payment shall be made on the first day of September in each and every year by the County Commissioners of Garrett County.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and the same are hereby authorized, directed and empowered to levy the said sum of six hundred dollars ($600.00) annually for the above purpose on the assessable property of said county. Before the County Commissioners shall be required to pay the aforesaid sum of money, the said Commissioners shall have the power to require the officers of said fire department to appear before them and show to the satisfaction of said Commissioners that any sums of money paid by the said Commissioners to the said fire department under this Act have been expended for the purposes set forth in this Act, and also that said fire department is an active fire fighting organization. In the event said fire department hereinbefore mentioned ceases to remain an active fire fighting organization, or has not used the moneys appropriated to it for the sole purposes set forth in this Act, then this Act shall become null and void.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved April 5, 1927.

RELATING TO TAXATION OF DOGS.

CHAPTER NO. 59.

AN ACT to add a new section to Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," to be known as Section 93, and to take the place of Section 93 of said Article, which was repealed by Chapter 497 of the Acts of 1918, said section providing that Sections 206 to 208, inclusive, of Article 81 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1924 Edition), title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Taxation of Dogs," be repealed with respect to Garrett County insofar that all license fees for dogs in said county shall be collected by a Constable appointed by the County Commissioners and changing the license fees.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That a new section be and the same is hereby added to Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," to be known as Section 93 and to take the place of Section 93 of said Article, which was repealed by Chapter 497 of the Acts of 1918, and to read as follows:

93. All license fees for dogs in Garrett County shall hereafter be collected hy a Constable to he appointed for that purpose by the County Commissioners of said County. Said Constable shall retain twenty-five per cent of such fees so collected as his remuneration. The license fees shall be one dollar ($1.00) per annum for each male dog or spayed female dog and three dollars ($3.00) for each unspayed female dog in said county. Said Constable shall in all respects take the place of the several Constables in the several election districts of said county heretofore charged with the duty of collecting said license fees in Garrett County under Sections 206 to 208, inclusive, of Article 81 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1924 Edition), title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Taxation of Dogs"; but in all respects, except as herein expressly provided, said entire sub-title consisting of Sections 206 to 212, inclusive, of said Article 81 shall continue to apply in Garrett County.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such inconsistency.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 11, 1927.

CHAPTER NO. 160.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 5 and 7 of Chapter 430 of the Act sof 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Community of Mountain Lake Park", and to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 8 of said Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, amended by Chapter 176 of the Acts of 1916, making taxes a lien upon personal as well as real property.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 5 and 7 of Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Community of Mountain Lake Park," and Section 8 of said Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, as amended by Chapter 176 of the Acts of 1916, be and the same are hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

5. At the said annual meeting or regular adjournment thereof a rate of assessment shall be annually fixed, agreeably to the fair valuation of the different lots, improvements thereon and personal property, said assessment to be collected and enforced in the manner hereinafter set forth.

7. It shall be the duty of the Annual Committee of the Community of Mountain Lake Park at some convenient time between the 1st day of April and the first day of July in every year, to determine for the purpose of assessment, as aforesaid, the fair valuation of all lots, parcels of ground, buildings and other improvements, as well as all personal property subject to county assessment and payment of county taxes located in Mt. Lake Park to which this Act is applicable but not, however, including the improved property belonging to tee Mountain Lake Park Association of Garrett County, which is used for the common good or the general purposes of said Community, or of said Association, all of which property and improvements shall he exempt from valuation and assessment, as aforesaid, and provided that the unimprroved property belonging to the said Mountain Lake Park Association shall be valued and assessed only at the proper value as unimproved property, and to post a fair copy of said valuation, when completed, at some conspicuous place at or near the office or main entrance to the Auditorium grounds aforesaid for public inspection, and at all convenient seasons to have a fair copy of said valuation for the inspection of property owners, at some designated place in Mountain Lake Park, in Garrett County, aforesaid, under the custody of some duly appointed person.

8. The said assessment and taxation shall he due and payable on the first day of October next ensuing the making and adopting of the same by the Annual Meeting, provided for in this Act, and that a fair copy of said assessment and valuation shall be posted for at least fifteen days before the date of said Annual Meeting at two or three of the most public places at Mountain Lake Park, in the discretion of the Annual Committee. And any property owner or other person interested in any such valuation, feeling himself aggrieved by such assessment, shall have the right to file objections with the Annual Committee or with the Superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, in whose custody the same shall he kept and filed for inspection, and such person may obtain such modification of said assessment as shall, to said Annual Committee seem just and right; provided that any such objections shall not be filed after the first of October in the year in which said levy shall be made, unless for special cause made known to such Committee, who shall have the discretion at any time to hear and determine said objections, if they deem it proper to do so. If no objections shall be filed as aforesaid, or if said objections shall be by said Annual Committee overruled, then such assessment or such modification there as the said Annual Committee shall make, shall become fixed for the current year, and the said annual assessment upon such valuation shall become a first lien, baering interest, upon the lot and improvements thereon and personal property so assessed as aforesaid, until paid; but leave is expressly reserved to any and all persons who feel aggrieved at the action of the said Annual Committee on such assessments to apply to the Circuit Court for Garrett County in Equity by bill or petition, and to obtain such rrelief in such manner as said Court may decide upon hearing all the facts in connection with the question so raised. The lien aforesaid for said taxes shall be enforced against any lot and improvements or any personal property at any time after the first day of January succeeding the date of such levy, but no such proceedings to enforce such lien shall be taken unless authorized by the Annual Committee of said Community; and the Tax Collector or Treasurer of said Community or either one of said officers, shall have all of the rights and powers for the collection and enforcement of the said taxes as are given the County Treasurer of Garrett County under Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, approved on the 8th day of April, 1890, and to the same extent as if the said Act was enacted in this amendment verbatim, unless the proceedings of such Treasurer or Collector shall be modified by ordinances passed by the Annual Meeting, which hody shall have the power at any time to modify or change the method of collection of said taxes.

Sec. 2. And he it further enacted, That his Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 25, 1927.

AUTHORIZING THE TOWN OF KITZMILLER TO ISSUE MUNICIPAL BONDS.

CHAPTER NO. 208.

AN ACT to provide for a bond issue of The Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville, Garrett County, Maryland, for the erection of a river wall along the Potomac River to protect said town from river floods in said river, and to submit to the legally qualified voters of said town the question of whether or not said bonds shall be issued.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville, in Garrett County, Maryland, are hereby authorized and empowered, in their discretion, to borrow upon the faith and credit of said town a sum not exceeding five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) and to issue and sell coupon bonds therefor in the denomination of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250), each to be signed by the Mayor of said town and to be countersigned by the Clerk of the Town Council thereof, and the seal of said town attached, and to be registered by said Clerk of the Town Council in a book to be kept by the Mayor and Town Council for the purpose of registering "River Wall Bonds." Said bonds by this section authorized shall be known and designated as "River Wall Bonds," and shall bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of January and July in each and every year until the said bonds are paid; said bonds shall be exempt from all State, county and municipal taxation, and shall have printed on them a distinct reference to the Act authorizing their issue.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said bonds shall bear date of July 1, 1927, shall be numbered serially and shall be payable as follows: One bond of the value of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) shall be due and payable on the first day of January, 1929, and thereafter one bond of the said value of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) shall mature and be payable on the first day of January in each consecutive year in the order of the consecutive numbers until the entire issue of said bonds is taken up and redeemed; reserving the option to the Mayor and Town Council aforesaid to take up and redeem at any interest period after ten years any and all outstanding bonds running more than ten years at the face value thereof, with accrued interest. The said bonds shall be a lien on all property within the jurisdiction of the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That when said bonds shall be executed as herein prescribed, the said Mayor and Town Council shall advertise the same in at least one newspaper published in Garrett county, and in such other newspaper, if any, as they may deem advisable, inviting sealed proposals for the purchase of said bonds, or any part thereof, with the privilege to said Mayor and Town Council to reject any or all bids. The Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville, aforesaid, may advertise the said bonds for such length of time as in their discretion is adequate notice to the public and may offer all of said bonds for sale at the same time or may offer them at different intervals in such installments or amounts as they may deem advantageous to said town in carrying on the work of constructing the river wall for which they are issued. It is especially intended that the power hereby vested in the Mayor and Town Council shall be a continuing power until the whole five thousand dollars ($5,000) shall have been issued and sold.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the money arising from the sale of said bonds shall be kept as a separate fund by the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville in some safe bank, shall be used exclusively for the purposes of this Act and shall be drawn out only on checks signed by the Mayor and countersigned by the Clerk of the Town Council, and the said Clerk of the Town Council shall keep in a book for the purpose a full registry of the bonds sold, the number of bonds and name of the purchaser or purchasers, the amount realized on the sale or sales and any transfers and assignments of the same.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the funds realized from the sale of bonds aforesaid shall be available and shall be used exclusively for the completion, under the supervision of the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville or such engineer as they may employ, of the river wall already partly constructed along the Potomac River above and at said town and for the further erection of any additional wall along said river which said Mayor and Town Council shall deem necessary and proper for the protection of said town and its inhabitants from flood waters overflowing the banks of said river, and said Mayor and Town Council are hereby clothed with all the power and authority necessary for the erection of said wall and are authorized to build and construct the same.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That, for the purpose of retiring the said bonds authorized to be issued by this Act, and the payment of the interest thereon, there shall be levied against all the assessable property within the corporate limits of the said town of Kitzmillersville by the Mayor and Town Council of said town annually, so long as any of said bonds are outstanding and not paid, a tax sufficient to meet the interest or any part of said interest on said bonds as it becomes due, and to pay the principal thereof as they mature, said tax to be determined, levied, collected and paid over in the same manner as provided for other taxes in said municipality.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That on the first Tuesday in May, 1927, there shall be a special election held in the town of Kitzmillersville, which election shall be held in the same manner and under the same regulations as other municipal elections held in said town, for the purpose of submitting the question as to whether or not this Act shall take effect to all legal voters of said town who are qualified to vote at a regular town election, and all ballots at said election shall have printed on them the words following, to-wit: "For River Wall Bonds" and "Against River Wall Bonds," and the qualified voters of said town desiring to vote on said question at said election shall indicate their choice of said propositions by making a cross-mark opposite the proposition for which they desire to register their vote, and if a majority of the votes so cast are marked "For River Wall Bonds," then this Act shall be in full force and effect, otherwise shall be null and void and of no effect. The judges of election shall, under their hands and seals, immediately after said election certify to the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville the result of said election.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That this Act is hereby declared to be an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health and safety, and having been passed by a yea and nay vote, supported by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses of the General Assembly, the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 1, 1927.

GRANTSVILLE WOMEN TO ATTEND SHORT COURSE

A Number of Members of the Community Club to go to College Park June 13-18.

(By G. W. Diefenbach)

Grantsville, Md., June 8, 1927.—The following named members of the Woman's Community Club have signified their intention of attending the Rural Women's Short Course to be given at the University of Maryland, College Park, Md., next week: Mrs. J. U. Stanton, Miss Cora Hockman, Miss Lula M. Shaw, Miss Christena Winterberg, Mrs. C. C. Beachy, Mrs. H. P. Miller, Mrs. Harold Boucher, Miss Gertrude Hone.

Monday was set apart as Road Day on the cemetery road, leading from the public road to the town cemetery. This road has been in a very bad condition for a long time, being so bad at times that it was almost impossible for vehicles to get through. The use of four teams for hauling rock were given, besides a number of men assisting with the work of breaking. A great amount of work was done. This, with the work being done by the Town Council, will almost pike the road the entire length. It is expected that the use of the county roller can be secured to firmly imbed the broken stones. Further help and funds could be used, as a covering will have to be put on, ditches and culverts attended to and other work to properly complete the job. Any one interested and desirous of having a part in this work may send their donations to Mayor A. C. Stanton, who will see that they are expended in the proper manner.

On Sunday, May 29th, a large army plane was forced to land on the farm of Amos Yoder, situated between Grantsville and Springs, Pa., because of the dense fog. Lieut. V. M. Guyman of the U. S. Marine Corps was the operator, and he was entertained during his stay in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Miller. He offered a free trip to any one wishing to go to Washington by neroplane. On Monday afternoon, when all was in readiness for departure, Clande Miller, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, took advantage of the Lieutenant's offer and made the trip with him. They were one and a half hours in the air, landing at Quantico, Va., a Marine Camp. The entire trip, Mr. Miller says, was made without sight of land. Lieutenany Guyman took him to Washington by automobile and he was back home by 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, having made the entire trip before many of his friends missed him.

The Lohr family reunion was held at the Lohr homestead near Bittinger, on May 29th, also a visit to the graves of the deceased members of the family for decorating the graves. Those who were assembled for the occasion were Miss Mary Lohr, C. P. Lohr and family, Fred Lohr and children, D. L. Miller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Cleman Folk and daughter, of Springs, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lohr, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Homer Durst and family, of Salisbury, Pa., H. A. Schaefer and family, Mrs. Elizabeth Lohr and son Wendell, of Grantsville.

A convoy of ninety-seven U. S. Army motor trucks passed thru here last week, enroute from Columbus, Ohio, to Camp Holabird, near Baltimore. While crossing Meadow Mountain, east of here, one of the men, Private William Clark, suffered an attack of acute appendicitis, it being necessary to rush him by auto to the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, for an emergency operation, which has been reported as successful.

The object of tbe trip was to give the men certain experiences which is necessary in their course, and upon passing certain tests, will be certified as motor experts.

Henry Winterberg, of Cumberland, a former resident of Grantsville, was married last week to Mrs. Frances Riley, of Mt. Savage, Md., The ring ceremony was used by Rev. H. T. KEEPING UP WITH MOTORS

"The advancement of the mind has not advanced coevally with the advancement of science and invention." This was only one of the many striking statements made by Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, of New York City, who gave the Commencement address at the graduation exercises of West Virginia University, held Tuesday in Morgantown, West Virginia.

In 1922, he said, the person giving the commencement address at Harvard University stated that they were all living in a very fast and furious age. But here we all are living in 1927 and think the same thing about our time and consider 1822 as a placid and uneventful year. If the speaker then thought that the age was fast in 1822, he would perforce die of excitement were he to live in these modern times.

The fact is obvious that rapid strides have been made in scientific discoveries and inventions. It took a sailing vessel six weeks to make one journey across the ocean two hundred years ago, but recently two planes crossed the Atlantic in less than 33 hours. This remarkable advance in aviation has been equalled in other scientific advancement but in the meantime, what has become of the mind, and the training for the mind, and the advancement of man to keep pace with this motorized world?

The speeding up of the material things of the world has caused an unrest in the placidity of the mental and moral side of life, and many pessamistic men fear for the future of the country, of prohibition, and of the younger generation. But it is nothing more than the mental side of man trying to catch up with the motor world, the world of speed.

Reverand Sockman gave as his solution for this that "there be better teachers, better preachers, a better background and foundation upon which to build the mental and moral side of life.

A producer, to the business man, is one who makes something material. He would not consider that a teacher is a producer, but he is. Whether the world in general thinks so is another question. It is obvious that inventors make fortunes by combining known substances in such a way that they will act in another. Possibilities for radio were here when the earth was formed but it remained for one man to discover it and become wealthy.

But the producer of minds, although he is an inventor, rarely becomes independently wealthy. Inventors like these go unpaid yet they are just as important as the scientific investigators.

When as much attention is given to producers who teach the things in life besides the material things, then perhaps the mental and moral life will catch up with the motor world. As it is now, the motorized world is going to fast and people try in vain to catch up. They can't because they do not know how. They haven't been taught.

CLEAN UP NOW

Yesterday a resident of Oakland looked out upon his back yard. In one corner was a pile of ashes, trash, garbage, and other unsightly material. He knew it was unsightly and and thought that it was about time for a clean-up. Probably the same thought and experience have been in the minds of other residents. Especially was it in the minds of the Mayor and Town Council and members of the Civic club.

Two days, June 20 and 21, have been set aside by the council as days to clean up and paint up. They are facilitating matters by furnishing free of charge a team that will be sent to each home to gather up the rubbish.

Everybody knows that he ought to clean up. It is when to do it that worries him. But now should he the time because all the trash can be easily hauled away with no expense to the individual.

We are all striving to make Oakland a better place in which to live, and a better place in which to live is one in which all can be healthy. Rubbish piles and trash do not promote health so let's get rid of them when we may.

King And Queen Of Health Day

The cornation of the king and queen was an interesting feature in the Child Health day, held Tuesday, May 31, at Oakland. John Darby and Lois Sincell were the ones honored. Their attendants were Mamie Treacy, Eleanor Sincell, Jack Lawton, Bobby Broadwater, Jane Fraley, Margaret Ruddy, Barbara Maffett, Guy Hinebaugh, Peggy McComas and Edwin Darby.

The celebration also included a parade with floats showing the work that is being done under the supervision of Miss Rhesa M. King, county public health nurse.

JUNE TERM OF THE CIRCUIT COURT NOW IN SESSION

Sec. 6. Every person elected or appointed to any office of profit or trust under this Constitution or under the laws made pursuant thereto shall, before he enters upon the duties of such office, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: I, ———, do swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States and that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the State of Maryland and support the Constitution and Laws thereof; and that I will, to the best of my skill and judgment, diligently and faithfully, without partiality or prejudices, execute the office of ——— according to the Constitution and Laws of this State (and, if a governor, senator, member of the House of Delegates, or judge) that I will not, directly or indirectly, receive the profits or any part of the profits of any other office during the term of my acting as ———.

Now, therefore, every senator, every member of Congress, every state executive and state officer, every member of the house of delegates or of the state senate, every one of your county officers and state officers, has taken that solemn oath to support the Constitution; every naturalized citizen is required to take that oath. Now suppose all of them kept and observed that oath. Suppose none of them violated that oath. You would have in Maryland, and you would have in the United States such a body of public opinion in favor of the enforcement of the 18th Amendment that the liquor problem would not be a problem at all in the United States.

Now, gentlemen, I am calling your attention, not to the 18th Amendment, nor the Volstead Act, which you have no power to enforce; but what I am calling to your attention is your own local liquor law which we have had here for many years. It makes no difference whether you and I are in favor of the statute or not. It ought to be utterly immaterial to this court whether the whole grand jury were made up of men who were opposed to the 18th Amendment or to our local law or not, because so far as your duty is concerned you have just taken a solemn oath under which you have sworn to enforce the law, and you, as the grand jury, and I, as a member of this court, have nothing to do with the making of the law. You are here for one purpose, and one purpose only, and that is to enforce the law. The legislature declares what the law is. We have our duty to perform and that is to see that that law is enforced in this county and in this state. In this county at present the only statute which you can enforce is the statuto which makes it unlawful to sell or to have intoxicating liquor in possession for the purpose of sale. If these cases are brought to your attention I ask you—I don't ask this grand jury to indict anybody, but I do ask you to consider the testimony and the evidence adduced before you, and if a prima facie case is made out, then it becomes your duty to bring a presentment and indictment. It might not be improper for me to state now in the presence of the grand jury and this audience that there is an amendment to the local liquor law making it unlawful to manufacture intoxicating liquor in Garrett county but the law did not take effect, however, until the first day of June. The manufacture of liquor, therefore, did not become unlawful in this county so far as your local law is concerned until the first of June, and I hereby think, therefore, that sufficient time has not passed within which to get evidence of violations of that particular statute, but I mention it now so that the public generally may know that the statute is in existence and will be enforced in this county hereafter.

I ask you gentlemen to be as expeditious as possible in the discharge of your duties and thereby to save as much expense as possible to the taxpayers of this county, but do not let your desire to expedite your labors interfere with the full discharge of your duties as grand jurors. It will be your duty as a body to visit the jail and to go through it to find out if you can, whether the prisoners are properly cared for and whether the sanitary conditions and the food supply are what they ought to be. Some of the parties confined there may be innocent of any wrongdoing or crime, but whether innocent or guilty makes no difference. They are entitled to the benefit of good food and healthful surroundings while incarcerated and you should, therefore, be particularly careful and painstaking in your examination of the jail.

If you shall at any time wish the advice of the court in any respect you may consult with the court and the court will be glad to give you the benefit of any knowledge that it may have. The State's Attorney will be with you at all times, and he will furnish you with the statutes I have referred to as well as any other information or advice which you may desire.

It will be your duty to select one or two of your members as clerks, so that a proper record of your proceedings may be available for the use of the State during the trial of cases before the petit jury.

LOCH LYNN.

The Children's Day program will be rendered at the U. B. Church, here, on Sunday, June 12th, at 8 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The "Reds", one of the working divisions of the U. B. Ladie's Aid, will hold a food sale at Weeks and Weeks store on Saturday, June 11th. Your patronage is solicited.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stevenson and daughter, Dorothy, attended the commencement exercises at the University of Maryland, where their daughter, Miss Kathryn Stevenson, graduated with high honors.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ream were in Dayton, Va., last Thursday attending the commencement exercises of Shenandoah Institute, where their only son, Elmus, graduated, he, also, leading his class with first honors.

BITTINGER.

While hauling sand for the construction of a foundation for a new dwelling house on his farm in the Dry Run section, just east of Meadow Mountain, Stephen Durst was kicked in the face by a horse which he was working in a four horse team, last Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Davis, of Grantsville, was hastily summoned and found that Mr. Durst was suffering from a broken jaw and a slight fracture of the skull. The unfortunate man was taken at once to the hospital at Frostburg, but as it was discovered that that institution was not equipped for the proper treatment of the case, he was taken to Baltimore for treatment and it is hoped he may recover.

A car being driven by Harvey Miller left the road on the Miller Hill last Saturday evening and Mr. Miller was found pinioned beneath his overturned machine by a farmer living nearby, and was released and brought to his home near this village. Mr. Miller was badly cut and bruised about the face and head, but it is thought that no serious injuries were sustained. Mr. Miller was on his way to visit his parents at their home in this section.

The stork's latest generosity was manifested in the gift, on last Saturday, of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Broadwater, of this settlement.

A truck load of school boys and girls, from the village, school attended the annual Athletic Meet at Oakland, last week, and report having spent an enjoyable day, despite the rain and bad condition of the ground.

Herbert Buskle, who graduated from the preparatory department of the seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., returned to his home here last week, and will spend the summer with his bride here.

Deputy Sheriff Griffith, of Oakland, was in this village recently on official business.

Card of Thanks.

We desire in this manner to thank our many friends who were so kind to us during the recent illness and death of our husband and father; also those who so kindly expressed their sympathies afterward and in so many ways make the burden lighter. We also thank the Deer Park lodge of the W. O. W. for its services; also those who sent flowers. May God reward all. Mrs. LeRoy Fraker and Son.

PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:1-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.—Ps. 34:19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Takes Care of Peter.

JUNIOR TOPIC — God Answers Prayer for Peter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Does God Deliver Us?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of United Prayer.

I. Peter's Imprisonment (vv. 1-4).

1. By whom (v. 1).

2. The reason (v. 3).

It was to gain the favor of the Jews. Herod was not a Jew, but an Edomite, therefore knew that his success was dependent upon his having the good will of the Jews. Herod for the sake of popularity manifested a deep sympathy for degenerate Judaism. It was but the sympathy of the politician. Since the church had developed so as to be a successful rival of Judaism, indeed was already displacing it, he saw an opportunity to curry favor with the Jews by putting forth his hands against it.

3. The method (v. 4).

He was arrested, put into prison and guarded by four quaternions of soldiers. A quaternion is a guard of four soldiers. Humanly speaking, it was impossible to escape. They had doubtless heard of Peter's escape from jail before, so they thought they would take no risks this time. However, they made one fatal mistake—they left out God.

II. The Church of God In Prayer (v. 5).

The church was at a crisis. Her situation was most grave. James, one of the brethren of the church, was dead, and Peter, the most prominent of all, was in prison. In this desperate strait they did the wise thing—they betook themselves to prayer. It was a noteworthy prayer.

1. It was unto God, not unto men, or to be heard of men. This is a very common fault today. All true prayer is unto God.

2. It was united prayer.

There is peculiar power in the united prayer of God's people.

3. It was an intensely earnest prayer.

It was more than unceasing prayer, it was the earnest desire of the soul as it stretched itself out toward God.

4. It was definite prayer.

They specifically offered prayer to God for Peter. Their prayer was concentrated, definite and specific.

III. Peter Delivered by an Angel (vv. 6-11).

1. Peter sleeping (v. 6).

This shows that he was not greatly disturbed over the matter. The Lord keeps in perfect peace those whose minds are stayed on Him. (Isa. 26:3).

2. Peter leaves the prison (vv. 7-10).

A heavenly light shone in the prison. The angel smote Peter on the side; the chains fell off. Peter put on his clothes and passed by one guard after another through the iron gate out into the city.

3. The effect upon Peter (v. 11).

Although the matter was so wonderful to Peter, even outside his consciousness, when he came to himself he was assured beyond peradventure that God had miraculously delivered him from Herod's wicked hands.

IV. Unconscious Unbelief (vv. 12-19).

1. Behavior of Peter and the church (vv. 12-17).

Peter went to the house of Mary and knocked. The knock was answered by Rhoda who was so overjoyed that she forgot to open the gate, and ran in and told them that Peter was at the gate. The disciples were not prepared for such good news, and even accused her of madness. She, undaunted, insisted. They offered as an explanation that perhaps it might be Peter's guardian angel in his likeness. They got more than they expected. Peter rehearsed unto them the Lord's dealing with him, and instructed them to make these things known unto James and the brethren.

2. The behavior of the soldiers (vv. 18,19).

There was great agitation among them as to what had become of Peter. This was a serious matter since they were responsible for him. Not being able to account for Peter's escape, Herod commanded that they be put to death. After this Herod went down to Caesarea. Here he was adored as God. Because he arrogated this honor to himself, the Lord smote him. Herod died, but the Word of the Lord grew and multiplied.

Life and Death

It is good when the garden of life and the sepulcher of death are linked with Him who was crucified. He makes the garden fenfold richer and more beautiful. He robs the sepulcher of its terror and gloom.—Rev. Alex. Smellie, D. D.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

Rose A. Galvin and Annie R. Connelly, Plaintiffs, vs. Hugh Carey McMahon, Administrator of Thomas A. Carey, deceased; Edward J. Carey, Annie Carey, his wife; James Carey, Adah Carey, his wife; Rachel Carey, Rose A. Galvin, Nancy Carey, Mame Jorden and Clarence Jorden, her husband; Myrtle Gross and Charles Gross, her husband; Lucele Campbell and Edward Campbell, her husband; Kathleen Shoemaker and Leland Shoemaker, her husbnad; James F. Keedy and Elizabeth Keedy, his wife; Daniel McMahon, Joseph M. McMahon, Leona McMahon, his wife, Rose Ella Wagner, and Wm. B. Wagner, her husband; Mary Jane McMahon, James P. McMahon, Henrietta McMahon, Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, and John Keedy, heirs at law of the said Thomas A. Carey, defendants.

No. 2756 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situate in Garrett county, Maryland, of which Thomas A. Carey died seized and possessed, and to subject the same to the payment of his debts due the plaintiffs and his other creditors, the personal property being insufficient to pay said debts in full, and for an account taken under direction of the Court.

The Bill states: That the said Thomas A. Carey was, in his lifetime, indebted unto the said Rose A. Galvin in the full and just sum of $31.00 on an open account for taxes paid him, a statement thereof is filed and marked Exhibit A, and indebted unto the plaintiff, the said Annie R. Connelly in the sum of $324.00 with interest thereon from April 19, 1926, and costs $7.00 on judgment in the Circuit Court for Garrett county, a copy thereof is filed as a part of this bill and marked Exhibit B; and is also indebted unto the plaintiffs, the said Rose A. Galvin, on judgment, being No. 43 Trials June Term 1922, in Circuit Court for Garrett county, in the sum of $1665.00 with interest thereon from June 17, 1922, and costs $7.00, a certified copy thereof is filed and made a part of this bill, and marked Exhibit C.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, being so indebted as aforesaid, unto the plaintiffs and also unto divers other persons, and having real and personal estate, departed this life on or about the 6th day of October, 1926, intestate, and leaving no widow, but leaving the following heirs at law surviving him, namely, Edward J. Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Annie Carey, both ndults and resides in the State of Illinois; James Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Ada Carey, and both of whom are adults and resides in said Garrett county; Rachel Carey, a sister, and an adult and resides in said Gnrrett county; Rose A. Galvin, a sister, who resides in the State of Pennsylvania; Nancy Carey, a widow of Jacob Carey, a deceased brother, and the following children of the said Jacob Carey, deceased, namely: Mame Jorden, who intermarried with Clarence Jorden, residing in the State of West Virginia, Myrtle Gross, who intermarried with Charles Gross, Lucele Campbell who intermarried with Edward Campbell, all of the State of Virginia; Kathleen Shoemaker who intermarried with Leland Shoemaker, and both of the State of West Virginia, and all nieces of the said Thomas A Carey and daughters of the said Jacob Carey, a deceased brother of said Thomas A. Carey; James F. Keedy, a nephew of said Thomas Carey and a son of Mary J. Carey, a deceased sister, who intermarried with Elizabeth Keedy and resides in the State of West Virginia; and the following children of Lydia McMahon, a deceased sister of the said Thomas A. Carey, and nephews and nieces of the said Thomas A Carey, nnmely: Daniel P. McMahon, Joseph McMahon, who married Leona McMahon, nnd nll reside in the State of Pennsylvania: Rose Ella Wagner, who married William B. Wagner, who both reside in State of Pennsylvania; Mary Jane McMahon residing in Garrett county; James P. McMahon, who married Henrietta McMahon and reside in State of Michigan; Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, nll of Garrett county, and John Keedy, husband of Mary Carey, deceased, whose residence is unknown, hut is a non-resident of this State. All of said Defendants are ndults.

That administration of all and singular the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey has been granted by the Orphans' Court for Garrett county to one Hugh Carey McMahon of said county, who by virtue thereof has possessed himself of the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey and has sold the same; a copy of said letters of administration granted on said estate of said Thomas A. Carey, filed as a part hereof, marked "Exhibit D."

That the plaintiffs are informed and aver that said personal estate is not sufficient to discharge all the just debts due and owing by said intestate, Thomas A. Carey, nt the time of his death, but they are advised the same, now in the hnnds of the said Hugh Carey McMahon ought to be applied to the payment of the claims of the plaintiffs and other creditors of the said Thomas A. Carey, so far as the sum will extend; and that any deficiency in said personal estate ought to be supplied by a sale of all, or such part as may be necessary, of the real estate of the aforesaid debtor.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, was at the time of his death, seized and possessed of a parcel of land situate in said Garrett county, and known as Military Lot No. 598, containing 50 acres, and also of an undivided one-third interest in and to Military lots Nos. 653, 657 and part of Lot No 655 containing ten nores on South side of said lot from a division line running East and West, and a part of Lot No. 654 heing the land lying between Lot No. 657 on South and the land of James Carey on the North side, the said interest being the same which was devised to said Thomas Carey by last will and testament of Daniel Carey, probated and recorded in Orphans' Court for Garrett county.

The Bill prays:

That an account may be taken under direction of this Court of the said debts so as aforesaid due to the plaintiffs and all other debts which were owing by said intestate at the time of his death, and which still remain unpaid; and also of the personal estate and effects of the said intestate received by or for the use of the said administrator aforesaid.

That the said personal estate may be applied, in due course of administration, in payment of the debts of the said intestate due the plaintiffs and all other creditors who may come in and contribute to the expenses of this suit.

That the said real estate of the said Thomas A. Carey, deceased, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose may be sold for the payment of so much of the aforesaid debts as may remain unsatisfied by the application of the personal estate as aforesaid, and for general relief, writ of subpoena against resident defendants, and order of publication against non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon this 23rd day of May, 1927, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of June, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, and warning them to appear in this court either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

COURT STILL IN SESSION; DISPOSES OF MANY CASES

Nick Coker Charged With Intent To Murder, Found Guilty—Sentence Not Pronounced

A verdict of guilty has been given by the court against Nick Coker, who was charged with intent to murder. He has not yet been sentenced.

Coker, who entered a plea of not guilty, was alleged to have fired three bullets through a frosted window at the office of the Davis Coal and Coke company at Kempton with the intention of killing Harry Nutter, paymaster of the company, then going to the home of Mr. Schell, the store manager, and firing upon his house several times.

He was employed as a miner at the coal company's plant and is said to have been indebted for supplies at the store. The amount due was deducted from his pay check, which is said not to have been to his liking.

Other cases which have been disposed of in the criminal docket for the June term are:

Ethel Rosier who was charged with keeping a disorderly house was found not guilty.

The case of Mabel Swann was brought up. She entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of slaying Daniel Mosser. A suggestion and affidavit by the defendant for removal was presented. By order of the court, the case was removed to Allegany county.

Asa Riggs, charged with the desertion of his wife and child, was found guilty. It was ordered by the court that the traverser enter into a recognizance in the sum of $200 conditioned that he pay the costs of his prosecution and that he pay to his wife, Lillian Riggs, the sum of $20 per month toward the support of his wife and child, and in default of such recognizance that he be confined in Maryland House of Correction for the term of six months.

Alfred Bittinger was indicted on the charge of possessing liquor. A plea of guilty was confessed by the defendant. Sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and the costs of prosecution and to stand committed to the custody of the sheriff until fine and costs are paid, and if not forthwith paid, to undergo a confinement in the House of Correction for the term of six months.

Robert L. Hoye was charged with the same offense, that of possession of liquor. He plead guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

William Lucas, charged with possession of liquor, plead guilty. Fined $300 and costs, or six months in House of Correction.

Edward Billmeyer, same. Fined $250 or six months in House of Correction.

David Shank, charged with sale of liquor, entered plea of guilty and was fined $200 and costs and six months in the House of Correction, or one year in the House of Correction.

Clarence Swauger, charged with the possession of liquor entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $200 and costs or six months in the House of Correction.

Christian Hutzel, indicted for selling liquor to minors, also entered a plea of guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

Melvin Carter, charged with pandering entered a plea of not guilty. He was found not guilty.

Carl A. Liller, indicted for forgery, entered plea of guilty. Paroled for three years and ordered to pay the costs of his prosecution.

MRS. MARGARET JANE FORMAN

Mrs. Margaret Jane Forman, widow of the late Ami Forman, aged 74 years, died Sunday morning. Death was due to a lingering illness following an attack of influenza. She was buried Monday afternoon at Underwood, the funeral services being held in the Underwood church, the Rev. F. L. Fultz, officiating.

The deceased was born April 18, 18-, near Terra Alta, West Va. She was married in 1871 to Ami Forman of Oakland and was the mother of seven children, four of whom are yet living. They are Mrs. Emma Barkman, Crellin, Mrs. G. J. Slabaugh, Akron, O., Mrs. Russell Beckman, Oakland, and John C. Forman, Oakland. She is also survived by two brothers, Joseph W. Feather, Oakland, Solomon B. Feather, Terra Alta, and three sisters, Mrs. T. J. Guseman, Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Henry Cramer, and Mrs. Bruce Cramer, Terra Alta.

UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR SPEAKS BEFORE WOMEN

Education for Citizenship Was Title of Address Given Before 60 of Homemakers Clubs

Professor Richardson, of Maryland University, spoke to over sixty women gathered together at the Maryland theatre on Wednesday afternoon for the first county meeting of Homemakers clubs in Garrett county. There were club members from Grantsville, Friendsville, Accident, Loch Lynn, Sunnyside and Oakland. Mrs. O. S. Davis, president of the Oakland Club, introduced the speaker whose address was on education for citizenship.

He said in part, "A democratic form of government depends upon the people. It can rise no higher than the character of its citizens. Therefore, it is necessary for us to know what constitutes a good citizen and what is good citizenship.

"First, we must realize that our government rests upon the ballot box. All good citizens should exercise their right of franchise. Less than 50 per cent of the men legally qualified to vote and less than 40 percent of the women exercised their right. Children should be taught that it is a sacred duty to perform.

Understand Public Issues.

"Every patriotic citizen should understand the true meaning of the big issues before the American people and not go around creating public opinion based on ignorance.

"Our present system of education day after day and year after year educates the brain of our children and pays no attention to the education of the heart. We train our children to solve abstract problems on mathematics and make no systematic effort to train them in tolerance, in sympathy, in justice. Such training would tend to make them unselfish, would enable them to cooperate with others, to work for the good of all, to learn to serve their fellowmen.

"The greatest tribute that can be paid to any man no matter whether he be rich or poor, great or humble, is to be able truthfully to engrave upon his tombstone whether that stone be a piece of rock taken from the wayside or whether it be a shaft of marble, 'he served his fellowmen, men and woman and children are better and happier for his having lived.'"

Mrs. Harold Harned also rendered a solo. After the meeting the ladies went to the Methodist parrish house where they were served delicious refreshments by the Oakland club.

TIRE RIM STRIKES MAN; KNOCKS OUT FIVE TEETH

Francis Sanders, Employed At Evans' Garage, Painfully Hurt

Francis Sanders of near Gortner, an employe of the Evans Garage in Oakland, received a severe blow in the face Monday afternoon from the rim of a truck which blew off as he was inflating the tire. It was feared that a broken jaw had resulted and he was immediately taken to the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland.

An x-ray of the man's face, made Tuesday morning, revealed that no serious injury had resulted, but the blow knocked out five of Sanders' teeth.

When the accident occurred Mr. Sanders was in the repair department of the garage and engaged as above stated. He was not in severe pain yesterday, according to advices from the hospital, and in all probability he will return to his work in four or five days.

Attention! Master Masons.

Oakland Lodge No. 192, A. F. & A. M., will attend divine worship at St. Mark's Lutheran church on Sunday morning. All master masons are requested to be at the Masonic hall at 10:30 o'clock to proceed in a body to the church.

Collision Does Little Damage.

Occupants of two cars were slightly bruised and jolted but otherwise not seriously hurt when they collided last night at the corner of Second and Oak streets about 8:30 o'clock.

One car was going toward Crellin and had come over the bridge which crosses the Baltimore and Ohio tracks, while the other was turning down Second street. Little damage was done to either the Buick sedan or the Ford car. The Buick car was driven by "Sox" McRobie, of Oakland. The name of the driver of the Ford car could not be learned at a late hour this morning.

Next Sunday, June 19, is Dad's Day

SENIOR WEEK TO CLOSE WITH DANCE ON FRIDAY

Thirty-three Seniors To Receive Their Diplomas Tonight At The Maryland Theatre

Thirty-three seniors of Oakland High school will receive their diplomas at the fifteenth annual commencement to be held tonight in the Maryland theatre. The address of the evening will be delivered by the Hon. William C. Walsh, of Hagerstown.

Alumni Dance.

The first alumni dance will be held Friday evening in Naylor's hall on Third street. All alumni are invited to attend this affair. It is hoped that this will become an annual reunion of those who have graduated from Oakland High school. Admission will be $1 per person.

Class Night.

The senior class presented a play, "Amazon Isle," Wednesday night in the Maryland theatre as the main performance of the class night. The theatre was packed to the doors and all were of the opinion that the play was on a par with previous high school plays.

The Baccalaureate sermon was preached to the graduating class Sunday evening in the Maryland theatre by the Rev. Charles A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church. His subject was "Keeping the Trust." He admonished the class to make good as the public in general expected it of them, and because it was for their benefit. The services were opened by singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

The invocation was given by the Rev. Dr. Archibald Moore, pastor of the M. E. church who also read the scripture lesson and introduced the speaker. The closing song was "Onward Christian Soldiers," after which Reverend Shilke pronounced the benediction.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING OCCUPIES GRANGE MEETS

Hutton, Ryans Glade and Shady Dell Grangers Discuss Pooling of Wool, Lambs and Cattle

Cooperative marketing was discussed at length at a meeting of the Hutton Grange on Monday night, June 13. Quite a few of the members took part in the discussion of the advantages of cooperative marketing and they used the Ryans Glade Lamb and Wool pool and the milk producers association in the eastern part of the state as examples of what could be done to benefit the farmers.

Ryans Glade.

Members of the Ryans Glade grange completed the arrangements of a play which is to be given Saturday night, June 18, in their hall. The committee promises a very pleasing entertainment.

Final arrangements have been completed for the erection of scales in Ryans Glade which solve a problem that has existed in this community for a long time.

Members of the grange who are in charge of the pooling of lambs and wool reported that more interest is being shown by the farmers this year than ever before and that they expect to have a record-breaking year. Arrangements are being made with the Grange Milling and Supply company to assemble the wool at their warehouses in Lock Lynn where the committee will have buyers come and bid on the pool.

Plans are also being made to ship carloads of lambs to Baltimore and Jersey City markets this fall. Farmers from Frederick, Montgomery and Baltimore counties are expected to visit Garrett county in the near future in the interest of pooling beef cattle. This is a move that the farmers in the eastern part of the state have been trying to arrange for some time, it is said. A representative will be sent from them to interview the county agent sometime in July.

Shady Dell Grange.

Cooperative marketing was the main topic at the last meeting of the Shady Dell Grange and it was decided to work on the pooling of lambs and wool. The marketing of beef cattle was taken into consideration and several of the farmers have advised Mr. Scott Ritter that they are willing to pool their cattle as requested by the eastern farmers. The members said that they believe that this should be done not only to sell their products but to get in touch with the brother farmer in other sections of the state.

WOMAN OUTWITS SHERIFF AND OUTRUNS DEPUTIES

Mrs. Nelson Wilt, of Bear Hill Section, Escapes After Liquor Raid Made At Her Home

After assuring Sheriff William D. Casteel that she would appear before the nearest magistrate Monday and there furnish bond for her appearance in court in answer to the charge of having moonshine whiskey in her home, Mrs. Nelson Wilt, a resident of the Bear Hill section of Garrett county, refuted her contract, for as the sheriff and his deputies were leaving the neighborhood she appeared on the brow of a distant hill and told them in strident tones that she had changed her mind and that if they wanted her to "come and git me."

Bear Hill is located north of Bittinger and has long been the stronghold of "shiners"—men and women. The woman's intimacy with the lay of the country coupled with the fact that she is fleet of foot, gave her an advantage, according to Sheriff Casteel, and it was impossible to overtake her. The woman was without shoes, but that fact did not appear to handicap her in traveling over the stony ground and through the bush.

First Violation Under New Law.

This was first known violation of the new public local law prohibiting the manufacture of liquor which went into effect on June 1st. The law is applicable to Garrett county only and its penalties are severe.

Section 1 of the law provides "that it shall be unlawful for any person, association or corporation to manufacture any spirituous or fermented liquors within the limits of Garrett county, Maryland," and provides a penalty of a fine and confinement in the House of Correction.

Following information received, the Sheriff and his deputies called at the home of the Wilt family early on last Sunday morning. The Sheriff had a warrant for Wilt, who is charged with being only one of the many moonshiners of the Bear Hill section.

The Wilt family had not yet risen when the officers approached the house but their loud knocking at the door aroused Mrs. Wilt, who for a time refused them entrance. Upon gaining admission, after considerable parley with the woman, a search was made for Wilt. They were unable to find him. However, in going through the dwelling they discovered eight gallons of alleged moonshine, which was contained in fruit jars.

Mrs. Wilt Protests.

Following the uncovering of the contrahand, Mrs. Wilt was placed under arrest, but protested against being taken into custody, saying that she had no shoes and could not walk the mile or more from her place to the point where the Sheriff had left his car. She is also said to have had the care of a very young child.

Upon her promise to appear at the office of the nearest magistrate on Monday morning and furnish bond, the officer permitted her to remain at her home. Sometime later, stated the Sheriff, Mrs. Wilt appeared barefoot on the top of a hill and called to him declaring that she had changed her mind and would not appear on Monday as promised.

She was ordered to be taken into custody but the woman fled and the men following were unable to overtake her. Due to the roughness of the ground and the apparent agility of the barefoot woman, the officers were therefore compelled to return to Oakland with only a jar of "shine" as evidence.

J. FRANK ASHBY

J. Frank Ashby, aged 73 years, of Crellin, who died Friday, June 10, was buried at Terra Alta, West Va., Sunday afternoon in Highland cemetery. Death was due to bronchial pneumonia.

The deceased was born in Crellin, May 2, 1854, spending practically his entire life there as a farmer. His illness was of short duration, having taken sick Sunday prior to his death.

Services were conduced at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Methodist Episcopal church, Crellin, Revs. William Anderson, F. L. Fultz, and I. B. Brown officiating. Interment was then made in the Terra Alta cemetery. He is survived by his wife, four sons, Robert, Ernest, Stanley, and Dwight, three daughters, Mrs. Grace Smith, Mrs. Effie Hollis, Mrs. Agnes Lantz, all of whom still reside in Crellin.

REV. M'VEIGH TO REPLACE FR. ECKENRODE AS PASTOR

Latter Goes to Baltimore—Newly Appointed Priest Comes to Oakland July 15th.

Rev. McVeigh was born in Midland, sistant pastor of Holy Comforter Church, Washington, D. C., has been promoted to the pastorate of St. Peter's Church, Oakland, relieving the Rev. J. F. Eckenrode, who has been promoted to the pastorate of St. Patrick's Church Baltimore, it was announced from the altar of the local church on Sunday morning. The new pastor of the local church will assume his duties here on July 15th.

Rev. McVeigh was born ni Midland, Allegany county, and studied for the priesthood in St. Charles' College, at Ellicott City; St. Mary's Seminary at Baltimore, and also took a course in Rome. He was ordained to the priesthood fifteen years ago. He has been at his present charge in Washington for two years. His former station was at Frostburg, Md.

Rev. Eckenrode, whom Rev. McVeigh succeeds as pastor of the local church, has been here for four years. He left for Europe Sunday night to spend a vacation of three months, returning in September to assume his new relations in Baltimore.

THREE NARROWLY ESCAPE DROWNING IN DEEP CREEK

Oakland Fishermen's Lives Imperiled When Boat on Lake Capsizes.

Three men narrowly escaped drowning Friday on Deep Creek lake when the boat in which they were fishing overturned, and plunged them all into the water with their heavy garments around them.

Emroy Bolden, "Bill" Gibson, and "Buz" Helbig were taking advantage of the wonderful possibilities for trout fishing, it is said, when the accident occured. Due to the heavy material with which they were clothed, the men quickly gave out and Gibson is reported to have gone under once before being rescued by his other companions.

At the time of the mishap, the boat was approximately 175 feet from shore with 20 or more feet of water underneath the fishers. All three of the men were entirely exhausted when they reached the shore, according to those who witnessed the accident.

Parochial School To Have Lunch Room.

When the fall term of school opens for those who attend the Parochial school in connection with St. Peter's church in Oakland they will find a fully equipped lunch room awaiting them, which will be dedicated to the First Child Health Day in Garrett county.

The money which has made this project possible was won by the school for having the best float representing some phase of health in the Child Health Day parade on May 31st in Oakland.

The instructors of the school always provided one hot dish at lunch hour for all those children who had to bring their lunch with them, but their opportunities were small, it is said, as they needed dishes, cooking utensils, curtains, a hot plate, chairs, etc. With the money now available these necessities can be provided and will be installed by the Sisters before the opening of the school in the fall.

The idea of serving the hot dish to the scholars was conceived by Sister Mary Consilio, of the teaching staff, who realized that a child would do much better work if a hot lunch were provided, which fact became apparent soon after this new project was inaugurated.

Church Picnic.

July 2nd, the members of White Church will sponsor a picnic to be held at the church, to which all are invited. Music and speaking.

SWANN CASE REMOVED TO CUMBERLAND FOR TRIAL

Counsel for Killer of Dan Mosser Claims Fair Trial Could Not Be Obtained In Oakland

The court Tuesday morning ordered the murder trial of Miss Mabel Swann charged with slaying Daniel Mosser at her home near Swanton on May 25, to be removed from Oakland to Cumberland where she will be tried during the October term of the Circuit court of Allegany county.

Attorneys David A. Robb, of Cumberland, and William R. Offutt, of Oakland, defense counsel, asked for change, claiming that it was impossible to secure an impartial trial for her in Oakland, due to public sentiment against the woman. Judge D. L. Sloan granted the change. She will remain in Oakland jail pending the reopening of the trial.

A plea of self-defense will he entered, according to her counsel. "She shot Mosser only after he had threatened her life and thrown a brick at her," one of the counsel said. While there are no witnesses who actually saw the murder committed, there will be a score or more who will take the stand to testify that threats against Mosser were made by her prior to the shooting.

The greatest number of people ever to attend court was present Tuesday, expecting to hear the case. She was taken to the court room in the afternoon where she was arraigned. During the entire morning, she paced about her cell wildly, finally collapsing under the strain, shattering the calm that had possessed her since being taken into custody.

Mosser was employed as a hostler in the Keyser shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He worked the night shift and the morning of the murder, arrived at Swanton about 9 o'clock, going to the farm at once to collect some rent due him.

The shooting was accidental, according to Miss Swann's story. "It was purely accidental. There was nothing else to do. The man broke into the house through the only door and was rushing toward me very fast. I did not know what he would have done, and there was no escape. I had to shoot to save myself. There was nothing premeditated about it." Directly after the shooting, she rode on horseback to the railroad station at Swanton and requested the agent to telephone to Sheriff Casteel to come and place her under arrest as she had shot Dan Mosser.

Miss Swann came to Oakland four years ago from Baltimore and lived for a short time on a farm near Oakland. She claims to have graduated from some hospital in Baltimore as a nurse, asserting that she was not a registered nurse but could be if she wanted to. She has a mother and sister living in Baltimore.

Although said to be penniless a week ago, she has apparently become the beneficiary of mysterious friends, because funds for her defense have appeared from some unknown source, and notes on which she had borrowed money for her stock have been paid. The officers state that they have no idea as to the source of the money. It was hinted to members of The Republican several days ago in an interview with her that she had sources from which financial aid could be obtained but would not divulge the place or the people.

Concerts May Continue.

The band concert, such as was listened to last Saturday evening, and which was commented upon very favorably by all, will be repeated Saturday, June 25, it was learned yesterday from Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley, of Oakland.

The Crellin Boys' band rendered the concert and was brought here at the request of Mayor Fraley, and if these concerts are appreciated, he said, a subscription will be taken up for the benefit of its members. It is hoped that these concerts will continue throughont the summer.

The many friends of Mr. Jesse J. Ashby, former sheriff of Garrett county, who has been confined to his bed for the past three or four weeks, will be glad to know of his continued improvement. Mr. Ashby expects to be about the house after Sunday and at his work in the G. A. Fraley & Sons store as a clerk, within the next two weeks. His confinement has been due to an ulcerated condition of the stomach.

PUBLIC LOCAL LAWS

Passed by the General Assembly of Maryland at its 1927 Session

RELATING TO FISHING IN DEEP CREEK LAKE.

CHAPTER 532.

AN ACT to authorize and direct the Conservation Department of Maryland to require all persons fishing or boating on the waters of Deep Creek Lake, located in Garrett County, now under lease to the State of Maryland by the Eastern Land Corporation and the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation, to secure a license therefor; prescribing the manner in which said licenses are to be issued and the cost thereof, and how license fees are to be collected; authorizing the establishment of fish hatcheries thereon and providing for the maintenance thereof; defining the kinds and classes of boats which may be used thereon; requiring all owners of boats to secure a license therefor; prescribing the manner in which said licenses are to be issued, cost and manner of collection thereof; requiring the registration of boats; providing for the policing of said area and prescribing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this Act.

WHEREAS, By the project of the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation, an artificial lake, twelve miles long and an average of half a mile wide, has been formed from a number of mountain streams flowing into it, and is privately owned and under control of the said corporation, and the above corporation and the Eastern Land Corporation, leased on March 5, 1926, for a period of five years to the State of Maryland, under the supervision of the Conservation Department, said lake to be set aside as a fish and game sanctuary, with power to regulate fishing and hunting thereon, and

WHEREAS, Said lake is adaptable to rainbow and brook trout, much sought after by game fishermen of this and other States, and is being constantly stocked by the Conversation Department with the above species of fish, and the waters of the lake admirably situated for the purpose of rearing young trout, it is proposed to stock this lake with fish and permit the public to fish and hunt on this preserve under certain resrrictions, as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland be and he is hereby authorized and directed to require all persons desiring to fish or hoat on that part of the waters of Deep Creek Lake under lease to the State of Maryland, by the Eastern Land Corporation and the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation to obtain a license so to do in the manner and under the conditions hereinafter provided in this Act.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to fish upon the waters referred to in Section 1 of this Act without first obtaining from the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county an annual license so to do, and paying therefor in the case of non-residents of the State the sum of five dollars ($5.00), in the case of residents of the State who are non-residents of Garrett county the sum of two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50), and in the case of citizens of Garrett county the sum of one dollar ($1.00), together with a fee of twenty-five cents (25c.) for each license to the Clerk for issuance of same. The Clerk of the Court shall on receipt of the proper fees issue a license and tag, to be supplied by the Conservation Department and said license shall bear the signature of the Conservation Commissioner and shall be countersigned by the Clerk who issues same, who shall at the same time fill out a stub attached to the license blank showing the name and post office address of the licensee, and shall then detach said stub and mail same to the Conservation Department the first day of each and every month in each year. Said license shall specify in addition to the licensee's name and post office address the number of license, date of opening and closing of season, and the creel limit in the area referred to in Section 1 of this Act. Such license shall be void on the first day of January of each year following date of issue. Every licensee, while fishing in the area herein prescribed shall have upon his person the license referred to above and shall also display in a conspicuous manner upon his person a tag or other device bearing his license number. The license must be produced for the inspection of the game wardens, deputy game wardens, sheriffs, constables or other officers or persons demanding to see it. The Clerk shall account for the license fees so collected in full without any deductions or commissions, to the Comptroller in the same manner as receipts from the issuance of gunning licenses are now accounted for. The Comptroller shall place the funds so received to the credit of the Conservation Fund to be used by the Conservation Commissioner for the purposes hereinafter provided in his Act.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the open season in the area herein described for all fish other than carp and suckers, shall be from the first day of June to the fifteenth day of August, both dates inclusive, and then only by means of rod, hook and line. The creel limit on all fish, except trout of all varieties, shall be not over 50 in the aggregate in one day,—no fish smaller than five inches in length shall he taken. The creel limit on trout shall be not over ten in one day,—no trout under eight inches in length shall be taken.

The Conservation Commissioner shall not at any time during the term of the lease herein referred to close to the public any part of the area except he may at his discretion and for the proper propagation of fish close tributaries to the area for their length, not to exceed three at any one time.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to hunt upon the area herein referred to, as prescribed in Section 1 of this Act without having first complied with all the requirements contained and specified in the game laws of Maryland.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to operate any power boat using as fuel gasoline, kerosene or any other liquids or material, except that the Conservation Department may, if it deems it necessar, place in operation power boats of any deseription or size to be used as police boats. Any person or persons desiring to maintain a boat other than power boats shall be permitted so to do, only after having obtained from the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Garrett County an annual license and paying therefor as follows:

One rowboat, $2.50 per annum

Two rowboats or more for hiring, $5.00 per boat per annum

Each sail boat, $5.00 per annum

together with a fee of twenty-five cents (25c.) for each license to the Clerk for issuance of same, said license shall specify the number, name and post office address of licensee, size and kind of boat licensed. Blanks for issuing said licenses shall be supplied to the Clerk by the Conservation Commissioner and countersigned by the Clerk who issues same. The Clerk shall fill out the license in duplicate, one to be given to the licensee and the other to the game warden in charge of the area, who shall register all facts thereon in a registration book to be provided by the Conservation Department for that purpose. The said licensee shall plainly display the number of his license in figures at least four inches in height above the water line on both sides of the bow of the boat. The Clerk of Court shall account for the license fees to the Comptroller in the same manner as described in Section 2 of this Act.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to build, construct or have constructed or place any wharf, pier, dock, float, or any projection along or running into or over the waters of this area without first obtaining from the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland and the lessors of said area a written permit so to do.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland shall appoint a citizen of Maryland to act as deputy game warden in charge of the area herein described. The same powers and duties pertaining to and governing the office of deputy game warden as set forth in the game laws of Maryland shall apply to this office. The game warden and deputy game warden of the State of Maryland shall also have full power to enforce the provisions of this Act. His salary shall be fixed by the Conservation Commissioner not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100) per month. Additional deputy game wardens may be appointed by the Conservation Commissioner. Such additional deputy wardens for said area shall not receive a salary but shall receive as their compensation one-half of all the fines derived from the prosecution of violators of this Act arrested by them.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That said Commissioner is authorized and empowered to establish fish hatcheries on the waters of the areas herein mentioned for the purpose of propagation of fish therein, and in order to help defray the expense connected therewith is authorized to use the funds derived from the issuance of licenses and all fines and penalties arising under the provisions of this Act, except as provided in Section 7 hereof.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That the licenses required under the provisions of this Act are separate from and in addition to any licenses now required by the State of Maryland or Garrett County for fishing or hunting in said county.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That any person violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace of Garrett County, or before the Circuit Court of said county, shall be fined not less than five dollars ($5.00) nor more than fifty dollars ($50.00) for each offense and shall stand committed to jail until said fine together with the costs of prosecution are paid.

Sec. 11. And he it further enacted, That all laws or parts of laws, either general or local, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed to the extent of such inconsistency.

Sec. 12. Nothing in this act shall be considered in any manner as changing, modifying or enlarging any of the terms of the lease from the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation and the Eastern Land Company to the State of Maryland for the use of the Conservation Department of the area involved, nor to affect in any manner the rights, privileges and reservations of the lessors therein.

Sec. 13. And be it further enacted, That this act shall become effective June 1, 1927, and shall continue in force only during the continuance of the leases referred to in Section 1 or any renewal or renewals of said leases.

Approved April 5, 1927.

RELATING TO THE OAKLAND VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHAPTER NO. 408.

AN ACT to provide for the payment by the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, so long as said fire department remains an active fire fighting organization, the sum of six hundred dollars ($600) annually for its benefit and for certain purposes, and to levy said amount on the assessable property of said county, and to provide for the date on which said payment shall be made.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland. That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to pay the sum of six hundred dollars ($600.00) annually to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, so long as said fire department remains an active fire fighting organization, for its benefit, said sum of money to be used by the said fire department for the purchase, repair or maintenance of fire fighting equipment.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said payment shall be made on the first day of September in each and every year by the County Commissioners of Garrett County.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and the same are hereby authorized, directed and empowered to levy the said sum of six hundred dollars ($600.00) annually for the above purpose on the assessable property of said county. Before the County Commissioners shall be required to pay the aforesaid sum of money, the said Commissioners shall have the power to require the officers of said fire department to appear before them and show to the satisfaction of said Commissioners that any sums of money paid by the said Commissioners to the said fire department under this Act have been expended for the purposes set forth in this Act, and also that said fire department is an active fire fighting organization. In the event said fire department hereinbefore mentioned ceases to remain an active fire fighting organization, or has not used the moneys appropriated to it for the sole purposes set forth in this Act, then this Act shall become null and void.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved April 5, 1927.

RELATING TO TAXATION OF DOGS.

CHAPTER NO. 59.

AN ACT to add a new section to Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs" to be known as Section 93, and to take the place of Section 93 of said Article, which was repealed by Chapter 497 of the Acts of 1918, said section providing that Sections 206 to 208, inclusive, of Article 81 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1921 Edition), title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Taxation of Dogs," be repealed with respect to Garrett County insofar that all license fees for dogs in said county shall be collected by a Constable appointed by the County Commissioners and changing the license fees.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That a new section be and the same is hereby added to Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," to be known as Section 93 and to take the place of Section 93 of said Article, which was repealed by Chapter 497 of the Acts of 1918, and to read as follows:

93. All license fees for dogs in Garrett County shall hereafter be collected by a Constable to be appointed for that purpose by the County Commissioners of said County. Said Constable shall retain twenty-five per cent of such fees so collected as his remuneration. The license fees shall be one dollar ($1.00) per annum for each male dog or spayed female dog and three dollars ($3.00) for each unspayed female dog in said county. Said Constable shall in all respects take the place of the several Constables in the several election districts of said county heretofore charged with the duty of collecting said license fees in Garrett County under Sections 206 to 208, inclusive, of Article 81 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1924 Edition), title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Taxation of Dogs"; but in all respects, except as herein expressly provided, said entire sub-title consisting of Sections 206 to 212, inclusive, of said Article 81 shall continue to apply in Garrett County.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such inconsistency.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 11, 1927.

31-B. The County Commissioners of Garrett county shall levy annually for the bailiff of the Circuit Court for said county three dollars and fifty cents ($3.50) per day for his services as such bailiff, and the treasurer of said county shall pay said bailiff at the close of each session of the court for his services during said session.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 11, 1927.

CHAPTER NO. 160.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 5 and 7 of Chapter 430 of the Act sof 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Community of Mountain Lake Park", and to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 8 of said Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, amended by Chapter 176 of the Acts of 1916, making taxes a lien upon personal as well as real property.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 5 and 7 of Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Community of Mountain Lake Park," and Section 8 of said Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, as amended by Chapter 176 of the Acts of 1916, be and the same are hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

5. At the said annual meeting or regular adjournment thereof a rate of assessment shall be annually fixed, agreeably to the fair valuation of the different lots, improvements thereon and personal property, said assessment to be collected and enforced in the manner hereinafter set forth.

7. It shall be the duty of the Annual Committee of the Community of Mountain Lake Park at some convenient time between the 1st day of April and the first day of July in every year, to determine for the purpose of assessment, as aforesaid, the fair valuation of all lots, parcels of ground, buildings and other improvements, as well as all personal property subject to county assessment and payment of county taxes located in Mt. Lake Park to which this Act is applicable but not, however, including the improved property belonging to tee Mountain Lake Park Association of Garrett County, which is used for the common good or the general purposes of said Community, or of said Association, all of which property and improvements shall be exempt from valuation and assessment, as aforesaid, and provided that the unimprroved property belonging to the said Mountain Lake Park Association shall be valued and assessed only at the proper value as unimproved property, and to post a fair copy of said valuation, when completed, at some conspicuous place at or near the office or main entrance to the Auditorium grounds aforesaid for public inspection, and at all convenient seasons to have a fair copy of said valuation for the inspection of property owners, at some designated place in Mountain Lake Park, in Garrett County, aforesaid, under the custody of some duly appointed person.

8. The said assessment and taxation shall be due and payable on the first day of October next ensuing the making and adopting of the same by the Annual Meeting, provided for in this Act, and that a fair copy of said assessment and valuation shall be posted for at least fifteen days before the date of said Annual Meeting at two or three of the most public places at Mountain Lake Park, in the discretion of the Annual Committee. And any property owner or other person interested in any such valuation, feeling himself aggrieved by such assessment, shall have the right to file objections with the Annual Committee or with the Superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, in whose custody the same shall be kept and filed for inspection, and such person may obtain such modification of said assessment as shall, to said Annual Committee seem just and right; provided that any such objections shall not be filed after the first of October in the year in which said levy shall be made, unless for special cause made known to such Committee, who shall have the discretion at any time to hear and determine said objections, if they deem it proper to do so. If no objections shall be filed as aforesaid, or if said objections shall be by said Annual Committee overruled, then such assessment or such modification there as the said Annual Committee shall make, shall become fixed for the current year, and the said annual assessment upon such valuation shall become a first lien, baering interest, upon the lot and improvements thereon and personal property so assessed as aforesaid, until paid; but leave is expressly reserved to any and all persons who feel aggrieved at the action of the said Annual Committee on such assessments to apply to the Circuit Court for Garrett County in Equity by bill or petition, and to obtain such rrelief in such manner as said Court may decide upon hearing all the facts in connection with the question so raised. The lien aforesaid for said taxes shall be enforced against any lot and improvements or any personal property at any time after the first day of January succeeding the date of such levy, but no such proceedings to enforce such lien shall be taken unless authorized by the Annual Committee of said Community; and the Tax Collector or Treasurer of said Community or either one of said officers, shall have all of the rights and powers for the collection and enforcement of the said taxes as are given the County Treasurer of Garrett County under Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, approved on the 8th day of April, 1890, and to the same extent as if the said Act was enacted in this amendment verbatim, unless the proceedings of such Treasurer or Collector shall be modified by ordinances passed by the Annual Meeting, which body shall have the power at any time to modify or change the method of collection of said taxes.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That his Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 25, 1927.

RELATING TO THE CRIER OF THE CIRCUIT COURT.

CHAPTER NO. 52.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 31-A of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Court Crier," as said section was enacted by Chapter 192 of the Acts of 1890, increasing the compensation of the crier.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 31-A of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Court Crier," as said section was enacted by Chapter 192 of the Acts of 1890, and it is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments to read as follows:

31-A. That the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall levy annually for the crier of the Circuit Court for said county three dollars and fifty cents ($3.50) per day for his services as crier, and the treasurer of said county shall pay said crier at the close of each session of the court for his services during said session.

RELATING TO THE ESTABLISHMENT AND MAINTENANCE OF A COUNTY HOME FOR THE POOR.

CHAPTER NO. 215.

AN ACT providing for the purchase of a farm by Garrett County and the establishment and maintenance thereon of a county home for the poor and other persons who are public charges of the said county, and referring the question to the voters of Garrett County.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and instructed to purchase a farm in Garrett County, not exceeding three hundred acres in area, to build thereon, if there be not such a building standing thereon, a building of a size sufficient in their judgment to house all the persons who are public charges of the said county.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the building so built or if it be not necessary to erect a building thereon, the building standing thereon shall be known as the "County Home," and the farm shall be known as the "County Farm."

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County are further authorized empowered and instructed to erect on said farm such out-buildings, fences, etc., as in their judgment, are necessary for such a farm and home and to equip and furnish the said farm and home with such equipment, furniture, farming implements, farm machinery, live stock and foodstuffs as they deem necessary.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners aforesaid shall maintain and supervise the management of the County Home and the County Farm and make such rules and regulations for the management and government of them and of the inmates of the said County Home as they may think proper.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall, on the first day of their first regular meeting to be held after the completion of said County Home, and annually thereafter, appoint some suitable person to be Superintendent of the County Home and the County Farm connected therewith, for the year ensuing such appointment. The Superintendent so appointed shall enter upon the discharge of his duties the first day of April succeeding his appointment and shall hold office for one year from that date or until his successor is appointed and has qualified. The County Commissioners shall appoint such assistant or assistants to aid the Superintendent and for such period or periods as they deem necessary for the proper management and maintenance of the said County Home and County Farm.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall have power to remove from office the Superintendent or any assistant whenever in their judgment the interest of the county may require such removal. In case of a removal from office, the County Commissioners shall appoint a successor to fill out the unexpired term of the person removed.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall require the Superintendent, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, to give a bond with security approved by them, payable to the County Commissioners of Garrett County, in the penalty of one thousand ($1,000) dollars, conditioned as follows, to-wit: "The condition of the above obligation is such that if the above bound A. B. as Superintendent of the County Home and County Farm in Garrett County, shall well and truly perform and discharge his duties in said station, then the above obligation to be void, otherwise to remain in full force and virtue in law."

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That the said Superintendent shall receive such fair and reasonable salary as to be agreed upon by the County Commissioners and the Superintendent for services to be rendered by him and his family per annum and so pro rata during his continuance in office. This salary to be exclusive of board and lodging for himself and family. The assistant or assistants, if any are appointed, shall receive such compensation as the County Commissioners shall deem proper.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall have charge and custody of the lands, goods and chattels at the County Home and County Farm and of the inmates committed to the County Home, and he shall take care, manage and govern the same under the supervision of and according to the rules and regulations laid down by the County Commissioners.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall keep a complete set of account books for the County Home and County Farm, showing receipts and expenditures, including receipts from the sale or sales of the produce from the County Farm and from the labor of the inmates of the County Home. He shall render the Commissioners a monthly statement under oath, to be administered by one of the County Commissioners, or the Clerk to said County Commissioners, showing the receipts and expenditures for the past month with the vouc' therefor, together with a staten of his requirements for the coming month.

Sec. 11. And he it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall also keep a complete set of account books for the County Home and County Farm. This set of books shall not only include items relating to the maintenance of the County Home and County Farm, but also items relating to the original cost of the County Farm and the erection of the County Home and outbuildings, if it is necessary to erect the same or any of them, and of the equipment and other things placed on the Farm and in the Home.

Sec. 12. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall meet at the County Home at least once in every three months. They shall use every effort to make the cost of the purchase and maintenance of the County Home and County Farm as economical as possible and consistent with the proper care of the inmates. Especially shall they use economical methods in the purchase of supplies and materials. No County Commissioner shall sell supplies or materials to or be in any way interested in the sale of them to the County Home or County Farm.

Sec. 13. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall be compensated for their services and reimbursed for their expenses in connection with the County Home and County Farm in the same manner and at the same rate as for their services and expenses in connection with other county matters.

Sec. 14. And be it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall keep a list of the inmates committed to the County Home, showing their names, places of birth, nationality, age at time of commitment, date of commitment, date of discharge or of death, as the case may be, cause of death, if inmate died at the County Home, whether or not the inmate was previously committed there and, if so, how often and for how long each time. A copy of the list shall be furnished by the Superintendent of the County Commissioners semi-annually on the first day of January and June of each year and whenever they shall require.

Sec. 15. And he it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall compel all of the inmates of the County Home, if of sufficient ability, to work.

Sec. 16. And be it further enacted, That upon complaint and due proof made by the Superintendent to a Justice of the Peace of Garrett County that any person in the County Home has behaved in a disorderly manner or has refused or neglected to obey any of the rules or regulations of the County Home, the said Justice of the Peace may direct such moderate and proper correction to be given to such offenders as the nature of the case may require.

Sec. 17. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners, as a body, may commit all such poor, feeble-minded, aged, crippled and others, who are or are likely to become public charges, to and they shall be received in the County Home; provided that any one Commissioner may, during the interval between meetings of the County Commissioners as a body, commit a poor, feeble-minded, aged, crippled or other person who is or is likely to become a public charge, and he or she, as the case may be, shall be received into the County Home and there remain until the next meeting of the Commissioners as a body, at which time they shall determine whether or not the said person shall remain there longer.

Sec. 18. And be it further enacted, That all sheriffs, constables and other officers shall assist the County Commissioners and the Superintendent and other officers appointed by them in the discharge of their respective duties.

Sec. 19. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to raise the funds necessary for the purchase of the County Farm, for the building of the County Home, if it becomes necessary to build one, for the erection on the County Farm of such buildings, fences, etc., as they deem necessary, and for supplying the necessary equipment, furniture, farming implements and live stock, by issuing bonds of the county, either coupon or serial, for such an amount, in such denomination or denominations, bearing such interest and maturing at such date or dates as the County Commissioners deem proper, or by paying for the same out of the funds of the county raised by the regular tax levy or by an extra levy to be made by the County Commissioners for that purpose or purposes, or by a combination of any one or more or all of these methods, whichever with a due regard for the sound financial condition of the county seems to the County Commissioners most proper. The County Commissioners be and they are further authorized, empowered and directed to pay out of the funds raised by the regular tax levy or by an extra tax levy, to be made by the County Commissioners for that purpose or purposes, the interest and the principal on the bonds aforesaid, if issued, and the cost of the maintenance of the County Farm and County Home, and of the support of the inmates of the County Home.

Sec. 20. And be it further enacted, That at the presidential election to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, there shall be submitted to the qualified voters of Garrett county the question whether or not the said County Farm shall be bought and the said County Home established thereon, and at such election the ballots used and cast upon the question shall have printed or written thereon the words "For the County Farm and County Home" and "Against the County Farm and County Home," and if the majority of the votes cast upon said question shall be "For the County Farm and County Home," then the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall proceed to exercise the power vested in them by this Act and shall buy the said County Farm and establish the said County Home as herein provided; but if the majority of the votes cast upon the said question shall be "Against the County Farm and County Home," then this Act shall be null and void and said County Farm shall not be bought nor shall the said County Home be established.

Sec. 21. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved April 1, 1927.

COMPULSORY LABOR TO BE PERFORMED BY PERSONS CONFINED IN THE GARRETT COUNTY JAIL.

CHAPTER NO. 655.

AN ACT to provide employment for persons committed to the county jail in Garrett county for failure to pay fines, by adding four new sections to Article 20 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Crimes and Punishments," to be known as Sections 254-A to 254-D, inclusive, and to follow immediately after Section 254 of said Article.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That four new sections be and the same are hereby added to Article 20 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Crimes and Punishments," to be known as Sections 254-A to 254-D, inclusive, to follow immediately after Section 254 of said Article, and to read as follows:

254-A. In addition to any sentence of confinement in the County Jail of Garrett county which may be imposed for failure to pay any fine or fines by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, or any Justice of the Peace for Garrett county having criminal jurisdiction, said Court or Justice shall also in said sentence direct that any prisoner over sixteen years of age who may be so sentenced shall be subject to perform labor for and during the period of his imprisonment on the public roads of Garrett county, or on the public streets of any incorporated town in said county; provided, that during the employment of such prisoner on the public streets of any incorporated town, the town authorities of such town so employing such prisoner shall be charged with the expense which may attend such employment; and provided further that this Act shall not apply to female prisoners.

254-B. The labor provided for in the preceding section shall be performed, if within the corporate limits of any incorporated town, under the supervision and direction of the town commissioners and bailiff of such town, and if on the public roads of Garrett county then under the supervision and direction of the County Commissioners or the road supervisor of any district who may be authorized by the County Commissioners to work the same; and the Sheriff of Garrett county, upon the demand of any bailiff, supervisor or other person duly authorized to make such demand, is hereby authorized and required to deliver such prisoner to the party so making the demand and entitled to receive the same, whenever and at such times as he may be so legally required; and the labor to be performed by such prisoner may include every service necessary for the purpose of draining, grading, paving or repairing such public streets or other highways of Garrett county within or without the limits of any incorporated town therein.

254-C. The officer or other person having such prisoner in charge shall have power and authority to compel such labor, and shall be responsible for the safe keep and return to prison of such prisoner to the custody of the sheriff at the end of each day's labor, which days labor shall be within the discretion of the officer or other person so supervising at the time, but shall not exceed ten hours' work or labor for any day he may be so employed; and any prisoner so sentenced who shall refuse to perform the labor required of him shall incur the penalty of two days' additional imprisonment for every day he may so refuse, and this provision shall be included in the sentence of the Court of justice by whom the same may be rendered; but no prisoner shall be compelled to perform such labor whose health is not in a condition to allow the same, and the certificate of the physician to the jail or other physician in said county shall be sufficient to excuse such labor.

254-D. If any officer or other person having such prisoner in charge for the performance of such work or labor connive at or by his wilful neglect permit the escape of any such prisoner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon indictment and conviction of such offense in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, be fined not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars, or be confined in the county jail of the county, and be subject to the same penalty of labor, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved April 26, 1927.

RELATING TO THE ELIGIBILITY OF THE COUNTY TREASURER TO SUCCEED HIMSELF.

CHAPTER NO. 63.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 42-A of Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," subtitle "County Treasurer," as the said section was enacted by Chapter 520 of the Acts of 1892, providing that the County Treasurer of Garrett County shall not be eligible to succeed himself.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 42-A of Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

42-A. That the legal voters of said Garrett county, shall on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, and on the same day and month in every fourth year thereafter elect a suitable person of good repute and fit business capacity to be County Treasurer for said county, who shall execute the required bond or bonds and qualify in the manner hedeinafter provided, and shall hold his office commencing on the third Tuesday of the April following such election for four years or until his successor shall be elected and qualified, and said person shall be ineligible for four years thereafter for election to the same office.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 18, 1927.

AUTHORIZING THE TOWN OF KITZMILLER TO ISSUE MUNICIPAL BONDS.

CHAPTER NO. 208.

AN ACT to provide for a bond issue of The Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville, Garrett County, Maryland, for the erection of a river wall along the Potomac River to protect said town from river floods in said river, and to submit to the legally qualified voters of said town the question of whether or not said bonds shall be issued.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville, in Garrett County, Maryland, are hereby authorized and empowered, in their discretion, to borrow upon the faith and credit of said town a sum not exceeding five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) and to issue and sell coupon bonds therefor in the denomination of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250), each to be signed by the Mayor of said town and to be countersigned by the Clerk of the Town Council thereof, and the seal of said town attached, and to be registered by said Clerk of the Town Council in a book to be kept by the Mayor and Town Council for the purpose of registering "River Wall Bonds." Said bonds by this section authorized shall be known and designated as "River Wall Bonds," and shall bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of January and July in each and every year until the said bonds are paid; said bonds shall be exempt from all State, county and municipal taxation, and shall have printed on them a distinct reference to the Act authorizing their issue.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said bonds shall bear date of July 1, 1927, shall be numbered serially and shall be payable as follows: One bond of the value of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) shall be due and payable on the first day of January, 1929, and thereafter one bond of the said value of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) shall mature and be payable on the first day of January in each consecutive year in the order of the consecutive numbers until the entire issue of said bonds is taken up and redeemed; reserving the option to the Mayor and Town Council aforesaid to take up and redeem at any interest period after ten years any and all outstanding bonds running more than ten years at the face value thereof, with accrued interest. The said bonds shall be a lien on all property within the jurisdiction of the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That when said bonds shall be executed as herein prescribed, the said Mayor and Town Council shall advertise the same in at least one newspaper published in Garrett county, and in such other newspaper, if any, as they may deem advisable, inviting sealed proposals for the purchase of said bonds, or any part thereof, with the privilege to said Mayor and Town Council to reject any or all bids. The Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville, aforesaid, may advertise the said bonds for such length of time as in their discretion is adequate notice to the public and may offer all of said bonds for sale at the same time or may offer them at different intervals in such installments or amounts as they may deem advantageous to said town in carrying on the work of constructing the river wall for which they are issued. It is especially intended that the power hereby vested in the Mayor and Town Council shall be a continuing power until the whole five thousand dollars ($5,000) shall have been issued and sold.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the money arising from the sale of said bonds shall be kept as a separate fund by the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville in some safe bank, shall be used exclusively for the purposes of this Act and shall be drawn out only on checks signed by the Mayor and countersigned by the Clerk of the Town Council, and the said Clerk of the Town Council shall keep in a book for the purpose a full registry of the bonds sold, the number of bonds and name of the purchaser or purchasers, the amount realized on the sale or sales and any transfers and assignments of the same.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the funds realized from the sale of bonds aforesaid shall be available and shall be used exclusively for the completion, under the supervision of the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville or such engineer as they may employ, of the river wall already partly constructed along the Potomac River above and at said town and for the further erection of any additional wall along said river which said Mayor and Town Council shall deem necessary and proper for the protection of said town and its inhabitants from flood waters overflowing the banks of said river, and said Mayor and Town Council are hereby clothed with all the power and authority necessary for the erection of said wall and are authorized to build and construct the same.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That, for the purpose of retiring the said bonds authorized to be issued by this Act, and the payment of the interest thereon, there shall be levied against all the assessable property within the corporate limits of the said town of Kitzmillersville by the Mayor and Town Council of said town annually, so long as any of said bonds are outstanding and not paid, a tax sufficient to meet the interest or any part of said interest on said bonds as it becomes due, and to pay the principal thereof as they mature, said tax to be determined, levied, collected and paid over in the same manner as provided for other taxes in said municipality.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That on the first Tuesday in May, 1927, there shall be a special election held in the town of Kitzmillersville, which election shall be held in the same manner and under the same regulations as other municipal elections held in said town, for the purpose of submitting the question as to whether or not this Act shall take effect to all legal voters of said town who are qualified to vote at a regular town election, and all ballots at said election shall have printed on them the words following, to-wit: "For River Wall Bonds" and "Against River Wall Bonds," and the qualified voters of said town desiring to vote on said question at said election shall indicate their choice of said propositions by making a cross-mark opposite the proposition for which they desire to register their vote, and if a majority of the votes so cast are marked "For River Wall Bonds," then this Act shall be in full force and effect, otherwise shall be null and void and of no effect. The judges of election shall, under their hands and seals, immediately after said election certify to the Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmillersville the result of said election.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That this Act is hereby declared to be an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health and safety, and having been passed by a yea and nay vote, supported by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses of the General Assembly, the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 1, 1927.

THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1927.

PAVE YOUR OWN WAY.

This week the several high schools of Garrett county graduate the largest number of seniors to end their public school career at any one time. Each individual high school will have or has had its own commencement speaker, but all the messages will be along the same line; that this is only the beginning; that the public expects great things of them; that they must, if possible, keep on and get a higher education; that they must be true citizens and uphold and better the world in which they live.

Each address will be filled with such admonitions and they will all be practical to a great extent. There are only a few things which The Republican would add or perhaps reiterate from the addresses of the various speakers.

If it is at all possible, continue your education, whether it be in some business school, normal school or university. The advanced subjects taught there are not taught merely for the purpose of learning details and events. These schools in teaching details, are at the same time training the mind to function in many different ways.

A graduate from a high school can go out and readily get a position, but on the other hand a college graduate can go out and get the position more readily than can the one who attended only high school. It is not so much the fact that he has more brains. It is only because he has been trained longer and his brain more ready to function along the line of his work.

The second thought is that whatever you do is up to you and will affect only you in the long run. The world will be more than willing to accept all the high school graduates. They will be accepted on the same terms as a court accepts evidence.

As long as they are helping the world, the people will gladly accept them. If they care not for their future and waste their life away, they won't last long and the world will get along just the same..

When the star on a football team graduates from college, the fans and coach say that there will never be another like him and maintain that the team next year will be weakened by his loss. But what happens? There is always somebody to take his place who does as good if not better than the one graduating did himself.

And so it is with high school students. The world is willing to make room for them but if they do not want to take up the space, somebody else will. In the long run no one but a few close friends will ever know that they lived if they make their ideal the back seat.

The responsibility of making something out of themselves is up to them and them alone. Many have found that out to their own sorrow. A professor in a certain university takes great delight in telling what is required in his course at the beginning of the year. He says no more about it until the end of the term. If the work is not done, he finds it out and will smile in your face as he tells you that you made 55 as a final grade.

There are just such professors in life. They tell you what is expected of you. If you do not do it, you flunk and are forgotten for your sucessors. So it is up to you to pave your own way. There is not one that could not do it if he tried.

ELIMINATE THE RUBBISH.

The first clean-up day ever held in Oakland was on May 22, 1911, according to the President of the local Civic Club, Miss Thekla Fundenberg, who had charge of the campaign. Before that time "eye-sores" and rubbish heaps were common sights and both the residential and business sections of Oakland were anything but beautiful and tidy.

But practically every year since that time there have been two or three days or even a week devoted to cleaning up and painting up, and it is well worth the time and money spent. The Civic Club and the Mayor and Council have always sponsored these community projects and this year is no exception to the rule. A team or truck, furnished by them free of charge to the property owners, will be sent from house to house on Monday and Tuesday, June 20 and 21, and every citizen is expected to have his premises cleaned up and in good order and all trash and rubbish in receptacles ready for loading when the vehicle arrives to haul it away.

There's bound to be something to clean up. The person who moves very often is about the only one who realizes what an immense amount of "junk" accumulates from year to year. He thinks that some things are absolutely necessary for his existence until he has to pack them in preparation for moving. Then he decides that they are useless and are discarded.

Every family should put itself in the role of a family about to change its abode. Then all the things that would not even be considered worth packing can very well be disposed of during these two clean-up days. It is a good chance. There will be no expense attached to it for you and you will get the benefit of that much extra space to put all your accumulations for the next twelve months.

Clean up! Paint up! Bathing one's body was a rare occasion in the olden times, but times have changed and bathing has become a habit—a sane and healthy habit. Now, no one of intelligence would even think of having unclean bodies.

Well, it is just as sane and healthy a habit to clean up one's premises. They didn't do it in the olden times, but the people knew no better in those days. The habit is one that is well worth acquiring. After so long a time it will become as natural as taking a bath.

ADVERTISING RETURNS

Monday night, the West Virginia Ramblers, blind entertainers from the School for the Blind and Deaf at Romney, West Va., were to have given a play at the Oakland High School. At the moment when the performance was ready to begin, there were two persons in the audience.

Besides being a very disappointing experience to these blind people, who were endeavoring to show that they could entertain well in spite of their handicap, it was not particularly complimentary to Oakland, and were it not for the circumstances, would be deplorable indeed.

There are only two explanations and The Republican is sure that the latter explanation is the only correct one, at least it hopes so. The first is that the people knew of the entertainment, but were not interested sufficiently to attend. The second is that because of the poor advertising given the entertainment harly anybody was aware that anything was taking place at the high school, and it is really very reasable that this should be blamed for the appearance of but two people.

The handbills announcing the entertainment were very unattractive, and were passed out on Wednesday of last week. The Republican earried a small story about it. That was the entire amount of publicity.

There is always a certain number of people who are willing and even anxious to attend good, wholesome entertainments—if they know about them. But they can't be expected to attend when no advertising appears telling them of the events.

Happenings like unto that which occurred Monday evening, although they are deplorable to the players and to the sponsors of the plays, only tend to prove more and more forcibly that advertising pays, that if one wants returns he must spend something telling people that there is going to be something doing.

A BOYS' BAND.

"The ability to play well some musical instrument goes hand in hand with a quick and active mind," someone was heard to remark yesterday, and he has summed it up perfectly. This means nothing more than the fact that if about twenty young boys of Oakland were to form a boys' band and learn to play, the community would be helped considerably in addition to the good which each individual would get out of it.

R. R. Gilbert, of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, who is very well versed in music, has declared himself to be more than willing to teach these boys free of charge. His idea is to get a group of about twenty boys who are interested and teach them music from the beginning, and he has assured The Republican that in six months he will have them able to play selections for street entertainment.

The only drawbacks are the purchase of instruments, the means whereby the gas and electric bills incurred can be met successfully and the persistence of practice among the boys themselves. Many boys who have asked to become members of the proposed band are not able to pay for the instruments they require.

In the first place the parents of those boys interested should do all in their power to encourage this movement and if possible contribute toward the purchase of the instruments.

For the twenty boys there are but six horns available. Several of the boys who do not have them could get them through their parents who are financially able to pay for them. For the others, an outlay of approximately $500 would be necessary.

The Republican would like to see the band become a reality. For an example of a successful boys' band we only need to go four miles to Crellin. The Oakland band can become a reality if the people of town are interested. There is no need at this exact moment to commit onesself one way or the other. Just think it over and the advantages will be easily seen.

How gratifying it is to note that the metropolitan press all over the country is giving an appropriate amount of space on the front pages to Lindbergh's great achievement of being the first one to cross the Atlantic in a non-stop flight. There had to be something uncommon like that to wake it up. For a while at least the murder trials and stories of gruesome murders and morbid happenings will take the inside pages. Would that they could be relegated to those places for all time. But that is not probable at this time, for achievements like unto Lindbergh's do not happen every day, and the public looks for the new and uncommon.

BITTINGER.

In the declamation contest held in the village school house on Wednesday evening of last week, Elbert Buckle and Ruth Brenneman were the winners in the upper grades and Robert Brenneman and Marie Stark in the lower grades. This was the elimination contest and the final one will be held this week in the Lutheran church when it is expected many people from this section will be in attendance.

Frank Brenneman and his aged mother, Mrs. Catharine Brenneman, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hetrick and Mrs. Ethel Miller motored to Somerset, Pa., last Saturday evening, returning Sunday evening.

Arch Glotfelty, of Mellenry, was in this village last Saturday evening.

Mrs. J. B. Emory and son R. L. Emory, were shopping in Oakland last Saturday.

Mrs. Jane Boucher and son, of Centreville, Pa., visited Mrs. Boucher's sister, Mrs. C. E. Ellithorp, at the Ellithorp home in this village last week.

County Commissioner Harvey Gortner, of Grantsville, spent a day in this section recently when he looked over road conditions.

Rev. E. E. Campbell motored to Cumberland last Saturday to visit one of his parishioners, Mrs. Simon Resh, who is a patient at the Western Maryland Hospital in that city. Mrs. Resh is suffering from blood poisoning, but at last reports her condition was much improved.

Prof. C. M. Friend and family spent the week-end with their home folks near Friendsville.

Simon Brenneman and his helping carpenters are now at work building an addition to the barn on the Stone House Farm near Grantsville.

IMMENSE CROWDS SEE COL. LINDBERGH RETURN

America's Daring Lone Eagle Greeted By Thousands and is Honored by the President.

Lindbergh Day in Washington was celebrated Saturday by immense crowds who were attracted to the nation's capital to pay honor to this interpid young flier who has so recently startled the world by his daring. Col. Lindbergh is literally as well as figuratevely a super-airman—a long eagle of the skies.

Hours before he landed from the cruiser Memphis at the Navy Yard his movements were being kept in close touch with by millions of people. Microphones at the Navy Yard dock, in the dome of the Capitol and in the topmost peak of the Washington Monument, which had been installed by the telephone company for the use of the announcers, made this possible for the benefit of the rapid fire description of every activity that took place in their range of vision of the movements of Lindbergh and his majestic escort and the wild demonstrations of the throngs. These observation stations, tied together by a network of telephone lines, brought descriptions of Lindbergh's every movement to the ears of people all over the country.

Col. Lindbergh, accompanied by President Coolidge, on arriving at the Monument grounds, was welcomed by an audience said to be the largest ever assembled in Washington. On entering the speaker's stand, President Collidge and Colonel Lindbergh were greeted by a roar of welcome from the vast throng who had assembled in his honor and to see the Chief Executive of the nation decorate him with the flying cross.

People not only saw the presentation of the medal, but actually heard every word spoken by the President as well as the acknowledgment made by Colonel Lindbergh. This was made possible by the use of a Bell public address system which was installed and operated by engineers of the C. & P. Telephone Company.

In addition to the radio network and loud speaker equipment, a telephotograph apparatus was installed by the telephone company so that pictures of Lindbergh events could be transmitted for use in every section of the country. The receiving stations to which pictures were transmitted from Washington included Boston, New York, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Atlanta, San Francisco and Los Angeles. By the use of this apparatus, photographs made in Washington were available for newspapers in distant cities the same day in which the events occurred.

Lindbergh, World's Champion Aviator, According to this Correspondent, Had Courage in Refusing to Partake of Wine at Two Banquets In His Honor While in France.

To the Editor of The Republican.

At this time, when our President and kings and foreign ambassadors and other distinguished personages are bestowing highest praises upon Charles Lindbergh and the whole civilized world is delighted to honor him of whom America is so justly proud, it is well worth while to note the fact that our young hero does not drink and is standing true to his principles, even in France, where drinking is considered the proper thing, especially at banquets. In the Baltimore Sun (not a "dry" paper) of May 25 (first column, front page), it is stated that at two receptions in Paris in one day, when toasts were drunk to him, he acknowledged the compliment, but he himself did not drink.

It takes courage to go against custom, and Charles Lindbergh has courage—physical and moral.

And in a story by himself, copyrighted by the New York Times Co., Lindbergh said: "I never drink alcohol at all and I never felt really thirsty until I landed. I kept on drinking milk and water all that evening after I got to the American embassy." Milk and water, but no wine, beer or liquor of any kind for him!

WILLEY O. ISON.

The Iowa, Washington, D. C.,

Proclamation!

CLEAN UP and PAINT UP.
KILL THE FLIES!

Come on. Let's put things in order. Our whole town can and should be made as clean and as orderly as it's cleanest home. Then we will have a safer, happier, healthier town.

Ambition in its highest conception is to dream big dreams and make them come true. The splendid ambition to have a town clean and beautiful, is soon to become a reality, by the co-operation of the people.

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor, and with the hearty approval of many far-seeing and zealous citizens, we hereby proclaim

JUNE 20th and 21st as the opening days of a CLEAN UP and PAINT UP CAMPAIGN.

Away with the rubbish piles! Banish the plague spots! Clean up the streets and alleys! Cut the weeds, mow the lawns and trim the hedges! Repair and paint every building that needs it.

We need this thorough cleaning and renovation. It is the sensible thing to do for the health, safety, thrift, pride and happiness of all our people.

It's everybody's job. Every man, woman and child will be expected to help. Let there be no slackers.

L. M. FRALEY, Mayor.

JOLTS

"THE LONE EAGLE"

What $2000 Meant to LINDBERGH!

When Lindbergh won the support of his St. Louis backers he had more to offer than his fine qualifications for the New York-to-Paris hop. He showed them that he meant business by offering $2000, his own savings, toward expenses. Who knows but what this was the deciding factor—this display of his supreme belief in himself? But where would he have been if he hadn't saved that $2000? Your opportunity may depend on ready money some day—and a savings account with us will help you to accumulate it.

Mr. Clarence Stephen, of Canton, O., where he is engaged in business, was called to Oakland last Monday to serve as a petit juror. While Mr. Stephen has been in Ohio for several years past, he maintains his home and place of residence in Garrett county, being the owner of a farm near Bittinger, which is carried on by members of his family. He is a son of the late Peter J. Stephen, a former Commissioner of this county.

The National Limited, a train running through Oakland at 11:40 o'clock p. m. every night, stopped Wednesday at Deer Park Hotel for three passengers, Captains Bert Watson, Robert Roger, and second lieutenant William C. Piper. These three officers were on their way to Camp Knox, Ky., where they will be in training for six weeks. Only on one other occasion has the National Limited stopped at a station other than its scheduled destination. This was because of an urgent appendicitis operation.

A Tribute to the Late J. Frank Ashby.

John Franklin Ashby, one of our town's oldest and best liked citizens, has passed away, his death occurring on Friday morning, June 10th, after a brief illness of pneumonia. Mr. Ashby was born May 2, 1854, at the old Ashby homestead near Crellin, and was a life-long resident of this place. He was a public spirited citizen, always striving to do something for the people of his community and to make his community better. Mr. Ashby was converted when he was fifteen years of age and was a member of the M. E. church from that time. It was thru his influence and help that the church at Crellin was built thirty-one years ago. He has always ably filled a responsible position in the church as a class leader, Sunday school superintendent and teacher. His counsel and advice was always sought and he was a great help to the people of this community in everything that was uplifting. Mr. Ashby was always loyal to his family, his church and his fellow men, willing and ready at all times to aid and very generous in any worthy cause.

His funeral was conducted by the pastor of his church, Rev. William Anderson, assisted by Rev. F. L. Fultz and Rev. D. B. Brown, at the Crellin church last Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The funeral was very largely attended hy his friends and neighbors. The remains were laid to rest in the Terra Alta cemetery. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Mr. Ashby was a man loved hy all who knew him and those who knew him best loved him most.

Mr. Ashby was married June 8th, 1880, to Rachel Olive Harvey, and he leaves to mourn their loss his wife, four sons: Robert, Stanley, Ernest and Dwight, all married and living at Crellin; three daughters: Mrs. Carrie Grace Smith and Mrs. Agnes Lantz, of Crellin, and Mrs. Effie Myrtle Hollis, of Terra Alta; also by four brothers and three sisters: Jesse J., Dorsey L., William C. and Charles A., Mrs. Elizabeth Conneway, Mrs. Sophronia Peaslee and Mrs. Helen Graham, and hy seventeen grandchildren and a host of friends.

In the death of Mr. Ashby the town of Crellin has lost one of its best citizens; the church one of its strongest supporters and a home has lost a kind and indulgent father and a devoted husband. But his good influence will live forever.

A FRIEND.

Recent Deaths.

Grantsville, June 15—James Carey, a well known farmer residing about nine miles east of Grantsville, along the National Highway, died at his home on Friday, June 10th, at noon, following an illness of about two weeks. Mr. Carye was a very industrious man, having cleared much of his farm and brought it to a high state of cultivation, besides operating the timber business, especially mine timbers. He was a most excellent citizen and was favorably known throughout Garrett and Allegany counties. The funeral was held at Mount Zion church on Monday, services being conducted by Rev. Paul A. Weidley, pastor of the Lutheran church of Frostburg, and burial was in the Blocher cemetery. Mr. Carey was aged 75 years and is survived by his wife and the following named children: John and Allen Carey, Mrs. Rose Opel and Mrs. George Meese, all residing in Garrett county; Mrs. Thos. McKenzie, of Three Forks, W. Va., and Mrs. G. O. Robinson, of Cumberland. He is also survived by a brother, Edward Carey, of Springfield, Ill., and two sisters, Mrs. Rose Galvin, of Braddock, Pa., and Miss Rachel Carey, of Garrett county.

James Todd, of Pittsburgh, owner of the Spring Valley Farm located just west of Negro Mountain, died in a Pittsburgh hospital on June 8th at the age of 64 years. The funeral was held in Pittsburgh on June 10th. Mr. Todd was well and favorably known in this locality because of his establishing the splendid trout lake on Spring Valley Farm, where he spent much of his time for rest, having had erected on the place a number of cabing for his personal use and that of his friends, and the kindly and considerate manner in which he treated the people of that community. He was an officer of the Sterling Varnish Company of Pittsburgh and although a cripple all of his life was a most energetic business man.

Patients in Hospitals.

Fay L. Miller, an assistant employer in the Keyser Ridge creamery, was taken suddenly ill on Tuesday of last week while at work. Dr. Davis was called who immediately hurried Mr. Miller to the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland and had an operation performed for an internal ulcer. The operation was successful. Mr. Miller is resting comfortably and will he confined to his bed for several weeks.

Mrs. Simon Rest, whose home is near Jennings, was taken to the Western Maryland Hospital one day last week because of blood poisoning in one of her fingers, caused hy a wire cut. It was necesary to amputate the finger.

Mrs. John Horchler is a patient at Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, where a son was born to her recently. Another small son underwent a minor operation there last week.

Declamation Contest.

The following program was given at the Methodist church here last Friday evening by the 19 Elementary schools of the Grantsville unit, which is under the supervision of Miss Kate Banatyne. The occasion was a declamation contest, which was won by Miss Cleo Durst of Mar's Hill school, who received a gold piece donated by Miss Banatyne. Honorable mention was made regarding the selections given by Daisy Durst and Helen Wisseman. The judges were Misses Virginia Bell, Gertrude Hone, Marion Bell and Captain C. C. Nathan. The event was well attended.

The following program was enjoyed: Song, America the Beautiful; invocation, Rev. J. E. Johnson; song, "Summer Bells," pupils of Grantsville school; solo, Miss Harriett Wilson; pantomime and song, pupils of Jennings school; declamation, "Hester's Caller," Helen Wisseman, Negro Mountain school; declamation, "Story of Bull Run," Ethel Rosenberger, Johnson school; violin solo, George Murphy, Long Stretch school; declamation, "The Want of A Man," Rose Broadwater, Dorsey school; declamation, "Mistah Johnsing's Defense," Beulah Wiley, New Germany school; declamation, "How Ruby Played," Mildred Deibler, Caton school; Japanese song, Jennings school; declamation, "The Leak in the Dike," Eleanor Ravenscropt, Beall school; declamation, "Tom," Evelyn Stark, Avilton school; Declamation, "Where Ignorance is Bliss," Olive Vangilder, Boucher school; orchestra, Long Stretch school; declamation, "A Dog of Flanders," Cleo Durst, Mar's Hill school; declamation, "The Wind," Laura Turner, Turner school; declamation, "Willie Goes to the Zoo," Mary Bevans, Grantsville school song, primary pupils of Long Stretch; declamation, "Granny," Mary Merrill, Merrill school; declamation, "Mr. Fogg's Experiment," Bernard Minnick, Long Stretch school; declamation, "Gone With a Handsomer Man," Estella Beachy, Engle school; declamation, "Encouragement," Daisy Durst, Jennings school; declamation, "Comforting Arabella," Elizabeth Pope, Pope school; duet, "The Mountain Stream," Mrs. Christine Bender and Miss Viola Swauger; recitation, "Just Grin," Rose Miller, Mar's Hill school; recitation, "The Fortunes of War," Elva Wilburn, Jennings school; song, "Unfurl the Banner," Grantsville school; Song, "In the Evening by the Moonlight," Jennings school; song, "Garrett County Hills."

The Baccalaureate sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. E. Johnson in the Methodist church on Sunday morning to the graduates of the High school, which was well received. His text being "Let Your Light Shine" using the lamps of truth, sacrifice, memory and life. The graduation exercises will be held Thursday evening, Attorney Finley C. Hendrickson, of Cumberland, will deliver the address.

The forty-third Studio Evening was presented at the Holmes and Wallace studios on Thursday, June 9th, by the Junior Department, assisted by Miss Christine Winterberg, soprano, and Miss Dorothy Edwards, reader. The program follows:

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

Rose A. Galvin and Annie R. Connelly, Plaintiffs, vs. Hugh Carey McMahon, Administrator of Thomas A. Carey, deceased; Edward J. Carey, Annie Carey, his wife; James Carey, Adah Carey, his wife; Rachel Carey, Rose A. Galvin, Nancy Carey, Mame Jorden and Clarence Jorden, her husband; Myrtle Gross and Charles Gross, her husband; Lucele Campbell and Edward Campbell, her husband; Kathleen Shoemaker and Leland Shoemaker, her husbnad; James F. Keedy and Elizabeth Keedy, his wife; Daniel McMahon, Joseph M. McMahon, Leona McMahon, his wife, Rose Ella Wagner, and Wm. B. Wagner, her husband; Mary Jane McMahon, James P. McMahon, Henrietta McMahon, Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, and John Keedy, heirs at law of the said Thomas A. Carey, defendants.

No. 2756 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situate in Garrett county, Maryland, of which Thomas A. Carey died seized and possessed, and to subject the same to the payment of his debts due the plaintiffs and his other creditors, the personal property being insufficient to pay said debts in full, and for an account taken under direction of the Court.

The Bill states: That the said Thomas A. Carey was, in his lifetime, indebted unto the said Rose A. Galvin in the full and just sum of $31.00 on an open account for taxes paid him, a statement thereof is filed and marked Exhibit A, and indebted unto the plaintiff, the said Annie R. Connelly in the sum of $324.00 with interest thereon from April 19, 1926, and costs $7.00 on judgment in the Circuit Court for Garrett county, a copy thereof is filed as a part of this bill and marked Exhibit B; and is also indebted unto the plaintiffs, the said Rose A. Galvin, on judgment, being No. 43 Trials June Term 1922, in Circuit Court for Garrett county, in the sum of $1665.00 with interest thereon from June 17, 1922, and costs $7.00, a certified copy thereof is filed and made a part of this bill, and marked Exhibit C.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, being so indebted as aforesaid, unto the plaintiffs and also unto divers other persons, and having real and personal estate, departed this life on or about the 6th day of October, 1926, intestate, and leaving no widow, but leaving the following heirs at law surviving him, namely, Edward J. Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Annie Carey, both adults and resides in the State of Illinois; James Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Ada Carey, and both of whom are adults and resides in said Garrett county; Rachel Carey, a sister, and an adult and resides in said Garrett county; Rose A. Galvin, a sister, who resides in the State of Pennsylvania; Nancy Carey, a widow of Jacob Carey, a deceased brother, and the following children of the said Jacob Carey, deceased, namely: Mame Jorden, who intermarried with Clarence Jorden, residing in the State of West Virginia, Myrtle Gross, who intermarried with Charles Gross, Lucele Campbell who intermarried with Edward Campbell, all of the State of Virginia; Kathleen Shoemaker who intermarried with Leland Shoemaker, and both of the State of West Virginia, and all nieces of the said Thomas A Carey and daughters of the said Jacob Carey, a deceased brother of said Thomas A. Carey; James F. Keedy, a nephew of said Thomas Carey and a son of Mary J. Carey, a deceased sister, who intermarried with Elizabeth Keedy and resides in the State of West Virginia; and the following children of Lydia McMahon, a deceased sister of the said Thomas A. Carey, and nephews and nieces of the said Thomas A Carey, namely: Daniel P. McMahon, Joseph McMahon, who married Leona McMahon, and all reside in the State of Pennsylvania; Rose Ella Wagner, who married William B. Wagner, who both reside in State of Pennsylvania; Mary Jane McMahon residing in Garrett county; James P. McMahon, who married Henrietta McMahon and reside in State of Michigan; Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, all of Garrett county, and John Keedy, husband of Mary Carey, deceased, whose residence is unknown, hut is a non-resident of this State. All of said Defendants are adults.

That admisistration of all and singular the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey has been granted by the Orphans' Court for Garrett county to one Hugh Carey McMahon of said county, who by virtue thereof has possessed himself of the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey and has sold the same; a copy of said letters of administration granted on said estate of said Thomas A. Carey, filed as a part hereof, marked "Exhibit D."

That the plaintiffs are informed and aver that said personal estate is not sufficient to discharge all the just debts due and owing by said intestate, Thomas A. Carey, at the time of his death, but they are advised the same, now in the hands of the said Hugh Carey McMahon ought to be applied to the payment of the claims of the plaintiffs and other creditors of the said Thomas A. Carey, so far as the sum will extend; and that any deficiency in said personal estate ought to be supplied by a sale of all, or such part as may be necessary, of the real estate of the aforesaid debtor.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, was at the time of his death, seized and possessed of a parcel of land situate in said Garrett county, and known as Military Lot No. 598, containing 50 acres, and also of an undivided one-third interest in and to Military lots Nos. 653, 657 and part of Lot No 655 containing ten acres on South side of said lot from a division line running East and West, and a part of Lot No. 654 being the land lying between Lot No. 657 on South and the land of James Carey on the North side, the said interest being the same which was devised to said Thomas Carey by last will and testament of Daniel Carey, probated and recorded in Orphans' Court for Garrett county.

The Bill prays:

That an account may be taken under direction of this Court of the said debts so as aforesaid due to the plaintiffs and all other debts which were owing by said intestate at the time of his death, and which still remain unpaid; and also of the personal estate and effects of the said intestate received by or for the use of the said administrator aforesaid.

That the said personal estate may be applied, in due course of administration, in payment of the debts of the said intestate due the plaintiffs and all other creditors who may come in and contribute to the expenses of this suit.

That the said real estate of the said Thomas A. Carey, deceased, or so much thercof as may be necessary for the purpose may he sold for the payment of so much of the aforesaid debts as may remain unsatisfied by the application of the personal estate as aforesaid, and for general relief, writ of subpoena against resident defendants, and order of publication against non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon this 23rd day of May, 1927, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of June, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, and warning them to appear in this court either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

GETTING THEM READY TO ENTER SCHOOL THIS FALL

Children's Health Conferences to Be Conducted by State Board of Health Representatives.

For the benefit of the small boys and girls who reach school age this year and who will be started on the road to the three R's in the fall, children's health conferences at which special attention will be given to the prospective first graders will be held throughout the State during the summer under the auspices of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health.

Arrangements for these health examinations--that is the purpose of the conferences—are made through the deputy State health officer or local health officer assisted by the public health nurse. A physician who has special training in child care examines the children and if conditions are found that need correction, the mother is urged to go to the family doctor or dentist and have tonsils, teeth, or whatever it may be, attended to without delay. All this is done in order that the children may enter school in good health and free from the handicaps that come from ill health or from conditions which are responsible for ill health, such as undernourishment, bad hearing, imperfect vision, decayed teeth or throats that need looking after

All over the country health examinations of the children before they enter school are being made now, as a matter of course. And they have proved to be both health conservers and time savers, as the records of the State Board of Education show that children in good health actually complete their school work more readily and make better progress than those who are hampered by bad eyes or dull hearing or by some other unfavorable condition.

A complete and careful physical examination is given to each child, but particular attention is paid to certain 'points" which have a special bearing on the well being of the child. Down in Missouri—where they have a reputation for looking into things—the State department of health judges the health and fitness of its young citizens according to these six points:

Weight, Posture, Vision, Hearing, Throat, Teeth.

The examination given the Maryland children includes all of these but goes the Missourians one better by adding a seventh "point" to the series—vaccination against smallpox—for without the evidences of a successful vaccination no child may be received at any public school in the State.

In making the announcements of the health examinations, the State Department of Health says to fathers and mothers of young children "Can your small son or daughter who will enter school in the fall make a satisfactory score on these seven health points? To be quite on the safe side, take him or her to your doctor or the health conference in your neighborhood and follow the advice that is given to you there."

RYAN'S GLADE

Mr. Paul Harvey and family and Miss Wilma Steyer and Mr. W. G. Riley and family attended the funeral services of the late Frank Ashby on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ina Scott spent the week-end at her home in Pierce.

Mr. Ney Harvey and family and Mr. Charles Kitzmiller motored to Fairmont and Morgantown on Sunday last.

A play will be presented by the Grangers and a festival will be held afterwards on the evening of June 18. All most cordially invited.

Mr. Floyd Foley was in our community on Sunday.

Mr. Henry Arnold was a guest at the Shreve home on Sunday.

Mr. Willis Glotfelty and family and Mrs. Effie Beckman and family from Morgantown spent Sunday in this section of the county.

W. G. Riley and family were quite lucky to escape injuries recently when their car went over the bank at the bottom of Backbone Mountain.

Quite a number of people from this community spent Sunday motoring, the day being fine for such pleasure.

Messrs. Ernest Shreve, Elbert Shockey, Harold Moon and Byron Moon attended the play at Gorman, which was given by the Oak Grove boys Thursday night.

Mrs. Mary White and Mr. Arthur White and others were visiting at the home of J. B. Shockey on Thursday.

Wallace Beckman is employed in painting the dwelling of W. T. Steyer near here.

Motorists are beginning to learn that there's a big difference in tires, although they all look pretty much alike.
Some are made with skimpy, short staple cotton. Some have an overdose of "filler" in the rubber of the tread. Some are long on looks and short on quality.
But you won't need a microscope to be sure that the Goodyear Tire you get from us is a real buy. Goodyear mileages tell the story.

REV. JACOB YUTZY

Rev. Jacob Yutzy, brother of Jonas Yutzy who resides on a farm near Oakland, died in Washington, D. C., early Tuesday morning. He was 80 years old, and death was attributed to advanced years. He will be buried in Celings Grove, Pa., by the side of his first wife.

Reverend Yutzy was born in 1847 in Somerset county, Pa., on a farm between Myersdale and Salisbury. Shortly after his birth he moved to the farm which his brother now occupies near Oakland and attended school at Sunnyside. In order to prepare himself for college, he attended a preparatory school in Berlin, Pa., teaching school at Aurora, West Va., for two years however, before entering Roanoke college at Roanoke, Va.

He completed his college career and theological work at Gettysburg college and seminary and while still there, married Miss Mary Bridenbaugh, of that place.

He had several charges, staying in each charge for a number of years, and teaching the biblical languages as a hobby. He was pastor of churches in Pleasantville, Center county, Pa., Celings Grove, Snyder county, Pa., and Carthage, Ill.

His wife died and was buried in Celings Grove, Pa. He married again some time later, this time Miss Christina Hess, who still survives him and who resides in the State of Washington.

From Carthage, Reverend Yutzy moved to the state of Washington where he preached until his retirement into the Lutheran home in Washington, D. C., where he was living at the time of his death.

He had three children, two of whom died in their youth. The third, Anna, survives him and resides in the state of Washington. He is also survived by his brother, Jonas, and a sister, Mrs. Magdalena Yoder, of Hadam, Kansas.

W. C. WALSH ADDRESSES SENIORS; AWARDS MADE

The Advantages of having High School Graduates Each Year Is Told by Speaker

The history of education in the United States and the advantages of having many pupils graduate each year from the various high schools throughout the country, were the main points brought out in the Commencement address given to the graduates of Oakland High school by the Hon. William C. Walsh, of Hagerstown, on last Thursday evening in the Maryland theatre.

The graduating class contained 33 boys and girls, making it one of the largest classes ever to finish at any one time. The presentation of diplomas and awards was made by W. R. Offutt,attorney at law. The following prizes and awards were made:

Biology prizes, given by Mr. Joseph E. Harned; Mitchell Franklin, first prize of $5, Lorraine Bittinger and Adeline Sincell, second and third prizes of $2.50 each.

Medals were given for the following: to Kenneth Stahl, for the Boys' High School Declamation contest; to Teresa Kendall for the Girls' contest. Special honors went to Mary Jane Offutt and Mitchell Franklin for participation in dramatics.

Certificates of general excellence were given to Ruth Fike, Virginia Dodge, and James Lee. Helen Hinebaugh, Lorraine Bittinger, Walter Killius, Reginald Ford, and Bernadette Maffett were alll given certificates of perfect attendance during the past session.

Those graduating were: Gerald Biggs, Ralph Blake, Carlton Bowser, Edmund Butler, Mildred Casteel, Doris Colaw, McClelland Dixon, Virginia Dodge, Mary Faherty, Ruth Fike, Mitchell Franklin, Douglas Helbig, Lillian Holtschneider, Norrene Hostetler, Mary Jankey, Lona Kight.

The speech of Mr. Walsh follows:

Members of the Graduating Class of Oakland High School, Ladies and Gentlemen:

There is, so far as I know, no more pleasant or finer experience in life than that of graduating from school. It is a notable event. It marks the successful completion of the first stage of your journey through this world and signifies that you have met and conquered your first real problem. There will be other problems later on, but I venture the assertion that no matter how well you cope with them there will be few if any which give you as much genuine pleasure and enjoyment as you will derive from your graduation here tonight. It is no mean achievement to graduate from high school—it means that year in and year out for many years, first in the elementary grades and later in your high school classes —you have passed your examinations and acquired sufficient knowledge to merit your promotion to the next higher class, it means that day in and day out over a long period of time you have gone regularly to school. It means that evening after evening you have stayed at home and studied your lessons, and finally it means that through all that time your conduct both in and out of school has been good. I don't mean that you are "goody-goodies"—you may and probably did occasionally get into mischief, but you committed no serious wrongs. You lived up to the normal American standard, and as you continue to live up to that standard you will be good boys and girls, and later you will be good men and women and good citizens of our great country. Your graduation shows that you have persseverance, that you have ability and that you have character. You have fought the good fight and won, and I want to congratulate each of you upon your victory. It is something you may well be proud of and if, in the years to come, you put the same sort of effort into your work, whatever it may be, you will win the same sort of victories and your lives will be eminently successful.

There are some people who attempt to make fun of graduates, but I do not think there are any thoughtful people among them. Certainly if we had no graduates for several years in America the lack of them would be quite seriously felt, and if there were no graduates for any considerable number of years the entire country would go backwards instead of forward. There is ample room for you all; there will be plenty of room for those who follow in your footsteps next year, and so on indefinately, and the more there are of you there are every year the better it will be for the country. Fortunately the number of graduates is steadily increasing. There may be an occasional decrease in individual schools, but thruout the nation there is always an increase, and thanks to the remarkable

POSTMASTER AT SINES IS SEVERELY INJURED

Sam Sines in Western Maryland Hospital Suffering from Concussion of Brain

Samuel Sines, aged about 50 years, postmaster and merchant at Sines, Garrett county, is in the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland, suffering from a severe concussion of the brain following an unavoidable accident in which he was struck by an automobile driven by Emerson Knox last Thursday morning near the home of the unfortunate victim.

Mr. Sines was walking along the Swallow Falls road on his way to work when the car driven by Knox approached. Another car had just passed by and it is said that Mr. Sines turning to watch it crossed the roadway and did not observe the Knox car nor did young Knox see Mr. Sines, it is said. The injured man was taken to his home by Knox and Dr. N. I. Broadwater of Oakland, was immediately summoned. After dressing his wounds, which consisted of several head cuts and bruises about his body, he was kept at his home until Sunday when his condition was such that internal injuries were apparent and he was taken to the Cumberland institution for care and treatment.

"Provided everything goes well at Cumberland," stated Dr. Broadwater Tuesday, "he should be able to return to his home in about two weeks." His condition was reported as favorable.

Three Automobile Accidents At Various Points in County

Two automobiles were in collision at three o'clock this morning at the corner of Third and Oak streets. The owner of one car, living in Davis, W. Va., had the damage to his car as a result of the accident repaired and went on to his destination. The occupants of the other car, William Bullivant, of Port Jervis, N. Y., and Wilberta Cornwell, his niece, of Elkins, W. Va., remained in Oakland until this morning, when after repairs had been made to their car, continued on to Elkins.

Miss Cornwell had been teaching in New York State and she, with her uncle, were driving through to her home when the mishap occurred. A new radiator, fender and headlight were needed for the Ford coupe which was occupied by them.

Accident Sunday Night.

Considerable damage was done when two cars, one an Overland Whippet, driven by Albert McKinney, of Bretz, W. Va., and the other a Ford, driven by Garfield Marsh, of Westernport, Md., collided Sunday night on the Inter-State road at a point a short distance west of Crellin. Fortunately no one was injured. The damage to the two cars amounted to approximately $75.

Cars Collide on State Road.

Two cars going in the same direction were wrecked on the State road about a mile and a half north of Oakland on Monday afternoon when the driver of the leading car, J. B. Barnes, Terra Alta, started to turn off to the right of the highway. Miss Marion Henion, State supervising teacher, who was operating a Chevrolet car, and following close behind the Barnes car, was unable to stop quickly and struck the Ford car which Mr. Barnes was driving, tearing the rear wheel from it.

Neither car was seriously damaged nor were either of the occupants injured.

Gas Manager Speaks at Rotary Meeting In Oakland.

J. A. Mayers, general manager of the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company, with headquarters in Cumberland, was the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Oakland Rotary Club held at the William-James Hotel last Friday. He spoke on public utilities and the growth of the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Co.

He assured those present that there would be plenty of natural gas for years to come. He also explained why it was necessary at this time for the gas company to increase its rates to consumers.

The community service committee had charge of the entertainment. Mr. Lawrence M. Fraley, Mayor of Oakland, is chairman of this committee.

At the luncheon tomorrow evening the publicity committee will have charge of the program at which time it is possible that an outstanding newspaper man of Maryland will be the chief speaker.

There is nothing in the Declaration of Independence condoning the celebration of the event with fireworks, dynamite and firearms. Why not have a sane Fourth?

FAIR DATES MOVED UP; TO BE HELD SEPT. 20 TO 23

Arrangements Now Being Made to Pay Up All Back Premiums of Former Years.

Garrett County Fair dates are to be set up a week this year in the hope of striking better weather conditions—extremely bad ones having prevailed during the past few years when the fair was held the last week in September—stated A. R. Martin, general manager of the Fair Association, yesterday. The dates this year will be Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 20, 21, 22, and 23.

Although complete arrangements for the conduct of the fair had not as yet been made by the board of directors, it was stated that the members of that body are planning to pay all back premiums in full. This will entail the expenditure of approximately $1,500 and will affect more than one hundred exhibitors. Some premiums have not been paid for three years, Mr. Martin said.

The premium list has been somewhat revised and will be passed upon at the next meeting of the board of directors, which will be held the latter part of this week.

Although it is too early to predict the degree of success attending the fair this year, it is hoped that it may be the best fair yet held and can be should the farmers and others interested do what they can.

A contract for fireworks has been closed and it is assured by the management that there will be a large display of them every evening during the fair. A contract has also been closed with a show company which will give two free acts at the fair grounds each day. One of these will be a trapeze act, the manager said, and the other has not yet been definitely decided upon.

SENIOR-ALUMNI DANCE TO BE ANNUAL AFFAIR

Success of First Attempt Last Friday Evening to be Continued Next Year

More than 75 couples attended the first alumni dance held in Naylor's hall on Third street last Friday evening. The committee in charge of arrangements stated that it had been a complete success in every detail. Nat Frienline's orchestra played the program of dances.

Between two odances, the seniors marched in double file the entire length of the floor and were then presented to the members of the receiving line. George Hanst, who graduated from Oakland High school in 1922 was elected president of the alumni association for the ensuing year.

A meeting to complete the organization of alumni will be called some time in the future. according to the new president, and he has stated that an alumni dance will be an annual affair hereafter.

During intermission, refreshments consisting of cakes and punch were served to those present.

American Legion Meeting.

Proctor Kildow Post, American Legion, met in regular session Monday evening at headquarters in the City Hall where business of interest to the membership was transacted. Refreshments were served. State headquarters will present a silver loving cup to the Post having the largest percentage of increase in membership during 1927 over that of 1926, it was announced. The local post has now more than one hundred percent increase and it is expected that this percentage will be still further increased during the succeeding six months.

Epworth League Rally Held at Mountain Lake Park.

About fifty members of the Morgantown District Methodist Episcopal church, met at an Epworth League rally at Mountain Lake Park last Saturday and Sunday. The number was much smaller than had been anticipated, it was said by those in charge, but due to the inclement weather the small attendance was unavoidable.The meeting was nevertheless very helpful, according to those present.

A banquet was held at Hamilton Hall on Saturday evening,after which a social hour was spent.

JURY RENDERS A VERDICT FOR CO. COMMISSIONERS

Former Treasurer Loses Fight in Suit and Must Pay $5,827.03 to County Commissioners

A verdict for the plaintiff was rendered by the jury Monday against George Giessman, Oakland, and the Maryland Casualty company, surety on his bond for County Treasurer, in the sum of $5,827.03. The suit was brought by the County Commissioners of Garrett county who claimed that the sum mentioned was the amount due the county when Mr. Giessman was succeeded by Mr. A. L. Lee, the present treasurer.

J. C. Renninger, attorney, represented the County Commissioners, while George W. Legge, of Cumberland, represented Mr. Giessman, and D. Hill Arnold, of Elkins, W. Va., the Maryland casualty company.

In order to recover the amount as found to be due, said Mr. Renninger, State Auditor, Daniel Carroll, made an inspection of the books and found certain sums to be due the county. Mr. Renninger also said that the sums that were found to be due had been lost merely through the careless bookkeeping of Mr. Giessman and not through any intent on his part.

The defendant in the trial explained that his accounts became somewhat mixed at a time when the County Board of Education needed $10,000 to complete some work. He did not have the money on hand at the time and therefore borrowed this amount from the bank.

This he credited to his accounts when he was succeeded by the present treasurer, who apparently knew nothing of the transaction, for during his term of office he paid this draft off.

This mix-up in the accounts, is was claimed by the defendant, was the cause of the present suit brought by the commissioners against him.

Mr. Giessman was treasurer of the county during the term 1920-21.

HIGH HONORS AWARDED TO FORMER LOCAL BOY

Son of Former Presbyterian Minister Graduates With Highest Honors at Princeton

Among those who received the degree of Ph. D., in Modern Languages at Princeton university commencement June 21, 1927, was Henry Alexander Grubbs, son of Rev. and Mrs. Henry Grubbs, of Waterford, Pa. Rev. Grubbs was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church of Oakland.

Mr. Grubbs was graduated from the University with the highest honors in 1923 when only nineteen years old. He was engaged for a year as assistant instructor in French at Princeton and was then awarded the Boudinot Modern Language Fellowship in the University for a year.

For the year 1925-26, he was awarded the Herbert Montgomery Bergen Fellowship in Modern Languages and also a Fellowship of International Education which entitled him to a year of study at the University of Bordeaux with all the necessary expenses paid.

For the year 1926-27, he was given the Charlotte Elizabeth Procter Fellowship in Princeton which is an advanced fellowship and is only awarded to students of the highest honor.

Senator Naylor on Eastern Shore Tour.

State Senator A. D. Naylor, Oakland, is one of the members of the General Assembly of Maryland who went to Baltimore Tuesday to participate in a five-day tour of the Eastern Shore by the legislative body.

The visitors gathered at the Hotel Rennert and following an informal reception they were divided into two groups, each attending a theatre in the city.

The Eastern Shore tour began at 8:00 o'clock yesterday from the Recreation Pier where the party boarded the steamer Indian Head to go to Havre de Grace. The Conowingo dam was inspected and the return was made to Havre de Grace where the night was spent.

Tomorrow the tourists will start down the Eastern Shore in motor cars with stops at practically every large town. The party is scheduled to arrive at Ocean City Saturday afternoon. Senator Edward C. Colgan, Jr., chairman of the entertainment committee of the Upper House, and Delegate Daniel C. Joseph, chairman of the entertainment committee of the House of Delegates, made the arrangements for the tour.

SMALL BOY IS STRUCK BY PASSING MOTORIST

Seven Year Old Son of Adam Moats Has Thigh Fractured and Scalp Wounds Inflicted

The seven year old son of Adam Moats, of Johnstown, a little village lying on the State road between Crellin and Hutton, was struck by an automobile last Thursday, the child suffering a fracture of his thigh and inflicting several severe scalp wounds.

He was attended by Dr. Henry W. McComas, of Oakland, who had him sent to the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland for proper care and treatment. He was taken to the Cumberland institution on Friday, where he will remain for several weeks.

The father of the boy was employed at the Hutton tannery until it was destroyed by fire about two years ago.

UNAUTHORIZED DRIVER ARRESTED BY SHERIFF

Charles Jones Fined $35 and Costs—Two Collide at Deer Park Sunday Night

Two arrests were made Sunday night, and one accident was investigated Tuesday afternoon by Sheriff William D. Casteel and his deputies, one arrest taking place at 3 o'clock a. m. Monday morning at Swallow Falls. One was held for court, one was fined $35 and costs, and the differences were patched up in the third case.

Charles Jones, formerly of Tennessee, now working at Deep Creek Power house, found a car alongside the road and decided to take a ride. The ride, however, was unauthorized and furthermore, according to Sheriff Casteel, the man was driving without a license. He was arrested by the sheriff and Frank Blake, early Monday morning at Swallow Falls and brought before W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace, that same morning. He was fined $35 and costs.

Differences Settled

Carl Filsinger, driver of an Overland car, and Z. H. Moon, driver of a Ford car, collided Sunday night at Deer Park. One wheel was torn from one car, and a fender torn from the other. "They must have thought the damage about even," declared the sheriff, "for they patched up their differences and were satisfied it was no worse."

Held For Court

Orville Browning, Oakland, was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Joy Griffith, deputy, for selling his car after it had been attached. He is lodged in the county jail and will be held until the December term of Court.

BAND HAS 13 MEMBERS; COULD USE A FEW MORE

Two Members Added—Complete Success of Project Rests With Parents, Says Mr. Gilbert

With two new members during the past week, the Oakland Boys' Band, now consists of thirteen players who range in age from nine to eighteen years, R. R. Gilbert, director, announced yesterday. "Several more boys could be used," Mr. Gilbert said, "and there are prospects that these will be added during the remainder of the week. All that remains now to complete the success of the boys' band as an organization is to get the parents interested in the movement so that horns may be furnished."

Those who have already been practicing and are members of the band are John McIntire, James Treacy, Jack Treacy, Lewis Lawton, Howard Rathbun, Gerald Biggs, "Booty" Brown, Frank Welling, Bond Weber, Jack Weber, Leonard Murphy, Kenneth Graves and Logan Weber. Practice is conducted each Tuesday night and Mr. Gilbert declares that if the boys are faithful in attendance and are conscientious in observing the instruction given, he can make a band of which Oakland should and will be justly proud. He is giving his time free of charge.

Several of the members of the old Oakland band are attending the practice along with the new boys and this, according to Mr. Gilbert, encourages the boys to practice diligently and attend all the meetings.

At the present time the following instruments are being used in the organization: Two clarinets, two drums, one baritone, two saxophones, three coronets, two horns and one piccolo. Two alto horns and two trombones would make the band complete, thinks Mr. Gilbert.

TO REVISE ORDINANCES CONCERNING LICENSING

City Council is Inactive at Adjourned Meeting Monday—Ordinances to be Rewritten

Instead of passing or rejecting the two ordinances which were to be given their final reading Monday night at an adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, the council decided to rewrite the entire ordinance relating to licensing people for soliciting and selling goods.

Many clauses were found in the old ordinance which were no longer necessary, such as licensing keepers of saloons, etc., and many new problems had arisen since the writing of the ordinance which had not been taken care of, it was pointed out.

With the rewriting of the ordinance, all the useless clauses will be struck out and others inserted covering the new cases, Mr. A. G. Ross, clerk, said. The final reading and either the passage or rejection of the ordinance will come up at the regular meeting of the council in July.

The adjourned meeting, which was held Monday night in the council chamber, was for the purpose of allowing persons interested to be present and express their views either for or against the passage of the two ordinances. One ordinance provided for prohibiting soliciting in the Town of Oakland without a permit from the Mayor and Town Council, and establishing certain license fees for the operating of carnivals, shows, skating rinks and bill boards, and for peddlers taking orders and making sales within the corporate limits of the town, and providing a penalty for those violating the ordinance.

The second ordinance was one seeking to prohibit the solicitation of cash or any other thing of value within the corporate limits of Oakland without first obtaining a permit so to do from the Mayor and Town Council.

Those favoring the passage of the ordinances held that if the merchants of the town were compelled to pay licenses for the privilege of selling their merchandise the ones who came into Oakland from other places should be compelled to do the same thing.

Those opposing the passage of the ordinances maintained that for the benefit of the people in general traders and others should not be forced to pay a license so high that they could not conveniently come here. Let competition come, they said. It was finally agreed that strangers coming into Oakland should first secure a permit from the Mayor and Town Council before they would be permitted to solicit business. This clause will be embodied in the new ordinance which will be rewritten in time for its introduction at the July meeting of Council.

Pharmacists Meet at Deer Park.

More than 140 members were present at the twenty-first annual convention of the West Virginia Pharmaceutical Association which is closing its four-day session today at the Deer Park Hotel. The first day of the session was for the purpose of registering and getting acquainted; the other three were devoted to business and pleasure.

Addresses, round table conferences and discussions, field sports, movies and dancing were the main features of the convention.

Speakers on the program included Dr. James H. Beal, of Urbana, Ill.; S. C. Henry, of Chicago; E. F. Kelley, Baltimore; Ross Wells, Charleston, W. Va., of the State Prohibition Commission, and G. W. Sulley, of Dayton.

The convention is held in different places each year, but Deer Park Hotel has been the favorite spot, the association members having gathered at that point on several former occasions.

Prisoners Taken to House of Correction.

Sheriff William D. Casteel left Oakland this morning with two prisoners for the House of Correction and one insane patient for the insane institution at Sykesville.

Nick Croker, convicted at the recent term of the Circuit Court on an indictment charging him with an assault with intent to murder a paymaster at Kempton, will serve twelve months, and David Shank, of near McHenry, will serve six months following conviction for moonshining.

John Teets, whose home is near the village of Cranesville, was declared of unsound mind by an examining board of physicians, and was taken to the State institution at Sykesville.

KODAK SAFETY FILM

PUBLIC LOCAL LAWS

Passed by the General Assembly of Maryland at its 1927 Session

RELATING TO FISHING IN DEEP CREEK LAKE.

CHAPTER 532.

AN ACT to authorize and direct the Conservation Department of Maryland to require all persons fishing or boating on the waters of Deep Creek Lake, located in Garrett County, now under lease to the State of Maryland by the Eastern Land Corporation and the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation, to secure a license therefor; prescribing the manner in which said licenses are to be issued and the cost thereof, and how license fees are to be collected; authorizing the establishment of fish hatcheries thereon and providing for the maintenance thereof; defining the kinds and classes of boats which may be used thereon; requiring all owners of boats to secure a license therefor; prescribing the manner in which said licenses are to be issued, cost and manner of collection thereof; requiring the registration of boats; providing for the policing of said area and prescribing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this Act.

WHEREAS, By the project of the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation, an artificial lake, twelve miles long and an average of half a mile wide, has been formed from a number of mountain streams flowing into it, and is privately owned and under control of the said corporation, and the above corporation and the Eastern Land Corporation, leased on March 5, 1926, for a period of five years to the State of Maryland, under the supervision of the Conservation Department, said lake to be set aside as a fish and game sanctuary, with power to regulate fishing and hunting thereon, and

WHEREAS, Said lake is adaptable to rainbow and brook trout, much sought after by game fishermen of this and other States, and is being constantly stocked by the Conversation Department with the above species of fish, and the waters of the lake admirably situated for the purpose of rearing young trout, it is proposed to stock this lake with fish and permit the public to fish and hunt on this preserve under certain resrrictions, as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland be and he is hereby authorized and directed to require all persons desiring to fish or boat on that part of the waters of Deep Creek Lake under lease to the State of Maryland, by the Eastern Land Corporation and the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation to obtain a license so to do in the manner and under the conditions hereinafter provided in this Aet.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to fish upon the waters referred to in Section 1 of this Act without first obtaining from the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county an annual license so to do, and paying therefor in the case of non-residents of the State the sum of five dollars ($5.00), in the case of residents of the State who are non-residents of Garrett county the sum of two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50), and in the case of citizens of Garrett county the sum of one dollar ($1.00), together with a fee of twenty-five cents (25c.) for each license to the Clerk for issuance of same. The Clerk of the Court shall on receipt of the proper fees issue a license and tag, to be supplied by the Conservation Department and said license shall bear the signature of the Conservation Commissioner and shall be countersigned by the Clerk who issues same, who shall at the same time fill out a stub attached to the license blank showing the name and post office address of the licensee, and shall then detach said stub and mail same to the Conservation Department the first day of each and every month in each year. Said license shall specify in addition to the licensee's name and post office address the number of license, date of opening and closing of season, and the creel limit in the area referred to in Section 1 of this Act. Such license shall be void on the first day of January of each year following date of issue. Every licensee, while fishing in the area herein prescribed shall have upon his person the license referred to above and shall also display in a conspicuous manner upon his person a tag or other device bearing his license number. The license must be produced for the inspection of the game wardens, deputy game wardens, sheriffs, constables or other officers or persons demanding to see it. The Clerk shall account for the license fees so collected in full without any deductions or commissions, to the Comptroller in the same manner as receipts from the issuance of gunning licenses are now accounted for. The Comptroller shall place the funds so received to the credit of the Conservation Fund to be used by the Conservation Commissioner for the purposes hereinafter provided in his Act.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the open season in the area herein described for all fish other than carp and suckers, shall be from the first day of June to the fifteenth day of August, both dates inclusive, and then only by means of rod, hook and line. The creel limit on all fish, except trout of all varieties, shall be not over 50 in the aggregate in one day,—no fish smaller than five inches in length shall be taken. The creel limit on trout shall be not over ten in one day,—no trout under eight inches in length shall be taken.

The Conservation Commissioner shall not at any time during the term of the lease herein referred to close to the public any part of the area except he may at his discretion and for the proper propagation of fish close tributaries to the area for their length, not to exceed three at any one time.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to hunt upon the area herein referred to, as prescribed in Section 1 of this Act without having first complied with all the requirements contained and specified in the game laws of Maryland.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to operate any power boat using as fuel gasoline, kerosene or any other liquids or material, except that the Conservation Department may, if it deems it necessar, place in operation power boats of any description or size to be used as police boats. Any person or persons desiring to maintain a boat other than power boats shall be permitted so to do, only after having obtained from the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Garrett County an annual license and paying therefor as follows:

One rowboat, $2.50 per annum
Two rowboats or more for hiring, $5.00 per boat per annum
Each sail boat, $5.00 per annum

together with a fee of twenty-five cents (25c.) for each license to the Clerk for issuance of same, said license shall specify the number, name and post office address of licensee, size and kind of boat licensed. Blanks for issuing said licenses shall be supplied to the Clerk by the Conservation Commissioner and countersigned by the Clerk who issues same. The Clerk shall fill out the license in duplicate, one to be given to the licensee and the other to the game warden in charge of the area, who shall register all facts thereon in a registration book to be provided by the Conservation Department for that purpose. The said licensee shall plainly display the number of his license in figures at least four inches in height above the water line on both sides of the bow of the boat. The Clerk of Court shall account for the license fees to the Comptroller in the same manner as described in Section 2 of this Act.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person to build, construct or have constructed or place any wharf, pier, dock, float, or any projection along or running into or over the waters of this area without first obtaining from the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland and the lessors of said area a written permit so to do.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the Conservation Commissioner of Maryland shall appoint a citizen of Maryland to act as deputy game warden in charge of the area herein described. The same powers and duties pertaining to and governing the office of deputy game warden as set forth in the game laws of Maryland shall apply to this office. The game warden and deputy game warden of the State of Maryland shall also have full power to enforce the provisions of this Act. His salary shall be fixed by the Conservation Commissioner not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100) per month. Additional deputy game wardens may be appointed by the Conservation Commissioner. Such additional deputy wardens for said area shall not receive a salary but shall receive as their compensation one-half of all the fines derived from the prosecution of violators of this Act arrested by them.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That said Commissioner is authorized and empowered to establish fish hatcheries on the waters of the areas herein mentioned for the purpose of propagation of fish therein, and in order to help defray the expense connected therewith is authorized to use the funds derived from the issuance of licenses and all fines and penalties arising under the provisions of this Act, except as provided in Section 7 hereof.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That the licenses required under the provisions of this Act are separate from and in addition to any licenses now required by the State of Maryland or Garrett County for fishing or hunting in said county.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That any person violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace of Garrett County, or before the Circuit Court of said county, shall be fined not less than five dollars ($5.00) nor more than fifty dollars ($50.00) for each offense and shall stand committed to jail until said fine together with the costs of prosecution are paid.

Sec. 11. And be it further enacted, That all laws or parts of laws, either general or local, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed to the extent of such inconsistency.

Sec. 12. Nothing in this act shall be considered in any manner as changing, modifying or enlarging any of the terms of the lease from the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation and the Eastern Land Company to the State of Maryland for the use of the Conservation Department of the area involved, nor to affect in any manner the rights, privileges and reservations of the lessors therein.

Sec. 13. And be it further enacted, That this act shall become effective June 1, 1927, and shall continue in force only during the continuance of the leases referred to in Section 1 or any renewal or renewals of said leases.

Approved April 5, 1927.

RELATING TO THE OAKLAND VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHAPTER NO. 408.

AN ACT to provide for the payment by the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, so long as said fire department remains an active fire fighting organization, the sum of six hundred dollars ($600) annually for its benefit and for certain purposes, and to levy said amount on the assessable property of said county, and to provide for the date on which said payment shall be made.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to pay the sum of six hundred dollars ($600.00) annually to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, so long as said fire department remains an active fire fighting organization, for its benefit, said sum of money to be used by the said fire department for the purchase, repair or maintenance of fire fighting equipment.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That said payment shall be made on the first day of September in each and every year by the County Commissioners of Garrett County.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and the same are hereby authorized, directed and empowered to levy the said sum of six hundred dollars ($600.00) annually for the above purpose on the assessable property of said county. Before the County Commissioners shall be required to pay the aforesaid sum of money, the said Commissioners shall have the power to require the officers of said fire department to appear before them and show to the satisfaction of said Commissioners that any sums of money paid by the said Commissioners to the said fire department under this Act have been expended for the purposes set forth in this Act, and also that said fire department is an active fire fighting organization. In the event said fire department hereinbefore mentioned ceases to remain an active fire fighting organization, or has not used the moneys appropriated to it for the sole purposes set forth in this Act, then this Act shall become null and void.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved April 5, 1927.

RELATING TO TAXATION OF DOGS.

CHAPTER NO. 59.

AN ACT to add a new section to Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," to be known as Section 93, and to take the place of Section 93 of said Article, which was repealed by Chapter 497 of the Acts of 1918, said section providing that Sections 206 to 208, inclusive, of Article 81 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1924 Edition), title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Taxation of Dogs," be repealed with respect to Garrett County insofar that all license fees for dogs in said county shall be collected by a Constable appointed by the County Commissioners and changing the license fees.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That a new section be and the same is hereby added to Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," to be known as Section 93 and to take the place of Section 93 of said Article, which was repealed by Chapter 497 of the Acts of 1918, and to read as follows:

93. All license fees for dogs in Garrett County shall hereafter be collected by a Constable to be appointed for that purpose by the County Commissioners of said County. Said Constable shall retain twenty-five per cent of such fees so collected as his remuneration. The license fees shall be one dollar ($1.00) per annum for each male dog or spayed female dog and three dollars ($3.00) for each unspayed female dog in said county. Said Constable shall in all respects take the place of the several Constables in the several election districts of said county heretofore charged with the duty of collecting said license fees in Garrett County under Sections 206 to 208, inclusive, of Article 81 of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1924 Edition), title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Taxation of Dogs"; but in all respects, except as herein expressly provided, said entire sub-title consisting of Sections 206 to 212, inclusive, of said Article 81 shall continue to apply in Garrett County.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such inconsisteney.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 11, 1927.

RELATING TO THE MANUFACTURE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR IN GARRETT COUNTY.

31-B. The County Commissioners of Garrett county shall levy annually for the bailiff of the Circuit Court for said county three dollars and fifty cents ($3.50) per day for his services as such bailiff, and the treasurer of said county shall pay said bailiff at the close of each session of the court for his services during said session.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 11, 1927.

CHAPTER NO. 160.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 5 and 7 of Chapter 430 of the Act sof 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Community of Mountain Lake Park", and to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 8 of said Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, amended by Chapter 176 of the Acts of 1916, making taxes a lien upon personal as well as real property.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 5 and 7 of Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Community of Mountain Lake Park," and Section 8 of said Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, as amended by Chapter 176 of the Acts of 1916, be and the same are hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

5. At the said annual meeting or regular adjournment thereof a rate of assessment shall be annually fixed, agreeably to the fair valuation of the different lots, improvements thereon and personal property, said assessment to be collected and enforced in the manner hereinafter set forth.

7. It shall be the duty of the Annual Committee of the Community of Mountain Lake Park at some convenient time between the 1st day of April and the first day of July in every year, to determine for the purpose of assessment, as aforesaid, the fair valuation of all lots, parcels of ground, buildings and other improvements, as well as all personal property subject to county assessment and payment of county taxes located in Mt. Lake Park to which this Act is applicable but not, however, including the improved property belonging to tee Mountain Lake Park Association of Garrett County, which is used for the common good or the general purposes of said Community, or of said Association, all of which property and improvements shall be exempt from valuation and assessment, as aforesaid, and provided that the unimprroved property belonging to the said Mountain Lake Park Association shall be valued and assessed only at the proper value as unimproved property, and to post a fair copy of said valuation, when completed, at some conspicuous place at or near the office or main entrance to the Auditorium grounds aforesaid for public inspection, and at all convenient seasons to have a fair copy of said valuation for the inspection of property owners, at some designated place in Mountain Lake Park, in Garrett County, aforesaid, under the custody of some duly appointed person.

8. The said assessment and taxation shall be due and payable on the first day of October next ensuing the making and adopting of the same by the Annual Meeting, provided for in this Act, and that a fair copy of said assessment and valuation shall be posted for at least fifteen days before the date of said Annual Meeting at two or three of the most public places at Mountain Lake Park, in the discretion of the Annual Committee. And any property owner or other person interested in any such valuation, feeling himself aggrieved by such assessment, shall have the right to file objections with the Annual Committee or with the Superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, in whose custody the same shall be kept and filed for inspection, and such person may obtain such modification of said assessment as shall, to said Annual Committee seem just and right; provided that any such objections shall not be filed after the first of October in the year in which said levy shall be made, unless for special cause made known to such Committee, who shall have the discretion at any time to hear and determine said objections, if they deem it proper to do so. If no objections shall be filed as aforesaid, or if said objections shall be by said Annual Committee overruled, then such assessment or such modification there as the said Annual Committee shall make, shall become fixed for the current year, and the said annual assessment upon such valuation shall become a first lien, baering interest, upon the lot and improvements thereon and personal property so assessed as aforesaid, until paid; but leave is expressly reserved to any and all persons who feel aggrieved at the action of the said Annual Committee on such assessments to apply to the Circuit Court for Garrett County in Equity by bill or petition, and to obtain such rrelief in such manner as said Court may decide upon hearing all the facts in connection with the question so raised. The lien aforesaid for said taxes shall be enforced against any lot and improvements or any personal property at any time after the first day of January succeeding the date of such levy, but no such proceedings to enforce such lien shall be taken unless authorized by the Annual Committee of said Community; and the Tax Collector or Treasurer of said Community or either one of said officers, shall have all of the rights and powers for the collection and enforcement of the said taxes as are given the County Treasurer of Garrett County under Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, approved on the 8th day of April, 1890, and to the same extent as if the said Act was enacted in this amendment verbatim, unless the proceedings of such Treasurer or Collector shall be modified by ordinances passed by the Annual Meeting, which body shall have the power at any time to modify or change the method of collection of said taxes.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That his Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 25, 1927.

RELATING TO THE CRIER OF THE CIRCUIT COURT.

CHAPTER NO. 52.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 31-A of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Court Crier," as said section was enacted by Chapter 192 of the Acts of 1890, increasing the compensation of the crier.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 31-A of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Court Crier," as said section was enacted by Chapter 192 of the Acts of 1890, be and it is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments to read as follows:

31-A. That the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall levy annually for the crier of the Circuit Court for said county three dollars and fifty cents ($3.50) per day for his services as crier, and the treasurer of said county shall pay said crier at the close of each session of the court for his services during said session.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 10, 1927.

RELATING TO THE ESTABLISHMENT AND MAINTENANCE OF A COUNTY HOME FOR THE POOR.

CHAPTER NO. 215.

AN ACT providing for the purehase of a farm by Garrett County and the establishment and maintenance thereon of a county home for the poor and other persons who are public charges of the said county, and referring the question to the voters of Garrett County.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and instructed to purchase a farm in Garrett County, not exceeding three hundred acres in area, to build thereon, if there be not such a building standing thereon, a building of a size sufficient in their judgment to house all the persons who are public charges of the said county.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the building so built or if it be not necessary to erect a building thereon, the building standing thereon shall be known as the "County Home," and the farm shall be known as the "County Farm."

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County are further authorized empowered and instructed to erect on said farm such out-buildings, fences, etc., as in their judgment, are necessary for such a farm and home and to equip and furnish the said farm and home with such equipment, furniture, farming implements, farm machinery, live stock and foodstuffs as they deem necessary.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners aforesaid shall maintain and supervise the management of the County Home and the County Farm and make such rules and regulations for the management and government of them and of the inmates of the said County Home as they may think proper.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall, on the first day of their first regular meeting to be held after the completion of said County Home, and annually thereafter, appoint some suitable person to be Superintendent of the County Home and the County Farm connected therewith, for the year ensuing such appointment. The Superintendent so appointed shall enter upon the discharge of his duties the first day of April succeeding his appointment and shall hold office for one year from that date or until his successor is appointed and has qualified. The County Commissioners shall appoint such assistant or assistants to aid the Superintendent and for su[ch] period or periods as they deem n[ec]essary for the proper management and maintenance of the said County Home and County Farm.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall have power to remove from office the Superintendent or any assistant whenever in their judgment the interest of the county may require such removal. In case of a removal from office, the County Commissioners shall appoint a successor to fill out the unexpired term of the person removed.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall require the Superintendent, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, to give a bond with security approved by them, payable to the County Commissioners of Garrett County, in the penalty of one thousand ($1,000) dollars, conditioned as follows, to-wit: "The condition of the above obligation is such that if the above bound A. B. as Superintendent of the County Home and County Farm in Garrett County, shall well and truly perform and discharge his duties in said station, then the above obligation to be void, otherwise to remain in full force and virtue in law."

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That the said Superintendent shall receive such fair and reasonable salary as to be agreed upon by the County Commissioners and the Superintendent for services to be rendered by him and his family per annum and so pro rata during his continuance in office. This salary to be exclusive of board and lodging for himself and family. The assistant or assistants, if any are appointed, shall receive such compensation as the County Commissioners shall deem proper.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall have charge and custody of the lands, goods and chattels at the County Home and County Farm and of the inmates committed to the County Home, and he shall take care, manage and govern the same under the supervision of and according to the rules and regulations laid down by the County Commissioners.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall keep a complete set of account books for the County Home and County Farm, showing receeipts and expenditures, including receipts from the sale or sales of the produce from the County Farm and from the labor of the inmates of the County Home. He shall render the Commissioners a monthly statement under oath, to be administered by one of the County Commissioners, or the Clerk to said County Commissioners showing the receipts and expendit[ures] for the past month with the vouc[hers] therefor, together with a statem[ent] of his requirements for the coming month.

Sec. 11. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall also keep a complete set of account book[s] for the County Home and County Farm. This set of books shall not only include items relating to the maintenance of the County Home and County Farm, but also items relating to the original cost of the County Farm and the erection of the County Home and outbuildings, if it is necessary to erect the same or any of them, and of the equipment and other things placed on the Farm and in the Home.

Sec. 12. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall meet at the County Home at least once in every three months. They shall use every effort to make the cost of the purchase and maintenance of the County Home and County Farm as economical as possible and consistent with the proper care of the inmates. Especially shall they use economical methods in the purchase of supplies and materials. No County Commissioner shall sell supplies or materials to or be in any way interested in the sale of them to the County Home or County Farm.

Sec. 13. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners shall be compensated for their services and reimbursed for their expenses in connection with the County Home and County Farm in the same manner and at the same rate as for their services and expenses in connection with other county matters.

Sec. 14. And be it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall keep a list of the inmates committed to the County Home, showing their names, places of birth, nationality, age at time of commitment, date of commitment, date of discharge or of death, as the case may be, cause of death, if inmate died at the County Home, whether or not the inmate was previously committed there and, if so, how often and for how long each time. A copy of the list shall be furnished by the Superintendent of the County Commissioners semi-annually on the first day of January and June of each year and whenever they shall require.

Sec. 15. And be it further enacted, That the Superintendent shall compel all of the inmates of the County Home, if of sufficient ability, to work.

Sec. 16. And be it further enacted, That upon complaint and due proof made by the Superintendent to a Justice of the Peace of Garrett County that any person in the County Home has behaved in a disorderly manner has refused or neglected to obey any of the rules or regulations of the County Home, the said Justice of the Peace may direct such moderate and proper correction to be given to such offenders as the nature of the case may require.

Sec. 17. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners, as a body, may commit all such poor, feeble-minded, aged, crippled and others, who are or are likely to become public charges, to and they shall be received in the County Home; provided that any one Commissioner may, during the interval between meetings of the County Commissioners as a body, commit a poor, feeble-minded, aged, crippled or other person who is or is likely to become a public charge, and he or she, as the case may be, shall be received into the County Home and there remain until the next meeting of the Commissioners as a body, at which time they shall determine whether or not the said person shall remain there longer.

Sec. 18. And be it further enacted, That all sheriffs, constables and other officers shall assist the County Commissioners and the Superintendent and other officers appointed by them in the discharge of their respective duties.

Sec. 19. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to raise the funds necessary for the purchase of the County Farm, for the building of the County Home, if it becomes necessary to build one, for the erection on the County Farm of such buildings, fences, etc., as they deem necessary, and for supplying the necessary equipment, furniture, farming implements and live stock, by issuing bonds of the county, either coupon or serial, for such an amount, in such denomination or denominations, bearing such interest and maturing at such date or dates as the County Commissioners deem proper, or by paying for the same out of the funds of the county raised by the regular tax levy or by an extra levy to be made by the County Commissioners for that purpose or purposes, or by a combination of any one or more or all of these methods, whichever with a due regard for the sound financial condition of the county seems to the County Commissioners most proper. The County Commissioners be and they are further authorized, empowered and directed to pay out of the funds raised by the regular tax levy or by an extra tax levy, to be made by the County Commissioners for that purpose or purposes, the interest and the principal on the bonds aforesaid, if issued, and the cost of the maintenance of the County Farm and County Home, and of the support of the inmates of the County Home.

Sec. 20. And be it further enacted, That at the presidential election to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, there shall be submitted to the qualified voters of Garrett county the question whether or not the said County Farm shall be bought and the said County Home established thereon, and at such election the ballots used and cast upon the question shall have printed or written thereon the words "For the County Farm and County Home" and "Against the County Farm and County Home," and if the majority of the votes cast upon said question shall be "For the County Farm and County Home," then the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall proceed to exercise the power vested in them by this Act and shall buy the said County Farm and establish the same; but if a majority of the votes cast upon said question shall be "Against the County Farm and County Home," then this Act shall be null and void and said County Farm shall not be bought nor shall the said County Home be established.

Sec. 21. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved April 1, 1927.

COMPULSORY LABOR TO BE PERFORMED BY PERSONS CONFINED IN THE GARRETT COUNTY JAIL.

CHAPTER NO. 655.

AN ACT to provide employment for persons committed to the county jail in Garrett county for failure to pay fines, by adding four new sections to Article 20 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Crimes and Puaishments," to be known as Sections 254-A to 254-D, inclusive, and to follow immediately after Section 254 of said Article.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That four new sections be and the same are hereby added to Article 20 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Crimes and Punishments," to be known as Sections 254-A to 254-D, inclusive, to follow immediately after Section 254 of said Article, and to read as follows:

254-A. In addition to any sentence of confinement in the County Jail of Garrett county which may be imposed for failure to pay any fine or fines by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, or any Justice of the Peace for Garrett county having criminal jurisdiction, said Court or Justice shall also in said sentence direct that any prisoner over sixteen years of age who may be so sentenced shall be subject to perform labor for and during the period of his imprisonment on the public roads of Garrett county, or on the public streets of any incorporated town in said county; provided, that during the employment of such prisoner on the public streets of any incorporated town, the town authorities of such town so employing such prisoner shall be charged with the expense which may attend such employment; and provided further that this Act shall not apply to female prisoners.

254-B. The labor provided for in the preceding section shall be performed, if within the corporate limits of any incorporated town, under the supervision and direction of the town commissioners and bailiff of such town, and if on the public roads of Garrett county then under the supervision and direction of the County Commissioners or the road supervisor of any district who may be authorized by the County Commissioners to work the same; and the Sheriff of Garrett county, upon the demand of any bailiff, supervisor or other person duly authorized to make such demand, is hereby authorized and required to deliver such prisoner to the party so making the demand and entitled to receive the same, whenever and at such times as he may be so legally required; and the labor to be performed by such prisoner may include every service necessary for the purpose of draining, grading, paving or repairing such public streets or other highways of Garrett county within or without the limits of any incorporated town therein.

254-C. The officer or other person having such prisoner in charge shall have power and authority to compel such labor, and shall be responsible for the safe keep and return to prison of such prisoner to the custody of the sheriff at the end of each day's labor, which days labor shall be within the discretion of the officer or other person so supervising at the time, but shall not exceed ten hours' work or labor for any day he may be so employed; and any prisoner so sentenced who shall refuse to perform the labor required of him shall incur the penalty of two days' additional imprisonment for every day he may so refuse, and this provision shall be included in the sentence of the Court of justice by whom the same may be rendered; but no prisoner shall be compelled to perform such labor whose health is not in a condition to allow the same, and the certificate of the physician to the jail or other physician in said county shall be sufficient to excuse such labor.

254-D. If any officer or other person having such prisoner in charge for the performance of such work or labor connive at or by his wilful neglect permit the escape of any such prisoner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon indictment and conviction of such offense in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, be fined not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars, or be confined in the county jail of the county, and be subject to the same penalty of labor, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved April 26, 1927.

RELATING TO THE ELIGIBILITY OF THE COUNTY TREASURER TO SUCCEED HIMSELF.

CHAPTER NO. 63.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 42-A of Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Couaty Treasurer," as the said section was enacted by Chapter 520 of the Acts of 1892, providing that the County Treasurer of Garrett County shall not be eligible to succeed himself.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 42-A of Article 12 of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

42-A. That the legal voters of said Garrett county, shall on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, nineteen hundred and thirty, and on the same day and month in every fourth year thereafter elect a suitable person for the office of Treasurer of said county, who shall hold his office commencing on the third Tuesday of the April following such election for four years or until his successor shall be elected and qualified, and said person shall be ineligible for four years thereafter for election to the same office.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1927.

Approved March 18, 1927.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

Rose A. Galvin and Annie R. Connelly, Plaintiffs, vs. Hugh Carey McMahon, Administrator of Thomas A. Carey, deceased; Edward J. Carey, Annie Carey, his wife; James Carey, Adah Carey, his wife; Rachel Carey, Rose A. Galvin, Nancy Carey, Mame Jorden and Clarence Jorden, her husband; Myrtle Gross and Charles Gross, her husband; Lucele Campbell and Edward Campbell, her husband; Kathleen Shoemaker and Leland Shoemaker, her husbnad; James F. Keedy and Elizabeth Keedy, his wife; Daniel McMahon, Joseph M. McMahon, Leona McMahon, his wife, Rose Ella Wagner, and Wm. B. Wagner, her husband; Mary Jane McMahon, James P. McMahon, Henrietta McMahon, Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, and John Keedy, heirs at law of the said Thomas A. Carey, defendants.

No. 2756 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate situate in Garrett county, Maryland, of which Thomas A. Carey died seized and possessed, and to subject the same to the payment of his debts due the plaintiffs and his other creditors, the personal property being insufficient to pay said debts in full, and for an account taken under direction of the Court.

The Bill states: That the said Thomas A. Carey was, in his lifetime, indebted unto the said Rose A. Galvin in the full and just sum of $31.00 on an open account for taxes paid him, a statement thereof is filed and marked Exhibit A, and indebted unto the plaintiff, the said Annie R. Connelly in the sum of $324.00 with interest thereon from April 19, 1926, and costs $7.00 on judgment in the Circuit Court for Garrett county, a copy thereof is filed as a part of this bill and marked Exhibit B; and is also indebted unto the plaintiffs, the said Rose A. Galvin, on judgment, being No. 43 Trials June Term 1922, in Circuit Court for Garrett county, in the sum of $1665.00 with interest thereon from June 17, 1922, and costs $7.00, a certified copy thereof is filed and made a part of this bill, and marked Exhibit C.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, being so indebted as aforesaid, unto the plaintiffs and also unto divers other persons, and having real and personal estate, departed this life on or about the 6th day of October, 1926, intestate, and leaving no widow, but leaving the following heirs at law surviving him, namely, Edward J. Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Annie Carey, both adults and resides in the State of Illinois; James Carey, a brother, who intermarried with Ada Carey, and both of whom are adults and resides in said Garrett county; Rachel Carey, a sister, and an adult and resides in said Garrett county; Rose A. Galvin, a sister, who resides in the State of Pennsylvania; Nancy Carey, a widow of Jacob Carey, a deceased brother, and the following children of the said Jacob Carey, deceased, namely: Mame Jorden, who intermarried with Clarence Jorden, residing in the State of West Virginia, Myrtle Gross, who intermarried with Charles Gross, Lucele Campbell who intermarried with Edward Campbell, all of the State of Virginia; Kathleen Shoemaker who intermarried with Leland Shoemaker, and both of the State of West Virginia, and all nieces of the said Thomas A Carey and daughters of the said Jacob Carey, a deceased brother of said Thomas A. Carey; James F. Keedy, a nephew of said Thomas Carey and a son of Mary J. Carey, a deceased sister, who intermarried with Elizabeth Keedy and resides in the State of West Virginia; and the following children of Lydia McMahon, a deceased sister of the said Thomas A. Carey, and nephews and nieces of the said Thomas A Carey, namely: Daniel P. McMahon, Joseph McMahon, who married Leona McMahon, and all reside in the State of Pennsylvania; Rose Ella Wagner, who married William B. Wagner, who both reside in State of Pennsylvania; Mary Jane McMahon residing in Garrett county; James P. McMahon, who married Henrietta McMahon and reside in State of Michigan; Clara McMahon, Marshall McMahon, Hugh C. McMahon, Leo A. McMahon, all of Garrett county, and John Keedy, husband of Mary Carey, deceased, whose residence is unknown, but is a non-resident of this State. All of said Defendants are adults.

That admisistration of all and singular the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey has been granted by the Orphans' Court for Garrett county to one Hugh Carey McMahon of said county, who by virtue thereof has possessed himself of the personal estate of the said Thomas A. Carey and has sold the same; a copy of said letters of administration granted on said estate of said Thomas A. Carey, filed as a part hereof, marked "Exhibit D."

That the plaintiffs are informed and aver that said personal estate is not sufficient to discharge all the just debts due and owing by said intestate, Thomas A. Carey, at the time of his death, but they are advised the same, now in the hands of the said Hugh Carey McMahon ought to be applied to the payment of the claims of the plaintiffs and other creditors of the said Thomas A. Carey, so far as the sum will extend; and that any deficiency in said personal estate ought to he supplied by a sale of all, or such part as may be necessary, of the real estate of the aforesaid debtor.

That the said Thomas A. Carey, was at the time of his death, seized and possessed of a parcel of land situate in said Garrett county, and known as Military Lot No. 598, containing 50 acres, and also of an undivided one-third interest in and to Military lots Nos. 653, 657 and part of Lot No 655 containing ten acres on South side of said lot from a division line running East and West, and a part of Lot No. 654 being the land lying between Lot No. 657 on South and the land of James Carey on the North side, the said interest being the same which was devised to said Thomas Carey by last will and testament of Daniel Carey, probated and recorded in Orphans' Court for Garrett county.

The Bill prays:

That an account may be taken under direction of this Court of the said debts so as aforesaid due to the plaintiffs and all other debts which were owing by said intestate at the time of his death, and which still remain unpaid; and also of the personal estate and effects of the said intestate received by or for the use of the said administrator aforesaid.

That the said personal estate may be applied, in due course of administration, in payment of the debts of the said intestate due the plaintiffs and all other creditors who may come in and contribute to the expenses of this suit.

That the said real estate of the said Thomas A. Carey, deceased, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose may be sold for the payment of so much of the aforesaid debts as may remain unsatisfied by the application of the personal estate as aforesaid, and for general relief, writ of subpoena against resident defendants, and order of publication against non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon this 23rd day of May, 1927, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of June, 1927, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, and warning them to appear in this court either in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1927.

IN WOLF'S CLOTHING.

There are very few indeed who have not heard the old fable about the sheep tender who kept calling to his neighbors in the fields close-by that wolves were destroying his sheep.The neighbors would come to help him get rid of the wolves, but he would only laugh and say that he was playing a joke on them.

Then when the wolves really did come, he pleaded for help, but the neighbors would not come, for they had been fooled once too often.

By turning this little tale around, one can see a similar experience which happened in Oakland Monday and Tuesday nights and which happened also two years ago when the Chautauqua came here.

Ever since the writer was a grammar school boy there were many circuses and shows that traveled about the country and exhibited under tents. At every one of these shows and circuses one saw the "bally-hoo man" standing on a platform and heard him tell of the marvelous sights which he could witness on the inside for the small sum of twenty-five cents or more.

When one had paid his money and had seen what really was inside, he admitted that they were wonderful—too wonderful, in fact, to be practicable. Every time a show came to town and gave its performance under a tent it was the same old tale, and too much of these experiences has given people a bad taste in their mouths concerning plays and entertainments going about from place to place and showing under a tent.

Herein comes the likeness to the tale of the boy and the sheep. People can be fooled only so often and after that they are beyond danger, or at least think they are.

The Chautauqua two years ago and in years past has had high-class entertainment, but the guarantors almost always had to contribute a sum to "put it over." The stock company that was to have been here a week was forced to leave because of the poor patronage, and it is claimed by all who attended that all the plays presented were of the best.

The circuses and carnivals which go about giving their shows under tents create bad associations for any other show which would like to do the same thing. People have stood for the poor shows as long as they could and have decided not to go to any more. Now when something good comes along in a tent nobody believes it.

A man with a truck called at the homes in Oakland on June 20 and 21 and he was willing to gather up all the rubbish free of charge. Did the people make use of these two days?

VICTORY FOR AMERICAN IDEALS.

This country never faced such a period of prosperity as appears to be ahead of it.

And therein lies our greatest danger.

Can we as a nation keep our head and not become soft and discontented?

Will we in our quest for more of the nimble dollars allow political soothsayers to undermine our government with visionary schemes at public expense?

Will material prosperity give us the "swellhead" and cause us to feel that we are too "important" to attend to the troublesome little affairs of government?

If this attitude overtakes us, look out for trouble.

As individuals we are "small potatoes" in the scheme of economic development.

But if each individual does his part to maintain American ideals and sound conditions in government and industry, "small potatoes" will grow into big potatoes and our national "potato crop" (stability, security and prosperity) will be on a safe and enduring basis.

The feat which Captain Charles Lindbergh accomplished is typically American. Nothing could better illustrate our spirit of individual initiative and enterprise. Every American might be called a pioneer, for every American has the right to strike out with his own ideas in whatever field of endeavor appeals to him.

It is this priceless heritage of freedom and opportunity for the individual which each of us should strive to uphold. Our government should always be maintained on a basis which protects and encourages the individual and private industry, rather on a basis which restricts and destroys experiments, growth and ambition.

Not only was Lindbergh's crossing of the Atlantic typically American in its freedom from pomp and ceremony, but Lindbergh himself is symbolical of American ideals. He had the ability, courage and driving force to accomplish results in the face of seemingly insurmountable barriers.

It is the Lindbergh spirit, the American spirit, which has given us our wonderful modern conveniences and comforts.

The development of transcontinental railroads, telephones, electric power, radio, automobiles and our system of business, banking and insurance, while not as spectacular as Lindbergh's feat, required a high type of courage, perseverence and enterprise for their successful accomplishment.

Our system of government which has given us unparalleled opportunities, was founded, built up and is maintained by men capable of understanding the advantages to be derived from the fullest encouragement of individual initiative and enterprise.

Daily Vacation Bible School

St. Mark's Lutheran church of Oakland will conduct a daily vacation Bible school, beginning Monday morning, June 27th, and which will be continued for two weeks from that date. The school is intended for the children of the community, all under 18 years of age being admitted. Miss Marion Leary will be the principal, and Rev. Chas. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's the director.

The purpose and motto of the school will be "Learning to Live the Christian Life." Children will be divided into departments, each department having its separate lesson, such as sand tables, picture cut outs, clay moulding ,map making, etc.

No definite fee will be charged, but an offering will be taken for the purposes of the school some time during its operation.

GORTNER.

Mr. Lee Slabaugh, who has been ill with typhoid fever, at Allison, Pa., where he had been employed, returned home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Spoerlein and children and Miss Lela Mosser, were guests of the Dodge's on Sunday.

Messrs. Roy Lichty, Dan and Jacob Petersheim, left Monday for Sugar Creek, Ohio, to attend the funeral of Rudolph Petersheim, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Petersheim, of that place.

Mr. Leroy White and family, of Fairsweep, visited the Lee's on last Sunday.

Messrs. W. E. Spoerlein and "Red" Sisk, took a truck load of produce to Morgantown last Thursday.

Mrs. Hoff and Miss Ruth Schlossnagle took dinner at the home of Mr. Jacob Swartzentruber last Sunday.

A number of young folks spent Monday evening with Miss Bera Spangler and Mr. "Ted" Beachy.

Rev. F. L. Fultz will preach for us Wednesday evening, June 29th. Everybody is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gnegy, of Eglon, W. Va., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Crowe.

Mrs. Elwood Schlossnagle is staying with her sister, Mrs. Howard Schlossnagle, at Accident this week.

RYAN'S GLADE

The play and festival at the Grange Hall last Saturday night was quite a success, even if it was given under bad weather conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, Mr. Walter Scott and Misses Elizabeth Scott, Mabel Steyer; Messrs. Leon Steyer and Floyd Faley were visiting at J. B. Shockey's on Sunday.

MINIATURE LOCOMOTIVE IS SHOWN AT DEER PARK

First American Built Engine Is Reproduced for Pageant in Baltimore Sept. 24 to Oct. 8

Miniature reproduction of Peter Cooper's "Tom Thumb," the first American built locomotive, which was run for the first time on the Baltimore and Ohio by its inventor in 1829, was on display in the lobby of Deer Park hotel last Saturday and Sunday. This replica of the relic was encased in glass and its exhibition was in charge of W. C. Donnelly, general supervisor of time service of the Baltimore and Ohio.

An exact reproduction of the original engine capable of being run under its own steam was made by the men at Mount Clare shops, Baltimore, and will be ready for use at the exposition in Baltimore from Sept. 24 to Oct. 8, when it will head the pageant.

This little engine was also referred to because of its famous race with a horse from Relay to Baltimore on Aug. 25, 1830, which was won by the horse because a belt broke on the engine. The horse's victory, however, was short lived, as the "Tom Thumb" had proved the practicability of steam for transportation.

SINES

We have been having some nice weather lately.

Miss Mina Glass called on Miss Hallis Reams during the past Sunday.

Mr. Bert Reams and daughter, Alice, called on N. A. Reams, Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Sines and son, Daily, took a trip to Hershey, Pa., to attend the annual meeting, reporting that they had a nice time.

Rev. E. T. Fike preached a very interesting sermon at Pine Grove church Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reams, of Crellin, called on Mr. David Reams, Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Sines and family were visiting at the home of N. A. Reams, Sunday.

Quite a few young people from here attended the church at Sand Flat Sunday night.

A few of the young people attended commencement at Accident High school last Wednesday night.

OAK HILL.

The Oak Hill school closed Friday after a very successful year with Miss Virginia DeBerry as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Juniper Teets,of Cumberland, spent Saturday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Teets at this place.

Silas Teets has completed his job as road supervisor from James Resh's to Friendsville. The road is in fine condition at this time.

The family of J. L. Groer has moved back to our community, they having purchased the Edward Hachman farm and taken possession.

W. A. Snyder is making good progress with his lime kilns and crusher in the manufacture of lime for commercial purposes.

Just a short distance above the W. A. Snyder farm a heavy slip of earth, trees, stumps and rocks came down into the public road a few days ago, which almost closed it to traffic. The supervisor with a force of men, however, were soon on the job and had the road open for traffic in a short time.

Mrs. Bruce Forsythe and children were Sunday afternoon visitors at the J. L. Groer home.

Benj. Sweitzer and family, of near Swanton, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Amanda Schroyer.

Messrs. Dennis and Howard Shroyer, of Morgantown, spent the week-end with their mother at this place.

Several of the residents of this section have tried their luck at trout fishing in Deep Creek Lake in recent days.

Mrs. Lee Hayden, of Roanoke, Va., is here for a week's visit to the family of Capt. Hayden.

On account of the rainy and extremely cold weather prevailing over last week-end the Epworth League rally was not so well attended as was expected but it was quite a success and interesting.

The camp meeting begins next Sunday when a large crowd of people is expected to be in attendance. Among the visiting ministers Rev. Joseph H. Smith and wife will be among the leaders. Mr. Smith was at the Park in its earlier days and is well and favorably remembered by those who attended the meetings at that time.

The growth of grass and the foilage is adding very materially to the attractiveness of the Park.

Among the more recent arrivals at the Park are Mr. L. A. Rudisill and daughter Miss Ruth Rudisill, from Baltimore; Mrs. Ruhl, from Clarksburg; Mrs. Prevost, from Washington, D. C.; Mrs. E. L. Davidson, from Parkersburg, and Mrs. Skyles, from Norfolk, Va.

BITTINGER.

It is reported that two large dogs, belonging to John Swauger, a farmer residing near Jennings, entered the pasture field of a neighbor, Lloyd Bowser, where a flock of thirty-one sheep were kept, and within a couple of hours the dogs had killed eighteen of the animals and injured the remaining thirteen so badly that it is thought none of them will recover. Men who visited the scene immediately after the dogs were discovered say that it was a most distressing sight. Mr. Bowser will seek to recover damages either from the owner of the dogs or from the Board of County Commissioners, but the unfortunate side of this matter is that many sheep have been killed by dogs in this section of the county during the spring months and not a half dozen dog owners have paid their dog tax, and it is obvious that that there can be no funds from which to pay for sheep that have been killed when citizens fail to pay the tax which is the only source from which money can be gotten for the sheep fund.

Immediately following the regular morning service in the Lutheran church of this village last Sunday, the pastor, Rev. E. E. Campbell, performed the ceremony uniting his youngest daughter, Miss Lucy Campbell, of Bucyrus, Ohio, in the holy bonds of matrimony with Mr. Frank Rosemond, also of Ohio. Mr. Rosemond and Miss Campbell arrived at the village parsonage last Friday evening from their Ohio homes, ostensibly for a visit with Miss Campbell's father, hence the wedding was a very great surprise to the congregation. The bride's many friends in this community extend congratulations and best wishes for a happy and successful married life.

Miss Lillian Lynn and mother, of Westernport, Md., are spending a few days with friends in this neighborhood.

C. W. Browning, of Deer Park, was a business visitor to this place very recently.

Mrs. Nola Durfrey and son, of Miami, Florida, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Campbell, near town.

A deer was seen crossing the State road near Deer Park Tuesday morning by Ivan and Wilbur DeWitt and Pleasant Reis. Mr. Henry Friend reports having seen four deer recently.

Two of our young girls were members of the Oakland High School graduating class recently, namely: Misses Lola King, literary editor of the year book, and Mary Jankey.

The writer thinks they deserve honorable mention. Mary Jankey attended the second and fourth y[illegible] without being absent a day, while Lola King attended every day of the four years with a perfect attendance, and the writer knows it was no easy task to get there during the winter months when snow was drifted until a man could hardly get through it.

Church Picnic.

July 2nd, the members of White Church will sponsor a picnic to be held at the church, to which all are invited. Music and speaking.

DIED.

ROY HEISKELL HAMILL

Funeral services for Roy Heiskell Hamill, aged 43 years, of Huntington, West Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hamill, of Oakland, who died Thursday, June 16, following an operation performed at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, on Monday preceding, were held in St. Paul's Lutheran church in Huntington, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. C. E. Butler, pastor of the church, officiating.

The operation performed upon Mr. Hamill, although considered quite severe, was thought to have been extremely successful and that his complete recovery and restoration to good health would result. His death came as a distinct shock and complete surprise to his friends and relatives. He had been ill but two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Mealy, of Baltimore, accompanied the remains of their deceased relative from Baltimore to his late home in Huntington.

The deceased was born January 4, 1884, at Oakland and received his schooling in the Oakland grammar and high schools. After graduating from the local high school he took a position in the southern portion of West Virginia as a superintendent of mines, but left that to enter the contracting and building business at Huntington where he was engaged for fifteen years and was quite successful during his short career.

He was married to Miss Effie Mealy, of Oakland, sister of J. G. Mealy, and was the father of seven children, all of whom, with his wife, survive him, they being Alvin, Gordon, Catherine, Louise, Richard, Helen and Ruth. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hamill, and by two sisters, Mrs. H. A. Loraditch and Miss Margaret Hamill, all of Oakland. The eldest child is aged eighteen while the youngest is only four years of age.

In addition to being an active member of the Lutheran church at Huntington, Mr. Hamill was a member of the Shriners at Wheeling and of the Rotary Club at Huntington.

RALPH ELMER HAUSER.

Ralph Elmer Hauser, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hauser, of near Horse Shoe Run, died at the home of his parents, Tuesday, June 14, and was buried Saturday morning, June 18, from Red House church where the services were conducted by the Rev. C. A. Shilke, of Oakland, in the absence of Pastor Waybright. The interment took place in the church yard. The deceased was aged twenty years, one month and twenty days. He is survived by his parents, five brothers and a sister and a wide circle of friends. He was a member of the Lutheran church at Texas.

JOHN THOMAS ASHBY

John Thomas Ashby, who would have been 77 years of age on Saturday, died at the home of his son, Cleveland Ashby, at Crellin, on Tuesday afternoon, death being due to a disease of the kidneys. Funeral services will be held at the home of Cleveland Ashby this afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be made in the Ashby burying ground near Crellin. Rev. D. B. Brown, pastor of the Crellin M. E. church, will conduct the services. The deceased is survived by his wife and eight children—four sons and four daughters.

MARRIED.

Waybright—Hockensmith — Miss Vesta E. Hockensmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hockensmith, of Taneytown, Md., and Rev. Walter E. Waybright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Waybright, of Gettysburg, Pa., were united in the bond of holy matrimony in the Mount Joy Lutheran church, Adams county, Pa., on June 16th, at eight o'clock a. m. The ring ceremony of the Lutheran church was performed by the Rev. L. K. Young, pastor of the bride and groom, who was assisted by Dr. C. F. Sanders, a member of the faculty of Gettysburg College.

The bride is a graduate of Taneytown high school and of Western Maryland College in the class of 1926. For the past year she was a teacher in the Charles Carroll High School in Carroll county, Md. The groom is a graduate of Gettysburg Academy in the class of 1920; Gettysburg College in 1924, and of the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, in 1927. Recently he became active pastor of the Eglon charge, near Oakland, of which Red House church is in connection. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal couple left by motor for a two weeks' honeymoon to points of interest in New York and the New England states. After July 9th they will reside in the Eglon parsonage at Red House.

GRANTSVILLE.

(By George W. Diefenbach)

Grantsville, June 22—Last week was a busy one for those connected with school work in this community. The high school gave its final play, "Her Honer, The Mayor," on Monday and Tuesday nights in the W. O. W. Hall. Between the acts the activities usually held on class night were a feature, much enjoyed by all.

On Wednesday the Home Economics department held its annual exhibition. The teacher, Miss Marian Price, and her pupils are to be commended for the fine quality of work. The room was decorated in spruce and laurel. Thhe exhibits were the work performed during the year consisting of dresses, suits, gowns, slips, undergarments, luncheon sets, doillies, dining room sets, laundry bags, bloomers, bed linens and many other needle work products. The girl graduates each made a complete bed room set, including the spread and curtains. Their particular display in the exhibition was a perfectly appointed bed room, having secured and improvised the necessary furniture and dressed it with the linens they had made in their school work. Their note books were also on exhibition, which were on house planning and management and contained complete information for planning and furnishing a home for a family, consisting of kitchen, dining room, living room and two bedrooms; alsi bath. There were also exhibited salads, cakes, cookies, candies and other foods and delicacies which the pupils were taught to make. One notable exhibit was a school lunch arranged in a lunch box, consisting of custard, sallad, nut bread sandwiches, with the necessary conveniences to make such a lunch desirable. A dainty lunch with tea was served to the visitors in a cleverly arranged booth. Miss Ruth Stahl poured tea and Mary Bevans and Margaret Mary Bloucher served cocoanut sweet-meats, oatmeal cookies and sandwiches on tables appropriately set for the occasion.

On Thursday evening, the commencement exercises were held in the Methodist church, which was far too small to accommodate the very large number who desired to attend this annual event, which is being regarded with more importance with each passing year. The program consisted of several numbers by the school Glee club; the invocation by Rev. J. E. Johnson, followed by the introduction of Mr. Finley C. Hendrickson, member of Allegany county bar, of Cumberland, by Prof. F. E. Rathbun, who was the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Hendrickson's talk was humorous in places but packet full of things for every one to think about; the subject being "Our Constitution," in which he showed the very trying and serious period thru which the great men of our country passed in framing the wonderful document which has brought our country up to its present position, and how every one must work to preserve it by uprightness of heart and life. Prof. F. E. Rathbun followed by giving some things of local interest pertaining to the school situation; called attention to the present crowded condition of the school building; pointed out that an additional wing is necessary to the east end of the building, but cited the shortage of funds for that purpose. However, all feel that there must be some way of remedying these conditions. Mr. Rathbun stated in his address that Grantsville leads in the transportation of pupils to a central school. The members of the graduating class are: Pearl Meek Beachy, Ruth Brunelle Emory, Viola Ethel Butler, Helen Uena Folk, Mildred Anna Opel, Maud Genevieve Pope, Walter Martin Reichenbecher, Velora Virginia Swauger and Paul Conrad Wisseman, who were presented with diplomas by Prof. Rathbun. Prof. Ralph R. Webster, principal of the school, announced the honor students—Helen U. Folk, Ruth B. Emory and Velora V. Swauger. He also presented bronze medals, suitably inscribed, to Dorothy Edwards and Clyde Miller, who participated in the Fraley (girls) and Dawson (boys) declamation contest. Miss Edwards won second place in the Fraley contest at Kitzmiller, and secured for the school library a set of eight handsomely bound volumes, "Anthology of Literature." Miss Kate Bannatyne, grade supervisor, presented certificates to 80 seventh grade braduates from 22 schools of the Grantsville Supervisory unit and who are eligible to enter high school in September. Those receiving certificates are: Grantsville school: Fern Baker, Evelyn Beachy, Mary Bevans, Naomi Stanton, Mnrguerite Folk, Allan Rodamer, Clyde Bender, Walter Younkin, Pauline Hendershot, Robert Johnson, Mildred Paul, Helen Swauger, Lester Kinsinger, Kermit Bittinger, Charles Paul; Boucher school: Olive Vangilder; Long Stretch school: Evelyn McKenzie, Mervin Carey, Eulaw Wampler, Lucila McKenzie; Yoder school: Elva Yoder, Annie Burton, Barbara Hershberger, Paul Miller, Vernon Michael, Walter Yoder, Lloyd Yoder, Alvin Hershberger; Merrill school: Mary Merrill, Albert Robeson; Warnick-Jacobs school: Lee Jacobs, Louise Michael, Edna Michael; Piney Run school: Oma Smith; Pope school: Elizabeth Pope, Anna Durst, Jennie Durst, Russell Durst; Weir school: Leslie Cutter, Clinton Cutter, Ralph Hoopengardner; Negro Mountain school: Ida Butler, Bernard Walls, Clifford Walls; Engle school: Stella Beachy, Anna Setzer, Mildred Bowers, Manning Bowers; Mar's Hill school: Lena Custer, Alcy Jenkins, Cleo Durst, Vera Durst, Helen Miller, Bessie Broadwater; McKenzie school: Wilda Broadwater; Beall school: Mabel Wilson, Eleanor Ravenscroft, Alberta Wellings; Avilton school: Dallas Stark, Edgell Stnrk, Walter Michael; Dorsey school: Karl Krause, Thomas Krause, Rose Braodwater, Laura Durst; Fairview school: Carl Broadwater; New Germany school: Oberline Otto, Harold Durst; Jennings school: Carrie Hare, Elva Wilburn, Daisy Durst; Finzel: Eulah Baer, Mayme Warner, Hubert McKenzie, Raymon McKenzie; Aaron's Run: Howard Broadwater; Caton: Murrell McKenzie, Helen Lancaster, Josephine Chipikitis and Edna McKenzie. Mr. Rathbun, in his address, paid a glowing tribute to Prof. Webster for his splendid work during the past two years here. Some of Mr. Webster's accomplishments were to materially increase the attendance in the high school, secure much new scientific apparatus and furniture for the school, increase the library, secure a number of worthwhile current magazines for the reading room, a number of standard school pictures, painted the halls and the exterior of the building and erected a new flag pole on the campus. Prof. Webster was exceptionally well liked and an untiring worker. He will not return for the coming year, having accepted an offer in Allegany county.

Recent Weddings

Harvey W. Yost, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Yost, and Miss Norma Deitz, a daughter of Rev. J. F. Deitz, of Detroit, Michigan, formerly of Johnstown, Pa., were married in the First church of the Brethren, Detroit, at 8 p. m., June 9. The church was filled to capacity with friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Following the ceremony, a luncheon was served to the guests in their home after which they left for a trip to Akron and Cleveland, Ohio. Friends of the couple showered them with many useful and beautiful gifts as well as with their best wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Yost are at home to their friends at 3770 Cadillac avenue, Detroit. Mr. Yost is office manager for the White company in Detroit, having been with that concern for the past seven years, five years of that time he served in the company's branches in Cleveland and New Orleans.

William James Wier, son of Hugh and Cecelia Wier, and Miss Annie Florence Green, daughter of Chester and Media Green, both of Garrett county, residing near Lonaconing, were married by Rev. Edward J. Travers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Lonaconing, at the bride's home on June 15th. The attendants were Miss Ida Cutter, cousin of the groom, and Stanley G. Green, brother of the bride. Following the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served. There were many presents for the young couple. Following the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Wier left by motor for Ashtabula, Ohio, for a brief stay. About 75 relatives and friends were present.

Good Showing for Freshmen

Recently a battery of tests in the fundamentals of english and mathematics were given by State Supervisor, W. K. Klingaman, to all the first year high school students of the county. A study of the results reveals that in the english test Grantsville high school scored higher than any other high school in the county. In the mathematics test Grantsville divided honors with the Oakland school. The fundamentals tested were in capitalization, pnuctuation, grammar and sentence structure.

Teachers Entertain

Following the school play on Tuesday night of last week, Miss Ruth Keller, teacher of English, informally entertained the members of the cast in her home. On Thursday morning Miss Marian Price, teacher of Home Economics, entertained the graduating class at a 9 o'clock breakfast at Hotel Casselman.

School Pienics

The Turner and Pope schools held a joint picnic at the Turner school on Thursday, with a large number of parents and friends as well as the pupils in attendance. A bounteous lunch was provided for all. Perfect attendance awards were given to Annie Durst, Jennie Durst, Lillie Durst, Marshall Durst and Ethel Durst from the Pope school, nnd to Byrd and Alberta Newman of the Turner school. The Boucher and Mar's Hill school held their joint picnic on Wednesday, with about 60 pupils, parents, friends and teachers in attendance. Athletic events and games, together with a supply of picnic food were the main attractions.

Entertained nt Bridge

Mrs. B. T. Keller was hostess to the bridge club on Wednesday evening. There were four tables. Miss Ethel Broadwater received the prize.

Much Air Traffic

Late Thursday afternoon, a fleet of 19 airplanes passed over the village, travelling westward, probably bound for the Lindbergh celebration at St. Louis. Their appearance reminded many of a flock of large birds. There is an established air route over this vicinity, as very few days pass without sighting several planes, travelling both east and west.

Moved to Washington

Miss Lula and G. Fay Shaw left on Wednesday of last week for Washington, D. C., where they will make their home in the future with their sister, Miss J. Tibbets Shaw. Mr. George Sloan, formerly of McHenry, recently purchased Hilldale farm.

Following is a poem written by Miss Ruth Emory, a member of the 1927 class of the Grantsville high school and given by her on class night as her contribution:

Class of 1927

Nine glad hearts surprising shy,
You wonder how the bunch got by,
Nor by hook, nor crook, nor bluff,
But by honest to goodness student stuff.
We have made our way, we have won our fight,
And that is why we are glad tonight.

Patiently plodding, step by step,
Onward and upward, our way have kept.
Shoulder to shoulder through four long years,
Upward through tangles of hopes and fears.
We have scaled the heights, we have reached the goal,
Vision us now as we call the roll.

Genevieve:—
Facing the cannon calm and cool,
Never mistaking a mouse for a mule,
Writing her themes with incredible speed;
Comrade, Companion and Pal, indeed.

Helen:—
Ready to go, though going's rough,
Never in love with that Science stuff,
But always at home in Ec. and the rest,
Doing her work with a jolly good zest.

Mildred:—
Standing tonight as she always has stood,
Smiling, as every sweet graduate should.
She knows that to worry is nothing but "bunk,"
And never kept any one out of a "flunk."

Pearl:—
Down in the kitchen with ladle and spoon,
Playing the hungry man's favorite tune.
Adjectives vex and verbs make her quake,
But sure she can conjugate puddings and cake.

Paul:—
"Oodles" of gestures and speeches galore,
Dreaming of Otis and Henry of yore.
He's peppy and handsome, when seen on the stage,
And he'll have some fine whiskers, when he has enough age.

Velora:—
Blending her voice with the kitchen din,
Battle and clatter of plate and tin.
Spicing a relish, mixing a cake,
Things to give kiddies the stomach ache.

Viola:—
Stitch by stitch, a straight, smooth seam,
Follows the path of her needle's gleam.
Not seeking, but sought, till her patient grace
Has found in our hearts its honored place.

Walter:—
Caressingly he cuddles her, close up beneath his chin,
Not a maiden, oh no never, just a quaint old violin.
She wavered, quaked and trembled, as the swiftly gliding bow,
Filled her bosom with vibrations all akin to woe.
Then the sound that rent the ether was a most distressing wail,
And the eagle on the flag staff lost a feather from his tail.
Play on ambitious "Smiley," birds are irresponsive things,
Some day in marble places you may play for noble kings.

Ruth:—
With problem and theme she's right on deck,
But often gets flurried about Home Ec.
She never will learn thls art, I fear,
From Hamlet, Macbeth, nor Old King Lear.

Now we've told you of our virtues and the things wherein we lack,
If you've got the wrong impression, won't you please just send it back?
We are grateful to our teachers, 'though we've often tried them sore,
But we've always found them faithful and nll loyal to the core.
We are grateful to the town folk, to our school-mates and the Jan,
To the jolly post-man and the one who drives the van.
We never can forget you, not a single one of you,
And we feel the pang of parting as we bid you all adieu.

There will be an all day picnic held at Crellin, Md., on Saturday, July 2nd, in the Chas. Ream grove. Amusements of all kinds. Watch the papers for special attractions. Held under the auspices of the Crellin Boys Band and the Youghiogheny Rifle and Revolver Association.—Advertisement 13 tf.

progress of public education in America we seem to be assured of a continuation of this increase in the future. However, this condition did not always exist, publie education as we know it really originated in America, but it required a long time to reach its present position, and as the publie school is one of the most distinctive of our country's institutions it occurred to me that it might be of some interest to you to give a brief history of its origin and development. You are the benefieiaries of this development and it seems to me you should know something about it.

The idea of free education for the individual at the publie expense if it did not actually originate in America at least appeared here soon after the colonies were established, and eertainly it has flourished and developed here to a greater extent than anywhere else in the world. The first public school seems to have been founded in Elizabeth eounty, Va., in 1634, next was in Boston in 1635; soon afterwards similar schools were established in various other colonies especially in the New England Colonies and in New York, and later all the eolonies adopted the plan. At first they were only free to those who were unable to pay, the others being charged certain fees. Sometimes the expenses were taken care of by having the teacher boarded first in one home in the community and then in another, sometimes the expenses were derived solely from the fees received from the more well to do pupils, and so on, but the plan of having the schools supported by general taxation which was first adopted in Massachusetts, rapidly gained ground, and as you all know our public school system is now paid for almost entirely in this way. While the publie school idea existed in the colonies, it developed slowly and it was not until long after the Revolution that the public school system as we know it today was really started, and the man who is generally credited with actually founding the system was Horace Mann, who was placed at the head of the Massachusetts Board of Education, in 1837. Mr. Mann was a lawyer, a member of Congress, and was on one occasion tendered the nomination for Governor of Massachusetts, but he gave up what would undoubtedly have been a brilliant legal and political career to devote his fine talents and great energy to the cause of education. While President of the Board of Education in Massachusetts he instituted many reforms, applied new methods in teaching, broadened the scope of publie education, and probably did more than any other man in our history to establish our present system, but his reforms and ideas were, as usual, fought by that class of people who never want any change and who seem to think that the human race can never improve the conditions of the past, so that it was not until after the civil war that his efforts and labors really began to bear fruit, and that the publie school as we know it today became really established. Just to show how slowly we adopted our present plan of publie education I might mention that Vermont did not abolish the payment of fees by those able to pay them until 1864, New York did not abolish them until 1867, and New Jersey retained them until 1871, so you see that our public school system has actually reached its greatest development during the past sixty years. During this time, however, it has made giant strides, and today public education in this country is far superior in both extent and quality to that given in any other country on the face of the globe. For example in 1924 the American people spent on the public schools, $1,814,743,936.00, over 24,000,000 students receeived instruction in the publie schools, 758,000 people were employed in teaching in the public schools, and $3,744,780,714.00 was invested in publie school buildings and equipment. These figures are staggering but I don't think anyone in this country wants them eurtailed or changed in any way that would affect public education. We pride ourselves in this country on the fact that every American boy and girl whether rich or poor, has the opportunity to secure an education, nay more, the law requires them to secure at least some education, and certainly no real American wants to take this opportunity away from these boys and girls, or wants to lessen in any way the quality of that education. I know that we often murmur about the experse, when we get our tax bills we may growl a little and say that something must be done to get taxes down, but if you will bring any man or woman who says we spend too much on education to a commencement such as this, and show them the bright faced American boys and girls who are graduating, and whom that education will enable to make their mark later on, I think they will agree with me that it is worth the price. Here in Maryland we are particularly fortunate in the matter of publie education. Starting under Governor Goldsborough and continuing through the administrations of Governor Harrington and Governor Ritchie our public schools have improved to such an extent that they are now eonsidered models and teachers and educators come from all over the country to study them. I am sure we are all very proud of this progress, and I want to take this opportunity of particularly congratulating your local school authorities and the teachers in the High School on their splendid work. Teaching and training the young is no easy task and those who devote their lives to this work are performing a very valuable public service, and are entitled to all the commendation they receeive. The graduates here tonight will always be especially indebted to you, and on their behalf as well as on behalf of the people of Garrett County, I want to express the gratitude and appreeiation which we all have for you. And now just a final word to the graduates themselves. Continue as you have begun, be true to the principles taught you during your school days, they are sound, they are correct, they are true, and while you will be tempted to forget them and will meet some who will scoff at them, you ean rest secure in the knowledge that the only evil which can befall you will come when you leave them and you can rely on the corresponding truth that loyalty to those prineiples will bring you the esteem of your fellow men, will make you good eitizens of the nation, and will render you pleasing in the sight of Almighty God.

Motorists are beginning to learn that there's a big difference in tires, although they all look pretty much alike.
Some are made with skimpy, short staple cotton. Some have an overdose of "filler" in the rubber of the tread. Some are long on looks and short on quality.
But you won't need a microscope to be sure that the Goodyear Tire you get from us is a real buy. Goodyear mileages tell the story.
Goodyears are performing so satisfactorily for my customers that they invaribly come back—not with a kick but with a boost, and for another Goodyear when they need tire equipment.

A SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

Is Recommended by State Board of Health.

In making your plans for the Fourth of July, have flag raisings, speeches, parades, pageants, band concerts and picnics; omit the toy pistol and anything else that gets its kick out of blank cartridges or out of equally dangerous explosives and you will have a worthwhile Independence Day. At the same time you will help to cut down the annual crop of Fourth of July accidents, burns and injuries, especially the injuries that cause lockjaw. This is the message that Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health asks The Republican to give to the people of this community.

"Each season has its own particular problems for the health officer who aims to keep a bit ahead of the game," Dr. Fulton said. "Lockjaw from accidents, from fireworks, especially from toy pistols or from other uses of blank cartridges is asociated with the Fourth of July in the mind of every health officer. There are fewer accidents from that cause than there were before the American Medical Association aided by the newspapers all over the country started the campaign for safety and sanity in the celebrations of Indenpendence Day. But we are an easy going people and likely to forget these things unless we are reminded of them,hence this warning.

"Lockjaw—or tetanus, to give the disease its scientific name—develops from injuries or wounds in which street dirt or other solid matter is crushed into the wound. The size of the wound has nothing to do with its seriousness. Tetanus may develop from a pin scratch, or a puncture by a nail or by a splinter of wood. The agonizing stiffness of the neck and lower jaw which gives the disease the name by which it is popularly known, is caused by the poison generated in the human system in the life processes of the tetanus germ—which is found everywhere wherever the soil has been cultivated. This poison or toxin, as such poisons are called, can be counteracted by an anti-toxin, known in this case as tetanus anti-toxin, provided the anti-toxin is administered promptly.

"Though lockjaw used to be associated principally with injuries from fireworks and firearms, much of the recent increase is due to the great increase in automobile accidents, many of which produce injuries of the sort already described in which dirt from the roads or other solid matter is crushed into the flesh. The increase in injuries of this sort and the corresponding increase in deaths from lockjaw is indicated in the records of the State Department of Health which show a decrease in the deaths from diseases such as scarlet fever and diphtheria and an increase in those from tetanus.

"Tetanus anti-toxin for the preventive treatment of injuries likely to produce lockjaw is supplied free of charge by the State Department of Health. The larger quantities necessary for the treatment of advanced cases are furnished at cost."

NON-SUPPORT CHARGED AGAINST MAN NOW IN JAIL

Hearing of George Tibbetts to be Tried Before Justice Gonder this Afternoon or Friday

George Tibbetts, who was brought to Oakland Tuesday night from Washington, D. C., by Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith, where he had been apprehended by the authorities of that city the day before, will be held either this afternoon or tomorrow before Justice Wm. A. Gonder, who issued the warrant for Tibbetts' arrest upon information charging him with non-support of his wife and children.

Tibbetts had been in Oakland for several weeks leaving here on Friday, and taking with him his son Robert, who is quite a small boy of tender years. Later he was located in Washington, D. C., and the boy's mother, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Townshend, of Oakland, had him apprehended on the charge of non-support.

The boy's uncles, Singleton and Ernest Townshend, Jr., went to Washington on Saturday evening and returned Monday evening, bringing the lad with them.

The county officer left here Monday night, returning Tuesday evening with Tibbetts in his custody. He was taken to the County Jail where he will be kept until his hearing is called and the case disposed of by the Justice of the Peace.

NONE HURT IN COLLISION AT HINEBAUGH'S CORNER

Chevrolet and Ford Ran Together Sunday Afternoon—Small Damage Results

No serious injury to the occupants, and very little damage to the cars resulted from a slight accident Sunday afternoon between Mrs. Harry West, driving a Ford coupe, and Harry Hinebaugh, driving a Chevrolet touring, at the corner of Second and Liberty streets.

Mrs. West was coming down Liberty street headed for Green street. Mrs. West's car was struck squarely in the centre. The Chevrolet was filled with people, none of whom were injured. Mrs. West was the only occupant of her car. Both cars drove off under their own power.

EIGHTY-FOUR ENROLLED IN DAILY BIBLE SCHOOL

Being Conducted at St. Mark's Lutheran Church by Pastor and Helpers

Eighty-four boys and girls are in attendance at the Daily Vacation Bible school which is being held in the Sunday School room of St. Mark's Lutheran church, all of this week and next. Pupils from the Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, and Episcopal churches are among those present.

There are six instructors who are teaching map building, sand table work, and stories, history and scenes of the Bible. The courses given, to whom they are given, and the instructors are listed: Bible Facts and Scenes, and English Composition, to seniors, by Miss Marion Leary, principal; in connection with the scenes, they have the map building projects. George Alstetter is assisting in this work. Bible History, to juniors, by Miss Elizabeth Leary; Bible Stories to juniors, by Miss Jane Kahl; Bible Readings, to intermediates, by Miss Eva Falkenstein; Sand Table work, to primary classes by Mrs. C. A. Shilke and Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell. There are three groups occupied with clay modelling.

The pastors and members of other local churches will be present on certain days and give Bible talks to the whole school.

On Friday evening, July 8th, the last day of the school, there will be a public demonstration at which all the work that has been done may be inspected, Rev. Charles A. Shilke, pastor of the Lutheran church, and director of the Bible school stated yesterday. The public is invited to see this demonstration. It will be held at elght o'clock in the lutheran church on the above named evening.

Women's Club Meeting at Sunnyside Grange Hall

The Sunnyside Women's Club will meet at the Sunnyside Grange Hall on Thursday, July 14th, at 2:00 p. m. Plans for the fair exhibits will be discussed. The president of the club will have charge of the meeting.

PEACE DISTURBER GETS 30 DAYS; ANOTHER HELD

Jacob Brenner Found Guilty of Cutting Off Cow's Tail—Held For Court Action.

Porter Wilson, of near Bloomington, Garrett county, was fined $20 and costs Monday afternoon by Justice of the Peace E. I. West on the charge of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace. He failed to pay the fine and was taken to the County Jail to serve thirty days.

Another charge against Wilson was that of stoning a house in the neighborhood of Bloomington for wbich he is being held for the action of the Garrett county grand jury. Bond in this case was set at $200. As yet Wilson has made no effort to pay the fine imposed or to furnish the requisite bond.

Cuts Off Cow's Tail.

Jacob Brenner, of near the White Church, on Backbone Mountain, is being held in the County Jail in default of $200 bond, the charge against him being cruelty to animals. It is alleged in the information leading to Brenner's arrest that in a fit of anger he had cut off a cow's tail and had otherwise mistreated and maimed the animal by running a pitchfork through her udder. The ease was heard before Justice West who found Brenner guilty as charged and he was held.

WOMAN HELD FOR GRAND JURY UNDER $200 BOND

Mrs. W. Brafford, Who Charged Brother with Assault, Is Held on Charge of Intent to Kill

Mrs. William Brafford, of Sunnyside, five miles south of Oakland, a tenant on the farm of Howard Stahl, who had a warrant issued for the arrest of her brother, Lee Greathouse, charging him with common assault, was held yesterday for action of the December Grand Jury following a hearing before Justice Gonder, on the charge of assault with intent to kill.

Mrs. Brafford, it is alleged, accused her brother of stealing some chickens from her farm, and the brother, upon hearing of the charges made against him is said to have gone to her home to deny the accusation and have a retraction made.

Witnesses in the case yesterday afternoon in the offices of Justice Gonder said that the man had attempted to strike the woman. According to other witnesses the man left the Brafford home peaceably and without any undue show of anger. It came out at the hearing that as Greathouse and another man, who had been waiting outside of the Brafford home, started to leave the premises, Mrs. Brafford is alleged to have appeared with a gun and fired several times in the direction of the men who are said to have hastened their steps in the opposite direction.

After hearing the evidence the Justice imposed a fine of $1.00 and costs on Greathouse, whom he found guilty of assault, and Mrs. Brafford was held under a bond of $200 for her appearance at the December term of court for assault upon her brother.

Boy Scouts Play Games.

The regular meeting of the Boy Scouts last Friday was turned into "Game Night," which was held out of doors. Several games were played, following the very brief business session, "the tug of war" being the most popular. The Fox patrol, large in number but small in size, proved themselves the best tuggers. This was followed by having a "feed" consisting mostly of weiners.

Twenty-one Merit Badges Bestowed

Twenty-one merit badges were issued last Monday evening at the regular session of the Court of Honor, to the Scouts who were present in Scout Hall at the time. Approximately 300 merit badges have now been won by members of the local troop.

Three scouts now lack but one or two requirements for the coveted Eagle Scout rank, who expect to make these up at the next Court of Honor meeting. There are already seven Eagles in the local organization.

Boy Loses End of Finger on Piece of Glass.

Howard Adams, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Adams, Crellin, lost the tip of the middle finger of his right hand yesterday afternoon when he attempted to pull a board from beneath the porch at his home, his hand coming in contact with a sheet of glass with the result above stated.

CUMBERLAND PUBLISHER ADDRESSES ROTARY CLUB

J. B. Finan Gives Importance of Advertising In Local Medium of the Community.

The changes and likenesse between newspapers of today and fifty years ago, the importance of crime and sex news, and the importance of advertising in one's local newspaper, were the most important points brought out by Joseph B. Finan, publisher of the Cumberland Evening Times, and president Maryland State Editorial Association, in his talk before the Oakland Rotary club at the William-James hotel Friday evening.

The program for the evening was given over to the publicity committee. Capt. James A. Hayden, former editor of the Republican, was the honor guest of the meeting. The first issue of the Republican, March 4, 1877, was taken from the files of the office and exhibited to members of the club, to show the advancement made over a fifty-year period.

Mr. Finan described certain changes which had come about, but that people, as a whole, still demanded the same kind of news. He saw no danger whatever in the publication of so much crime news in papers of today. "I can see no harm in letting pepole know that crimes are committed," he said, "provided that the news of such events is written up in the proper way." The same thing applied to the amount of "sex" news which is being published.

The molding of public opinion he considered very important, but in order to become influential, the molder had to be honest, truthful and logical. Without these three assets, he asserted, the molder of public opinion would finally fail. The remaining part of his talk was devoted to the weekly newspapers in the small towns. He stated that news of accidents or crimes of close friends of the editor should be published as readily as that of any other person, and likewise the good news.

Advertising in the local newspaper was stressed particularly. He said that he would not advise any person in a small town to advertise in a paper in a large town, even if some of them were mailed into that particular town, because the amount spent could not be justified. For that reason, he said, the best returns could be obtained by advertising in ones local paper and in proportion to the amount of business which he handled.

Give first-aid to all powder burns inflicted on July 4th.

OAKLAND BOYS INJURED IN AUTO WRECK SUNDAY

Car Overturns, Pinning Robert Hoffman Beneath—Wolfe Is Thrown from Car

John Wolfe and Robert Hoffman, both of Oakland, were more or less seriously injured, and the car in which they were driving completely wrecked at a point near Bear Creek, Sunday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock.

The car had run off the shoulder of the road, according to the occupants, and in attempting to get back to the crown of the road, the car was headed towards the other side. Fearing that they would run into the bank, the wheels of the car again changed direction and the car overturned, pinning Hoffman beneath it and throwing Wolfe free of the wreckage. The top being down probably saved them both from more serious damage.

Both were more or less scratched and cut, and had their clothing torn. Wolfe's kneecap was injured, as was Hoffman's, his however being so bad that Dr. N. I. Broadwater, Oakland, who rendered medical aid, had to take two stitches in the flesh.

The Ford touring car was so badly damaged that the owner says he will get another one and use the old wreck for extra parts. It was hauled into town by Stanton's Taxi company.

The Pastor's Aid Society of St. Mark's Lutheran church will hold a strawberry and ice cream supper on the church lawn Thursday evening, June 30th. Everybody invited to attend and enjoy the evening.

The Ladies Guild of St. Matthew's Episcopal church will hold their annual bazar and cafeteria supper on Thursday, July 21, this year, in the Methodist parish house on Oak street. This is almost a month earlier than the lawn fete was held last year. Fancy work, cake, and candy will be on sale.

BUSINESS MEN PROVIDE CAMP SITE FOR SCOUTS

Court of Honor Will Endeavor to Raise Funds for Erection of Permanent Buildings

Approximately $200 is needed by the Court of Honor of the local troop Boy Scouts of America to build permanent barracks and a dining hall on land provided for the purpose by several business men of Oakland.

The land, the same upon which the Scouts camped last summer and which lies along the banks of Deep Creek Lake about twenty-five minutes' drive from Oakland, makes an ideal camp site for the boys, and they are very anxious that the permanent camp be established, which will relieve them of a large expense during the years to come in the way of providing proper housing during their outing.

The barracks, which the Court of Honor hopes to erect, will be a building 26x60 feet, open on both sides and at one end, with slanting roof rising from five feet on the lower side to approximately twelve feet on the upper side. The eaves will extend two feet or more on either side, which will prevent rain beating very far into the structure. Drop canvass will also be provided to be used in case of storms.

The dining hall will be nothing more than a roof set upon posts and will be a long, narrow structure just large enough to provide sufficient covering for the table to be used by the boys at meal time.

A committee for the purpose of soliciting funds for building these structures was named Friday night at a regular meeting of the Court of Honor, with Dr. W. W. Grant, a member of that body, as chairman.

Dr. Grant has stated that he feels a short time only will be required to ralse the money needed for this worthy purpose and has made arrangements with the three banks of Oakland to accept donations for the fund. Any amount left at the banks for the purpose will be appreciated by not only the members of the Court of Honor but by the entire Scout organization.

The boys will go into camp for two weeks either late in July or the first of August, which leaves little time for the Court to erect the buildings and otherwise prepare for the necessary comforts for the boys who are to occupy the proposed buildings.

Dr. Grant and his committee are very anxious that the amount needed be raised very early in order that the work on the site be completed without undue delay.

TALKS GIVEN AT CIVIC CLUB MEETING TUESDAY

The Misses Lantz, of Baltimore, Were Guests of the Organization—Next Meeting July 26

Addresses by Mrs. Harold Harned, Mrs. James Willison and Miss Emily Emerson Lantz, the latter a special writer for the Sunday Sun of Baltimore, were features of the monthly meeting of the Oakland Civic Club which was held at Crook Crest, the home of Miss Thekla Fundenberg, a member of the club and hostess upon this occasion, which occurred on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Harned talked on "Education in Club Work"; Mrs. Willison on "Recent Legislation." A report was made by Mrs. Milton Sincell on orthopedic work. Two cases that were under observation during the orthopedic clinic, recently conducted in Oakland, are now in Baltimore under surgical treatment, members of the organization said.

The Misses Lantz, of Baltimore, were guests of the club. Miss Emily Emerson Lantz is in Oakland gathering data for a history of Garrett county to appear in an early number of the Sun. A series of these articles dealing with thirteen other counties of Maryland, have been written by Miss Lantz in recent months and published in the Sunday Sun. Miss Lantz gave a short talk to the members of the Club.

Refreshments were served by members of the entertainment committee composed of Mrs. J. L. Pollock, Mrs. Elwood Offutt, Mrs. James Treacy and Mrs. E. H. Sincell.

The July meeting of the Club will be held at Crook's Crest on July 23d at 3:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Anderson, of Loch Lynn, was a guest of Oakland friends several days last week.

WILL OPEN GIRLS' CAMP NEAR OAKLAND ON JULY 1

Camp Minnietoska to be Open Until Sept. 1—Situated on Farm of Dr. McComas

Camp Minnietoska, a new gills' training school which is situated by the lake on the farm of Dr. Henry W. McComas, about 5 miles west of Oakland, will be opened tomorrow, July 1. The training will be along lines of tennis, hockey, baseball, etc.

The ground for this camp was bought last fall from Dr. McComas, and the owners expect to enlarge the camp each year until several hundred girls can be taken care of. So far this year, according to the directors of the camp, there are about thirty girls expecting to arrive for the summer. The camp will close September 1.

Frank Hansen, a supervisor in the Baltimore schools, and Miss Lucy Hyde, a director in the Forest Park Senior High school, are the directors of the camp. They will have councillors such as Miss Elizabeth Wise, who has a Carnegie medal for life-saving, to instruct the girls.

The members of the camp will give a pageant towards the end of the season, Mr. Hansen said, and the people of Oakland will be invited to come. Further announcements of this will be made when the time comes, he concluded.

ROAD BONDS ARE SOLD TO BALTIMORE CONCERN

$1,101.10 Realized on Each $1,000 Bond—Baltimore Trust Company Is Purchaser

One thousand, one hundred one dollars and ten cents was relaized by the County Commissioners from each of the fifteen $1,000 lateral road bonds, issue of 1927, which was bid by the Baltimore Trust company, of Baltimore, according to Walter Meyers, one of the commissioners. There was one other bid.

The issuance of the bonds is authorized by Chapter 454 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed at its January Session of 1927, and they are exempt from State County and Municipal taxation in the State of Maryland.

Ten of these $1,000 bonds will fall due on May 15, 1950, and the other five on the same day in 1951. The bonds are to be dated of issue at the rate of five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, on May 15 and November 15 of each year.

The money derived from these bonds will be used in the construction and repair of roads throughout the county.

ANNUAL CAMP MEETING BEING HELD AT THE PARK

Will Continue Fifteen Days this Year with Prominent Preachers in Attendance.

The annual camp meeting, which is to be extended to fifteen days this year, began last Sunday morning, June 26, at Mt. Lake Park, and will continue until Sunday night, July 10. The meeting was formerly held for ten days only, but five more days have been added to this.

Some very prominent preachers in the United States will be present, according to those in charge. The singing will be a feature of the camp. The following persons are ministers who will speak during these sessions: Henry Clay Morrison, Louisville, Ky., whom William Jennings Bryan called the greatest pulpit orator in the United States. He has made a tour of the world, preaching in India, Africa, China, Japan, Philippines and the islands of the sea. He will be at the meeting July 2 to 4.

There will also be Dr. Charles H. Babcock, Los Angeles, Cal., Dr. John F. Owens, Upland, Ind., Dr. C. M. Dunaway, Decatur, Ga. The song leaders are Prof. and Mrs. Kenneth Wells, of Indianapolis, Ind., who are returning for their fifth year.

Other workers are: Rev. Andy Dalbow, Wilmington, Del., Rev. M. W. Castle, Wheeling, W. Va., Miss Minnie Shay, Baltimore, in charge of the children's work, Mrs. Tillie Albright, Canton, O. Officers of the association are C. M. Hood, President; Dr. Daniel Westfall, secretary; C. A. Lovejoy, Wilmore, Ky., vice-president; J. P. Bohlander, treasurer. Seventy-five to one hundred ministers of various denominations will be guests of the camp meeting. Clerk.

ONE DEAD; MANY INJURED IN AUTO CRASH SUNDAY

Chevrolet and Cadillac Meet on Sharp Curve Near Thomas Resulting in Death of One Man

One man was killed, one severely hurt and several others more or less bruised and cut at a point on the Oakland-Thomas highway, near Thomas, West Va., Sunday afternoon, when a Chevrolet touring car with four occupants ran into a Cadillac victoria car occupied by Mr. R. P. Maloney and family, of Oakland, and Rev. Fr. Schoennan, of Thomas, West Va.

The occupants of the Chevrolet car were William McVicker, of Rowlesburg, West Va., who died Sunday evening as a result of the injuries he had sustained, at the Davis Memorial Hospital; John O. Whetsell, also of Rowlesburg, who was severely injured, and two others whose names could not be learned. One of the unknown, driver of the Chevrolet car, received a broken arm and cuts and lacerations about his face. The occupants were on their way to a baseball game at Davis.

Immediately following the accident, McVickers, whose death resulted, was discovered lying on the highway, having been thrown from the car by the impact. He was taken to the hospital by a Mrs. Willis, of Kempton, who was passing in her car at the time of the accident. Whetsell was not discovered for several minutes afterward, as the car top had fallen over him. He was in the rear seat on the right side of the car and was unconscious when found by Mr. Maloney and others who had gathered. Both Whetsell and McVickers had fractures of the skull.

The occupants of the Cadillac car were badly shaken and it is said that had it not been for the fact that the car was of heavy construction, they would probably all have been killed or at least badly injured.

The point of contact was in the centre of the Cadillac car, which demolished the fender and body on that side, also breaking all the glass of the windshield. The Chevrolet car was badly damaged.

Upon returning to Oakland, Mrs. Maloney complained of a severe headache and upon an examination being made by Dr. Broadwater, who had been summoned to treat her, it was found that she had sustained a very slight concussion. The children as well as Mr. Maloney and his guest were unhurt.

The accident happened on a very sharp turn in the road near Breedlove. The front of the Cadillac car was not touched by the other car, the owner asserted. The driver of the Chevrolet car attempted to make the turn at a high speed with the result that it crossed the highway and collided with the Maloney car, striking it squarely in the middle.

The damage done to the car owned by Mr. Maloney will amount approximately to $600, which is covered by insurance. The cost of making the necessary repairs to the Chevrolet car will be from $300 to $400, it was estimated by those who saw the wreck.

To Hold Three Large Picnics Over Holiday

Three large picnics and numerous small ones are reported to be held over the holiday period from July 2 to July 4 inclusive. The three largest will be the ones given by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for its employes at Oakland, the English Lutheran church of Accident, and the Crellin Boys' Band at Crellin.

The picnic at the fair grounds for the superintendents, managers, clerks and the families of all workers of the Atlantic and Pacific will probably be the largest of them all. People will gather from Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and from points in West Virginia as far as Clarksburg. More than 1,000 people are expected to be present. It will be held on the Fourth of July.

Accident Picnic

The picnic at Accident will be held for the benefit of the English Lutherand church. Many are also expected to gather at this affair which will be held on Monday, July 4.

Crellin Picnic

The picnic at Crellin will be held on Saturday, July 2, members of the committee announced. This will be conducted in Ream's Grove, near the State road, and will he held for the benefit of the Crellin Boys' Band.

Numerous other picnics that have been reported will be those held among certain families and their immediate friends.

Mr. Silas Teets and sons, J. S. and Noah were in Oakland on business last Saturday.

Undesirable Summer Boarders.

Two sorts of summer boarders will get a seant welcome when they make their appearanee in Maryland this summer—flies and mosquitoes. Both have a bad reputation for crimes committed in the past and the State Department of Health asks general cooperation in the enforcement of an exclusion act against them.

The flies of other seasons are held responsible for the contamination of food and for the spread of various diseases, among them typhoid fever and tuberculosis, diarrhoea and other intestinal diseases among children.

Mosquitoes are not wanted, because first, last and in every particular they are pests. Disturbers of sleep is the least of the crimes with which they are charged, and in connection with that they frazzle the nerves of the people to whom they pay their unwelcome visits, reducing their powers of resistanee against disease. Then in addition certain members of the mosquito family are guilty of specific crimes. One of them spreads malaria, another carries back-bone fever. Fortunately few of this sort attempt to make a landing in Maryland.

So Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health, has issued these recommendations against these undesirable flies. He says:

"To keep down the fly nuisanee:

"1. Swat the fly that comes within your reach. Flies breed so rapidly that one single pair may have several million descendants.

"2. Flies breed in manure. Don't allow the manure to accumulate. It should be spread out at least once a week during the summer. Advice in regard to special treatment can be gotten by writing to the State College of Agriculture, at College Park, Maryland.

"3. Flies feed on garbage and filth. Use a covered garbage pail; either burn or bury the garbage.

"4. Flies carry filth from the outhouses to food within doors. Have sanitary outhouses. The State Department of Health, 16 West Saratoga street, Baltimore, will send you a plan of one if you write for it.

"5. Svreen your kitchen, your dining rooms and your sleeping rooms against them. The same screens will keep out mosquitoes."

As to mosquitoes, Dr. Fulton says:

"1. Mosquitoes lay their eggs on the surface of stagnant water. A very small amount of water is all they need for that purpose. Old tin cans and other rubbish holding an inch or so of water furnish as good a place as a whole stream so far as the mosquito is concerned. Get rid of these home-made breeding places.

"2. Oil your stagnant streams. Your health officer will tell you how, or will do it for you.

"3. Stock your near-by ponds with fresh water minnows—the kind that eat the young mosquito. The technical name for these minnows is gambusia affinis.

"4. Screen your houses.

"5" Don't wait until these unwelcome guests appear on the scene. That will be too late. Do it now."

KNOCKING THE KNOCKERS

No higher tribute could be paid to the American Legion as an effective force for American patriotism than the denunciation of this national organization of World War veterans by the American Civil Liberties Union in its recently issued annual report.

The American Civil Liberties Union is headed by Roger Baldwin, an avowed anarchist, whose wife is Madalein Doty, former official bolshevist courier.

It occupies itself with defending revolutionary radicals who run afoul of the law. Representatives of the organization declared, before a congressional committee last year, that the organization stood for the "right" of alien or domestic revolutionaries to publicly advocate the use of violence to overthrow the government of the United States.

In a document issued last year under the title "Free Speech, 1925-'26," the American Civil Liberties Union boasted of having given financial aid to Richard Ford, I. W. W., California; Roe Neil, I. W. W., Kansas; William Burns, I. W. W., California; Anthony Bimba, communist, Massachusetts; Carlos Tresca, Italian communist, New York; Ben Gitlow, communist, pardoned by Governor Al Smith to plunge immediately into new revolutionary activities; Crouch and Trumbull, convicted of revolutionary communist activities in the United States army in Hawaii while in correspondence with the Moscow international; Charlotte Anita Whitney, whose conviction for violation of the criminal syndicalism law of California has just been affirmen by the United States Supreme Court, and others of Similar purposes.

The American Civil Liberties Union is not so much in the dark as to what constitutes free speech and what constitutes a definite attempt to destroy the American government as it pretends to be. Communism and anarchy have been advocated as abstract theories in this country for a century without interference; indeed we have had many communistic colonies in the United States. Advocating, in the name of communism or anarchy, the violent overthrow of the government of the United States is quite another matter. Abstract defense of the "right" by lynching, and haranguing a mob to lynch a given individual are two distinct and very different processes. Abstract advocacy of communist and anarchist doctrines, and advocacy of definite violence is clearly under the inspiration of a foreign revolutionary movement publicly committed to the overthrow of the government of the United States, are similarly different matters. The government and people lacking in the disposition to resent and repress such conspiracies would not deserve to live and would not long endure. When the American Civil Liberties Union ranges itself against the jailing or deportation of those who admittedly are seeking to destroy the American government, and along with it genuine free speech as these same forces have destroyed it in Russia, it definitely places upon itself an advertisement of its own true inwardness.

Naturally the American Legion is attacked by such an organization. Naturally, with all its professed devotion to free speech, the American Civil Liberties Union seeks to suppress the America Legion's right to express its patriotism. For the two organizations are as far apart as the poles. The American Legion is composed of men who, having made some sacrifices for their country in a great crisis, are disposed to defend the republic. Naturally an organization which devoted itself during the World War to defending slackers and seditionists, and has since kept busy defending revolutionaries who seek to destroy the American government, would hate an organization of American veterans who love their country and stand ready to defend it against these revolutionaries. The censure of the American Civil Liberties Union may therefore be worn by the American Legion as a badge of honor.

Gem of Poetic Fancy Is "America's Making"

This interpretatiou of the United States, titled "America's Maklug," was written some years ago by Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of the Temple, Cleveland. It has beeu widely copied and quoted.

"God built him a coutinent of glory and filled it with treasures untold;

"He studied it with sweet flowing fountains and traced it with long winding streams;

"He carpeted it with soft rolling prairies und columned it with thundering mountains;

"He grnced it with deep-shndowed forests nnd filled them with song,

"Then he called unto a thousand peoples and summoned the bravest amoag them,

"They came from the ends of the earth, each bearing a gift and n hope,

"The glow of udventure was in their eyes, nnd lu their heurts the glory of hope,

"And out of the bounty of earth and the labor of nen;

"Out of the longing of hearts and the prayer of souls;

"Out of the memory of ages and the hopes of the world,

"God fashioned a nation in love, blessed it with purpose sublime, und called it America."

Gould Credited With French-Fried Potatoes

Like all others who take delight in a platter of crisp, hot French fried potatoes, I always supposed this particular way of preparing them was originated by some eminent French chef in the distant long ago, until nlong came one of those fellows who are always digging luto history and finding thlugs to shatter our pet illusions.

According to his version, the French fried potato originated not in France but in New York. Oue day, so the story goets, Jay Gould dropped into Delmonico's restuurant in thnt city and said: "I wnnt potatoes quartered and fried in deep fat." The desire to imitate the doings of a Gould probably caused the use of potatoes fried in this way to assume the proportions of a fnd, although, unlike many other fnds, this one survived. For years these were known simply as quartered potatoes. Then Delmonico took to slicing them thinner and called them by the name under which they are now knowu throughout the country.

Whatever may be said of Jay Gould as a financier and railroad builder, all lovers of French fried potatoes are under lastlng obligations to this forceful Americau.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Early Tax Exemptions

Cows were exempt from taxation in Ohio under the act of Februnry 3, 1825. That act was the first provision for general property taxation nad there were many exemptions, certain kinds of property belng regarded as important in a new settlement. However, the cow exemption covered only one eow in the aame of nny one owner. The exemption was to encourage every householder to have a cow. Among other forms of property exempted were factories producing nails, leather, glass, salt, cotton or woolen goods, grist nnd saw mills, paper mills and distilleries. Whisky seems to have been looked upon then as an indispensable product. To encourage purchase of lnds lu the state by settlers, the act provided that such lands should be free from taxation for five years after the purchase.—Detroit News.

Excuse Not All Bad

When I make an excuse for myself—nnd goodness knows I have made many of them—I always feel somewhat guilty. Yet I am not sure that the excuse habit is entirely without its good side. It evidences at lenst a disposition to make matters appear better than they really are, nnd this, in turn, evidences a pride or self-respect of a sort, which qualities are commendable to some extent. The difficulty lies in one's inability to repair consequences in this way. As Lem Gidge said to the family cow, "Your eyes are wellsprings of innocence and your hearing is that of blamelessness, but the milk's spilled and your foot's in the bucket just the same, dodblast you!"—Portland Oregonian.

Oldtime Home Brewing

Brewing beer was a respectable household task among families along the Tigris nnd Enphrates rivers 9,000 years ago. Evidence of this high antiquity of the eraft of brewing and its plnce in anelent social systems of Babyloala and Egypt has been traced by German scientists of the Society of History and Bibliography of Brewing.

There were laws about drinking in those days, the report shows. Certain rations of beer were allowed to each class of workers. Beer was also used in mixing medicines, and as an offering to the gods. Brewing was an organized business as early ns 5000 B. C., it is stated.

Use of "Assignats"

The assignats or notes issued by the French revolutionary government between 1789 and 1796 were used as currency until they became valueless. They were issued on the security of lands of the crown, the church, the nobles and emigres, which had been appropriated, and they were inconvertible except in payment for the public lands. The total issue of assignats was over 45,000,000,000 frnnes.

Flute-Player Never Popular in Society

Flute-playing seems to have gone entirely out of fashion. Can this be due to the denunciation which this most ancient of musical instruments has received from the pens of eminent writers?

Violinists and pianists may figure in fiction as heroes and heroines, but performers upon the flute nre generally introduced into novels only as comic or unpleasant characters.

At least three comic characters of Dickens were flute-players; Dick Swiveller, who took to it as a "good sound, dismal occupation," nnd was consequently requested to remove himself to another lodging; Mr. Mell, the schoolmaster, who "made the most dismal sounds I ever heard produced by any means, natural or artificial;" nnd the young gentleman at Mrs. Todgers' musical party, who "blew his melancholy into the flute."

Bulwer Lytton wrote of a clever schoolboy who "unluckily took to the flute and unfitted himself for the present century," and Charlotte Bronte represents "inept curates" as performing upon it.

And then there was Goethe, who summed up the case against the flute by saying: "There is scarcely a more melancholy suffering to be undergone than what is forced on us by the neighborhood of an incipient player on the flute."

Pouting Ladies Given Time for Reflection

Many persons in a moment of ill humor have caught an unexpected glimpse of themselves in a mirror and have had that one glimpse impressed upon them as quite sufficient punishment for an unlovely mood. Such occasion may have been the inspiration for the "pouting room" in France during the latter part of the Seventeenth century. The apartment was of octagonal form and the sides as well as the ceiling were of highly polished mirrors, so that a person standing in the center of the room could see himself from every possible direction, multiplied into an indefinite vista of selves, as far as the eye could reach. Into such a focus of reflection, related President John Adams to the North American Review in January, 1838, after his return from a trip abroad, the gallant gentlemen of the most chivalrous portion of Europe east those ladies whose temper had escaped their control, dooming them simply to the reflection of their own countenances.—Detroit News.

Couldn't Be Wrong

Once when James (later Viscount) Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth," was going from Boston to Mount Desert by steamer, he fell into conversation with a young fellow traveler and the talk chancing to turn on a point of American constitutional law, a difference of view disclosed itself. Neither disputant ceding ground, the boy who had fought his end with surprising tenacity played his last card.

"But, sir, I know I'm right. Bryce says so."

To which Bryce with great amusement felt obliged to tell him that he was Bryce and that his young friend had mistaken the meaning of the passage.

Farm-Boy Botanist

The first botanical garden in the New World was founded in Kingsessing, near Philadelphia, by John Bartram, a pioneer botanist of American, who was born at Marple, Pa., March 23, 1699. Reared on a farm, by self-education Bartram obtained such a thorough knowledge of botany that he was pronounced by Linnaeus the greatest natural botanist in the world. He also was appointed "American botanist to King George III." His son, William, was also a great botanist, and so strong was his passion for the science that he wrote a wonderful treatise on a plant just a few moments before his death in 1823.

Soft-Hearted Warders

Local authorities at Raratonga, Cook Islands, are gentle with prisoners. A judge from New Zealand, having sentenced a man to ten years' hard labor at Auckland, was surprised to find the prisoner sitting next to him at a movie theater the night before his departure for prison. The native warders felt that, since the criminal was going away to have an unhappy time, he might as well have one pleasant night before his departure.

An Indian Farewell

The journalistic symbol, "30," meaning the end, has a queer Indian origin. In Bengali, "80" is employed to mean "farewell" and means, literally, "I quit." One Mr. Holwell, an English officer in Fort William, Calcutta, used the figure at the end of a letter which he sent to the East India company in 1778. The company, out of fun, used the figure in their publication, mistakenly making it 30. Hence came the use.—D. R. Ghosh, in The Quill.

Extravagant

The casting agent blew himself to a radio and explained to his wife all about the dials and proudly pointed to the eight tubes, which were guaranteed to bring in the distance.

"You just take out seven of those tubes," cried his wife, "and use them one at a time, they're too expensive to use up all at once."

BILLY GOAT, THE POET

"THERE is going to be a great meeting in the barnyard," said Porky Pig. "Grunt, grunt, all come to the meeting.

"All come to the meeting," said Mrs. Duck. "Quack, quack, all come to the meeting."

"Yes, cock-a-doodle-do," said Red Top the Rooster, "all come to the meeting.

"All the old friends and enemies—though I trust there are no enemies—will come and greet each other.

"It's to be a fine reunion."

"Yes, squeal, squeal," said Miss Ham. "It is to be a fine reunion."

"We, of the barnyard, can also have a splendid reunion!"

"Oh, yes, every one must come to the reunion," said Billy Goat.

"They must, grunt, grunt," said Brother Bacon.

"Has every invitation been sent out?" asked Mrs. Ham.

"Every one," said Mrs Duck.

Just then a caterpillar crawled along through the barnyard, hurrying out of the way for fear he might be eaten or trampled upon or killed in one of the ways creatures had of getting rid of caterpillars.

Billy Goat saw him and sang this song:

The caterpillar only crawls,
He is not much admired,
But he'll become a butterfly,
For with high ambitions he's fired.

Everyone congratulated Billy Goat upon his song which was a quite original one. The words, everyone said, were a little better than the music, but it was all good, all good, they said.

And Billy Goat was delighted with the praise. In fact so delighted was he that he said he had another he'd sing, though he'd have to think a little about it.

While he was thinking, though, he was talking about it.

"You see," he said, "I heard one of the young ladies talking the other day, and it seemed she had gone to town dressed in all her old clothes because it had been a rainy day when she had started.

"Yes, she had on an old hat, and old shoes and rubbers, and an old skirt and coat. And no sooner had she reached town than the sun came out and there was she on this most beautiful day feeling so like an old rainy day.

So this is the song I'm making up about that:

There's nothing sadder in this world
Than to have the sun come out
When you're dressed in all your old clothes
Because you were in doubt.

"Of course, said Billy Goat, "she had been in doubt as to whether she'd wear her good ones because she had seen a little blue sky in one corner of the sky but she had been afraid that it would rain."

"We see, we see; a fine verse, Billy Goat. We shall have to name you the Poet of the Barnyard. Truly that would be an honor and one that you deserve," the other animals said.

So when the creatures all came to the Barnyard Reunion Billy Goat or Sir William Goat, the Gentleman, was also called "The Barnyard Poet."

Yes, everyone was on hand, or perhaps one should say on foot, for the reunion, Porky Pig and Mrs. Duck helped to entertain.

The song sparrows came and the owl sent word he was sleeping or he'd come. (They hadn't asked him so they were just as glad he couldn't come.) The Dog who had become so brave came along, so did Sharpy Squirrel, Running Rabbit, Mrs. Blue Jay, and all of the ducks and pigeons and hens and roosters and pigs and geese and turkeys.

In fact it was a splendid reunion and there was excellent food, though of course the Pig family forgot about entertaining any but themselves when the food came along!

But there was enough to go around.

The Geese weren't quite as polite as they should have been, of course, but taking it all in all it was a splendid barnyard reunion.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

THE SIXTH SENSE

A FAMOUS artist had three pupils. The first worked hard and long, earnestly endeavoring to reproduce a copy of one of his master's paintings. In spite of all his efforts he did not achieve success. He was only a copyist, an imitator. The second pupil endeavored to attain success by studying the technique of his art. He listened to great lectures. He read all the literature he could find upon the subject of his art. There was not a great art gallery that he did not visit. He could easily identify the works of the masters. He was splendidly educated in the science of his subject, but he never learned to paint. He could rise no higher than a third-rate artist. The third pupil did all that the other two achieved, but went one step further. He daily sought for opportunities when he could associate with his master and teacher. He studied every movement of his brush. He worked with him long enough to have caught his spirit. He was rewarded by being able to paint with the same skill because he painted with the same spirit. The spirit of the teacher reproduced itself in the works of the pupil.

The person who succeeds in life is the one who can interpret to others the spirit of his task. It is true in the commercial world as it is true in the world of the arts and sciences, that the man who would rise in the ranks of toilers is he who is more than a mere imitator or an abstract idealist. To convince another of the salability of an article of merchandise one must have for sale something more than the article itself. He must impart that invisible "something" that convinces and impells, and persuades the name "to be written on the dotted line." This invisible something might be called the sixth sense for through it there is disclosed to another what is impossible through any of the other five senses. The elements which made up personality are invincible. The person who does not give himself through his works fails. The unreal—imitation and pretense—is shuffled off in the struggle. It can go just so far and no further. It can never reach the summit heights of success. Only the REAL can do that.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

THE BEAUTY SHOW

FOR the first beauty show, the original ancestor of that now popular modern institution, we must go to the pages of Greek mythology and the award which caused the Trojan war!

It all started when Eris, the Goddess of Discord, enraged at not being invited to a certain wedding, threw among the guests a golden apple marked, "For the most beautiful." Juno, Venus and Minerva each made claim, and Jupiter, who was expected to make the decision wisely passed the buck to Paris, the beautiful shepherd.

All three goddesses went to Paris, on Mount Ida, where he tended his flocks. Juno promised him power and riches, Minerva glory and renown in war, and Venus the fairest of women for his wife. It was Venus who got the golden apple, and, under her protection, Paris went to Greece as the guest of Menelaus, king of Sparta. It was Helen, the wife of Menelaus, whom Venus had destined for Paris. And now Paris, aided by Venus persuaded her to elope with him, and so started the Trojan war, the subject of the greatest poems of antiquity.

Speaking of modern beauty shows, the one held at Spa, Belgium, in September, 1888, appears to have been the first. There were three hundred applications, we learn, and a French girl took the prize.

A NATURAL RESOURCE

"I have never seen another county or region that is more adapted to the raising of cattle," said George D. Sprague, manager of the Oakland Creamery today. "It is not as cold as the grazing land of New York state, it is dry like the western lands, and it has plenty of cold water. The county is ideal for it, and I believe that dairying could be called Garrett county's natural resource."

Coming from a man that has been in the business of buying milk from producers throughout the county, this comes as pretty strong evidence that Garrett county could be made even much more of a dairying county than it has been heretofore.

Several years ago, the Oakland creamery was only a small plant, and the manager had difficulty in finding enough farmers who would bring in their milk to be made into butter or other products. Sinee that time the plant has been enlarged three times, and according to Mr. Sprague he expects to make another addition this winter. This fact alone should convince one that the county is realizing more and more the advantage of the dairy business.

Thousands of dollars are paid each year to the farmers who bring in their milk. This sum could be more than doubled in a very few years by slowly building up the number of dairy herds on the Garrett county farms.

The number of registered cattle already in the county is steadily increasing, according to Mr. J. L. McGlone, county agent for Garrett county, and if this increases in the future as steadily as it has in the past, there will soon be herds in Garrett county that will rival those of New York state or the western grazing lands.

After this coming winter there will be a market for all the milk that the farmers wish to sell, Mr. Sprague says. It is a great and profitable industry and it might be well for them to look into.

A DOUBLE CLEAN-UP

The citizens of Oakland made a clean-up in more ways than one last week, but there were not many who realized that they had done so. The first clean-up was easy to see because there was the absence of material from the back lots and rubbish piles. On June 20 and 21, the city sent a team and workmen around and they cleared up all the "dirty spots" of the town.

A certain man had so many ashes and rubbish in his back lot that he never even expected the workmen to stop, but he went out to look one day, and was agreeably surprised. Everything had been cleaned up. That is what happened at every home, and as a result the whole town looks better, and according to Mayor Lawrence Fraley, may help in lowering the insurance rate of the town. That was one clean-up.

The two days of hauling and the hiring of workmen cost the Mayor and Town Council just $37.50. There are 434 taxpayers in the town of Oakland, making the cost of cleaning up to each taxpayer just eight and three-fifths cents. On the other hand, if the city had not volunteered to pay for the two-day clean-up, the cost of hauling would have amounted to approximately 50 cents for each taxpayer or $217 for the entire clean-up.

Each taxpayer then was saved forty-one and two fifths cents by cooperating. That was the other clean-up and although many may scoff at 41 cents, it shows just what saving can be done by community effort. Other towns in the county, if they have not already done so, could well emulate Oakland in its clean-up campaign.

A NEWSPAPER'S BUSINESS

The publication of news, and advertisIng in ones local papers were two points brought out by J. B. Finan, publisher of the Cumberland Evening Times, in his address before the Rotarians Friday, which deserve repetition here because they effect the county papers materially.

In talking of the publication of news, he only reiterated what has been said by other editors for many years. That is, that one should be just as willing to publish news of his elose friends as he is of people whom he does not know, and that they, in turn, should not object to having the news published.

A newspaper is just what its name implies. It tries to get all the news while it is news and give it to the people, because it is an organ of the people when it comes to the publication of anything. A definition of news has been made by many editors and writers of journalistic textbooks which is: "news is anything that interests people, and the more people it interests, the greater the news value."

As one man has stated, an accident is an accident, no matter who has it, and all have a right to have mishaps. He should have added, "all have a right to hear about them too."

Mr. Finan expressed himself as being "sold" on the idea that advertising payed. "If a man in business advertises in the proper medium and according to the size of his business," he said, "there is no reason in the world why it would not be profitable. If the people know what is being sold and what the price is, there is more likelihood of their buying." He was of the opinion that the newspaper was the best medium of advertising because it reached so many people.

He stressed the fact that the local business men should advertise in the local newspapers because the majority of papers printed, circulated in their vicinity and because an advertisement in a larger paper outside the community would not be justified.

All this only serves to bring more forcibly to one's mind the great strength of advertising and the reason for doing it in the proper medium. In the publication of both news and advertising, the newspaper has a responsibility, and that is to print the facts and the truth. That is what The Republican endeavors to do, and what is a fact and true can always be told to the people in the right way. That is what a newspaper is for.

GIVE THE COW A CHANCE.

In recent days a man was arrested and held for the action of the grand jury on a warrant issued by Justice E. I. West for cutting off a cow's tail and running a pitchfork through her udder.

Although it is not certain what the motive was it could not have been anything else but the spirit of revenge—a something that is not very tangible yet is the basis of most of the crimes in the country today.

There should be no one in this day and age, at least in America, where anybody would deliberately walk up to a cow and cut off her tail just for the pleasure he would derive from it.

The editor of The Republican does not condone revenge or anything like that, but if it must be taken, leave the cows, the horses, even the pigs out of it. They are only dumb animals, but probably feel pain as much as human beings, and if the cow could have given expression to her feelings she would have probably said enough to cause her arrest and her being held for the grand jury, yet she would have been perfectly in the right.

Perhaps the man charged with having committed the deed has just sufficient sense of humor to want to cut off the cow's tail in order to show it to her for spite. But in this case he was only spiting himself.

THREE DAYS TO DO WHAT?

Governor Albert C. Ritchie has issued a proclamation declaring that the Saturday before the Fourth of July will be a legal holiday in Maryland. In doing this he says his motive was to give the workingmen a three-day holiday and rest. The idea is a good one, for there is no doubt in anybody's mind that the workingmen need a rest, but will they take it when they get it?

Take the farmer, for instance. He has cows to feed on Saturday and on Sunday just as well as on any other day of the week, and there is never any complete let-up for him. What will a proclamation like that mean to him more than the fact that he must purchase a three-days' supply at the store in one day should the storekeeper observe the proclamation of the Chief Executive. Perhaps he will have cause to worry because the holiday will let his son go gadding about in his (dad's) car and the Ruler of the heavens only, knowing where this may be.

Take the tired workingmen, whose factory, or store, or office has closed Does anyone think for a moment that they will rest? Not on your life! They will pack up and go somewhere on a trip; they will plan where to spend those three days with the most pleasure for themselves; they will run around anywhere, just so they get going and on the move. Then when Tuesday comes around and it is time for work to commence, all the workingmen will be more completely "laid out" than if they had worked at their job the entire time, Sunday included.

The idea of proclaiming a legal holiday is all right in a way. The wage-earners' pay goes on just the same. But if anyone thinks that the workingmen will do nothing on those days but rest he is mistaken.

When students in school get out for a day and are told to be rested up and ready to do twice as much work the next, what do they do? They are not as well prepared the day after as they would have been if they had kept right on with their class work.

The world is moving so fast now that if people rest a day or two they feel that they are being left behind in the race.

The Governor has proclaimed a three-day rest, but try and do it.

The Motives and Aims of the 4-H Club

By Lola King

There are still many people who do not understand the motives and aims of the 4-H Club. The motto of this club is, "Make the best better." We know that the world is gradually growing better regardless of the crimes and otherwise. Still we need to obey God's law more; we need to give more service to our country; we must be able to help others do good, and lastly we must strive for health. These are all aims of the 4-H Club.

Every true American citizen should give the 4-H Club his or her support, in fact it is their duty. Not for the sake of the 4-H Club but for the welfare of the nation and its future citizens. It is your duty to leave the world better than you found it. Will you?

"Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man."—Luke 2:52. This shows that our life is fourfold. The 4-H Club is also a four-fold movement:

1. "In wisdom"—mentally (Head-H.)
2. "In stature"—physically (Health-H.)
3. "In favor of God"—spiritually (Heart-H.)
4. "In favor of man"—socially (Hand-H.)

The Heart-H is the most important of the 4-H's. We must put Christ first. 4-H boys and girls worship God, they are loyal, obedient and brave. They are endeavoring to preserve the Sabbath and keep it holy. Without it (the Sabbath) our nation could not long endure.

The Head-H develops you mentally. 4-H boys and girls seek the truth. They are willing to become educated, not only for their own benefit but for the benefit of the nation as well. They are taught to observe things correctly. "If we look for beauty we find it in unexpected places." It may be the sparrow that has sung outside of our window each morning. It may be a flower, the sunset, or a smile that we have never noticed before.

The Hand-H develops you socially. The 4-H Club makes play out of work. It teaches its members to be fair winners and good losers. It teaches boys and girls better methods of agriculture. It teaches them to be saving, honest, and ambitious.

The Health-H develops you physically. We must have health in order to do good work. In order to have good health you must have rest. Rest does not necessarily mean loafing under a shade tree somewhere. It is a change, reinvigorating of body and spirit.

When Jesus said to his disciples, "Come ye apart and rest," they chose a cool and shady woodland overlooking a lake. Taking this as an example we see that it is just that we take a rest as well as refreshing.

We should seek out-door life. The 4-H Club promotes out-door life. Garrett and Allegany counties have a 4-H camp near Grantsville. It is called "Camp Algajoy" This year it will be open from July 11 to 18th.

Before you can go to camp Algajoy you must be a club member at least 6 months; must be at least 10 years old; have half of years project completed at time of camp, and be an active club girl.

Basketry, nature study work, games and various other things will be taught at camp this year.

Lastly remember that the 4-H Club is a builder of real womanhood and manhood. Boys and girls who belong to the 4-H Club enrich their own lives, increase the happiness of those around them, and greatest of all they glorify God.

D. Newton Brown, City Water Superintendent, Cumberland, accompanied by City Commissioners Charles J. Cumiskey and Joseph T. Griffin and Perry A. Nicklin, former City Commissioner, visited Oakland yesterday on business. Mr. Brown's last visit to Oakland was in 1909. At one time, in the late eighties, he was employed by the late Daniel Chisholm as a drug clerk when the latter operated a drug store on the same site now occupied by Gonder's Pharmacy. Mr. Brown is a son of the late Jacob Brown, in his day a lawyer of ability practicing at the Cumberland bar, and a prolific writer on local subjects, especially the history of the old National Highway and men and things in the Grantsville community where he was born and reared.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Crane arrived in Oakland last night from Long Beach, California to remain some days with relatives and friends before going to Kingwood to open their home. Mr. and Mrs. Crane were married at Los Angeles on May 2nd, the announcement of the event being a great surprise to their friends both in the west and in this community.

TO PAY BACK PREMIUMS OF FAIR AFTER JULY 4

Checks Are Now Being Drawn —Revised Premium List Approved by Directors' Board

Revision of the Garrett County Fair Association premium list was approved and the setting of the date after which all back premiums would be paid, were the most important things taken up at the meeting of the board of directors of the Association held on Tuesday evening at the office of A. R. Martin, recently elected general manager of the fair.

The back premiums, which entail an expenditure of approximately $1,500, and affect more than a hundred exhibitors, will be paid immediately following Monday, July 4th, it was stated by an official of the fair association yesterday. A. L. Lee, secretary of the fair association, is now engaged in preparing the checks so that they may be sent out after that date.

The premium list, which was revised to some extent at the previous meeting of the board, was approved and shows a reduction of perhaps one-third of the former amounts.

Following is the list of directors and various committees: Directors—H. W. McComas, president; Chas. W. Ream, vice-president; W. G. Meyers, treasurer; George D. Browning, A. D. Naylor, A. R. Martin, manager; D. E. Orendorf, assistant manager; H. L. Porter, B. C. Scott, Guy Hinebaugh, G. B. M. Friend, J. W. Whorton, N. C. Sanders, W. C. Welch and S. W. Ringer. A. L. Lee is secretary of the association.

Executive committee—George D. Browning, C. W. Ream, H. L. Porter, A. D. Naylor and A. R. Martin.

Committee on days—First day, H. W. McComas; second day, F. E. Rathbun; third day, C. W. Ream; fourth day, Guy Hinebaugh, W. C. Welch and G. B. M. Friend.

4-H Girls to Camp

The 4-H Clubgirls of Garrett county will camp with the girls of Allegany county at the Girl's Friendly cottage near Grantsville from July 11 to 16. Miss Maude Bean, home demonstration agent from Allegany county, Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Girls' Club leader, and Miss Kathrine Brown, acting home demonstration agent for Garrett county, will be in charge. This is the second year of the joint county camp and it is hoped that Camp Algajoy (named from the two counties) will become a permanent annual event for 4-H Club girls. More play and less work is the program for this year. Mornings will be given over to classes in basketry, instruction in the art of lamp and candle shades, and felt flowers. Then too there will be Camp Cookery and nature study.

Recreation will be the program every afternoon. Pageants, games, hikes and swimming under the instruction of Miss Katherine Brown, acting home demonstration agent.

Then in the evening Vespers and the Camp Fire Tribe meeting. The girls are divided into four groups called Indian tribes. It is an honor for a girl to be selected for a tribal leader, an honor given as an award for splendid work as an all-round club girl and one who has attended College Park. This year Frances Thrasher of Deer Park and Mary Miller of Grantsville, will be the tribe leaders from Garrett county. Margaret Ringler and Dorothy Hutson are to be tribe leaders from Allegany county.

The best all round camper from Garrett county this year will have part of her expenses paid to the Junior Short Course at College Park in August. Friday, July 15, will be visitor's day. Parents and friends are invited to bring their picnic lunch and spend the day at Camp Algajoy.

4-H Club Girls should watch next week's paper for further news.

Eugene R. Thayer Enters the Ministry.

Mr. Eugene R. Thayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thayer, of Thayerville, Garrett county, has returned to his home from Barrackville, W. Va., where he went last week to be examined by the Morgantown District Conference of the M. E. church for license to preach. The license was granted by the body and he was also recommended to the West Virginia Conference for admission on trial. The young preacher is a senior at Asbury College. After completing his work there he will enter a theological seminary to finish his training for the ministry.

Violators Fined

Justice of the Peace W. A. Gonder, has had several small cases this week relating to minor violations of the automobile laws of Maryland. Reprimands and small fines have been levied in most cases. Thomas Currie, of the Maryland State Police force, who has been stationed in and around Oakland for the past two weeks, has been making the arrests.

Financial Friendships

—are equally important as those made through social contact.

Through 39 years, it has been the aim of Garrett National to meet the banking requirements of people in this vicinity in a way that would insure unqualified satisfaction and sincere business and financial friendships.

You, too, will find excellent facilities and hearty co-operation as a Garrett National depositor.

The best of service—always.

Shot Enters Man's Leg.

A 22-calibre rifle accidentally going off, caught Samuel Hargis, of Denver, Colorado, in the calf of the leg, Tuesday afternoon on the premises of Mr. and Mrs. E. Z. Tower. The wound was dressed by Dr. Henry W. McComas.

Mr. and Mrs. Hargis are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tower and Mr. Hargis and Thurl Tower were shooting at mark in the yard. The gun discharged prematurely as the barrel was pointing downward, the bullet entering the flesh below the knee. No serious consequences will result, it is thought by the attending physician.

Miss Brown Succeeds Miss Green as Home Demonstration Agent

Miss Kathrine Brown, Home Economics Teacher of Oakland High school, who is to be acting Home Demonstration Agent of Garrett county for the months of July and August, will begin her duties the last of this week. Miss Brown has returned from her home on the Eastern Shore, Centerville, Maryland, at this time in order to make preparations for the 4-H Club Girls' Camp at the Girls' Friendly cottage near Grantsville, which begins July 11 and continues to July 16.

Surprise Birthday Party.

A surprise birthday party was given in honor of Miss Esperance Ashby at the home of Miss Coral McRobie an evening or two ago. Cards were the feature of the entertainment. Miss Ashby was the recipient of many beautiful present. At a seasonable hour delightful refreshments were served. The following named were present: Misses Esperance Ashby, Caroline Hadley, Reva Davis, Kathryn Menhorn, Margaret West, Marjorie Shaffer, Grace Phillips, Virginia and Evelyn Casteel, Coral and Clara McRobie ;Messrs. Robert Miller, Leland Roth, Max Orendorf, George A. Wilt, William and Jack McRobie and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kemphfer.

Bus Service to be Inaugurated.

Bus service between Davis, W. Va., and Oakland, is scheduled to be inaugurated tomorrow by the Meyer Transit Company, according to a statement made yesterday by the owner of the bus line to be established. Two 17-passenger coaches have been purchased, one of which passed through Oakland en route to Thomas yesterday.

Three round-trips will be made daily between the terminal points, affording train connections on the Baltimore and Ohio at Oakland and the Western Maryland at Thomas.

The transit company has an interstate permit allowing it to bring passengers from West Virginia to Maryland points, but it is said that it is not permissible for the company to take on passengers in Maryland and discharge them in this State.

The franchise for bus rights in Maryland along the Oakland-Thomas road is held by Messrs. Lawrence M. Fraley and Guy O. Yutzy.

Paul Walker of the University of Maryland was in the county three days last week making a survey of the pea industry in the county. He is making a similar survey in other sections of the state to compare the possibilities of the industry in future. With favorablle climatic conditions it would seem possible that growing peas could be as profitable to the grower and canner in Garrett County as any other county. Wonderful results however cannot be obtained in a few years because the conditions which make for the best yields have to be determined by experience and experiments. It is to be hoped that conditions will prove favorable to the production of the crop which will be a valuable asset as a cash crop to the farmers of Garrett County.

Lesson for July 3

SAUL CHOSEN KING

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 10:17-25; 11:12-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—What doth Jehovah require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God?

PRIMARY TOPIC—Saul Becomes a King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Saul, the First King of Israel.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Calls to Life Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Opportunities for Leadership.

The period of Judges ended with Samuel's administration. This lesson shows us the transition from the rule by the judges to the monarchy. For a comprehensive view of the transition it will be well to make a survey of chapters eight to eleven.

I. The People Demand a King (8:1-9).

1. Their reasons for this demand.

(1) Samuel was incapacitated by old age; (2) the unfaithfulness of his sons whom he had appointed as his successors. In this Samuel committed a great blunder, for the office of judge was not hereditary. (3) The desire to be like other nations. The surrounding nations had a king as their leader. They wanted a king who would go out and fight their battles (v. 20).

2. Samuel's behavior under this trial (vv. 6-9). He took the matter to the Lord in prayer. Even though Samuel's blunders in part brought on this trouble he did the wise thing in taking it to the Lord in prayer. The Lord comforted him by assuring him that this rejection was not merely his rejection, but the rejection of the kingship of God.

II. Samuel Tells of the Manner of the Kings (vv. 10-18).

He shows them that the king will be very exacting and arbitrary in his dealing with them.

1. He will take their sons and make them to serve in the army and do all kinds of hard work on his farm and in his house. He will make slaves of their daughters also.

2. He will take their lands, even those inherited from their fathers, and give them to his favorite officers and servants. Not content with that he will take the tenth part of the produce that remains and give to them.

III. Samuel's Protest Disregarded by the People (vv. 19-22).

Having made up their minds they deliberately shut their eyes to the truth and rushed madly into the experiment.

IV. The King Providentially Pointed Out (9:1-10:16).

Saul was sent by his father to search for the asses that had wandered away. This was quite natural. While Saul and his father were acting freely in this matter, at the same time God's sovereign purpose was being carried out. Although difficult to understand, God carries forth His sovereign purpose without interfering with man's freedom.

V. The King Chosen at Mizpeh (10:17-27).

The Lord had already pointed out to Samuel who should be king and Saul had been anointed. Let us observe:

1. Why Saul was chosen. If they would have a king the Lord would give them the one best suited to fill the place. He was from Benjamin, a small tribe, which would prevent undue rivalry between Ephraim and Judah, the leading tribes of Israel. He was also chosen because of his personal fitness (v. 23).

2. How Saul was chosen. The method was by lot. Samuel called them together before the Lord, and before the lot was cast he again remonstrated with them against such action. He showed them the base ingratitude of their rejection of such a God and King who had done so much for them, and gave them a chance to forego their rash demand.

3. How the king was received by the people. Saul knew that the Lord had chosen him, but through modesty and fear he shrank from the responsibility. When he was brought forth Samuel presented him to the people, assuring them that Saul was the Lord's choice.

VI. The King Confirmed at Gilgal (ch. 11).

Soon after the election at Mizpeh the Ammonites made a desperate demand upon the men of Jabesh-Gilead. Saul hearing of it hastily summoned the tribes together for war and won a remarkable victory. As he thus proved his ability the people wished to punish the sons of Belial, but Saul forbade them. Samuel took advantage of this auspicious situation and called all the people together at Gilgal where they formally crowned him their king.

The Life

To apprehend the life that is to be we must learn to think more largely and sacredly of the life that is now. We must enlarge the scope and measure of today, must identify today with what we call eternity.—Charles Cuthbert Hall.

Moving Forward

To move forward in life, you do not need to be forward in conduct, but you must keep your face to the front, and see your objective.—The Gideon.

Addition to List of Fruits Without Seeds

There have long been seedless oranges, lemons and grapefruit, and now there are seedless apples.

A seedless fruit does not propagate its own species. It grafts itself on branches grown from fruit with seeds. The seedy mother provides the fecundity; the seedless fruit gives the pulp and the flavor.

The idea of a seedless apple comes from the seedless orange of California, a freak of nature discovered over a hundred years ago. About 1820 a missionary of Bahia, Brazil, discovered a new kind of orange growing wild which contained seeds of propagation not in its own body, but in a little sac at the top. He sent 12 of the trees to the United States, and although they did not live long, others were budded from them, and are budding still.

A Mrs. Eliza Tibbets gave us Washington Navels, oranges without seeds. One of the trees she planted in 1873 is still alive and producing good fruit.

Next in favor come Valencias, with about a seed apiece. It is as well they retain it, for California grows most of the best oranges of the world, and if there were no seeds there would soon be no oranges.

History's Pages Full of Errors of Record

Aesop's fables are really not Aesop's at all, but Babrius' fables. A Graeco-Italian named Babrius wrote and compiled them several centuries after the Phrygian fabulist's death, the date of which is given as 561. Some chroniclers say Aesop never lived at all. The fables he is said to have composed are lost. Socrates and later writers made versions of the Babrian inventions, to which they gave Aesop's name, thus bestowing immortality upon one sage and robbing another of his rightful laurels. A mistake in computation by a Sixth century chronologist is responsible for the common and erroneous understanding that Christ's birth was in the year 1. Christ was not born in the first year of the Christian era but about four years before the beginning of that period. Cinderella's slipper was made not of glass but of sable. Noting these and similar errors, Josh Billings once wrote:

"The trouble with most folks isn't so much their ignorance, as knowin' so many things that ain't so."—Mentor Magazine.

The Cat

The cat would make an excellent diplomatist; he is seldom ruffled, never loses his head, is usually polite, has admirable manners, and great aplomb, and there is that sharp claw concealed in the velvet glove to resent any intrusion upon his interest or felicity. But, above all, he has the diplomatic virtue of concealing what he thinks. Whereas, the dog opens out his whole soul, the cat keeps it as close as an oyster. There is certainly nothing of the "new" or "open" diplomacy about the cat. He looks wise and maintains a grave and dignified silence. He may be cold, he may be selfish, but it must be said in justice to the cat that he does not make a business of ministering to human egoism—like the dog. His own dignity is to him of very much greater importance; he lives his own life, and goes his own way.—London Morning Post.

Music Is Swinging

The northern races are coming into their own in music. Music has swung into the fields of the less effete races in recent years. With this I associate the increased use of wind instruments, as opposed to strings. These are able to portray the wilderness, the primitive spirit and also the lonely musings of shepherds, the grandeur of the Himalayas. Nobody would think today of describing a mountain in string tone, but a bass oboe solo could do it very impressively.—Percy Granger, in Musical America.

Knew What He Wanted

A society woman recently was giving an elaborate dinner party, which she permitted her small son Freddie to attend. The hostess sat at the head of the table, and Freddie sat near the foot. All went well until the dessert course was reached. Deciding to ask maternal advice before partaking of the sweet Freddie called lustily to the amusement of all except his mother: "Hey, mom, may I have a hunk and a gob?"

His Taste Impeached

A minister was in the habit of running his hands through his hair while preaching his sermons, giving his hair the appearance of having never been combed. One Sunday as the congregation was leaving the church he overheard one woman say to another:

"I wonder if he wears a wig?"

The minister, knowing how his hair must look, asked: "Do you think if I wore a wig I would have picked out one like this?"

Tender Spot

An old bachelor who was very bald, fell in love with a pretty widow, whose late husband's name was Robin.

One evening the bachelor dropped in to have a cup of tea with the widow. After tea was over, she commenced to sing "Robin Adair."

The bachelor picked up his hat.

"Madame," he said, "even if your husband did have hair, it's no fault of mine that I haven't."

REMOVAL OF WINDLASS OVER OLD WELL AT THE GARRETT COUNTY COURT HOUSE RECALLS TRAGEDY

Ely Truly, Old Negro, Was Victim of Accident when He Fell into Well and Drowned

The old windlass that has stood over the well by the side entrance of the court house for many years, is gone, never to be replaced. Oscar Notes, janitor at the court house, was busy one day last week taking down the familiar old sight, and putting in its place, a covering of heavy boards. This was covered with green paint which didn't make the place look anything like it did before, but supposedly a little safer.

The demolition of the windlass has brought to mind a tragedy that happened there many years ago, so many years ago that very few residents of Oakland are aware that anything like a tragedy hinged upon that one little well. But there is a story connected with it, and several residents in those days remember quite distinctly what took place.

About 1873, or 1874, or 1877, (opinions differ) the site where the court house now stands was occupied by a two story structure, called the Beer Garden, and owned and operated by a Mr. Corrigan. Corrigan's Beer Garden is said to have been quite a popular place in those days.

An old negro man, Ely Truly was his name, who was at that time past middle age of life, was the janitor of the Beer Garden, and it was his wont to make many trips to the well each day. On one occasion he went out during the evening to get a bucket of water. Whether or not he was filled with the substance after which the establishment was named is a question, but he lost his balance and fell into the well. He was discovered shortly after and a great excitement was caused over the accident. It is not known whether he was killed by contact against the sides of the well, or whether he drowned.

There is a marker in the Oakland cemetery over the grave of Ely Truly, who was buried there.

The well was still used for drinking purposes until about fourteen years ago when it was closed on account of typhoid fever germs. Mr. William Maffett, who was sheriff in 1913, took typhoid fever from drinking some of this water and shortly afterwards it was considered closed. Mr. Maffett died from the effects 14 years ago yesterday.

At the time of the negro's death, there were about 800 inhabitants in the town of Oakland, according to E. Z. Tower, clerk of the circuit court. He remembers distinctly the occasion of the accident and says that enough excitement was caused by that to satiate the town for a number of days.

He thinks that the negro was out by the well cleaning "spittoons" when he lost his balance and fell in. If that is the case, the well had a right to finally become polluted.

But the well has been closed permanently now, and everyone who enters the side door of the court house, notices something lacking. The scenery doesn't look the same, and probably never will to the older residents who are accustomed to entering the building from Alder street.

There will be an all day picnic held at Crellin, Md., on Saturday, July 2nd, in the Chas. Ream grove. Amusements of all kinds. Watch the papers for special attractions. Held under the auspices of the Crellin Boys Band and the Youghiogheny Rifle and Revolver Association.—Advertisement 13 tf.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED PRAISING MISS LOLA GREEN

Grantsville Women's Community Club Sincerely Regrets that Home Demonstrator is Leaving County

(By George W. Diefenbach)

Grantsville, June 29—About a week ago thieves broke open a lock at the home of Jacob L. Kinsinger, pried off several boards from one of his outbuildings, where he had various materials stored and carried off twenty-nine wool fleeces, among them being one black fleece; also about twelve gallons of applebutter. The Kinsingers did not know there was anything disturbed until the next morning, so stealthily did the maurauders work. Certainly there should be something done to curb this continuous disregard for law, causing the farmers of this community to lose much valuable property each year.

Harmon-Weber Nuptials

Roy Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Charles Harmon, and Miss Cora J. Weber, of the Cove, were married on Sunday evening, June 19th, at the German Lutheran parsonage, in the Cove, by their pastor, Rev. H. H. Fickenscher. Both Mr. and Mrs. Harmon are popular and highly esteemed young people of the community. They will reside in the Cove.

Meeting of Ladies' Aid.

The members of the Reformed Ladies' Aid Society met last Friday evening in the home of Mrs. J. A. Beachy, which was spent most pleasantly and profitably by quilting. This organization is accomplishing much in the way of preparing necessary articles and relieving distress when opportunity presents itself.

Baseball Score.

The Grantsville baseball team met the McDonaldton (Pa.)team last Sunday afternoon at McDonaldton in a well played and close game, coming home victorious to the score of 5 to 4. So far the Grantsville twirlers have had a majority of the winnings.

Junior Choral Clubs.

The Junior Studio Choral Club, composed of girls between the ages of eight and fourteen, held its first meeting at the Holmes and Wallace studios on Thursday evening, June 23d. This week a choral club for the older girls of the community will be organized, and the following week one for boys. These three clubs will meet every week for instruction in sight reading and singing.

Flew Over Grantsville.

Colonel Charles Lindbergh, accompanied by several army planes, flew over Grantsville last Wednesday morning en route from Dayton, O., to Washington, D. C. This village is fortunately situated, being on the National Highway, which has been and is now traveled by many of the country's great and near great, and is also on one of the country's trans-continental air routes for army planes.

Now Occupying New Home.

U. M. Stanton and his niece, Miss Ruth Stanton, moved from the Ross Cottage, which they had occupied for the past eight months, to their new home, just completed, on Friday last. It is situated at Little Crossings, near the railroad, in a fine location, affording a beautiful view of the river and dam, but fronting on the National Highway. The home is equipped and furnished in the latest approved manner. Among other things there is an electric range, probably the first to be installed in this community. Little Crossings in recent years has become a very desirable residential location, and Mr. Stanton has done much to make this possible.

School Picnic.

The pupils and parents, with the teacher, Miss Margaret Manley, met at the Negro Mountain school one day last week and held a picnic, about sixty persons being present, all enjoying the day immensely. Athletics was the big feature of the occasion. Miss Manley presented perfect attendance certificates to Fay Wright, Edna Walls, Helen Wisseman and Robert and Frank Zehner.

Local Young Woman on the Air

Miss Almira Boucher, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Boucher, who is now engaged in health work by the Philadelphia Interstate Dairy Company at Philadelphia, broadcasted her address on health from Station WLIT at Philadelphia last Thursday afternoon. Miss Boucher was engaged in junior chautauqua work for several years before becoming engaged in the present business.

Tourists Return Home

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Yoder, Alvin Miller, recent Russian relief worker, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Yoder, Misses Effie Hershberger and Annie Burton, all of Grantsville, and Dr. J. E. Miller, of Salisbury, recently returned from a visit to Washington, D. C., where they had the privilege of being participants in the Lindbergh reception, being close enough to the stand to see and hear the various parties and hear the addresses. Following this they attended the Mennonite General Conference in Delaware, visited the seashore and returned home by way of Lancaster, Pa.

Horse and Car in Mix-Up.

About a week ago a valuable horse belonging to M. H. Lohr, at Keyser Ridge, broke from a pasture field and was wandering aimlessly on the highway and walked directly in the path of an approaching car, resulting in a badly mangled horse and a considerably broken and battered car. It was necessary to kill the animal. It is not known whether any of the occupants of the car were injured. Mr. Lohr is now rebuilding his barn which was burned about a year ago.

Farewell Reception.

The Grantsville Women's Community Club held a farewell reception for Miss Lola Belle Green at the home of Mrs. J. U. Stanton on Tuesday afternoon from two to four. The attendance was large, a number of visitors being present. Games and music were indulged in and Miss Helen Folk gave a splendid reading. The club adopted resolutions of appreciation of Miss Green's work, which were read by the President, Miss Mary Dorsey. It has been arranged to have Miss Brown, Domestic Science teacher of Oakland high school, act as County Home Demonstrator during the vacation period. Mrs. Stanton served salad, sandwiches and iced cocoa. The following resolutions were adopted by the Club:

WHEREAS, Miss Lola Belle Green, Home Demonstrator, who has served the home makers so faithfully during the past three years and is now leaving the county; and

WHEREAS, The members of the Grantsville Women's Club profoundly regret the loss of their diligent and sincere worker, who has aided them in their home problems by her intelligent instruction and co-operation in all community needs; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That our appreciation of her work is sincere and that each member of the Grantsville Women's Club hereby extends her heartfelt good wishes for Miss Green's future success in all undertakings; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be given Miss Green, that a copy be sent to the Extension Service Bureau, University of Maryland, and that they be spread upon the minutes of the Grantsville Women's Club.

MARY C. DORSEY, Pres't.
ETHEL BROADWATER, Sec'y.

Miss Green has accepted a position outside the State, which makes it necessary for her to give up the county work, much to the regret of all the Home-Makers Clubs of the county.

ALONG THE MISSISSIPPI

Interesting reports have been received at the State Department of Health from the Maryland health officers who have been assisting in the disease prevention work in the flood area in Louisiana. Letters dashed off between camp duties tell of the life in the refugee camps, some of which, when the flood was at its height, sheltered from 2,000 to 20,000 homeless men and women. They describe the care taken to make them safe and sanitary; the wholesale vaccinations against smallpox and typhoid; the distribution of milk three times a day to the babies and young children; the arrangements for feeding the older refugees; the care of the sick in the camp hospitals and the gradual settling down to camp routine while waiting for the waters to subside.

As the waters recede one of the big problems which has to be solved by the Red Cross is that of transporting the refugees back to their homes. As a safeguard against disease, sanitary surveys are made of each district with special reference to the safety of the drinking water supply. Many of the places near which the Maryland men are stationed were covered with water to a depth of twenty feet and though seventy-five percent of the land in that section is still covered with water many of the people have returned to their homes in spite of the protests of the Red Cross and the health officials and are living, in many cases, with a foot or more of water under their houses. The majority of these people depend upon rain caught in cisterns built near the houses for their drinking water.

In nearly every instance the people have gone back to their homes with absolutely nothing; with their crops destroyed; their stock taken or drowned; houses flooded or swept away or overturned and no possible way to make a living until their next crop can be raised.

In some of the sections nine out of every ten of the refugees, colored as well as white, speak only French, no English. All of the letters speak of the courage of the refugees in the face of overwhelming disaster. As an instance of this they tell of a doctor who has been practicing in one of the neighborhoods for 37 years, who is helping in the relief work and who can still smile cheerfully though his plantation of 800 acres, planted in sugar cane and cotton, is all under water and completely ruined.

The Maryland group, all of whom are stationed in Louisiana consists of: Dr. John Collison, deputy state health officer, of Anne Arundel county, stationed at Camp Beauregard, at Alexandria. Dr. Collison has this to say of the daily routine at his camp: "My daily routine is to vaccinate against smallpox and typhoid until 10 a. m., about 160 to 200; make sick calls in camp; assist in the feeding of 200 to 275 children under seven years of age in one mess hall twice a day; inspect camp in the afternoon; conduct child hygiene clinics."

Dr. W. C. Stone, deputy state health officer of Carroll county, stationed at Crowley, then at Opelousas tells of the sanitation and orderliness at these camps and of the sacrifices made by some of the refugees. One man at one of these camps has brought refugees out from the flooded districts in his truck, driving continuously for 96 hours with only two hours a day for rest, and doing it all entirely without pay.

Dr. V. H. DeSomoskeoy, deputy state health officers of Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset counties, stationed at Thibodaux with supervision of adjacent camps gave some idea of the overwhelming loss sustained in that section. "This is a wonderful town," he wrote, "with fine schools, churches, playgrounds, dance casino, swimming pool, broadcasting station, —and the water is going to come in, that is our latest report.— It is terrible to see the sugar, cotton, corn and rice under water. This country was the richest in America with plantations of from 1,000 to 3,000 acres, with from 300 to 800 employes--like the great estates of Russia. Now they are ruined. The roads are full of people and cattle.

Dr. Beachley, deputy state health officer of Kent, Queen Anne and Cecil counties, stationed at New Iberia, was accompanied on one of the sanitary surveys in St. Martin Parish--the district associated with Evangeline and the Acadian refugees--by Andre Oliver, a local historian who was especially interested in the work of the Maryland health officers because his ancestors were among the Acadian refugees who were sheltered at Port Tobacco on their flight from Nova Scotia in 1765.

Dr. V. L. Ellicott, of the Baltimore City Department of Health, stationed at Baton Rouge, is helping in the control of epidemics; Dr. J. A. Doull, of the Johns Hopkins school of hygiene at Monroe, doing post sanitation work covering eastern Louisiana.

As the waters recede the men now in charge of the health work in the camps will assist as long as necessary in the organization of county units.

Who Is Responsible And Why?

Answering the question—"Who is responsible for reporting the occurrence of any of the catching diseases, such as whooping cough, scarlet fever, typhoid, etc.,—to the State Department of Health and why," Dr. R. H. Riley, Chief of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases said: "As a matter of fact everybody is responsible. If a physician is in attendance it is expected that he will give notice immediately, according to the regulations of the State Board of Health, in writing, to the health officers of the city, town or district in which the sickness occurs, or will send his notice directly to the State Department of Health.

"But the responsibility does not end there. It is as much the responsibility of the parents or guardians, householders, hotelkeepers, keepers of boarding houses, superintendents of institutions, principals of schools, public, private or parochial, masters of vessels, midwives, public health nurses, or even of the owners or others in charge of dairies or ice-cream manufacturing or distributing plants, to notify the nearest health officer of each actual or suspected case of a catching disease that comes under his observation.

"One of the great stumbling blocks in the way of the control of these diseases that spread from child to child or from grown-up to grown-up, is what the health officer calls the 'missed' case—the case that isn't reported and that may spread like a prairie fire to all who come in contact with the person who is ill.

"There are forty-six diseases on the list that should be reported promptly to the State Department of Health. They include all of the so-called children's diseases as well as those to which grownups are more susceptible—among them measles, mumps, diphtehria, whooping cough, scarlet fever, infantile paralysis, influenza, pneumonia, tuberculosis, typhoid, malaria; all forms of the veneral diseases; certain diseases of the eyes; and in addition certain other special diseases that must have immediate treatment if life is to be saved—such as lockjaw, and rabies or hydrophobia.

"Answering the second part of the question—Why the disease must be reported:—The State Department of Health is a department of public safety—much like the fire department. Immediately reporting of a catching disease is asked for in order that activities may be gotten under way that will first of all safeguard the person who is ill, and second that will prevent the disease from spreading to the rest of the community."

BITTINGER.

This week began with clear skies and bright sunshine, following a slight frost, which developed during the night.

Dr. N. R. Davis, of Grantsville, was called to this village tast Sunday evening to attend C. E. Ellithorp, who is ill at his home in this village.

William Winterburg, of Grantsville, was a pleasant caller among us on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Landman, of Lumberport, W. Va., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fortney, at their home here, over the week-end.

Frank Brenneman has his coal mine, on the Peter P. Lohr farm, now in operation and can supply excellent coal to the local trade.

On Tuesday evening, June 21st, the young folk of the Amish and this settlement, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brenneman, and sprung a surprise party upon Miss Mary Brenneman, in honor of her birthday.

Miss Lillian Lynn, of Westernport, Md., who is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stark, planned and carried out a nice children's afternoon party, on Friday, in honor of the birthday of Miss Marie Stark, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stark.

Rev. E. E. Campbell, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Emory and Mrs. Herbert Buckle, attended the Annual Convention of the Woman's Missionary society, which was held at Wheeling, W. Va., last week.

Miss Inskeep, a representative of Catherman's Business school, of Cumberland, was in this village last Saturday afternoon, soliciting students for the school.

MT. LAKE PARK.

The camp meeting begun promptly at 9:30 o'clock last Sunday morning and in spite of the cold, drizzly day the attendance was excellent and the services interesting to all present.

The people came in from all directions and from quite long distances, many of them bringing their lunches along and remained all during the day and until after the evening service had closed. Dr. C. M. Dunaway, of Decatur, Ga., is preaching most excellent sermons. He will continue his work, he says, until "the big preachers arrive." He is doing splendid work. The singing, under the direction of Prof. and Mrs. Kenneth Wiess, of Indianapolis, Ind., is most inspiring. Cottage meetings are being held between the public services.

The Park has a most interesting visitor in the person of Miss Julia Bonafield, returned missionary from China, who has spent more than forty years in that field in an effort to Christianize the people of that country. Miss Bonafield's former home is at Tunnelton, West Va., where the missionary was born and reared. Her work in the foreign field has been brought to the attention of every missionary band in Garrett county with the result that the women of the various societies feel that they know her personally. While at the Park Miss Bonafield is a guest at the home of her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Falkenstine, where she has on exhibit and for sale many Chinese pieces of art and needle work.

Mr. Jack Grimes, who has been in South Carolina for the past several weeks, came to the Park Tuesday and is at his home here with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Richardson and their daughters Misses Virginia and Frances Richardson, of Piedmont, are in their cottage here for the summer, having arrived on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. L. Meadows, of Pittsburgh, is also here and has opened the book store which she will operate during the present season. In addition to the regular line of books usually carried at the store, Mrs. Meadows will also sell the books usually sold by the Camp Meeting Association.

The weather here is ideal and the people are coming in large numbers from various places. As an example: A gentleman accompanied by his wife are here from the State of California to attend the camp meeting.

Sunnyside Grange.

Sunnyside Grange met in regular session on June 22 with a goodly number of members and officers present. The meeting was full of interest.

The Pomona picnic, which was to have been held in Sunnyside Hall, was cancelled and a Grange reunion held instead at Shadydell.

Come to Sunnyside Hall on July 16 to a pie and ice cream social.

The literary hour was taken up with a duet, reading, instrumental music, a historical contest, the history of our flag and other numbers.

The next regular meeting will be July 13th at which date it is hoped to have a paper on agriculture fifty years ago. REPORTER.

DIED.

MRS. JOHN W. MARONEY

Mrs. John W. Maroney, aged 57 years, died at her home on Sixth street in Oakland on Saturday, June 25th, after having been in a coma since Wednesday. Death was due to a disease of the kidneys and heart. She had been ill for a period of four months.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning from St. Peter's Catholic church, the Rev. Paschal Kinsel, officiating. Father Murphy, of Thomas, was in the sanctuary. She was born May I, 1870, at Hutton. She was married to her recently deceased husband in 1889, and made this place her home since that event. She is survived by seven daughters and two sons: Miss Bridget Maroney, of Oakland; Sister Mary Bertille, of Wheeling Hospital, Wheeling, West Va.; Esther Maroney and Mrs. George Robins, New York; Dartest, Agnes, John, Monica and Roger L., of Oakland.

ROY H. HAMILL.

R. H. Hamill, 43 years old, 2956 Staunton road, widely known in West Virginia coal circles and a prominent Huntington contractor, died Thursday afternoon at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he was taken a week ago Sunday for an operation for kidney infection.

Although he had not been in good health for two years he did not become seriously ill until two weeks ago when an operation became advisable. He underwent the operation successfully, rallied, and was apparently improving. Death was entirely unexpected.

The body will arrive in Huntington on C. & O. train No. 1, Saturday morning. Funeral services will be conducted from St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. C. E. Butler, pastor, officiating. The body will be placed in a mausoleum in Woodmere cemetery.

Here Since 1912

Mr. Hamill was president of the R. H. Hamill Company, with offices in the Robson-Prichard building, and was associated with D. G. Hughes. The firm was formerly the Diamond Construction company and was organized by Mr. Hamill when he first came to Huntington in the fall of 1912. The company then engaged in industrial construction, specializing in building of mining towns.

Through his business connections Mr. Hamill was well known throughout the entire south as well as mining sections of West Virginia, and was one of Huntington's most popular business men. He was a member of the Rotary Club, the Masonic lodge, was a Shriner, and an active worker in St. Paul's Lutheran church, being a close friend of the pastor, Rev. Butler.

Maryland Native

Although Maryland was his native state, Mr. Hamill spent practically most of his life since young manhood in West Virginia, where he was prominently identified with the mining industry.

For several years prior to moving to Huntington he was a mine superintendent in Logan county where he made a large host of friends among the coal operators.

Surviving are his widow, seven children, Alvin, Kathryn, Louise, Helen, Gordon, Richard and Ruth Hamill; two sisters, Mrs. H. A. Loraditch and Miss Margaret Hamill, both of Oakland, Md., and his parents, who also reside in Oakland, Mr. Hamill's birthplace.

Mrs. Hamill's parents reside in Baltimore.—Huntington Advertiser, issue of Friday, June 17.

E. I. Oswald Named to District Agent Post.

E. I. Oswald, County Agent in Worcester county for the past nine years, has been granted a leave of absence and has accepted the position of district agent for the University of Maryland Extension Service with headquarters in College Park.

In recommending the appointment of Mr. Oswald to the President of the University of Maryland and to officials of the United States Department of Agriculeure, Dr. T. B. Symons, director af the Extension Service, said: "In my opinlon Mr. Oswald is the best qualified man in the service for the position of assisting in the supervision of the county agents throughout the State. He has done splendid work in Worcester county and is held in high esteem by he people there.

"The only hesitation I had in recommending Mr. Oswald for the position was that it will disrupt the very fine work that he is doing in Worcester county. Nevertheless, in the selection of a district agent it was felt that it was best to choose one who was familiar with the work and the Extension Service personnel, and one who has rightly earned promotion as a reward for the splendid service which he has rendered in the county agent field."

Mr. Oswald's appointment as district agent became effective June 1st but he will remain in Worcester county for a time to complete some potato production work in progress and to familiarize a new agent with the work in the county.

The selection of Mr. Oswald as district agent at this time has been made necessary by virtue of the fact that Dr. F. B. Bomberger, assistant director of the Extension Service, has been given a leave of absence to assume the directorship of the marketing bureau of the Del-Mar-Va-Eastern Shore Association.

POMONA GRANGE

The quarterly meeting of Pomona Grange was held at Pleasant Valley Grange Hall, June 2. Mr. D. M. Lower, master of the Grange, was pleased with the attendance and interest the members showed.

Many problems were discussed. The pooling of wool was one of the main topics. The members who took part in this discussion showed that the farmers in Ryan's Glade, who are members of the wool pool, have benefited by the cooperative marketing.

The afternoon was devoted to talks. Miss Maude Bean, Home Demonstration Agent of Allegany county, spoke on "Home Life.' Miss Bean brought out many interesting things in regard to the home, and stressed the point that in order to have a real happy home the father, mother, and children should be pals.

Mr. Delbert Davis gave a very interesting talk on agriculture, past, present and future. Mr. Davis showed that agriculture was the oldest science known. He said that the farms furnish food and raw material for 80 per cent of our manufactures, and the products from the farm are the life of trade, industry and transportation. Mr. Davis then pointed out the advantages that the farmers had today over farmers of the past. He told of the many sources where the farmers could get information to help them with their many problems.

Rev. C. A. Shilke concluded the program by giving a very interesting and instructive talk on cooperation among the farmers. He explained how all big industries cooperate and said he saw no reason why the business that was really the most important of all was not organized as it should be. He pointed out that in many sections of the county some farmers had organized and were very successful, and urged all the farmers in Garrett county to start this movement as soon as possible and assured them if they would use the agencies which would aid them, such as the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the University of Maryland Extension Service, they would be greatly benefited by their advice.

At the close of the meeting Master D. M. Lower extended his thanks to the speakers in behalf of the Grange, and assured them that all present appreciated their talks.

Church Picnic.

July 2nd, the members of White Church will sponsor a picnic to be held at the church, to which all are invited. Music and speaking.

ESCAPED NEGRO CONVICT BEING HELD IN LOCAL JAIL

On Disorderly Conduct Charge —Alleged To Be Wanted by Virginia Authorities

William Evans, alias Clifford, a colored boy about 20 years of age, was apprehended Sunday morning about 3:00 o'clock by Sheriff William D. Casteel at Mountain Lake Park on a disorderly charge, the officer making the arrest stating that Evans was raising quite a disturbance when he was rounded up, one report being to the effect that he had been impudent and had molested several white women at the Park.

He is now being held in the Garrett County Jail on a charge of disorderly conduct. It was learned on Tuesday by jail attendants from the prisoner that he was an escaped convict from the reform school for negroes at Woodstock, Va., and it is now being planned to send him back to his previous place of detention.

He stated that he had been sent to the Virginia institution on a charge of theft.

"SPARKY" CASTEEL WINS FIRST PLACE AND BICYCLE

Other Prizes Awarded at Gonder's Pharmacy on July 4

Carroll "Sparky" Casteel, Oakland, won first place and a bicycle in the "trade-getting contest which has been carried on at the Gonder Pharmacy for the past sixteen weeks. He had the highest total number of votes and the highest number each week of the contest.

Other prize winners and what they won were: Donald Stemple, second, a $35 wrist watch; Elogeanne Aronhalt, third, a scooter; Humbird Offutt, fourth, a coaster wagon; Wendell "Pat" Turney, fifth, a basketball outfit.

A total of seventy prizes were given away during the sixteen weeks of the contest, four being awarded each week. "Sparky" was the only contestant to win a prize each week, getting sixteen awards besides the bicycle.

The contest came to a close on July 4th, and the final prizes were awarded at ten o'clock on that day. Approximately $400 was the value of the various awards, it was estimated.

"Sparky's" Card of Thanks.

A. & P. PICNIC ATTRACTS MANY; RACES ARE HELD

More than 500 Employes Gather From All Parts of this District

More than five hundred people were in attendance at the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's picnic held Monday at the Fair grounds in Oakland. They represented forty-three stores in parts of Maryland and West Virginia. Watermelons, pop, ice cream, balloons, etc., were furnished by the stores company and were distributed to those in attendance upon the picnic.

The men, women and children composing the picnic party came to Oakland in automobiles, in trucks and by train.

Races and a ball game were the chief modes of entertainment, the stores company awarding prizes to the winners in the various events.

Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley of Oakland, welcomed the gathering to the town and in his short address expressed the wish that they return again next year. Many responded that they would like to do so, according to Manager "Bill" Parks of the Oakland branch store.

The stores represented at the picnic were Cumberland, 8; Clarksburg, 8; Fairmont, Grafton, Morgantown, 3 each; Keyser, Frosthurg, Lonaconing and Piedmont, 2 each; Mt. Savage, Shinnston, Terra Alta, Masontown, Farmington, Westernport, Petersburg, Rowlesburg, Kingwood and Oakland, 1 each.

The picnic was given by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company for the superintendents, managers, clerks and their families, and included the district from Cumberland, Md., to Fairmont and Clarksburg, W. Va.

EIGHT HUNDRED ATTEND PICNIC AT CRELLIN JULY 2

Variety of Events Held During the Day—Speeches Delivered

Speeches by Walter W. Dawson, cashier of the First National Bank, and Ernest R. Jones, lawyer, both of Oakland, the concerts by the Terra Alta and Crellin bands, violin selection by the Browning Brothers, races and games of various kinds, were the main events at the all-day picnic and Independence Day celebration which was held Saturday, July 2, in Ream's Grove at Crellin under the auspices of the Crellin Boys' Band. More than eight hundred people attended the affair and a most delightful day was enjoyed by every individual there.

The rifle match between the Youghiogheny Rifle and Revolver Association and a picked team from Oakland was won by Crellin with a score of 810 to 680. Those firing were: Crellin—Lester Yutzy, high man; Ray Welch, Ray Ashby, Delph Uphold, Bob Ford and W. H. Hoover. The Oakland team was composed of Russell Beckman, high man; Will Browning, George D. Browning, James P. Treacy, Al Fulk and John Morgan.

The total receipts amounted to more than $600, $200 of which will go to the treasurer of the Crellin Boys' Band. The expenses of the picnic amounted to $400.

The baseball game in the afternoon between the Addison (Pa.) and Crellin teams was won by Crellin, 9-7.

Winners in other events were:

Nail drawing contest—Mrs. Harry Mickey, first; Mrs. M. E. Lee, second.

Cack race, won by Burton Ashby.

Wheelbarrow race, won by Theodore Wilson and Harley Dawson.

Three-legged race, won by Elwood Adams and Ceeil Ashby.

The committee in charge considered the picnic so much of a success that the date has already been set for next year. It will be held in Ream's Grove on June 30, 1928.

ONE INJURED AS BUS IS FORCED AGAINST GUARD

Harry Wolfe, Kempton, Strains Back and Hip as Bus is Hit

One man was slightly injured last Sunday afternoon when the Kingwood bus was run into a guard rail along Cadell Mountain between Cheat River and Terra Alta, by another car which attempted to pass it as a car was approaching from the opposite direction. The injured man, who suffered a strained back and hip, was Harry Wolfe, of Kempton, Md.

He was taken to the office of Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh upon arrival of the bus in Oakland and was later sent to his home in Kempton by Walter Smith, driver of the bus.

The accident occurred as the bus was making its afternoon trip to Mt. Lake Park from Kingwood. According to Mr. Smith he was ascending the mountain in second gear when the car, a Chevrolet roadster, driven by A. W. Sines, of Booth, West Va., attempted to pass. The rear fender of the Chevrolet struck the front wheel of the bus, turning the larger machine into the guard rail built along the highway. Wolfe was injured by being thrown from his seat into the doorway of the bus.

Mr. Sines was accompanied by his wife and little daughter and was on his way to visit his parents, who reside near Deep Creek dam, about nine miles north of Oakland.

Other occupants of the bus at the time of the accident were Frank Wilburn, Julius Miller and James O. Boyle, none of whom were injured. Slight damage resulted to the bus.

Supervisor of County Agents to Visit Garrett Friday and Saturday.

E. I. Oswald, recently appointed assistant director of County Agents in Maryland, will visit Garrett county tomorrow and Saturday on his initial trip following his appointment.

Mr. Oswald will devote his entire time while here discussing the planting and care of potatoes, which will be of interest and value to the farmers of the county. On Friday he will stay in the office of County Agent J. L. McGlone where he will be pleased to meet and discuss his subject with anyone who wishes to call at the office.

On Saturday, accompanied by Mr. McGlone, he will inspect a number of potato fields in the county and at one o'clock that afternoon will address the farmers at the warehouses of the Grange Milling & Supply Company at Loch Lynn Heights. His address will follow immediately after a basket picnic in a grove near the company's plant, to which all of the farmers of the county are invited.

SIX RAIDS MADE BY FEDERAL AND COUNTY OFFICERS DURING WEEK NET LARGE RETURNS IN CONTRABAND

Fifteen-Gallon Still, 235 Bottles Home Brew and Quantity of Mash Found and Destroyed.

Six raids in various parts of Garrett county during the past week by Sheriff William D. Casteel, Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith, Constable Andrew Shartzer and Federal Officers Stotler, Jack resulted in the discovery and confiscation of one fifteen-gallon still, 235 bottles of home brew, 282 gallons of mash, 30 gallons of liquor, 8 cans of malt and 8 cans of hops.

The raids were made at Kitzmiller, Dodson, Kempton, Hutton and near Oakland. Several of those arrested in connection with the raids are under heavy bond for their appearance before the United States Commissioner or at the next term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county. In other cases the parties wanted could not be located by the officers at the time of the raids, but these will be gathered in later.

Couple Living Near Oakland Arrested

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoye, living a mile west of Oakland on a part of the Charles Shaffer farm, were arrested Friday evening when their home was raided by the Government Agents at which time thirty gallons of mash was found on their premises. They furnished the requisite bond for their appearance at the December Term of the Garrett County Court.

Home Brew at Dodson.

One hundred and twenty-two pints of home brew, eight cans of hops, the same number of cans of malt and fifty-two gallons of mash were discovered Friday on the premises of Mike Verliskis at Dodson by Constable Andrew Shartzer and Federal Agents Jack and Stotler. Verliskis was not at home when the raid was made, but a warrant for his arrest is now in the hands of the proper officers and he will be brought in at an early date. The liquor and other goods found on the premises was confiscated and destroyed by the officers.

A quantity of beer, about a dozen bottles in all, was discovered in the woods on the premises of a man named Strawser, near Hutton, on Friday. The discovery was made by Sheriff Casteel and Deputy Sheriff Griffith. In the absence of the owners of the contraband no arrests were made by the officers.

Became Lost in The Woods.

In an attempt to make another raid near Kempton on Friday, a blinding storm arose when the officers were in a dense wood, and they lost their way, according to Sheriff Casteel. The suspected parties will be sought again, the officer said, when weather conditions are more favorable.

A Fifteen-Gallon Still Captured.

The biggest haul, according to Constable Shartzer, was made at Kitzmiller on Saturday night when Frank Kantley, aged 32 years, was arrested for having in his possession a fifteen-gallon still, 63 quarts of home brew, 30 gallons of liquor and 200 gallons of mash. The mash and still were discovered beneath a trap door leading to the celler of his home, while the beer and liquor were found in a specially prepared vault built for the purpose adjacent to the celler.

Kantley was arrested on a dual charge—selling and manufacturing liquor and was held under $500 bond in each case. The contraband was destroyed.

Another In Kitzmiller.

George Spiker was arrested Monday night by Sheriff Casteel at Kitzmiller for having beer in his possession. When Marie Sollars and Mrs. Theodore Spiker, inmates of the Spiker home, attempted to interfere with the arrest of Spiker, they were in turn taken into custody for resisting and obstructing justice. All the parties in this raid furnished bond for their appearance at the December Term of the Circuit Court, the preliminary hearings having been conducted before Justice Pool at Kitzmiller immediately following the arrests.

Accident Victims Recover

Mrs. R. P. Maloney, who received a very slight concussion Sunday, June 26, when the car in which she was riding was struck by a Chevrolet touring on the Thomas road, is reported as entirely recovered from the injury by Dr. N. I. Broadwater, the attending physician.

John O. Whetsell, Jr., an occupant of the Chevrolet, who received a fracture of the skull and who later underwent a trephining operation at the hospital in Davis, West Va., is reported as improving, and will undoubtedly recover.

TO BEGIN IMPROVEMENTS IN CRELLIN TOWN LIMITS

Stanley Coal Company Back of Move to Build Road, Boathouses, Town Hall, Etc.

Buildings and improvements for the benefit of the townspeople of Crellin and vicinity are now being made by the Stanley Coal company, under the direction of Charles W. Ream, president, and if present plans are carried out, within a year or two, there will be a town hall, boathouses, motor boats, rifle ranges, and plenty of beautiful parks and drives around the town.

The old Kendall lumber mill is now being torn away and when the destruction has been completed, workers will start immediately to carry out the plans of the company, Mr. Ream said. At the present time there is a shooting gallery in the act of completion which is a "T" shaped building 16 by 88 feet in one department and 20 by 26 in the other. Targets are to be fixed so that they can be drawn back and forth by wheels. The position of the targets will be free to move when anyone desires a shorter range. The Youghiogheny Rifle and Revolver association, composed of 25 members of the Stanley Coal company, are completing this building at their own expense which will approximate $500.

Building Road.

An improved road from P. K. Adams' garage on the State road to the North end of Crellin limits will be finished in about three weeks, Mr. Ream pointed out. The county and coal company are bearing the expense of this road jointly, and the county now has men at work breaking stone on the unfinished portion of the road. It has already been completed as far as the railroad crossing by the office of the company. There will also be another road built which will start for the same immediately on the west end of the bridge crossing the Youghiogheny River on the State road and running along the river bank to the South end of Ream's grove, connecting with the newly built road near the old mill, thus completing a circular driveway around the grove. The grove will remain to be used for picnics, etc., as before.

Near the baseball diamond on the west side of the new road, there is to be a town hall 40 by 53 feet. The lumber is already cut for this building, the construction of which will begin shortly, according to Mr. Ream.

To Have Boating.

The ground upon which the Kendall Lumber mill now stands will be graded and sewed in grass, and at the water's edge near the mill, boathouses will be erected. The dam at this point backs water for more than four miles and is over fifteen feet deep in places, making it quite easy for motor boat traffic to go the entire length of the stretch of the lake.

Outside Rifle Range.

On the east side of the dam there will be an outside rifle range established, which will permit firing for a distance of over 200 yards. The targets will be so placed so that bullets will enter a high bank at the turn of the river below the dam.

"All this cannot be done in a day," Mr. Ream warned, "but it is all coming in less than three years. Most of these improvements are being started this year and will continue until completed. We have just purchased a new 250 K. W. Ridgeway generator set and two 150 h. p. Erie boilers for use at the mines which will double the present capacity. The improvements that are planned will affect approximately 120 families, most of whom live in Crellin."

Automobile Overturned Near Gortner, Saturday.

A collision near the school house at Gortner on Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock, in which the automobiles driven by Jonas Crowe, R. F. D. No. 2, and G. W. Graham, Fairmont, upset the Studebaker coupe which Mr. Graham was driving, and caused slight injury to one woman who was in the car with him.

Sheriff W. D. Casteel was notified of the accident and made an investigation. The woman was taken to the office of Dr. N. I. Broadwater where she had her wounds dressed. She received slight bruises and scratches. No one else was injured.

Mr. Crowe, driving an Oldsmobile, was coming out of a blind road when the accident happened.

AUTOMOBILE IS DAMAGED BY EXPLOSION OF FUMES

Slight Fire Resulted by Ignition of Gasoline by Welding Torch

Gasoline exploding in the mechanical department of Evans' Garage on Saturday afternoon set fire to a Chevrolet car under repair and resulted in a loss estimated at $60. No damage, however, was done to the building in which the fire originated.

Preparations for welding the frame of the car damaged as a result of the explosion with an acetylene torch were in progress when the gasoline fumes thrown off from the tank of the car exploded, scorching the paint and setting fire to the front seat of the car. The blaze was quickly extinguished and the call to the local fire company countermanded. No one was injured.

TIBBETTS HAS HEARING; HELD UNDER $200 BOND

Man Charged With Non-Support of Family Must Appear at December Term of Court

George Tibbetts, who was brougt to Oakland on Tuesday, June 26th, from Washington, D. C., by Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith, was given a preliminary hearing on the charge of non-support, preferred by his wife, Thursday afternoon, by Justice W. A. Gonder, who held Tibbetts under a bond of $200 for his appearance at the December Term of the Garrett County Circuit Court. Thus far, Tibbetts has been unable to secure the necessary bail and he is remaining in the Garrett County Jail and will be held there until the bond for his appearance is forthcoming.

Tibbetts was apprehended by the Washington authorities upon information transmitted to them from Oakland charging him with non-support of his wife and child. He had been in Oakland for several weeks prior to his arrest, leaving here on Friday, June 22, taking with him his son Robert, aged about six years.

The boy's uncles, Singleton and Ernest Townshend, Jr., followed Tibbetts and the boy to Washington, returning later in the week, bringing the child back with them. He is now with his mother, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Townshend, residing on Water street in Oakland.

Aged Orator to Take Part In Celebration.

David Dosh Broadwater, 75 years of age, who resides with his son Alfred Broadwater at New Germany, Garrett county, and who is proclaimed by many to be an orator of some note, will be one of the chief speakers at the Old Home Week celebration, August 14 to 21, in Lonaconing, Allegany county.

Mr. Broadwater is said to be able to make more speeches and deliver more readings than any other man east of the Mississippi, his list including President Washington's last address to the Congress of the United States, addresses on numerous ancient and modern topics, the speech that Columbus is supposed to have delivered when he landed in America in 1492, and on many other topics of like character.

Thousand Attend Picnic Held At Accident.

The number of people attending the picnic held at Accident on Monday in the oak grove belonging to Harvey J. Speicher, for the benefit of the English Lutheran church of Accident, was conservatively estimated to be over a thousand.

The Friendsville Military Band, under the direction of Mr. Fred G. Fox, furnished the music throughout the day. The afternoon was given over to a program, followed by athletic games, made up of races, volley ball and baseball. Friendsville won the baseball game, while the girls won over the boys in the volley ball contest. Attorney A. T. Matthews of Oakland, was the orator upon the occasion.

Bishoff Family Reunion.

The sons and daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bishoff, of Hoyes and later of Oakland, assembled in reunion at Wildman's grove, north of Oakland, last Sunday. Those present with their families included Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Miller, Grantsville; Mr. and Mrs. George Custer and Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Casteel, Grafton, W. Va.; Mrs. George Kemp, Princess Anne, Md.; Mrs. Mollie Bishoff, Piedmont, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. E. Bishoff, Oakland. The family, who were joined by relatives and friends, enjoyed a most pleasant day together.

CITY MAY HAVE "WHITE LIGHT" SECTION SHORTLY

West Penn Representative Has Promised Erection of Poles and Equipment Free of Charge

The probability of having a "Great White Way" for the business section of Oakland was discussed by members of the City Council at their monthly meeting held on Tuesday evening at the Town Hall.

Charles Snyder, a representative of the West Penn system, was present and discussed the matter pretty generally with Oakland's governing body but no definite arrangement was arrived at, although it was stated that members of the body were favorably impressed with the proposition made by the representative of the power company.

If the Town Council decides favorably and authorizes the installation of the new lighting system, work will be immediately begun by the electric company.

Mr. Snyder offered to supply the equipment free of charge, the only expense that the town need bear being the monthly lighting bill, which Mayor Fraley has stated will probably be about $50 per month in excess of the amount now paid the company.

Licensing Ordinance Deferred.

The ordinance relating to licensing people for soliciting and selling goods from house to house, which was to be rewritten and either passed or rejected at the July meeting of Council, was deferred until the August meeting, as members of Council were unable to agree upon certain phases of the proposed ordinance.

The transaction of routine business occupied the rest of the session.

To Solicit For Scout Fund.

On account of the very small amount of donations that have been turned into the three banks and paid to members of the committee having charge of soliciting funds for the erection of permanent barracks and a dining hall for the local troop of Boy Scouts, a personal solicitation will be made soon by Dr. W. W. Grant and other members of the committee, it was learned this morning.

The land upon which it is hoped to build these two structures is the same upon which the Scouts camped last summer and lies along the shore of Deep Creek Lake about twenty-five minutes' drive from Oakland.

EXHIBIT TO CLOSE THE BIBLE SCHOOL TOMORROW

Daily Instruction. Conducted By Lutheran Church, to End Friday Evening.

The Daily Vacation Bible School, conducted in St. Mark's Lutheran church in Oakland during the past two weeks, will close Friday evening, July 8th, with a service at 8:00 o'clock to which the general public is invited. It will be held in the auditorium of the church.

The work done by the various groups will be exhibited at this service and a part of the performance of the evening will be to explain and dramatize the work which has been taught the children.

A total number of 94 students was registered. The school opened Monday morning, June 26, with 61, but was increased each day to the above figure. The average attendance was about 70.

Miss Marion Leary, principal of the Oakland Grammar school, was also principal of the Bible school. Rev. Charles A. Shilke, pastor of the Lutheran church, is the director.

Wednesday afternoon was spent by the group at Ferndale church where a picnic was held and where games and other forms of amusement were enjoyed.

Department Store To Move Into Miller Building Soon.

Remodeling of the room in the building owned by Harry L. Miller, corner of Second and Liberty streets, is in progress and when the alterations are completed will house the Coffman-Fisher Company's store, now located in the Gonder building on Second street.

The room will be fitted up as a complete department store and will be ready for occupancy about August 1, according to Mr. Rudy, manager for the lessees in Oakland. The room was formerly occupied by a billiard and pool parlor but has been vacant for some time. The other room in the structure is occupied by Miller's meat and grocery store.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

PARSLEY

IN SOME sections of the country it is considered most unlucky to replant old parsley in the garden—that is to set out a parsley root which you have find growing in n box in the house all winter—as it endangers the life of the head of the family. Always sow. fresh seed. This superstition we inherit, along with parsley itself, from the dnys when Greece and the gods were young together. Parsley was nn indigenous plnnt in Greece, growing wild nnd with special profusion in Argolis, where wns the vale of Nemen, in which stood the temple of Nemenn Zeus, nnd where Hercules killed the Nemeen lion.

Parsley—possibly from its availability in making wreaths and garlands for his shrine—appenrs to lmve come to be regarded in the valley as the specially favored plnnt of Nemean Zeus, and so when, some five hundred years before the Christian era, the Nemean games were instituted in memory of a locnl young hero, Archemorus, who died from the bite of a serpent as the expedition of "The Seven Against Thebes" was passing through the place—a crown of wild parsley was tbe reward of the victor.

Now wild parsley being dedicated to such purposes was naturally protected: probably the penalty for the profnnation of rooting it up was death. And bere we get the modern superstition thnt the planting of an old parsley root in the garden is likely to cause the death of the head of the family. Only three columns of the temple of Nemenn Zeus remain stnnding; yet many a man today hesitates to plant an old parsley root in his garden, and you will find in many of the modern books of "Dreams nnd Omens" a warning against doing so.

GOD'S MOTHERS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

YOU can't believe in mother much
And not believe in God,
For there is something in her touch,
Yes, even of her rod,
That makes a mother seem to me
An agent of Divinity.

So much n mother cnn forgive,
So often lms the need,
So much like God she lms to live
She seems a living creed.
Though mnn mny preach some creed of lils,
Her creed she lives, her creed she is.

Men preach forgiveness, yet they hate,
But mothers day by dny
Leave open every door and gate,
Inviting feet that stray
To come returning—first to greet,
And last your sinning to repeat.

The Good Book tells us God is love;
Well, so is mother, too.
Believing in some God above
Is not so hard to do,
With mothers here to prove the worth
Of henven's love with love on enrth.

Winsome Doris Kenyon, after flitting undecided between stage and screen, signed a long contract with a prominent producing firm as a featured player, and has since made a number of very successful pictures. She was born in Syracuse, N. Y., and was educated at Packard institute and Columbia university in New York. She has reddish blond hair, gray eyes, is five feet, six inches high and weighs 120 pounds. Among her recent pictures are "Mismates," "Men of Steel," "Ladies at Play," and the "Blond Saint."

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At twenty-one Scott Fitzgerald wrote the book that brought him fame.

"AT TWENTY-ONE I was in an officers' training camp nnd while there started on a novel. I would begin work on it every Saturday afternoon at one and work like mad until midnight. Then I would work at it from six Sunday morning until six Sundny night, when I had to report back to barracks.

"When I finished the novel it wns rejected. A year later it wns published under the title of 'This Side of Pnradise.'—SCOTT FITZGERALD."

TODAY—At the age of thirty-one, when others nre just stnrting out to make their way, Fitzgerald is nlready a famous nuthor, commnnding both the nttention of the public nnd substantial checks from the publishers.

When "This Side of Pnrndise" was published it became the leading novel of the time almost immediately, and the future of the young writer was nssured.

It might be no exaggeration to say that Fitzgernld stnrted the "flapper" literature that inundated this country up to a year or two ago.

Do You Know ...??... That: ...??...

"MIDAS-EARED" is an expression which has come to us from an old Greek myth.

Midas, King of Phrygia, was appointed judge in a musical contest between Apollo and Pan. King Midas decided in favor of Pnn whereupon Apollo in contempt gave Midas a pair of ass' ears. Midas then tried to hide his ears in his cap, but his barber who used to cut his hair discovered them. The servant was so tickled with the "joke" which he dared not tell that he dug a hole in the ground to relieve himself of the secret nnd whispered into the hole, "King Midns hns ass' ears," nnd then filled it up. A reed, however, grew there which betrayed the secret by its whispers.

The term "Midas-eared" has come to mean without discrimination or judgment.—Anna S. Turnquist.

MARYLAND DOCTORS AID IN MISSISSIPPI FLOOD AREA

Numerous Physicians Sent to the Stricken Section by State Department of Health.

Saving life, caring for the sick, preventing the spread of smallpox, typhoid and of other catching diseases in the flood devastated sections, were characterized by Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health, as among the outstanding activities of Maryland health officers who have been assisting in the relief work in the refugee camps in Louisiana. "Valuable as these have been locally," he continued, "they have been of almost equal importance to the rest of the country.

"In these days of universnl travel, North, East, South and West, every case of typhoid, of smallpox, of malaria or of any other communicable disease that is gotten under control or that is prevented, in the flooded districts along the Mississippi, means just that much less danger of these diseases being carried to the rest of the country. As the waters recede, health units are being organized for the benefit of the people who are returning to their homes.

The Maryland health officers who are temporarily lent to Louisiana include Dr. John Collinson, of Anne Arundel county; Dr. W. C. Stone of Carroll county; Dr. V. H. DeSomekeoy of Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset counties; Dr. R. G. Beachley of Kent, Queen Anne and Cecil counties; Dr. V. L. Ellicott of the Baltimore City Department of Health; Dr. J. A. Doull of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene.

"A recent letter from Dr. Collinson gives some idea of the work they are all doing and of its far-reaching importance."

Dr. Collinson's letter follows:

"My first assignment was at Camp Beauregard near Alexandria. There I assisted in giving 4500 doses of typhoid vaccine and vaccinating 3000 people against smallpox.

"I assisted with the management of a mess hall where 270 children seven years and under were given special food at four long tables. This was the most interesting sight I have seen to date. At first the majority would not eat oatmeal, grits, stew, rice, spinach or drink milk. They wanted bread, syrup and black coffee. But before the camp closed they were glad to get regular food and practically all had improved in weight and appearance.

"Practically all of these people are French and good Catholics. French is in general use. Many do not understand English, or only a few words. Only during the last ten years has English been taught in the schools. The people are very obedient and are exceptionally clean.

"I moved to Avoyelles Parish on Wednesday. My work here is to organize and get into running shape a health unit. This will consist of one or two public health nurses, two sanitary inspectors and myself. We will be assisted by the part time Parish Health officer. My first trip will be to Gondeau where many people and hundreds of cattle took refuge and were for several weeks surrounded by water. It has been reported that they do not have enough to eat and some are sick with diarrhoea.

"The size of the job can be appreciated when I tell you that in this parish 70 per cent of the land was flooded and 20,000 were driven from their home. They are now returning as the water recedes to find homes and contents ruined, crops destroyed, animals, chickens, etc., drowned. They have no safe water supply and only the food and clothing sent out by the Red Cross.

"The care of the little children is a most serious problem, for it is impossible to provide them with proper food."

SAMUEL'S FAREWELL

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel, Chap. 12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thy loving kindness is before mine eyes and I have walked in Thy truth.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Samuel the Faithful Servant.
JUNIOR TOPIC—An Old Man's Advice.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Make a Clean Record.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Righteousness in Public Life.

Samuel means "asked of God." God gave him in answer to his mother's prayer. She promised to give him back to God. In his early childhood his mother cared for and taught him. At an early age she handed him over to the care of Eli to minister unto the Lord in the Tnbernacle. While he was thus engaged God called him. He responded to this call and spent a long life in useful service to God and his nation as judge and prophet. Our lesson today is his farewell address.

I. Samuel's Challenge to the People (vv. 1-5).

1. Reminder of the way the king had been given (v. 1).

He showed that they were directly responsible for the change in government. Though keenly feeling the reflection upon himself, and their ingratitude to God in their demand for a king, he had not resisted their wish.

2. Review of his own administration (vv. 2, 3).

(1) Walk from childhood (v. 2). Samuel's was a remarkable life; from childhood to old age he had lived an upright and pure life. (2) Career as judge and ruler (v. 3). He boldly challenged them to show where and how he had even in the smallest matters defrauded or oppressed anyone.

3. The vote of confidence by the people (vv. 4, 5).

It was Samuel's right as he laid down the reins of government to have his record vindicated and to have his integrity established beyond a doubt, so that no evil-minded man could ever be able to cast reproach upon him.

II. Samuel Reviews God's Dealing From the Time of Moses (vv. 6-15).

He reasoned with them concerning the good hand of the Lord upon them from the time of Moses. Though they with ingratitude turned from the Lord and demanded a king like the other nations. He had acceded to their request and set a king over them.

1. National prosperity conditioned by obedience (v. 14).

Though they had displeased God in choosing a king, if they would fear the Lord and render obedience, national prosperity would still be given. Would that the nations today could see that obedience to God is the only way to prosperity! Nations should find out God's will and then bring themselves into harmony therewith. God's law must be obeyed by the rulers as well as the subjects.

2. Disobedience to God meant the nation's ruin (v. 15).

It is folly to ask God's blessing upon a nation while it is living in rebellion against Him. True statesmanship is to find out God's will concerning the nation and so direct that in all its laws and customs there may be harmony with that will.

III. Samuel's Own Vindication (vv. 16-19).

This was such a critical hour in the history of the nation that Samuel sought to indelibly impress its meaning on their hearts. This he did by means of the thunder and rain out of season. Harvest time was not the season for thunder and rain, so when it came at the call of Samuel the people were affrighted. They saw it as an example of God's mighty power which, if directed against them, would destroy them in an instant.

IV. Samuel's Gracious Response (vv. 20-25).

1. "Fear not—serve the Lord with all your heart" (vv. 20-22).

Samuel did not minimize their sin, but assured them that if they would serve the Lord wholeheartedly He would not forsake them. The ground of their hope was in the faithfulness of God in keeping His covenant. "For His name's sake" shows that God's honor is at stake.

"God forbid that I should sin against the Lord in ceasing to pray for you" (v. 23). Though the people had rejected Samuel, yet he had such magnanimity of soul that he has not allowed their ingratitude to stop his intercession for them. Such failure he regarded as sin for himself. He assured them that in spite of their sin their one concern should be to fear the Lord and serve Him wholeheartedly.

Be Ready to Act

Doors are opening or closing all the time in life, and what they will do for you depends on the way you grasp or fail to grasp the opportunities that come to you. Be watchful; be ready to act.—Maltbie D. Babcock.

Influence

Influence depends less on our activities than on the qualities that lie behind our activities, as the planet attracts, not by its motion, but by its weight.—Thomas Starr King.

THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1927

LIGHT THE WAY.

There were two merchants. One kept the display windows and his store well lighted, making the place cheerful and attractive. The other feared that his electric light bill would burn away all his profits, and never had any more lights than were necessary. The one who kept his place ill-lighted wondered why the other merchant always got the business.

There was just one bit of difference in the two stores, but it was plenty. One was cheerful looking and the other was not, and who likes to go into a gloomy, dark room?

Tuesday night, at the monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council, Charles Snyder, a representative of the West Penn offered to erect a "White Way" on the main streets of Oakland, free of charge to the taxpayers. The only expense involved for the town would be the electric light bills each month. Both poles and fixtures would be furnished by the electric company.

Now, instead of taking two merchants, take two towns. One was poorly lighted and dark and gloomy. The other was brilliantly lit with electricity, making it cheerful and comfortable looking. Where would people passing through these two towns be likely to stop for something which they had to buy?

The merchants of the town along the great white way, should one be erected, would benefit materially by the brightness following the improvement, and the cost, according to Mayor Lawrence Fraley, would be around $50 each month in addition to the present cost. If a lighted town can be had with only that much extra cost to the people of Oakland everyone should get behind the movement and put it over. After all, it is up to the people what they want and what they do not want. But think of the business section well lighted and cheerful looking. Yes, it would make quite a difference.

FINGERS OR FIRECRACKERS?

Fourth of July passed with the usual number of firecrackers being set off, the usual number of fingers being blown off, the usual number of hairs being burned off and the usual resultant number of fires. Still, in spite of all this, the very same thing will be repeated next year and the next ad infinitum. Those who had serious accidents will go back for more, and those who celebrated successfully will try it again with the same childlike confidence.

It has been said that experience is the greatest teacher and that that is the only way we can learn some of the things of life. A slogan like that never worked on July Fourth. From the accounts of all the experiences such as people have had on the Fourth that are published in the newspapers one could easily see that powder is no toy for children and even dangerous for grown-ups. But what difference does that make to anybody? Tradition and custom seem to say that Independence Day should be celebrated by making a lot of noise and setting off huge firecrackers, and accidents or no accidents, the majority of people believe this and act accordingly.

The State Department of Health through The Republican, asked for a safe and sane Fourth, one in which the celebration would include only flag raisings, speeches, parades, pageants, band concerts and picnics, and omit the toy pistol, the blank cartridge and the equally dangerous other explosives. Do this, the department heads said, and a worthwhile Independence Day would result. That is true and practically everyone who celebrates in any way realizes the truth of such a statement.

But there is something in the old custom that can't be explained, yet it makes one want to throw a firecracker in the air and makes one feel that it is worth taking a chance to be able to do it. It is the same spirit that makes the older person delight in setting off a thunderbolt for his little boy. He has never gotten over the habit and uses his boy as an excuse that he might still enjoy the experience.

And when the Fourth is over, he is through. The spirit has left him, and he carefully guards his fingers from accident. He is in favor of legislation that makes machinery safe, for anything that will insure his further protection from accidents that sever fingers, arms, legs and other parts of the human frame. But on the Fourth of July, what does he care for fingers? He is willing to take his chance with the rest of them. If he gets one blown off, tough luck. He will celebrate in the same way next year. Human nature is certainly baffling.

CRELLIN TO IMPROVE.

In today's issue of The Republican there is a news article telling of the new and proposed improvements in the town of Crellin. The undertaking of the Stanley Coal Company is no small one, and if completed as outlined, will be one of the biggest assets that the town will have. It is going to take work and a lot of money, but the returns will justify the outlay in the end.

Recreation and pleasure for all the members of the community is an idea that is being carried out on quite a large scale by this company and deserves commendation from all.

SING SING TECHNIQUE

Three canoeists drowned in the Hudson on July 4, according to the Baltimore Sun, and they were in plain sight of 1,200 would-be rescuers, but the 1,200 could do nothing. They were behind the bars of Sing Sing, and guards, heavily armed, covered the men with rifles and threatened to shoot any man who went to the assistance of the drowning persons.

At first sight, this seems to be an inhuman way to act, but to get the real significance of the fact, one must take more than one peep. One of the wardens said that previous faithlessness of the prisoners had actuated the guards, who feared prisoners permitted to aid the drowning canoeists might attempt to escape.

In holding these men in check, three people were drowned, but if they had been freed in an attempt to save these three, many might have escaped and that would have been a greater menace. A killer may have broken loose, or a notorious thug may have escaped. In a very few months they would have been accountable for more deaths by far than just the three that were lost by drowning. Prison officials then, were absolutely in the right.

Yet, that is not giving the prisoners a fair trial perhaps. There may have been many in the 1,200 who watched the tragedy who were really touched, who really wept and were upset. The sad part here is that no one would believe that they were ever affected that way. Out in life, scenes like that would be expected, but from a hardened prisoner—never.

All the emotion put forth by these prisoners may have only been a ruse in an attempt to take advantage of the situation. But they failed, merely because the prison guards and officials have nothing to go on but the previous experiences and show of character that the convicts emulate and the average character of prison inmates is usually not of the best. The one who cried the hardest may have been sentenced to prison for taking the life of some individual and afterwards throwing the body into the river.

Character is built day by day, is much harder to build than to tear down, and when once torn down, is almost impossible to be rebuilt. It takes twice the effort to rebuild a character than to build it. When these prisoners formerly had proved faithless, in that one event it only paved the way for the demolition of all faith in all prisoners, and it can never be rebuilt. Can the guards, then, be blamed for not allowing anyone to save these three unfortunates in the canoe?

A HOOM ON THE FOURTH.

Besides the booms and bangs made by the bursting of firecrackers on the recent holiday, many merchants of the town were exclaming about another boom. No danger of fingers being blown off in this boom, for it made no noise, and the shock was gradual.

Business men of Oakland report that this past week-end was one of the for selling merchandise in many a month. Everybody seems entirely satisfied and highly gratified that such was the case.

There may have been many indirect causes of the great number of people who spent the week-end in and about Oakland, but one cause is sure—good roads leading into it from every point of the compass.

Oakland is fortunately situated in that motorists from the Fairmont and Morgantown section of West Virginia pass through here. People from Davis, Thomas, Parsons and other towns in that direction must come through Oakland if they desire to get to the National Highway, and tourists stopping at Mountain Lake Park and Deer Park come through Oakland more or less frequently during their stay at these two summer resorts.

Good roads have had a tremendous influence on the business life of the community and there is hardly a merchant who does not realize this.

Taxes for improved roads, then, always bring returns in some way.

EASTERN SHORE TRH' IS CAUSE OF FRICTION

The expedition to Canaan (alias the Eastern Shore) has caused a bit of friction between, the legislative and executive branches of the Maryland State Government, much to be regretted. The expedition is that of the Maryland Legislature, or more properly those members of it hailing from the hinterland in which is included more or less of Baltimore City.

Before the last Legislative session ended the members went in a body on an exploring expedition into the wilds (and unwilds) of Western Maryland, there discovering coal mines, modern hotels, electric plants, Republican politicians and other sights worth looking at. They came back so well pleased that an invitation similarly to explore the fastnesses of the Eastern Shore was accepted with avidity by those hailing from the territory west of that great crab and oyster repository known to geographers as Chesapeake Bay.

Last week was set as the best time to see the Eastern Shore country in the greatness of its glory, and when the arrangements had been made it developed that there would be conflict with the so-called workboat races arranged yearly by the two Sun papers as a part of its advertising program. The Governor, of course, had been invited to the workboat races just as he had been invited to the legislative expedition into the new Canaan, and finding himself unable to be two places at the same time the Executive sought to bring about a postponement of the Legislative Expedition. But it so happened that the Senate end of the Expedition was in charge of one Senator Edward J. Colgan, of Baltimore City, who spendeth not his idle change in buying bouquets for the Governor, while the House of Delegates' end was under the direction of one Delegate Daniel C. Joseph, also of the heathen city, who does not dance every time the Governor picks up a violin.

Thus it was that there was no changing of schedules, that the Expedition started off Wednesday forenoon for Ocean City by way of Conowingo and way stations, while the Governor invited many Senators and others to accompany him on the good Steamer McLane (alias Crapsitania) to view the workboat races at Oxford on Saturday.

To those who know anything of the political situation, there can be no doubt that the Governor desired to accompany the Expedition into Canaan, but he was under obligations to the Sun-papers, which have assisted him mightily in most of his political enterprises. And then the Governor is now engaged in an effort to beat Al Smith for the Democratic Presidential nomination. He will expect Sun-paper help just as he did three summers ago when the Democratic delegates perspired for so many hours in Madison Square Garden. So the Governor had to choose between the Sun-papers and the Legislature and his choice was but natural. And, besides, he will have ample opportunity to look over the same Legislature when it holds its next session in 1929. —Baltimore Observer.

CONGRESS.

The Republican is in receipt of a copy of 1927 Bulletin No. 1, issued for distribution to speakers and writers by the Republican National Committee at Washington, D. C., and entitled "The Congress of the United States." The bulletin is a review of the work of the Sixty-ninth Congress and contains a few words of appreciation of the legislative branch of our Government, with a brief foreword by Chairman William M. Butler.

During the past few years a popular impression has gained ground in the United States that the American Congress is an organization of small minded men whose principal duty is to meet, make lurid speeches, draw salaries and adjourn. Nothing could be further from the truth. As the bulletin referred to above well states, the United States Congress stands head and shoulders above all the legislative bodies of the world in the qualifications of its members and the value of their work.

The past six or seven years in American history have been years of progress and prosperity. And in the effecting of this progress and prosperity the Congress of the United States has had no little part. It has legislated wisely and constructively in matters of finance, industry, agriculture and social interest. A glance over the list of progressive laws enacted will surprise the average reader today. As the bulletin on "The Congress of the United States" well puts it:

"The best test as to the merits of the work of Congress is to attempt to specify what laws it has enacted should be repealed. An expression commonly heard among unthinking writers and speakers is that the country would be better off if the Congress would adjorun for ten years. Suppose Congress had not been in session during the last six years! Would the country be better off or worse off? During that time—to mention only a few of the outstanding pieces of legislation—the Congress has enacted three tax-reduction measures, coordinated all of the agencies handling matters affecting ex-service men and enacted all of the legislation ex-service men, created the Foreign Debt Funding Commission and ratified the work of that Commission. During that period it enacted more fundamental legislation looking to the permanent rehabilitation of agriculture than was enacted during any previous quarter of a century in the history of the United States—such as the creation of the Intermediate Credit Bank system, coupled with the Warehousing Act, the legalizing of cooperative marketing associations and subsidiary legislation facilitating their operation and financing the Packers' and Stockyards Act—to mention a few. During the last six years it has enacted a number of laws vitally affecting the rights of labor, the Restrictive Immigration law, amended the Federal Bank Act, supplanted free trade with a protective tariff, ratified over fifty treaties with foreign countries and made many changes in interstate commerce laws affecting shippers and transportation agencies."

The record is one of which no supporter of American institutions need feel ashamed.

This Correspondent Wants Competition in the Creamery Business and From Indications Apparent to the Knowing Ones it May Come at an Early Day.

To the Editor of The Republican.

In the issue of The Republican of June 30th, under the caption "A Natural Resource," many statements were quoted regarding dairying in Garrett county, some of which were true, others were misleading, if not entirely untrue in fact.

It is true that thousands of dollars are paid to farmers each year for their milk, and judging from the prices which the farmers are paid in this section for their product, they are losing thousands of dollars by not being paid proper prices for the milk they produce.

The ideal condition for dairying has been known to farmers of Garrett county for many years, but the price of the product has been the one thing that has really kept the dairying business in its infancy. Within the past six months we as farmers have realized that we could be benefitted by finding a better market.

Now that we have interested some of our local business men and County Agent in our problem, and as they are trying to remedy this serious problem, a statement appears in your paper that there will be a market for all the milk the farmers wish to sell.

It is true that there may be a market, but at what price? Another important thing that I would call to mind is an age-old story that "there will be better times bye and bye."

If the farmers will only recall the many promises made to them in the past for better conditions and prices, they will not be misled by any future promises and they, coupled with the interested local business men, will strive all the harder to bring about better conditions and prices, and this can be done only along the line in which they are now working, by having a worhwhille milk concern locate in Oakland affording keen competition to the local creamery, which in the past, has been conspicuously lacking.

As soon as it was mentioned that a new plant might be established in Oakland, propaganda was that farmers would be compelled to build new barns. This statement is absolutely untrue, because the barns which they now have can be remodelled at a low cost to meet the requirements which will be called for. This in itself will benefit the farmer by making conditions better to work in, and they will be well repaid for their trouble and expense.

In conclusion, let me warn our farmers, dairymen and prospective dairymen not to bo misled by promises which we know will not be fulfilled, but instead urge them to continue working for a new and better milk-cream shipping plant for this section of the county. D. S. M.

A Recent Guest of the Local Rotary Club Looks For Large Accomplishments In Future Years by the Organization.

To the Editor of The Republican.

The residents of Oakland may well congratulate themselves upon their Rotary Club, of which many of its representative men, both professional and commercial, are members. It is full of vigor and vibrant with a life that no doubt is expressing itself in some chosen work for the betterment of the less fortunate in the community, and it is also another link in the chain around the world that is binding men both internationally and interracially together for the uplift of humanity, and indeed it is needed, for even in these days of enlightenment the down trodden, the oppressed and the afflicted are to be found in every land.

Listening last night to the Rotary songs so heartily sung at the supper, it seemed so good to realize that at Honolulu's Rotary Club these same songs are to be heard at its weekly gatherings. In a city of about 115,000 this club's large membership has founded an orthopedic hospital for the benefit of crippled children, and occasionally an illustrated lecture is given by its chief surgeon at the Pen Pacific Club's weekly series of lectures, one of which was given last night, though of course about six hours later than the supper of Oakland's Rotary Club, which by that time was no doubt in dreamland.

By the way, this Pan Pacific Club, which is somewhat along the lines of the Pen American Club, had its birth and its infancy in Honolulu. It is now firmly established upon a well organized basis. Today it embraces every Pacific country of the Orient, all North and South American countries bordering on the Pacific, as well as New Zealand and Australia, and to Honolulu each summer for several consecutive years have gathered notable representatives of these countries to its yearly professional and economical congresses.

Some of the honorary members of this Pan Pacific Club are ex-President Taft, President Coolidge, Governor Farrington of Hawaii, the Premiers of New Zealand, Australia and Canada and distinguished men of the Orient. Its Monday-noon luncheons invariably have speakers from a distance, among whom may bo mentioned such notables as Lord Northecliffe, shortly prior to his death; Commander John Rodgers, after his tragic trip to Hawaii; ex-Secretary Weeks of the Coolidge Cabinet, and Lord Allenby of Palestine fame.

And all this and much more from small beginnings; so what may not this Oakland Rotary Club develop within the next few years.

A GUEST.

Narrowly Escaped Being Struck By Lightning.

Michael Laffey, superintendent of right-of-way for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Cumberland-Grafton Division, narrowly escaped injury and probable death shortly before noon today during a rain and lightning storm which struck this section. Mr. Laffoy, accompanied by Robert Dawson, a trackman, had sought shelter in the Weber station, a mile east of Oakland, from the rain and while in the building lightning shattered a telephone pole which stands at the corner of the little structure. Mr. Laffey distinctly felt the charge in his left arm and for a few seconds was stunned. Mr. Dawson was in the opposito end of the building and did not feel the shock. Both men are from Piedmont.

PITTSBURGH SUBSCRIBER SEES STORY OF TRAGEDY OF ELY TRULY IN REPUBLICAN; WRITES ACCOUNT

Writer Gives Correct Date of Occurrence—Story Found In The Republican Files of Fifty Years Ago.

Mrs. Ida J. Crim, residing in Pittsburgh, has written a letter to the Editor of The Republican in connection with feature article appearing in last week's issue of the paper in regard to the drowning of Ely Truly, a negro, in the well by the side entrance of the Court house. She was a personal witness of the accident and feels very much interested in getting the facts straight to the public.

"As I was right on the spot when poor old uncle Ely met his fate," she writes, "I couldn't resist writing this enclosed article as there seems to be some doubt in the minds of some of the old timers about the eventful happening as to the dates, etc. But every little detail of the sad occurrenee has remained in my mind and always will."

Following is the enclosed article:

"I was deeply interested in the article printed in last week's issue of The Republican referring to the drowning accident which befell Ely Truly, an old colored man, well known in Oakland for many years. The property adjoining the Corrigan Beer Garden mentioned in the article and being the principal portion of the ground on which the Court House now stands, was owned and occupied as a family residence by my father, the late Joseph M. Crim, and family for forty years. During this time, all the water consumed by our family was drawn from this old well where Ely Truly met his fate, as well as by neighbors far and near. Old Uncle Ely, as we children called him, passed our home many times a day with two large sized tin buckets carrying water from the old Corrigan well for Miss Delia Edwards, corner of Fourth and Oak streets, who gave him a home. It was on Christmas eve, 1877, at five o'clock. I just came out of my home to go to the well, when Uncle Ely passed by our gate (with the familiar buckets) in a badly intoxicated condition. He got to the well in advance of me and was drawing the well bucket up (one of those heavy iron-bound ones containing water sufficient to fill two buckets of domestic size.) While trying to pull the bucket to the platform he released his grip on the windlass handle, and Uncle Ely, bucket, windlass rope and all went down. All I could see when I looked down was the bottom of his shoes as they disappeared under the water. His body was recovered that night at 9:30 by the use of grappling hooks. Great excitement reigned in Oakland that night."

(Signed) IDA C. CRIM.

Found in Republican Files

After the date of the accident was so certain in the mind of Mrs. Crim, the issue of The Republican following the mishap was looked over and an account of the accident was found. Volume 1, number 44, dated Saturday, December 29, 1877, had the following to say:

Drowned in Well

"Saturday evening last, about half past five o'clock, Ely Truly, colored, while drawing water from Mr. Corrigan's well, in Oakland, lost his balance and plunged, head first, into the well, and before assistance could be rendered, was drowned. The well is about sixty feet deep, and contained about twenty-five feet of water at the time of the accident. The body was drawn out, after a lapse of half an hour, and conveyed to the residence of Miss Edwards, where the deceased had been making his home for the past four or five years, and was interred in the Odd Fellows' cemetery on Monday. Deceased was a slave in the Bruce family until the late war, through which he served as an officer's servant. He was a quiet, inoffensive man, with more than ordinary intelligence, and had it not been for the use of whiskey, which was the indirect cause of his death, would have been a useful citizen."

The Ladies Guild of St. Matthew's Episcopal church will hold their annual bazar and cafeteria supper on Thursday, July 21, this year, in the Methodist parish house on Oak street. This is almost a month earlier than the lawn fete was held last year. Fancy work, cake, and candy will be on sale.

CHILD IS INJURED IN TRYING TO CROSS ROAD

Little Blaine Bittinger, Grantsville, Suffers Broken Leg and Bruises Sunday Afternoon

(By G. W. Diefenbach)

Little Blaine "Johnny" Bittinger, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Bittinger, suffered a broken leg, several bruises and abrasions and possibly internal injuries, when struck by a car driven by a tourist last Sunday afternoon while the child accompanied by his sister attempted to cross the highway. It seems the children had some reason for visiting a certain place, some distance from their home, and were attempting to cross the street, absorbed in their mission and failed to notice the machine, which, it is reported, was not traveling rapidly. Dr. N. R. Davis dressed his wounds and later ordered him taken to a hospital. He was removed to the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, for observation and treatment. His exact condition is not known at this writing. The tourist was from Topeka, Kan., and did everything possible to make amends for the unfortunate happening, although it is claimed he was not at fault.

Recent Weddings.

Edwin Kolb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kolb, and Miss Marie Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harmon, all of the Cove, were married on Thursday of last week in the German Lutheran church, Cove, by their pastor, Rev. H. H. Fickenscher, before a large assemblage of relatives and friends. Following the wedding, a sumptuous wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kolb left by motor for a trip to Niagara Falls and other cities in New York and Pennsylvania. There were 58 persons present at the dinner; all of the uncles and aunts being present, besides other relatives and friends. Mrs. Kolb received many beautiful and useful gifts. They will make their home in Accident.

Emerson Sebold, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sebold, of Hoyes, and Miss Gertrude Beachy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Beachy, of Negro Mountain, were married on Saturday, July 2, at the Catholic Parish House, Oakland. A wedding dinner was served on Sunday at the Sebold home. Mrs. Sebold was a public school teacher for several years and Mr. Sebold is an energetic young man doing contract hauling.

Head-On Collision.

John Blocher and Lester Custer, of Jennings, were considerably cut and bruised when they collided headon with another car on a turn in the National Highway near Little Crossings last Wednesday night. Both cars, the other belonging to a tourist, were damaged considerably by the impact, making it necessary to call for assistance from one of the local garages. Both men were treated and bandaged and allowed to return to their homes.

Injurs Thumb.

J. C. Miller had his thumb badly lacerated and crushed last Thursday while shoveling screenings at the station, where road materials are being unloaded for use on the highway. Dr. Davis dressed the wounded member and Mr. Miller is now convalescing.

Chickens and Tires Stolen.

Thieves carried away fifty choice young chickens from the poultry house of Edwin A. Beachy, of Negro Mountain, last Thursday night; they also stripped several tires from Mr. Beachy's car, but overlooked a new tire which he had purchased and not removed from the inside of the machine. The garage was not locked, but a lock was forced open on the chicken house.

Adam Snyder, aged about 75 years, living near Accident, died suddenly on Tuesday night. Although about a year ago he was struck by a car and never recovered completely from the accident, his death came suddenly and unexpectedly, he being as well as usual on Tuesday evening. Funeral arrangements have not been announced. Obituary next week.

Church Society Meetings.

The M. E. Ladies Aid Society met last Thursday in an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Etta V. Engle, Englewood. A most enjoyable day was spent by those attending.

The Reformed Missionary society met last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Noah Warnick. There was a large attendance. Mrs. Harold Boucher was leader and Miss Ruth Keller gave a very enlightening talk upon the topic studied. Mrs. Warnick entertained with a course of delicious refreshments.

Bridge Club at Shade Mills.

The Bridge Club was entertained last night by Mrs. M. W. Whiteford at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Turner, Shade Mills, where the Whitefords are residing during the absence of the Turners, who are touring the middle west. A most enjoyable evening was spent by those present.

Minor Mention.

Henry Zinkin and family, of Myersdale, William Kitting and wife, Clarence Keim and family and George Rayton and family, of Salisbury, Pa., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meager.

Mrs. Lillie Younkin is spending this week with friends at Mt. Lake Park.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

By J. L. M'GLONE.

Summer Increases Dairymen's Troubles.

With the advent of summer, difficules multiply for the dairyman who desires to produce clean milk of high quality with a low bacteria content, says Dr. DeVoe Meade, head of the dairy department at the University of Maryland.

Clean milk, however, can be produced without expensive barns and elaborate equipment provided care is exercised and sanitary methods practiced. Certain precautions are always necessary to produce milk of superior quality with respect to flavor, odor, healthfulness and keeping quality. Any feed which produces an undesirable flavor or odor in milk should be fed several hours previous to the time of milking and the barn should be free from objectionable odors which are readily absorbed by milk.

Milk should be produced by clean, healthy cows and drawn by clean milkers free from communicable diseases. Every precaution should be taken to prevent the contamination of milk with dirt,manure or other source of bachterial infection.

Cows should be curried and brushed regularly to remove loose hair and dirt. Just before milking, the belly, udder and flanks should be wiped with a clean, damp cloth and the milk should be drawn into a small-top milk pail. Milk should be strained, but it should be borne in mind that this practice does not remove bacteria, but only foreign matter contained in it. The strainer cloth, as well as all utensils with which milk comes in contact should be kept scrupulously clean and sterilized, otherwise they become a fertile source of bacterial infection.

After every precaution has been taken to prevent the contamination of milk with dirt and bacteria, the milk should be immediately cooled to a temperature of 50 degrees or below and held at that temperature. Every dairy should be equipped with facilities for rapidly cooling and holding a milk at a low temperature will be of cooler through which cold water circulates and a storage tank for holding milk at a law temperature will be of great assistance in keeping in check the development of bacteria and will aid materially in producing milk of desirable quality.

Mash and Grain Good Laying Combination.

The popular method of feeding laying hens is to keep a mash mixture made up of ground grains, grain by-products and a meat supplement before the birds at all times and to feed a scratch feed of whole grains at least twice daily, says Roy H. Waite, professor of poultry husbandry at the University of Maryland.

Twenty per cent of the mash should be material of animal origin, such as meat scrap, fish scrap, dried milk, buttermilk or equivalent. Minerals can be most economically supplied by adding from one-half to one pound of salt to each hundred pounds of mash, using meat scrap containing a large percentage of bone, and by keeping crushed bone, oyster shell and crushed limestone grit in hoppers before the flock at all times.

The fed used for laying hens in the Maryland State Egg Laying Contest consists of 100 pounds of wheat bran, 100 pounds of flour middlings, 100 pounds of finely ground No. 2 oats, 100 pounds of freshly ground No. 2 yellow corn, 100 pounds of meat and bone meal (50 to 55 per cent protein) and 2½ pounds of sale.

Scratch grain fed with this consists of equal parts by weight of whole yellow corn and wheat. The grain mixture is fed morning and evening in such amounts that the birds will get approximately equal parts by weight of mash and grain.

BITTINGER.

Last week we enjoyed ideal growing weather. Vegetation made much progress and there were smiles upon the faces of the farmers, but this week begins with clouds and very cool weather conditions.

It it be true, said a local pessimist, that all fishermen are liars,then it will not be long until this country will be lousy with liars and Deep Creek Lake empty of fish.

Ray Sechler, of St. Paul, Pa., spent most of last week with relatives here. Dividing his time between his grandmother and fishing in the luring waters of Deep Creek Lake were the main features of his outing.

Miss Lillian Lynn and mother, of Westernport, Md., returned to their home recently after having spent several days visiting friends here.

George W. Diefenbach, of Grantsville, was a business caller in this village last week.

Mrs. C. C. Beachy is entertaining some Pittsburgh friends at her home near Bittinger this week.

Master Weldon Sweiger, who is spending the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fortney, near here, spent the Fourth with his parents at their home near Hayward, W. Va.

Moroccan Town Well Called City of Blind

Blindness, in Marrnkech (Morocco), is a woefully prevalent affliction. Scores of sightless beggars line the streets, squat in the market places, and thread their way with uncanny assurance through the mazes of the souks. More often than not there are two of them together and in many cases they make their appeal for alms in groups of from four to a dozen.

With or without a crude musical instrument or two, they chant incessantly their pleas to the passer-by, conjuring him in the name of Allah to share his coppers with his brethren who cannot see. Hour after hour this hoarse chanting goes on, rhythmically, pantingly, unceasingly—until it is a wonder that the rasping vocal cords do not fray out like an old shoestring and refuse further service.

In his tour of the souks the visitor is led through a colorful arcade given over to dealers in the bright-hued cords from which the Arabs suspend their pouches and daggers. A little beyond the end of this covered passageway he is permitted to look at, but not enter, the mosque and sanctuary of Sidi Bel Abbas, the environs of which are peopled almost exclusively by the blind. Official figures are lacking, yet it may be said that the number of these unfortunates is estimated not in hundreds but in thousands. H. G. Wells once wrote a fantasy called "The Country of the Blind." Here is a City of the Blind in pitiful reality, with Sidi Bel Abbas as its patron saint.—Hamish McLaurin in "What About North Africa."

Mouth Kept Open to Protect Ear Drums

That an explosion may result in serious injury to the human ears is a well-known fact. Gunners often open their mouths to protect their ear drums while firing large guns, says a writer in the Pathfinder Magazine. When the mouth is open the air waves set in motion by the discharge of the gun enter the throat as well as the ears. Consequently the sudden pressure against the outside of the drums is counteracted by an equal pressure against the inside. Such, however, is not the practice in the United States navy. Men working in the turrets are well protected from concussion. Those in the more exposed positions usually use pledgets of cotton in their ears to protect the drums. Some use patent ear stoppers such as are manufactured by various commercial firms. Although special ear protectors and cotton are also used, at the coast artillery target practices it is a custom for the personnel taking part to open their mouths during the actual firing of the guns in order that the pressure on the ear drums may be equalized. The men also stand on their toes to relieve the body as much as possible of the shock of the explosion.

Emphatic Negatives

The redundant negative of which Sir Walter Raleigh made a spirited defense in his essays "On Writing and Writers," never is so daringly used in literature as in real life. A laborer, relates the Manchester Guardian, being given credit for groceries with a caution not to talk about it, replied:

"If no one didn't tell no more about it nor what I do, they'll know no more nor what they do." The result is cumbrous but intelligible. So also was the inquiry of a sailor seeking a job:

"I s'pose, mate, you don't know nobody what don't want nobody to do nothing, do you?"

Ancient Dutch City

Utrecht, which gave its name to the treaty signed there 214 years ago, is the capital of the province of Holland bearing the same name as that of the city. It is an ancient place, which appears frequently in European history, and especially in the history of Holland's long and heroic struggle against the Spanish oppressors for civil and religious freedom. The city today has a population of about 115,000. It is a railway center, only 22 miles southeast of Amsterdam and a strategical point in the line of defensive inundations called the "New Holland Water Line."

Largest Lump of Silver

It is said that the largest lump of pure silver ever discovered was found by an Indian in Sonora, Mexico, when that province was still a possession of Spain. The lump of silver weighed 2,750 pounds. Because of a dispute over its ownership the entire mass was appropriated by the Spanish crown. Earl V. Shannon, assistant curator of geology in the National museum, states that this story is not impossible. He has authentic record of a lump of silver weighing 400 pounds. A lump of pure silver found in Peru weighed 800 pounds.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Female of the Species

Absent-mindedness is sometimes deadly, and doubly so in the female of the species. Or, possibly it wasn't absent-mindedness. Anyway, when Blimson left for the office the other morning his wife reversed a certain daily custom, or at least she got it mixed up with certain other domestic duties. As he passed out onto the front porch she was standing in the kitchen door with a skillet in her hand. And she hurled the skillet at him and threw a kiss at the cat, which was trying to climb up onto the kitchen table.

Hidden Treasure Mute Reminder of Tragedy

When installing a bathroom in an old house in Vienna not long ago, an attic was disclosed above a closet which was supposed to reach clear to the roof. In it were the remnants of an old baker's oven and a wooden dough trough covered with grain sacks bearing the date 1663. Beneath the trough were household effects that evidently had belonged to a well-to-do middle-class family, such as linen garments, dishes, cups, jewelry, 330 gold coins and 1,143 silver coins. Among the former were several ducats. The most recent of the coins were dated 1671, but most of them were far older. It seems practically certain that they represented the savings of a merchant who had hidden them there at the time of the Turkish invasion of 1683.

The most important find dating from the Thirteenth century was made in 1876, on the site of the oldest Jewish cemetery, at Krems on the Danube. These coins, which were discovered when extending a neighboring vineyard, consisted of thirty gold guilders, each weighing three and one-half grammes, from Florence, Hungary, Bohemia, Austria, Silesia and Lubeck. They were discovered at the side of a skeleton, and several other coins were unearthed later near the same spot. It has been conjectured that they were buried during the persecution of the Jews in 1349.—Neues Wiener Tagblatt.

Scars Looked Upon as Marks of Honor

Scar decoration is a widespread practice. A wound is made in the body, and then prevented from healing until a raised scar has been produced.

Practically all the Australian tribes favor this method—among others—of decorating the body. With some the custom is connected with certain taboos. As a youth grows older these taboos are successively removed, a new scar being added to mark each occasion. In any case the scars or cicatrices are rarely raised all at once. Usually the process is prolonged throughout the period of adolescence, one or two scars being "cultivated" at a time.

Originally these scars were probably received in battle, the recipients thereafter displaying them as marks of honor. From this the custom of cicatrization would have arisen.

Nowadays, however, the scars are regarded as an aid to beauty, and are cultivated by both sexes in many places. In the Andaman islands, for instance, the women as well as the men decorate their backs in this way. It is the women, however, who perform the operation by means of broken glass.—Popular Science Monthly.

Smuggling as Sport

To a perverted feminine sporting instinct, rather than a desire to save money, is attributed the epidemic of silk smuggling into England from France, about which many amusing incidents have been related.

Women often tip two or three times the amount of the duty to accomplices who guarantee them success in getting their silks through the customs agents, according to the London Times. One such man is said to make "smuggling" for women a business. He gets the silks through by the simple expedient of declaring them and paying the duty, which amounts to less than half the stipulated reward.

Many women also go to much trouble, such as making themselves uncomfortable with several similar garments, to evade paying the duty on articles which actually are not dutiable.

Facts as to Suicide

Henpecked husbands may be surprised to know it, but suicide is more frequent among the unmarried than the married, according to a study of 307 cases made by Dr. S. Serin, a physician of Paris, and reported by the French correspondent of the American Medical association.

Suicide is resorted to as the way out of life's problems more frequently by men than by women and more often by the elderly rather than the merely adult, Doctor Serin finds. He divides the causes of suicide into five classes: insanity, alcoholism, severe grief, incurable disease and poverty.

Old Federal Bureau

The work of the bureau of engraving when started in 1862 by the first chief, with one male assistant and four female operatives, occupied one room in the attic of the west wing at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, Washington. There was a gradual increase and by 1878 there was no additional space available for the growing bureau, and on June 30, 1878, congress appropriated $300,000 for the purchase of the site at Fourteenth and B streets, southwest, for the erection of a building, which now stands. The building was completed and occupied July 1, 1880.

Wasps That Eat Metal

An insect known as the steel wood wasp can do considerable damage to lead.

A piece of pine wood infested with larvae of this wasp had been used as a core on which to roll some sheet lead. When, on reaching maturity, they attempted to escape, they cut through the lead instead of traveling lengthwise through the wood.

Each sheet of metal was one-tenth of an inch thick, and the insects penetrated 15 thicknesses of lead before escaping.

Results of Declamation Contest Between Pupils in the Grades

Our O. G. S. notes have been delayed, but we wish to give an account of the last club meeting and final notes for the school year of 1926-1927.

The last program took the form of a declamation contest in which the best three from each of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades were tried out. The judges were Miss Edna Baker, Mrs. C. Milton Sincell and Dr. A. Moore. The decision was: Betty Broadwater, grade six, first; Virginia Giessman, grade seven, second; Martha Mitchell, grade six, honorable mention.

We have not room to thank all the friends who have been kind to us this year, but we wish to thank again the following: Fraley & Sons, for room in their store for our food sale; Mrs. Elwood Offutt, for help in our Maypole dance; Mrs. E. Z. Tower, for suggestions for our float; the Hinebaugh Brothers for courtesy and help in our food sale at the fair grounds Athletic Day; and Mrs. W. R. Offutt and Mrs. J. C. Kendall for their generous and able management of the aforesaid sale.

Last, but by no means least, we thank again those who remembered the desires of their youth and made possible the trip to Baltimore by our two track teams. Those who contributed financially to this were F. C. Peddicord, H. Lauer, H. A. Loraditch, G. D. Browning, C. A. McIntire, A. L. Lee, J. E. Harned, First National Bank, G. A. Fraley & Sons, D. M. Dixon & Son, and the clubs of the school. The two teams had won the 80-lb. and 95-lb. races in October and again in May, and are the first to go from the O. G. S. to a State Meet.

The trip was taken under the care of Mrs. F. C. Peddicord, Rev. C. A. Shilke, Miss Frantz and James Wolfe, and made yet more helpful by Joseph Stanton, a former Oaklander, conducting the group on a tour of the City. One of the boys said: "I hope everybody who helped gets what he wants very bad." So do we.

The Parent-Teachers' Association has had a good year with better attendance than any former year.

Nineteen in our school received perfect attendance badges and certificates. This has been a happy class, and we tried to say a part of our thanks to Miss Leary by a present to her given at the close of our program at the Central Closing Exercises.

May the next class do better, but it cannot love O. G. S. better.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

Attorney E. R. Jones was at Kitzmiller on professional business yesterday evening.

Stephen G. Ashby, of Elkins, W. Va., was here yesterday en route to points east.

Miss Eleanor Townshend, who is in the employ of the Federal Prohibition Board in Cumberland spent Sunday and Monday at her home here.

Mr. Charles S. Friend, wholesale grocery salesman, traveling out of Piedmont, W. Va., was a business caller at The Republican office yesterday.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Matthew's church will hold their annual supper, food sale and bazaar in St. Paul's Parish House, corner Fourth and Oak streets, on Thursday, July 21. Take the entire family and enjoy some good home-cooked food. Fancy articles and gifts will be on sale.

Mr. John Felty, of Rowlesburg and Morgantown, spent Saturday and Sunday at Mountain Lake Park with his family, Mrs. Felty having recently been discharged from a Cleveland(O.) hospital, where she had undergone a serious surgical operation and who is now at the Park recuperating.

Mr. L. A. Rudisill, who recently returned to his home at Mountain Lake Park after having spent the past several months with his son, Mr. Wesley Rudisill, at Coatesville, Pa., was in Oakland on Saturday where he was the recipient of the hand shakes of many friends who expressed their delight in again seeing him.

The girls of the 4-H Clubs of Garrett and Allegany counties will leave on Monday, July 11th, for camp which is located at the Girls' Friendly Cottage near Grantsville. The members from Oakland and vicinity will meet in front of the Court House and then be conducted to camp by cars or bus through the courtesy of the Oakland Rotary Club. Parents and visitors to the camp will be welcome Friday, the 15th inst.

Deer Park Hotel, Mountain Lake Hotel and all of the Oakland hotels were overcrowded over the holiday period extending from Saturday until Monday night. It is said that many were turned away from the Deer Park and Mountain Lake hotels, while proprietors of hostelries in Oakland secured rooms for their patrons in private homes. At the Deer Park links caddies were at a premium Monday morning, the manager of the Deer Park hotel coming to Oakland and taking back with him as many boys that wanted to work.

More people were in attendance at the Mountain Lake Park camp meeting Sunday afternoon than there has ever been in the history of the assembly, it is claimed by those who have been regular attendants for more than thirty years. The large auditorium was filled to overflowing and several hundred attended an overflow meeting conducted in the Amphitheatre, with sufficient people wandering over the grounds to have completely filled it. The meeting will close with the evening service next Sunday when an even larger crowd is expected to be in attendance.

Members of the Five Hundred Club entertained their husbands and friends at a card party and luncheon at Rainbow Inn, Deep Creek Lake, on last Thursday evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smouse, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Teets, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sincell, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thayer, Misses Norine Ault, Lillian Helbig, Bernadette Hart, Helen Hart and Isabel Hamill, and Mrs. Herbert Leighton, and Messrs. J. L. McGlone, Harry Street, Harry Laffey, Ronald McIntire, Frederick Thayer and Reeves Blandford.

Last night at the meeting of the Young Women's Missionary Society of St. Mark's Lutheran church, held at the home of the Misses Falkenstein in Oakland, Miss Julia Bonafield, who recently returned to America from the mission fields of China, addressed an interested group of about forty young people and exhibited a large collection of art needle work, the handicraft of the pupils in the mission school and others in China. Miss Bonafield's address was greatly appreciated by the members of the local society. This afternoon she will be a guest of the Women's Society of St. Mark's church when the meeting will be at the home of Mrs. T. C. Hinebaugh.

Auto Damaged on Red House Road.

Sheriff Casteel was advised on Monday morning that Ray Kight, driving a Studebaker car, had collided with another machine that had been parked along the Red House road near the farm of Dice Spiker, three miles south of Oakland. The car had no parking lights, it is said, and the accident was unavoidable. The Studebaker was damaged to the extent of $50 to $60.

Canning Company to Begin Operations On Monday.

The Mount Airy Canning Company plant, located at Mountain Lake Park, will begin operations on Monday, July 11th, at which time the early crop of peas will be harvested and canned. The plant will be in operation for about twenty days, J. Howard Reinhardt, manager, stated this morning. The company expects to can about 60,000 cases of peas this year, Mr. Reinhardt said. Later in the season a large quantity of corn will be harvested and canned for the market.

Small Boy is Hit By Car

Ray Miller, 11-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller, received a slight concussion of the brain Tuesday evening when he walked in front of the automobile of Mrs. Groves C. Stemple, near the David Enlow farm on the State road about two miles north of Oakland. Mrs. Stemple's son, Robert, was driving the car at the time.

The victim of the accident had just alighted from a truck. He was attended by Dr. N. I. Broadwater, who stated that his injuries consisted of a slight concussion of the brain with numerous concussions of the body.

Chicken Dinner Given In Honor of Marriage

LOCAL FLORISTS ERECTING MODERN HEATING PLANT

Many Other Improvements Being Made at the Extensive Weber Gardens Near Town

Improvements, extensive in their nature and required by their constantly expanding business, which will cost between $20,000 and $25,000 are now being made at the greenhouses of the H. Weber & Sons Company, a mile east of Oakland.

The improvements now under construction consist of one new greenhouse 20 by 250 feet and a new heating plant which will be used to heat all the greenhouses, old and new, with a twelve inch steam line.

The heating plant will be housed in a concrete block structure approximately 60x61 feet with concrete floor, and will be practically fireproof when completed. A brick stack 75 feet high and four feet in diameter at the top, has been completed, which will be more than ample to accommodate the three boilers forming the heating unit that will be housed in the building.

At this time there has been installed two 125-horse power Kroeschell steam boilers in the structure now under way, but it is expected that another boiler of like capacity will be added in the near future as space for the additional unit has been provided in the building.

A twelve-inch steam line, which replaces one of six and one of four inches will run through the center of all the greenhouses, from which leads to the adjacent buildings will be carried. This arrangement will provide uniform heat throughout the various greenhouses, of which there are more than a dozen of large dimensions.

There will be one electric and one steam pump installed to raise the used condensed steam back into the boilers. It is estimated by the Weber interests that the installation of these new boilers, which will be completed before cold weather sets in, will decrease very materially the quantity of coal used in previous years. The estimated saving, in fuel has been placed at approximately four hundred tons during the year. Last year more than 1300 tons were used at the greenhouses.

It was necessary this year to have steam heat in the hot houses during the evenings until July 1st, according to Ralph Weber, one of the members of the firm.

In addition to the above improvements, a new office building and flower room, which is a great improvement over the old one, has been completed and is being occupied, the new building for this purpose having been completed about May 30th.

"The improvements are not nearly done," Mr. Weber stated yesterday to The Republican, "but we hope to have the plant in good shape by fall. We expect to continue the improvements next year also."

Twenty-five men are employed in the hot houses and quite a number are out in the fields.

Conference Epworth League Convention at the Park.

The annual institute of the Epworth League of the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church is now being held at Mountain Lake Park, with a total enrollment of 470 young men and young women. The conference will hold sessions daily and nightly until the end of the week.

The Epworth League of the Baltimore Conference, M. E. church, will open Monday, July 18, and will continue for a week. Between 500 and 600 delegates are expected, the larger number to be from Baltimore and Washington, D. C. The delegates will arrive by special train, which will also carry representatives from Hagerstown and Frederick and other points in the Baltimore Conference.

Alleged Tire Thief Caught

John Strawser, Hutton, was arrested Monday morning by Sheriff Wm. D. Casteel after having eluded the West Virginia police who had a warrant for his arrest charging him with the theft of automobiles in Terra Alta and vicinity. Strawser was later handed over to the authorities at Terra Alta.

Surprise Birthday Party.

The daughters of Mrs. Margaret Casteel, Oakland, gave a surprise party on Tuesday evening, July 12, in honor of her fiftieth anniversary. Thirty-five people were present and enjoyed the games, which were a feature of the entertainment. Many useful and beautiful presents were received by the honor guest.

MAN SUCCUMBS SUDDENLY TO ACUTE HEART ATTACK

Elmer Fairchild, 37, Dies While at Work in Garage

While working in the garage of P. K. Adams in Crellin, Elmer Fairchild, aged 37 years, son of Lewis Fairchild, of Crellin, died suddenly Friday morning about 8:30 o'clock. Death was due to heart trouble.

Funeral services for the deceased were held from the home of his sister, Mrs. Duncan Adams, on Sunday afternoon, the Rev. William Anderson officiating. Interment was made in the Oakland cemetery.

He is survived by his father and two sisters. His wife and five children, from whom he was parted, have been living at the home of the children's grandfather, Joseph Tritchler, Morgantown, for the past eight or ten years.

TWO THOUSAND OR MORE FISHING LICENSES ISSUED

Over 1800 Licenses Issued For Privilege of Fishing in Deep Creek Lake Alone.

With the addition of Deep Creek Lake as fishing grounds and with the passage of the new law requiring residents of the county to secure licenses before they can cast their hook into any stream in the county, Garrett has witnessed an increase in fishing that more than triples the secured privileges obtained in former years, according to figures compiled from the records in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court where the licenses are issued.

With the probability of 300 licenses being issued by Elmer Haulenbeek, State warden in charge of Deep Creek Lake, there have been more than two thousand licenses issued from the beginning of the season until the present time. Cards have been issued to 1774 applicants at the Court House alone, for which the sum of $2,871.25 has been received from residents of the county, residents of the State and non-residents.

Although at this time it is impossible to get the total exact number of lincenses issued, the number of the various kinds that have been issued from the Court House are as follows:

Resident State licenses for all of the streams, excluding Deep Creek Lake, 110 at one dollar each; Deep Creek Lake, for residents of Garrett county, 1,483, at $1.25 each; Deep Creek Lake, for non-residents of the State, 107, at $5.25 each; Deep Creek Lake, for residents of Maryland but non-residents of Garrett county, 55, at $2.75 each; non-resident angler's licenses, 21, at $5.00 each.

These figures were made known by A. G. Ross, deputy clerk of the Circuit Court. He also said that 12 licenses had been issued for permission to have boats on Deep Creek Lake.

Deep Creek Lake has been leased by the Conservation Department of Maryland from the Eastern Land Corporation and the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric Corporation for a period of five years, and it is therefore necessary that a special license be obtained before being lawfully able to fish in its waters. The season for all game and fresh water fish in Deep Creek is from June 1 to August 15, and it is unlawful to take from its waters any trout under 8 inches in length and fish of other varieties under 5 inches.

Many trout ranging from 15 to 22 inches have been landed by the lucky anglers of the county from the waters of Deep Creek Lake, and according to officials it is no wonder that over 1483 licenses have been issued to residents of this county.

Sent or Taken to Hospitals.

As a result of the orthopedic clinic conducted in Oakland on May 28th, under the auspices of the Oakland Civic Club and Miss Rhesa M. King, County Health Nurse, five young boys and girls, Iva Klotz, of Grantsville; Virginia Duke, Dailey Hersman, Orville Hersman and Inez Hersman, of Oakland and vicinity, left here yesterday morning on train No. 22 for Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where they will receive treatment. They were accompanied by the mother of the Hersman children.

Nelson Offutt, youngest son of Mrs. Nannienne Offutt, of Oakland, was operated upon at the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, at noon yesterday following an acute attack of appendicitis, which he suffered earlier in the day. He was attended locally by Dr. N. I. Broadwater and was accompanied to Cumberland by his mother and brother, Seymour.

70-GALLON STILL CAPTURED SATURDAY MORNING NEAR HERRINGTON; WAS IN OPERATION WHEN FOUND

Officers Casteel, Shartzer and Griffith Remain in Vicinty In Hope of Arresting Owners

A 70-gallon still, said to be the largest one taken since William D. Casteel, the present sheiff took office, was discovered and destroyed early Saturday morning at a point back of the Col. Woods' place on the road leading to Swallow Falls. The still had been in operation for ten hours, according to those who made the raid.

"It was one of the dirtiest and biggest stills that has been taken," Sheriff Casteel told The Republican. "The containers for the mash and whiskey were nothing but old oil barrels which had never been cleaned out."

The still was located in a small valley and evidently the owners had planned carefully on its concealment. A ton of coke ,which would produce the heat necessary beneath the boiler and without emitting any appreciable amount of smoke, was piled up next to the boiler ready for use at the time of the discovery by the officers. There were sixteen barrels of mash found by the officers which they destroyed. The mash was concealed by burying it in a spring drain and into it rats, mice and all kinds of vermin had crawled and was found dead.

Sheriff W. D. Casteel, Constable Andrew Shartzer and Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith, who made the raid, arrived near the still at twelve o'clock midnight Friday. No one was near the still at the time, but it was in full operation. The operators evidently heard the approach of the officers' car and left immediately and did not return, according to Sheriff Casteel. The three officials remained on the spot until six o'clock Friday morning when snap shots of the find were made, one of which is reproduced in The Republican today.

The still, the 5-horse power boiler, the 16 barrels of mash, oil barrels, coke and the remainder of the equipment were then destroyed by burning or otherwise by the officials.

Arrests of the suspected parties—owners as well as operators of the plant—will be made later.

TWILIGHT BALL LEAGUE MAY RESULT IN COUNTY

Several Teams In County Are Expected To Join

The probability of having a county twilight baseball league may be the outcome of a dozen or more young men of Oakland organizing themselves into a baseball club, it was learned yesterday. The club was organized merely for the chance of having some real sport, according to John Wolfe, captain of the team, and if it is possible to interest the other towns in the county, some lively and good-natured competition may result.

Other towns in the county who have teams are Friendsville, Grantsville, Accident, Crellin, and Kitzmiller, and the club is contemplating forming a league with these towns, provinding the proper interest is shown.

Members of the club are also hoping that some organization of the town will sponsor the new association, and that the old Oakland Hotel grove can be fixed up as a first class diamond. "I am almost certain that the grounds can be had for use as a diamond," Mr. Wolfe said, "and with the number of boys interested, it would take only a very little time until the field was in the best of shape."

Tuesday evening, the members of the club played the team at Crellin in a seven-inning contest, which resulted in a tie, 9-9. The game was played at Crellin.

Members of the club so far are as follows: John Wolfe, Harold Yutzy, Dr. S. A. Myford, Robert Hoffman, Gilmor Hamill, Lew Hanst, Eugene Carney, John Weber, Clayton Fulk, Jaime Guardiola, and George Hanst. It is expected that a few other players will try out for the team. "Everybody has a chance," the captain of the team said, "providing he will come out in the evenings to practice."

To Hold Examination for Postal Clerk.

The United States Civil Service Commission is announcing an examination to be held for clerk-carrier in the Oakland postoffice. Applicants have until August 10 in which to let the secretary of the fourth civil service district in Washington, D. C., know of their desire to take the examination. Applications may be secured from the postoffice in Oakland.

$158 OF $200 RECEIVED IN SCOUT BUILDING FUND

Remainder of Total to be Solicited Soon—Work Already Started on Structures

With $158 of the $200 already received from business and professional men of Oakland by personal solicitation of Dr. W. W. Grant and other members of the committee who are receiving funds for the erection of permanent barracks and a dining hall for the local troop of Boy Scouts, the remainder is almost a certainty and the work upon these two buildings has already been started, according to one of the members of the committee.

The remaining $42 is expected to be made up by further personal solicitation the remainder of this week, Dr. Grant said. The barracks, which the Court of Honor is erecting, will be a building 26 X 60 feet, open on both sides and at one end, with slanting roof, rising from four feet on the lower side to approximately ten feet on the upper side.

The dining hall will be nothing more than a roof set upon posts and will be a long, narrow structure just large enough to provide sufficient covering for the table to be used by the boys at meal time.

Considering the progress made in the solicitation of funds, the boys will go into camp for two weeks around the first of August with these two buildings a reality. The land upon which these two structures are being erected is the same upon which the Scouts camped last summer and lies along the shore of Deep Creek Lake about twenty-five minutes drive from Oakland. Omitting all "tenderfoot" scouts, there are now 42 members of the local troop.

Reunon of Dawson Family Held.

Members of the Dawson family held their annual reunion at Camp Dawson, near Erwin, West Va., on Sunday. About seventy-five were in attendance, which number includes all the living relatives and their family connections. Speeches were made by several members of the party.

Those who attended from Oakland were Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Dawson and son Walter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dawson and daughter Nancy Lou, George Dawson and son Harley, Mrs. Charles F. Dawson and Mrs. P. Y. Lohr and sons.

Northwestern Pike Bids In West Virginia Total Over $900,000

The West Virginia State Roads Commission at Charleston Tuesday opened more than fifty bids for work on 14 road projects and two bridges, the letting being a part of more than $2,500,000 of work for which contracts will be given within the week.

The early completion of the Northwestern Turnpike is forecast in the bids opened. The low bids according to the unofficial tabulation in this connection were:

Paving 6 miles Northwestern Turnpike, Preston county, Monongahela Construction Co., Fairmont, W. Va., $252,738.

Paving 6 miles Northwestern Turnpike, second section, Preston county, Monongahela Construction Co., Fairmont, W. Va., $224,905.

Paving 11 miles Northwestern Turnpike, Preston county, Cole Bros., Morgantown, $434,222.

Flag Run bridge, Preston county, substructure, E. R. Mills, Covington, Ky., $3,487; superstructure, same bidder, $4,747.

YOUNG FARMER DIES AT HIS HOME NEAR M'HENRY

James Lloyd Fraker, Ill But a Few Minutes, Succumbs

After working in the hay field all day on Tuesday and feeling entirely well when he retired that evening, James Lloyd Fraker, aged 20 years, 10 months and 14 days, died yesterday morning about one o'clock following an acute attack of indigestion. The young man had been dead about three hours when Dr. R. A. Ravenscroft, of Accident, who had been called by his parents, arrived at the Fraker home.

He was the son of Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Fraker, of near McHenry. Funeral services will be held from the home of his parents Sunday afternoon and interment of the remains will be made in the family cemetery at Flatwoods. He is survived by his father and mother, a brother having died about eight weeks ago.

"BOB" HICKS ARRESTED FOR GIVING BAD CHECKS

Amount Totalling over $210 are Written to Various Business Houses in Oakland

Bad checks, amounting to more than $210, were the cause of the arrest of Robert E. Hicks, 22, Moundsville, W. Va., Friday morning, at Terra Alta, by Constable Andrew Shartzer, who brought him to Oakland and placed him in the county jail. He was given a hearing yesterday evening by Justice of the Peace W. A. Gonder, and was released on $500 bond, which was furnished by his mother. His case will be disposed of by the Circuit Court to be held in December.

Checks were passed against C. N. McIntire for goods purchased amounting to $60. Kerins Brothers garage received a check of his through another man to the amount of $40. Others who received checks for $10 or less were E. S. Evans, B. H. Sincell, Shaffer's Taxi. Joseph E. Harned, The Pines, and several other establishments. Some of these had not been turned in to Justice of the Peace, W. A. Gonder, but the amount which had been given to him was well over $210.

When found in Terra Alta by Constable Shartzer and C. N. McIntire, he stated that he was in his way on his way to work, having been employed that morning in the construction of a building.

To Have Been Married.

It was reported that one of the nurses in the State Tubercuiosis Sanitarium, one mile east of Terra Alta, had checked out the same morning Hicks was arrested and had arranged to meet him some time that day to be married. This was denied by Hicks. "I only know of two girls in the Sanitarium," he said, "and I am not at all certain which one of the two I would have been supposed to have married."

Was Working for B. & O.

Upon being asked where he had been employed for the past two years, Hicks replied that he had been employed since October 31, 1926, in the baggage-passenger service of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad until April 22 when a truck fell from the doorway of a baggage car onto his feet. He was in a hospital for several weeks on account of this accident, he stated, and it was necessary for him to lose the little toe on both feet in order that the rest of his feet might be saved.

He was working in Jersey City at the time of his aceident and was given four months leave from the railroad company so that he might recuperate. The fact that his injuries had healed sooner than expected, was the reason for his searching for work in Terra Alta, according to him.

When questioned about the bad checks, Hicks said that it was not his intention to "beat" anybody, but was of the opinion that he had enough money in the bank to cover their amounts. The checks that were returned from the First National Bank of Moundsville, on which bank he drew them, stated that Hicks had never had any account there.

Hicks is 22 years old, and according to his statement this summer makes his twenty-second year at Mt. Lake Park. He is said to have attended the Oakland grammar school a part of a term when Professor Bissell was principal. He played in the Mountain Lake Hotel orchestra as a trap drummer for two years prior to the present season.

Miss Sallie Coulehan, of Cumberland, was a guest of Miss Helen Treacy at her home on Second streets several days recently.

MILK AND CREAM PLANT MAY LOCATE IN OAKLAND

Possibility of Establishing Such Discussed at Banquet at Deer Park Hotel Last Night.

At a six-course dinner served at the Deer Park Hotel last night, when seventy-five representative farmers and business men were present, the possibility of establishing a milk-cream shipping station in Oakland was presented for discussion.

Dr. Henry W. McComas, acting chairman, introduced to the body William P. DeBerry, who many years ago supplied Oakland with cream. It was Mr. DeBerry's custom at that time to deliver the cream to his customers and prospective customers on horseback. By the use of a burlap bag thrown across the horse's back, a gallon jug of cream on one side and a stone on the other, Mr. DeBerry made his rounds over the town and disposed of his product. Mr. DeBerry delivered the cream for his father and was such a small boy at the time that he was lifted from his horse and remounted again with the assistance of anyone that might be near after each and every sale.

Dr. McComas, in his opening remarks, reviewed the dairying industry from the time of its beginning in this section of the county until the present time and pointed out the "wonderful possibilities" for making Garrett county a leader in dairying in the course of a very few years.

John P. Dugan, general baggage agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, explained his interest and activities in the matter of procuring a milk-cream station here, and said that he and his department of the railway company, as well as the officials of one of the largest dairying companies of the United States were much pleased with the natural dairying conditions existing in Garrett county, and further said that in his twenty years of experience with the railroad company in promoting dairy interests he had never been so favorably impressed with a locality as he is with this section. Mr. Dugan explained that he

FIFTEEN 4-H CLUB GIRLS OF COUNTY ARE IN CAMP

Garrett and Allegany Counties' Organizations Combine Outing

Fifteen 4-H girls from Garrett county are attending Camp Algajoy, located at the Girls' Friendly Cottage near Grantsville, this week. About forty-five girls from Allegany county are also present in the camp.

The camp opened on Monday morning, July 11th, with Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Director of Girls' Club Work from the University of Maryland, with Miss Maude Bean, Home Demonstration Agent of Allegany county, and Miss Kathrine Brown, Garrett county Home Demonstration Agent, in charge. Lessons are given in felt and basketry. Swimming in the Casselman River, upon whose banks the camp is located, is the main recreation.

Those in camp from Garrett county are: Nina Sweitzer and Clara Baker, Swanton; Mary Martha Miller, Olive Vangilder and Ruby E. Dahlgren, of Grantsville; Rebecca V. Browning, Frances Thrasher and Lola King, Deer Park; Mary Frances Yutzy, Virginia Gilbert, Mildred Stemple, Bernadine Canty and Thelma Wolfe, Oakland; Dorothy Stevenson, Mt. Lake Park, and Martha Jane Seott, Hutton.

Mrs. Margaret McComas, Mr. Joseph E. Harned and Kenneth Stahl, through the courtesy of the Rotary Club of Oakland, furnished the automobiles to take the girls to the camp. They will be brought back to Oakland and their respective homes the latter part of the week in the same manner.

Liberal donations from the First National and the Garrett National Banks of Oakland helped materially in making the trip possible, and the club girls have expressed a wish that these institutions should be publicly thanked in this way for their help.

Friendsville Bank Makes Excellent Showing.

The First National Bank located at Friendsville, in its statement of condition appearing in The Republican today, shows that its surplus fund and undivided profits are equal to almost three times the capital stock, $25,000. The surplus fund of the institution is $50,000 while the undivided profits amount to $22,066.82. The management of this bank is to be congrtulated upon the splendid showing thus made.

SILVER MEDALS TO NO ACCIDENT MEN

The accident prevention campaign of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company is bringing about most satisfactory results, according to telephone officials. Just recently awards of silver medals have been made to a number of employees located in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, who have sustained no lost-time accidents either to themselves or to their forces during the past five years.

Among those who have just received such medals are: H. H. Ford, R. M. Kerns, A. A. Linnenbrogger, A. A. Lusby, and J. M. Newcomb, Washington; J. E. Kerr, H. L. Henneman, H. L. Myers, Geo. W. Acree, J. R. Lovell, W. M. Miller, F. W. Standiford, C. Garrison and H. D. Mainhart, Baltimore; and H. C. Hendrickson, Onancock, and A. E. Mathieen and R. L. Wright, Jr., Norfolk, Virginia; and C. S. Cavendish, R. H. Holland, and G. E. Perrine, Charleston; W. W. Rader, Huntington; L. R. Gahagen, Fairmount; M. I. Stutler, Clarksburg; C. H. Dovenbarger, and F. W. Dovenbarger, Wheeling; F. H. Dragoo and Ray Dixon, Morgantown, West Virginia.

DR. IVES RECEIVES JOHN SCOTT MEDAL

Dr. Herbert E. Ives, demonstrating part of intricate television apparatus.

Dr. Herbert E. Ives, eclentist of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, New York, has been awarded the John Scott Medal accompanied by a premium of $1,000 by the city of Philadelphia. This award is in recognition of his part in the development of the method of transmitting pictures over telephone lines and for the further development of television, either over land wires or by radio.

The present award marks the third time in a period of two years that this particular honor has been accorded to a member of the staff of the telephone laboratories.

Other men connected with this organization who have received the John Scott Medal are William G. Housekeeper, who invented the copper-glass seal and Gustaf W. Elman, discoverer of permalloy.

The fund for the award was established in 1816 by John Scott, a native of Philadelphia, who wished thereby to honor scientists responsible for "useful inventions for the use and benefit of mankind."

MILLINERY STYLES BY TELEPHOTOGRAPH

Millinery styles are now being transmitted by the telephoto service of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Recently a new hat arrived in New York direct from Paris. Immediately upon its arrival the hat was photographed and two hours and twenty-five minutes later the French room of a large millinery concern in Cleveland had the picture to copy.

At about the same time a Boston concern received sketches of four hat styles which were sent from New York in the space of seven minutes. The hats were purchased in New York as soon as they were shown by the millinery buyer for the store and sketches were made and transmitted by wire to Boston, so that the advertising department might prepare the necessary publicity. The hats were shipped at the same time and arrived in Boston the following morning, but the advertising had already appeared in the morning newspapers and the hats were placed on sale immediately.

DISPATCHING BY TELEPHONE

The Southern Railroad has placed in service this year telephone dispatch lines between Meridian, Miss., and New Orleans, a distance of 202 miles. This gives the Southern telephone service over its entire line between New Orleans and Cincinnati and between New Orleans and Washington by way of Birmingham and Atlanta.

NEW YORK'S DIRECTORY

Approximately 3,160,000 copies of the winter issue of the New York City telephone directory have been distributed. Of these, 1,620,000 volumes went to subscribers in Manhattan and the Bronx, and about 1,540,000 to those in Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond. The new directory contains approximately 638,000 listings in the Manhattan and the Bronx volume, and about 455,000 in the Brooklyn and Queens volume.

Giraffe a Figure in Old Roman Pageants

The wonderful, long-necked, spotted creature, the giraffe, has an interesting history. Zoologists in deciding its actual species place it between the deer and the hollow-horned ruminants.

The name "giraffe" seems to be derived from the Arabian "zerapha" which by some is supposed to have been a corruption of "zorapha" the Egyptian for "long neck."

In the days of imperial Rome giraffes from the Libyan desert were exhibited in the triumphs of various emperors, and were probably shown to the Romans during the dictatorship of Julius Cæsar.

From the period of the Roman empire till the close of the Fifteenth century these magnificent animals were unknown in Europe.

In the last years of that century Lorenzo de Medici became possessed of a specimen, apparently perfectly tame, which was shown in Florence, and as it was led through the streets often halted, and raising its lofty head to some high balcony, received some dainty—fruit or confection—from the dwellers of the house before which it had stayed its progress.

From that date till the reign of George IV no giraffe was seen in Europe until the year 1827, when Mahommed Ali, viceroy of Egypt, sent one as a present to the king of England.

Grim Death Lurks in Holy Waters of India

The holiest waters in India are mantled with a green and brilliant scum. Those who would bathe must break it, as hardy swimmers in our colder countries break the ice, before they can reach the spiritually cleansing liquid. Coming out of the water, bathers leave behind them jagged rifts of blackness in the green; rifts that gradually close, if no more pilgrims come down to bathe, till the green skin of the lake is altogether whole again.

There were but few bathers when we were at Pushkar.

On days of little concourse the bathers do not venture far out into the lake. Death lurks invisible under the scum, swims noiselessly inshore, snaps, drags down. We saw him busking on a little shrine-crowned island a hundred yards from land, monstrous and scaly, grinning even in his sleep—a crocodile. Pushkar is so holy that no life may be taken within its waters or on its banks, not even the maneaters. A dozen pilgrims disappear each year between those enormous jaws. It is considered lucky to be eaten by a crocodile at Pushkar.—From "Jesting Pilate" by Aldous Huxley.

Something to Remember

One thing they have learned in cold Alaska is to make no attempt to clean a silk or woolen garment in gasoline in the winter time.

Writing in Scribner's Magazine, Mary Lee Davis, the wife of an engineer, says that two women of her acquaintance were burned to death in so doing.

"Just the friction," she says, "of lifting the material from the gasoline bath produces such sparks in the electrified air that an explosion almost invariably occurs."

Although there isn't quite so much electricity in the air in this section of the country, there are few indoor sports more dangerous than washing articles in gasoline.

If you must wash things in gasoline, do it outdoors.

Egyptian Spite

The childish trait of "taking it out" on an inanimate object when one has a fit of temper seems to have been a serious business in ancient Egypt.

An archeological expedition of the Berlin museum has just returned from Egypt with 200 pieces of pottery, fragments of some 80 clay vessels, all written over with the names of foreign princes and peoples with whom the Egyptians of about 2000 B. C. were at war, together with a number of Egyptian names as well, presumably of rebellious communities. These names, it is believed, were inscribed on the vessels, which were then shattered with suitable ceremonials, in the belief that the foes would thereby be injured.

"Sweat of Your Brow"

This quotation does not appear in the Bible. The nearest thing to it is the following found in the third chapter of Genesis, nineteenth verse: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it was thou taken." Yet the great majority of people seem to think that "Ye shall earn thy bread by the sweat of the brow" is a Biblical saying. How the error got started nobody knows. It may have been suggested by Milton's phrase, "Let us go forth and resolutely dare with sweat of brow to toil our little day." At any rate, it has been employed by English writers for 250 years.—Exchange.

"Maru's" Proper Meaning

The Japanese embassy says that maru means, first, a sphere or circle, and, secondly, perfection, entirety, completeness. Expressive of perfection, it was formerly used as a suffix to the names of persons, sword masterpieces, etc., and to ships; but at present the last usage has become the common one. Thus the word maru, when used in conjunction with a proper name, may be said to designate a ship, it being the most popular suffix used in that connection.

This Editor Didn't Lie

An editor in Texas, says the Stillwater (Minn.) Gazette, has been accused on several occasions of not telling the truth in his newspaper.

In newspaper parlance his ire was roused and he announced:

"A lot of people in this town fall out with the editor and brand him a liar when the ordinary mistakes of life show up in the paper. You have a little charity and fellow-feeling for every man in town but the editor. You claim you want the facts and d——d if we don't give them to you. Read the next issue of this sheet and you will see facts with the bark off.

"I admit that I have been a liar, an editorial liar, ever since I have been editing this sheet, but I have never printed a lie in these columns except to keep somebody's feelings from being hurt. I am not afraid of any of you and I'll be dad-blamed if I don't print the truth from now on or until you get out of the habit of calling me a liar every time I make some unavoidable typographical errors. Now watch my smoke."

And here are some paragraphs of his "smoke" in the next issue:

"John Bennin, the laziest man in town, made a trip to Belleview yesterday.

"Rev. Sty preached last Sunday at the local church. His sermon was punk and uninteresting except some stuff he quoted from Bob Ingersoll, for which he failed to give Bob any credit. He also cited a few passages from William Gilbert Munsey's sermons and had the unlimited gall to palm it off as his own.

"Tom Spardin married Miss Caroline Meadows last trades day at the county seat. It wasn't generally known but the marriage was brought about mainly by a Remington shot-gun manipulated by the bride's father. Tom concluded that marrying was the best thing he could do until other arrangements could be made.

"Regan Lloyd, cashier of the State Bank at Willow Grove, died last Wednesday and was buried by the Odd Fellows at Pleasant Mound Cemetery. He had been taking this paper for several years and had not paid us a cent. We thought that being a banker he would certainly pay some time. We will sell his account for two bits' worth of groceries.

"Married—Miss Susie Scruggs and Horace Griffin. The bride is a very ordinary girl who flirts with every traveling man she meets and never helped her mother a day in her life all put together. She is anything but a beauty, resembling a gravel pit in the face and walks like a duck. The groom is a natural-born loafer and bum. He never did a lick of work until his stepdaddy ran him off from home last fall. He went to the county seat and accepted a job as chambermaid in a livery stable. As soon as his ma found out where he was she went up and got him and brought him home. They now reside at the home of the bride's father and he has no definite plans for the future. Susie will have a hard row to hoe."

MARYLAND MILK

Seventy-seven Per Cent of Samples Tested Graded Clean

"Cool your milk to a temperature of 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and keep it cold," is the advice of Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health, to all who handle milk in any way—dairymen, dealers and the housekeepers. Referring to the recent survey of the milk supply of 56 Maryland cities by the State Bureau of Food and Drugs, in cooperation with the American Child Health Association, Dr. Fulton summarized the findings as follows:

There is potentially a good supply available throughout the State;

The supply furnished to 22 of the cities and towns comes from tuberculin tested herds;

Seventy-seven per cent of the samples tested graded reasonably clean;

The average fat content of all of the samples tested was 4.1. In several instances milk containing less than 3.5 per cent of butter fat—the minimum legal requirement—was sold.

There was considerable carelessness in regard to cooling the milk. This was indicated from the fact that when the atmospheric temperature ranged from 26 to 95 degrees, the temperature of the samples tested ranged from 36 to 95 degrees.

The bacterial findings were satisfactory, over one-half the samples tested showed a low count.

In the 56 cities and towns surveyed, it was estimated that 74,729 gallons of milk were used daily. Of this amount, 66,411 gallons—88 per cent—are pasteurized. Of the milk used in Baltimore City, 98 per cent is pasteurized. In the other cities and towns covered in the survey about half of the supply—51 per cent—is pasteurized.

It was also estimated that 47,000 gallons of raw milk are used by people living on farms or in small towns or settlements not covered by the survey. In many of the places outside of Baltimore City, raw milk is the only kind available.

"Because milk constitutes such a necessary part of our diet," Dr. Fulton said, "it is of the utmost importance that every precaution be taken in producing and handling it. Produced from healthy herds, carefully handled, clean, promptly cooled, carefully covered, are essentials. Bacteria develop rapidly in warm milk. Now that the hot weather is here it is especially necessary that milk be cooled promptly, that plenty of ice be used both for cooling the milk and for keeping it cold after it reaches the consumer. Cool it to 50 degrees and keep it at that temperature. This applies to housekeepers as well as to producers."

ASSIGNEE'S SALE
—OF—
VALUABLE MILL PROPERTY
IN THE TOWN OF OAKLAND.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from William Z. Hendrickson and Effie Hendrickson, his wife, to James W. Thomas, dated the fifth day of November, 1917, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 73, folio 158, etc., one of the Mortgage Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred under the eovenants and conditions of the said mortgage, and the same having been by the eo-executors of James W. Thomas, now deceased, assigned to the undersigned for the purpose of foreclosure and eollection, I hereby give notice that I will on at the hour of eleven o'clock A. M., in front of the First National Bank, in the town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, proceed to sell at public auction the following described property, being the same by said mortgage conveyed, to-wit:

All that lot or parcel of ground lying and situated in Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, known as "The Rasche Mill Property," the same being known and designated as Lot No. 4 on the plat of the sub-division of the Rasche Mill Property filed in No. 670 Equity in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland. Said lot contains five acres, 2 rods and 6 perches of land, more or less, and being the same property which is fully described by metes, bounds, courses and distances in a deed from John W. Hart, Trustee, to John Felty, Jr., dated September 10, 1898, and recorded in Liber E. Z. Lesson for July 17

SAMUEL ANOINTS DAVID

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 16:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—Let no man despise thy youth, but be thou an example of the believers in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Shepherd Boy Chosen King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Plan for a Boy's Life.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why God Chose David.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Discovering Future Leaders.

I. Samuel Mourns for Saul (v. 1).

1. Why he mourned. The death ot Saul was, no doubt, a personal loss to Samuel, for Saul was a commanding and lovable personality. Then, too, the ruin of so promising a career would deeply affect Samuel. Finally the humiliation to God and God's people grieved his heart.

2. Excessive mourning rebuked. The fact that God had rejected Saul should have lifted Samuel out of his grief. Excessive grief over that which God does is a reflection upon Him and should be rebuked. When sorrow becomes a hindrance to the discharge of duty, it merits rebuke.

II. Samuel Sent to Anoint David (vv. 1-3).

1. Samuel's fear (v. 2). Perhaps by this time Saul was becoming a desperate character. Samuel still knew that if Saul should hear that he was taking steps to anoint a successor to the throne, his own life would be in danger. Samuel was wise in submitting this hard situation to the Lord. God's servants are to be brave. However, even when going on errands for God we should not court danger.

2. The Lord's direction (vv. 2, 3). The Lord smoothed the way for Samuel. He showed him how to perform his duty and escape the danger. Samuel was to take a heifer and announce that he was going to offer a sacrifice unto the Lord and to call Jesse to the sacrifice. The prophet was not told all that would happen. This is usually God's way with us. He gives us our work piece by piece, and guides us step by step. Samuel's purpose was known only to himself. It was to be kept a secret so that the news would not reach Saul. This was a shrewd device but entirely legitimate. We may conceal that which others have no right to know, especially when such a disclosure would be detrimental to the success of our mission. What Samuel said was true.

III. Samuel's Obedience (vv. 4-13).

1. The trembling elders of Bethlehem (vv. 4, 5).

Their unusual movement was an occasion for alarm. To the elders' alarming inquiry Samuel responded with the assurance of peace, inviting them to join him in worshiping the Lord.

2. Examination of Jesse's sons (vv. 6-12).

The Lord had revealed to Samuel that one of Jesse's sons was to be the new king, but not the particular one.

(1) Eliab rejected (vv. 6, 7).

Eliab was the eldest son and therefore he was the first presented as having first right to the place of honor. Furthermore, he was a splendid specimen of manhood, tall and majestic in appearance, so that even Samuel was captivated by him as he had been by Saul (10:24). Outward appearance is favorable, but the realities seen by God were against him. We frequently estimate men by their dress, cultural appearances, wealth and position. These are only surface manifestations and frequently lead us astray, but God looks into the heart.

(2) David chosen (vv. 8-12).

All but one of Jesse's sons had been looked upon, but still the Lord's choice had not appeared. Jesse's reply to Samuel's question as to whether all his children had appeared seems to imply that David was not of much importance. At any rate he was only a boy, while his brothers were already young men. He was considered good enough to watch the sheep, but not to be called to the feast. This is ever the way of man. He overlooks the very ones whom the Lord has chosen for places of honor and influence. Because David was faithful as a shepherd boy, he was in line for promotion when God's given time arrived.

3. David anointed (v. 13).

When the shepherd lad appeared, the Lord directed Samuel to anoint him. When the oil was applied the Spirit of the Lord came upon him. David was a gifted and attractive lad, but his gifts were of no avail without the Spirit of God. Only as we are anointed by the Holy Ghost can we truly do the Lord's will and work.

We Can Choose

We cannot tell what shall be on the morrow; but we can choose what we ourselves will be. We can resolve to live faithfully whatever betides. . . . We can walk with the bright angels, and wrestle with the dark ones, and oblige the flying hours to leave a blessing behind.—N. Y. Frothingham.

IF YOU SPIT AT HOME.

Several years ago the writer saw a sign sticking in the corridor of a public building. It read, "Gentlemen who expect to rate high, must not expectorate on the floor." In other words, if anybody expected to amount to something he shouldn't spit on the floor of public buildings. The meaning of that placard has stuck in his memory ever since.

Saturday night at the Maryland Theatre in Oakland two people were forced to move their seats because of the fact that someone who seemingly had never read a sign like that, or if he had done so, evidently didn't believe in them, was emitting a generous amount of liquid every time the film in the moving picture machine moved a hundred feet. Outside of the fact that it may have been a delightful mouthwash for him, it was decidedly unpleasant and not especially sanitary for the other occupants of the theatre.

Last month Oakland had a clean-up of all the premises and the town this month is much better off. But all the precautions taken in civic clean-ups can go for nought when actions like that recited above happen in public buildings.

APPEARANCES DECEIVE.

There is hardly a man (or woman) who has not at some time or other passed judgment upon another man, and is so firm in his conviction that nothing will change him. All the possible evidence that could be gathered points to the correctness of the judgment, and yet it is finally discovered to be wrong. That only leads to the old adage: "Appearances are deceiving."

Men have been convicted and sentenced to jail for crimes which they never committed. Finding the real culprits at some later date proved beyond doubt that although the sufferers seemed to have been guilty, they were not. When men meet other men, first appearances are said to count a lot, yet many times mistakes are made in the character of the people met.

Saturday morningquite acrowdwas gathered about a man at the corner of Second and Green streets in Oakland. He was apparently 60 years of age and was bent over in the middle of the pavement cleaning his teeth with water and a brush. It looked rather amusing at the time, as the man was entirely oblivious to the curious gazes of the people near him and seemingly never heard the giggles of the children as they stared at the scene.

Comments of people looking on would lead one to judge that the man was even beyond the stage of eccentricity. In other words, they figured that he was about ready for Sykesville. They thought they had all the facts of the case at hand and therefore passed judgment. But they left out the most important factor, which proved that they were wrong in their decision.

Upon investigation, it was discovered that the man was totally blind. He evidently had not been sightless for many months, for he was unsteady in his walk and did not seem to know directions. What had at first seemed a very amusing incident and had branded a man as a patient for Sykesville, now took on a different aspect. He was given the credit of having at least one good habit,—he kept his teeth clean, which is more than can be said of a lot of others.

Appearances count sometimes, but not always.

LIFE'S WORTH LIVING.

Chauncey M. Depew, ex-senator, railroad president, and lawyer, and called the "incurable optimist", on his ninety-third birthday, said "Life is worth living because I decided long ago to think that way."

In that one little speech, is a lesson that might well be emulated by other people, not only in Garrett county but all over the world. Life for him is what he makes it, and he decided long ago to make it worth while.

It is all in the attitude of mind that one takes. It may not be human nature to be contented, but one may as well try to be satisfied with a job that he knows is going to be his life's work, as to go around with a discouraged look on his face, wishing and dreaming for things which will only make him discontented.

All the pessimists in the world today have decided to be that way, and it is nothing but their own fault, they just can't help it now--but they could have done so at one time. If one makes up his mind that Garrett County is just as good if not a little better than other counties, it is going to be that way. It is all in the point of view.

TWILIGHT BASEBALL

The organization of a baseball cluh in Oakland may be successful or not, depending upon the co-operation of its individual members and between the members and the townspeople. It is the belief of The Republican that the townspeople will co-operate, if the team first shows that it is willing to practice hard and indulge in the game for the good, clean and wholesome sport that can be obtained from it.

In order to make the townspeople interested, the members of the club must themselves be very enthusiastic about it. The second part will then fall in naturally.

Everybody is interested in good, clean sportsmanship, and if this is the underlying idea of the organization of the club it will prosper.

Twilight baseball will not interfere with business, which is an asset to begin with, and if the other towns in the county will take the same position a competitive inter-county league may become a reality.

Mr. Sprague, Manager of the Local Creamery, In Replying to a Communication Which Appeared in the Issue of The Republican of July 7, Refers to Records In His Possession Showing the Growth of the Dairy Business in Garrett County and Incidentally Takes a Crack at the Railroads.

To the Editor of The Republican.

I was interested in the letter signed D. S. M. in your issue of July 7th, and upon reading it carefully I conclude that the writer refers to some time before I came to Garrett county.

He writes: "Many statements were quoted regarding dairying in Garrett county, some of which were true, others were misleading, if not entirely untrue, in fact."

Would it not have been proper for him to state which were untrue or misleading?

Upon looking over our test sheets, we find that the first sheet contains 33 tests, and the last 200, and we now receive double the amount of milk and six times the amount of cream that we did four years ago. Is it probable that the farmers are more interested in supporting a creamery than making a profit, as D. S. M. implies?

Some have said that their cows average over $20 per month and a number of checks given out at the last pay day for May's milk and cream were over $100; some over $200 and at least one over $300.

D. S. M. also writes: "If the farmers will only recall the many promises made to them in the past for better conditions and prices, they will not be misled by any future promises."

I cannot recall any promise made while I have been here that was not fulfilled, but perhaps D. S. M. refers to some time before I came to Garrett county, and have thought that my associates and acquaintances considered me a "man of my word."

It is reported that officials of the B. & O. Railroad Company are interested in having another creamery locate here, as it would benefit the farmers of this community. When has a railroad worked for the farmers along its line that it did not expect a much greater benefit to itself?

The price of transportation remains the same, even if the price of the commodity goes below the cost of production, so the railroad has nothing to lose unless a concern taking all its product to one destination should decide to use large motor trucks, which could not be as conveniently done where shipments are made in different directions; but the farmers' greatest trial is the cost of transportation caused by the demands of railroad men which brought about the passage of the Admonston law.

Respectfully yours,
GEO. D. SPRAGUE.

Farmers Pool Wool At Profit.

Eight thousand pounds of wool, pooled by some of the farmers of Garrett county, was sold yesterday to W. H. Smouse, of Oakland, for 41 cents per pound, according to County Agent J. L. McGlone. Sealed bids for the purchase of the wool were received at the County Agent's office and they were opened and read at ten o'clock, the name of the purchaser being announced shortly afterward.

Other bids and bidders were: J. D. Harvey, 41 cents; Abel DeWitt, 40¾ cents. There being a tie for the highest bid, the name of the successful one was determined by lot.

Farmers from Grantsville and the vicinity of Friendsville, who were also expected to bring in their wool to be pooled, will bring the total well over ten thousand pounds, Mr. McGlone thinks. Those who pooled their clip were from Ryan's Glade, Pleasant Valley, Shadydell, Sunnyside and Red House districts.

J. D. Harvey, of Ryan's Glade, was the father of the idea of pooling the wool, according to records in the office of the County Agent, and he started the co-operative work in 1923.

During the first year an increase of seven cents per pound was realized over previous years, with an increase of one cent per pound for lambs. Land values were increased 15 cents per acre.

The amount of wool pooled this season is much greater than in any former year.

DIED.

MRS. AMANDA MICHAEL.

Mrs. Amanda Michael, aged 74, widow of the late C. C. Michael, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Hipsley, Mountain Lake Park, on Friday, July 8th. She was born July 21, 1852, and would have been 75 years of age next Thursday. Funeral services were conducted at her home in the Park Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. Ronald Aspinall, pastor of the M. E. church at that place officiating. Interment was made in the Oakland cemetery, where are also interred the bodies of her late husband and a daughter. She is survived by two sons, Clarence Eugene, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and John, of Oakland, and by two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Bennett, Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mrs. George Hipsley, Mountain Lake Park. Mrs. Michael had been an invalid for several years.

MRS. GEORGE STAHL.

Mrs. George Stahl, former resident of near Gortner, died at the Allegany Hospital, Cumberland, this morning, in which institution she had been a patient for several weeks. Mrs. Stahl was aged 50 years and is survived by one son, Harry Stahl, of Oakland, and a daughter, Miss Mazie Stahl, of Keyser, with whom the father and mother had resided since early in the winter. Mrs. Stahl's remains will be brought to Oakland and taken thence to Red House for interment. Final arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

MRS. GEORGE H. HOCKING

Mrs. George H. Hocking, mother of Mrs. W. A. Sturgiss, Oakland, died at her home in Meyersdale, Pa., Friday, July 1, after an illness of several years.

The deceased was born in Eckhart, Md.; was a member of the First M. E. church since childhood, and sang in the Meyersdale church choir for more than twenty-five years.

Funeral services were held Sunday evening, the Rev. C. C. Fisher, officiating, assisted by Rev. Herman N. Beimfohr. Mrs. Hocking is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. W. A. Sturgiss, Oakland; Mrs. Sally Parsons, Beaver, Pa.; Mrs. Nan Seibert, Houston, Tex.; Miss Lulu Hocking and John Hocking, at home, and George Hocking, Cleveland, O., and five grandchildren; also by one sister and two brothers.

MILK AND CREAM PLANT MAY LOCATE IN OAKLAND

had been working on the project for more than a year, and in that time had visited almost every district of the county and upon one occasion had had a survey made of the dairying possibilities. He further stated that the survey as made proved to him and the interested dairy company that 2500 gallons of milk could be procured immediately.

Upon being questioned as to requirements, which his interested company would make he stated that most of the barns would have to undergo slight changes in arrangement, indicating that concrete floors would be required as would also sealed ceilings and more light and ventilation. He also said that the price of the product would be set by the Dealers' and Producers' Association, and in most cases is set two or three months in advance.

County Agent J. L. McGlone, who is the sponsor of the movement to procure the milk-cream station, addressed the assembled guests and was given the unanimous support of those present to further his activities.

Another dinner will be given at the Deer Park Hotel on Wednesday, August 17th, at which time the ladies will accompany their husbands and also representatives of the interested dairy company will be present to either locate here or make other arrangements.

A committee to arrange for the dinner on August 17th and to attend to any other incidental details in connection with the affair, was appointed and consists of the following: J. L. McGlone, chairman; H. V. Leighton, Harry Porter, J. A. DeWitt, S. J. Lichty, Benj. Knepp, Paul Friend, C. A. Ashby, W. W. Dawson and D. R. Sincell.

Among those present were: J. L. McGlone, John P. Dugan, J. E. Goulet, H. C. Sincell, Floyd Stahl, Byrne Teter, Paul Lineweaver, G. A. Dewitt, George D. Sprague, Benjamin Friend, W. W. Dawson, S. J. HONOLULU USED TO HAVE BUT TWO MAILS A MONTH

Now Steamers with 1200 or More Bags of Letters Dock Daily

"When I first went to Honolulu," said a resident of that city who is now in the States on a visit, "there were but two mails a month, the longer interval of waiting being three weeks. All over town, upon the approach of the steamer, one would hear the horns calling the stevedores to the dock. If on the street, friends would greet you with 'Better be getting home to write your letters," or 'I suppose you are looking for letters from home,'—and, by the way, in those days postage to and from the Islands was five cents.

"Now we have steamers coming to port almost every day, and often two or more times a day with their often from twelve to fourteen or eighteen hundred bags of mail. Eastern letters are generally enroute about eleven days, but with trains now crossing the continent in four and a half days and what with our splendid new steamer, the Malolo, which is to make the trip from San Francisco to Honolulu in four days, we hope to get Atlantic Coast mail within nine days. And now Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger have flown this same distance in one day, therefore in the near future we have every reason to expect transcontinental and Pacific airplane male to cover the distance from the Atlantic Coast to the Hawaiian Islands within three days.

"But as for daily news, we get that as soon as you do. All that is happening or has happened in the great cities of the East or in European countries, say on any one date and that you find in your morning paper and read as you sip your coffee at your breakfast table because of our time being six hours later we find in our morning paper delivered before our breakfast hour. In fact, if I am not mistaken, we get Oriental happenings sooner than you do.

"Moreover, we listen in on the radio to concerts, church services and notable addresses in the Coast and Eastern cities and elsewhere, and although not there just now, yet I feel sure that at the great reception given Lindbergh in Washington and elsewhere, every word he uttered was heard at Hawaii's powerful radio stations and broadcasted to all the Islands."

FORMER GARRETT COUNTY MAN NABBED FOR THEFT

Edward M. Gilpin, Native of District No. 1, Arrested in Parkersburg, West Va.

Charged with the larceny of articles from interstate shipments of baggage, covering a period of severay months, Edward M. Gilpin, 51 years of age, whose home is at 506 Woodside avenue, Cumberland, and who is a native of Swanton, this county, train baggageman of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was arrested at Parkersburg, West Va., Friday morning by Harry D. Schmidt, captain of police of the Parkersburg Division of the Baltimore and Ohio.

When arraigned before U. S. Commissioner J. E. Burk at Parkersburg Friday afternoon, Gilpin pleaded guilty, according to Captain Schmidt. He was committed to jail in default of $5,000 bond to await the action of the Federal grand jury at Wheeling, W. Va., in October.

Gilpin has been in the service of the Baltimore and Ohio for 27 years, and is well known in Oakland and at other points in Garrett county.

Among the articles alleged to have been stolen by Gilpin, on his regular train between Cumberland and Parkersburg and which have been recovered by Captains Schmidt and Chapman are jewelry and women's apparel valued at more than $400.

The case against Gilpin was investigated by Captains Schmidt and Chapman for the railroad company, following complaints, from time to time, from passengers, that their baggage had been robbed.

Hook—Friend—Miss Flossie Lucille Friend, a popular member of the graduating class of 1926 Friendsville High School, and also for one year a student in the State Normal School at Frostburg, and Mr. Paul Hook, a business school graduate, were quietly married by Rev. G. W. W. Amick at the Lutheran parsonage at Accident on Jully 4. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Friend. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hook, in honor of the newly-weds, served a delightful dinner at their home at which about fifty guests were present.

Mrs. Lawrence Fraley and daughters Margaret and Virginia, who have been visiting for the past two weeks in Cleveland, O., came to Pittsburgh on Sunday where they were met by Mr. Fraley, who returned to Oakland with them.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Morris Sincell, of Fairmont, W. Va., and Miss Cora Staley, of Frederick, Md., who were here visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell, a few days, motored to Fairmont Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. King and three children, of Holland, Mich., are here on a visit to relatives and friends. Mrs. King is a daughter of Mrs. D. E. Bolden while Mr. King is a son of Mr. Wm. F. King.

The Mountain View Hotel, which opened on July 3d, with a number of weekly guests from Pittsburgh and vicinity,is also serving special chicken dinner to automobile parties arriving in Oakland. Reservations may be made by phone or letter in advance.

Mr. William C. Donnelly, general supervisor of time service of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, with offices in Baltimore, spent the week-end at the Deer Park Hotel. Mr. Donnelly is a native of Cumberland and has been in the service of the railway company for a number of years.

Howard Sprague, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Sprague, of Oakland, who is stationed at Hampton Roads, Va., recently received an appointment to the conservatory of music of the U. S. Navy, for which branch of the service he passed a creditable examination.

BAND IS PROGRESSING; HAS SIXTEEN MEMBERS

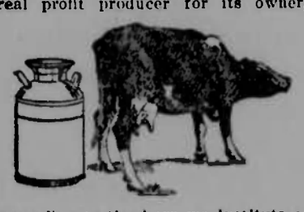
Four New Boys Added During the Past Two Weeks.

With the addition of four new members, the Oakland Boys' Band now consists of sixteen boys. The four new members are Harry Porter, Jr., Austin McRobie, George Kerins, Jr., and Irvin Broadwater. The new members have been assigned clarinets, cornet and alto.

"The band is still in need of about four more boys," stated R. R. Gilbert, director, "and those desiring to make application should do so at once so as not to delay those already practicing. Each time a new member is added to the band everyone must begin at the beginning again."

Although there are as yet no trombones in the band, he said, several of the boys have signified their desire of learning to play one, and it is understood that already one of the boys has sent for the slide.

The instruments now being used are three clarinets, two drums, one baritone, two saxophones, four cornets, two hours, one alto and one piccolo.



Practice is being held every Tuesday evening and practically every one of the boys have been diligent in their attendance and are very enthusiastic about it, said Mr. Gilbert. "As yet," he added, "we have not received any financial aid."

Kitzmiller Reunion.

On Monday, July 4th, a family reunion was held at the home of Joseph E. Kitzmiller, near Crellin. Those present included Mrs. Alice Thayer, son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Jordan and family, all of near Crellin; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Friend and family, all of Pleasant Valley; Messrs. Claude and Page Liller, Gormania; Mr. and Mrs. Bunyon Ashby and family, St. George; Mr. and Mrs. George Knotts and son, Eglon; R. R. Lewis and son, Bellaire, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Porter Jordan, Dodge; Messrs. Charles and Albert Kitzmiller, Woodlawn, Pa.; W. H. Kitzmiller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Harsh and two children, Eglon; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kitzmiller, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Asa Kitzmiller and family, Westernport. The day was spent in partaking of a picnic dinner, games and listening to music rendered by members of the Kitzmiller orchestra. All present report having had a splendid time.

The Resurrection of the Cow

Proper feeding will not only resurrect a dairy cow but will turn a cow fit only for the bologna factory, into a real profit producer for its owner, according to the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics. Next to feeding scrub cows the greatest mistake the dairyman can make is the scrub feeding of his good cows.

"The condition of some of the average cows on farms is almost unbelievable," the Institute quotes. "Instead of being in good flesh and condition, many of them are poor and scrawny. Their sides are sunk, their ribs plain enough to count and their bones stick out like sore thumbs. It is plain that their run down condition is the result of underfeeding. With proper care and good feed many of these cows could be turned into better than average dairy cows."

As an instance of how better care and feed will resurrect a dairy cow, the Institute cites the case of a typical cow under observation. At the time the test was made, this cow weighed 978 pounds and gave 30.2 pounds of milk, on a ratioa of corn cob meal and bran, together with silage and hay. This was changed to a ready mixed, well balanced feed, together with 30 pounds of good silage and 10 pounds of mixed hay, daily. The response of the cow to the new ration was nothing short of marvelous. In less than 10 weeks this cow weighed 1,122 pounds, a gain of 144 pounds, and had continued to increase in milk until she attained a daily production of 46.1 pounds. Equally splendid results have been secured with other cows in various stage of run-down condition.

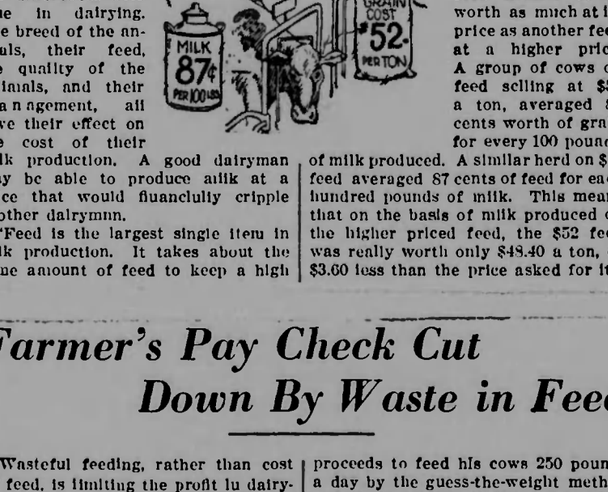
"Cow Capacity" Key to Success

"Cow Capacity" is what causes a cow getting ten pounds of grain a day to produce 35 pounds of milk, and another cow, under the same conditions and on exactly the same kind and amount of feed, to give only 20 pounds of milk, says the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics.

"Producing milk is not much different than producing shoes or any other commodity except that we have to deal with a living animal with a milk-producing ability that is more or less inherited," according to the Institute. "One shoemaker can turn out a pair of shoes to sell at five dollars while another cannot afford to sell them for less than seven dollars. There is a big difference in the production costs. Similar differences hold true in dairying. The breed of the animals, their feed, the quality of the animals, and their management, all have their effect on the cost of their milk production. A good dairyman may be able to produce milk at a price that would financially cripple another dairyman.

"Feed is the largest single item in milk production. It takes about the same amount of feed to keep a high producing dairy cow alive as it does to maintain a cow of limited production. A cow cannot turn out nutrients in the form of milk which she does not receive in her feed, and the big difference in the production of milk from individual cows lies in the kind of feed they are fed and the amount they are able to consume and convert into milk. A heavy producing cow can utilize a large amount of feed, while the small producer wastes it. It is this cow capacity that makes the large producer a more economical producer than the low producer.



"Many dairymen are misled by a false economy into buying 'cheap' feed for their herds," according to the Institute. "In most instances the cheap feed is not really worth as much at its price as another feed at a higher price. A group of cows on feed selling at $54 a ton, averaged 81 cents worth of grain for every 100 pounds of milk produced. A similar herd on $52 feed averaged 87 cents of feed for each hundred pounds of milk. This means that on the basis of milk produced on the higher priced feed, the $52 feed was really worth only $48.40 a ton, or $3.60 less than the price asked for it."

Farmer's Pay Check Cut Down By Waste in Feed

Wasteful feeding, rather than cost of feed, is limiting the profit in dairying and poultry raising, according to the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics. "Feed a good feed but don't waste it," is the slogan suggested for the dairyman or poultryman who would go forward in his business, rather than backwards.

"An investigation of the farmer's feeding problems has shown that there is a lamentable waste of good feed going on in nearly every barn in the country," the Institute states. "The same dairyman or poultryman who complains about a difference of five cents a sack between two feeds, will waste many times that amount through his methods of feeding.

"Here is a typical illustration. If a farmer is feeding 20 cows 10 pounds of food apiece a day, he requires 200 pounds of feed. And if feed costs him 2¾ cents per pound, his daily cost of feed is $5.50. But if instead of feeding each cow exactly 10 pounds per day, he guesses at the weight by the scoop-shovel methods, he is likely to give the 20 cows 250 pounds, or 12½ pounds apiece, and his feed bill becomes $6.87 instead of $5.50. Now, supposing that at this rate of cost the dairyman finds his operations are not sufficiently profitable, the first thought to come into his mind is to buy a cheaper feed. So instead of buying a feed that costs him $2.75 a sack, or $55.00 a ton, he buys a feed that costs only $2.25 or $45.00 a ton. He then proceeds to feed his cows 250 pounds a day by the guess-the-weight method and his feed bill is $5.62 per day. This is more than the good feed would have cost if properly used, and the cows, getting the lower grade of feed, fall off in milk production, so that the farmer can't save on the feed bill enough to overcome the loss on his milk check. This should prove to any dairyman that it is more profitable to feed 200 pounds of good feed at a daily cost of $5.50 and get $15.00 worth of milk, than to feed 250 pounds of cheaper grade at $5.62 and get only $10.00 or $12.00 worth of milk.

Farm accounts, accurately and carefully kept, are the only means the dairyman has to keep tab on his business, and will pay very good wages to those who keep them, according to the Institute. The dairyman or poultryman should aim to produce just as economically as possible so that even if he sells at a low price he can still make a fair income, but he cannot do this unless he knows what his actual costs are and the points where these may be shifted with a view of increasing production and decreasing labor and investment costs on each can of milk or dozen of eggs produced. Six farmers who, three years ago, started to lower costs by keeping simple cost records of their poultry, not only increased their egg yield by an average of 19 eggs per hen, but also increased each farmer's income $224.00 a year as pay for the time put in keeping records.

TRAINING AND PREPARATION NEEDED FOR EVERY WORTHWHILE ACHIEVEMENT

Telephone, Like Race Horse and Runner, Must Be Stripped For Action With All Parts Functioning Properly

Bottom (left)—The marathon runner was never encumbered with useless equipment. He was literally "stripped for action."

Top (right)—The modern telephone instrument, so indispensable to the business and social life of every community, functions best without useless appendages.

Bottom (right)—The telephone of today represents the best efforts of scientists and engineers.

Every worth-while achievement is dependent on forethought and preparation. The marathon runaer or the race horse must stand hard gruelling training; the expert automobile racer or airplane pilot must know that each part of his machiae will function properly at every stage of the game; all must be stripped for action, carrying only the essentials necessary to be first in the race.

Factors that apply to the runner, to the race horse, the automobile or the flying machine are comparable to the telephone.

The first telephone instrument was crude and poorly made, totally unlike the well-known telephone of today. The principle was right and this fact plus scieatific development and research has made the telephone the best known means of person-to-person communication in the world.

Engineers and scientists who have been responsible for the development of the telephone have discovered after long experience and much thought and labor that the equipment gives the best service when the various parts function as they were designed to do.

The telephone in one's office, or home, the switchboard, poles, wire or cable, or any part of the plant necessary to the operation of the telephone system is the best that engineering can devise. And when used as designed the best service will result, according to telephone officials.

Occasionally foreign attachments that are a real detriment to the service are added to telephone instruments by subscribers. Non-essential equipment such as "whisper phones," "holder phones," dust-proof mouth pieces and receiver caps which are said to eliminate noises, are among the principal attachments that cause trouble on telephone instruments.

Subscribers often complain of not being able to hear or that the people with whom they talk are unable to hear them satisfactorily. On investigation, telephone repairmen some times find these non-essential attachments and can readily trace the trouble to this source.

According to officials of the telephone compaay, "when a telephone is installed in one's office or home, the company furnishes all of the equipment necessary to the successful operation of good service."

"Telephone service in this country is the best in the world and nothing has done more to bring this about than the use of standard apparatus. The switchboard and associate equipment, cable, poles, wire and other outside plant represent the best efforts of engineers and scientists who have made the telephone industry their life-work.

"Subscribers may obtain the best telephone service by using only that equipment which the company provides. It is the safest aad best in the long run," officials state.

TELEPHONE DIRECTORIES ISSUED IN U. S. WOULD COVER DISTANCE LINDBERGH FLEW

30,000,000 Books, If Placed Length-wise, Would Reach From New York to Paris, With 1,000 Miles to Spare

If the 30,000,000 telephone directories issued nnnually by the Bell System were laid length-wise, they would span the distance over which Col. Charles Augustus Lindbergh flew in his plane, from New York to Paris and a thousand miles to spare, a distance that would reach on to Stockholm, by way of Berlin.

The average subscriber is, no doubt, more or less familiar with the fact that his action in picking up the receiver of his telephone automatically sets in motion part of the gigantic plant and large operating forces which the Bell System must necessarily maintain in order to furnish the high grade of service which it does. Probably few subscribers, however, have any conception of the magnitude of work involved in compiling, printing and distributing the telephone directories which aid them in securing prompt and efficient service on all calls.

In the Bell System there are about 2,000 different telephone directories published and new editions are released on an average of twice a year. This necessitates the printing of 30,000,000 copies annually, or aa average of more than one copy for each family in the United States. For these 30,000,000 copies of telephone directories over 80,000,000 pounds of paper and cover stock are required as well as vast quantities of printing ink and binding glue. The cost of the paper alone amounts to $3,500,000 while the total cost of publishing the telephone directories exceeds $12,500,000.

To haul the 40,000 tons of paper required for the directories from the mills to the print shops would require 1,600 freight cars, each having a capacity of 50,000 pounds. If made up into solid trains these would make 25 trains of 64 cars each. To deliver the directories after they have been printed would require 8,000 five-ton truck loads and several thousand men to deliver the books from the trucks to the subscriber.

There are 35,000,000 lines of listings in the subscriber and classified sections to be cared for during a period of one year and their arrangement and classification is a job of staggering proportions. The books vary in size from the smaller rural directories to those serving the large metropolitan areas. The latter are published in two volumes and contain in all more than 2,000 pages and over 1,000,000 listings. There are two sizes in general use—the two column book and those of three and four columns.

Facts About the Telephone

Aa average of 860,000 telephone calls a day are made in the city of Minneapolis.

Ahout 2,500,000 of a total of the 18,000,000 telephones in the United States are dial system telephones.

More thnn 71,000,000 completed telephone talks take place daily in the United States, over 68,000,000 being local exchange calls and more than 2,700,000 toll calls.

A public telephone has been installed on the summit of Fujiyama, the sacred mountain of Japan, at a height of 12,367 feet.

Milking Machine Must Be Kept Clean

The use of the milking machine to solve the labor problem has made more difficult for the dairyman the task of producing milk of sufficiently low bachteria content to meet city requirements, say specialists of the University of Maryland dairy department.

Milking machines have been in use since 1895, and in that time have demonstrated their efficiency and economy and, when properly cared for, their ability to produce milk of high quality. The milking machine, however, is easily neglected and when not kept clean may be responsible for high bacteria counts.

Experiments conducted by the Bureau of Dairying, United States Department of Agriculture, over a period of eight or ten years have shown most satisfactory results from the hot water method of cleaning milking machines.

Immediately after milking and while the machine is still attached to the system the teat cups and tubes are flushed out with luke warm water by dipping the cups into a pail of water and then raising them sufficiently to break the suction. The process should be repeated ten or twelve times.

This preliminary treatment should be followed by a similar one in which hot water and a good dairy washing powder are used. A brush should be used on the teat cups and milk tubes while rinsing. After this, clean hot water should be drawn through the machine.

The long tubing, teat cups and claw should next be detached from the pail (air tubes on inflation type machine should be plugged) and these parts should be immersed in water having a temperature of 170 degrees. The vessel containing the water should be covered and the parts allowed to remain until the next milking.

At least twice a week the entire machine should be taken apart, each part washed thoroughly with hot water and some good dairy washing powder and placed in a vessel of water at 170 degrees temperature. It will be necessary to clean the moisture from the trap and check valve in the head of the machine every day. The vacuum line should be cleaned once a week by drawing hot water containing washing powder through it, and if milk has been drawn into the vacuum line, it should be cleaned immediately after milking.

Another method, found satisfactory at the New York Experiment Station, consists in washing the machine as already described and then submerging the milk tubes, teat cups and claw, with cap detached, in a saturated salt solution to which has been added chloride of lime solution or one of the commercial chloramine solutions.

If home made chloride of lime is used, a quart of the clear solution to 20 gallons of saturated salt solution will be needed in the beginning and a pint added twice a week thereafter. It must be remembered that if the machine parts are not thoroughly cleaned before being put into the solution, the solution will soon become so contaminated as to be worthless.

Concrete Blocks Make a Good Milk House.

A milk house of concrete blocks is easy to construct, is permanent and will afford the necessary protection and meet all requirements for keeping milk under sanitary conditions, says R. W. Carpenter, specialist in farm engineering for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

"The house should be separated from the barn and should be located for convenience near the water supply or the ice house. For a house with inside dimensions 8 by 10 feet, 353 concrete blocks of the 8 by 16 inch size will be necessary for the walls. The floor, the cooling tank and the foundation can be built with 44 sacks of cement, four cubic yards of sand and five and one-half cubic yards of pebbles or crushed rock. This amount of material will permit the famer to mix concrete consisting of one part of cement to two and one-half of sand and four of pebbles for the foundation. For the floor he will use one part of cement to two of sand and four of pebbles. The tanks will require one part of cement to two of sand and three of pebbles. Only enough water for a workable mix should be used.

"For reinforcing the cooling tank, 137 feet of 3-8 inch rods will be required.

"The height of the milk cans must determine the depth of the tanks. It is desirable to have as much of the can submerged as possible. If ice is not available, the milk can be kept cool by circulating spring water thru the tank. The water should enter the tank by a pipe near the floor and leave by an overflow pipe near the top. If grooves are built in the floor, water will circulate under the cans and cooling of the milk will be hastened."

Send your Job Work to The Republican Commercial Printing Department—it will be done neatly, correctly and as promptly as in consistant with good workmanship.

How Much Do Your Letters Cost?

A LARGE concern, thinking that the average cost of their letters was about five or six cents, recently undertook a thorough investigation of the cost of their correspondence. They made the discovery that each letter represented an actual outlay of forty cents. This was comprised of the salaries of their stenographers, the cost of stationery and a pro-rate of the general expense of office maintenance.

They also determined that the average salary of the officers who dictated letters was $75.00 per week. Twenty minutes of this time, devoted to a carefully worded letter, was worth about 62c.

Added to the initial outlay, this was $1.02 per letter.

Their officials are now advised that on important business, it is worth while to bring personality into play, by face-to-face conversation over Long Distance. Less important business is still carried on by letter.

SHORTEST CORN CROP IN 26 YEARS IS PREDICTED

Large Crops of Sweet Potatoes and Beans Looked For.

The shortest corn crop in 26 years was indicated Monday by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., in its July crop report, which forecasts a production of 2,274,424,000 bushels. The figures are almost half a billion bushels below the averago production of the last five years.

"Crop prospects as a whole are far from promising," was the comment of the crop reporting board, in its review of conditions. "While it is still too early to forecast accurately the production of late sown crops, the present outlook is for a very short crop of fruit, for about average production of potatoes, wheat and feed grains other than corn; for rather large crops of beans and sweet potatoes, and for a record production of hay. Crop prospects are fairly good in the western states, but very unpromising in the eastern part of the corn belt.

"The area in crops this year shows a run of around seven million acres, or two per cent below the acreage in crops at this time last year."

Large shifts in the rellative acreage of the various crops were noted by the board, the largest including a two million acre increase in wheat.

Wheat Crop Increased.

This year's indicated total wheat crop was placed at 852,634,000 bushels, or about 22,000,000 bushels more than produced last year. Stocks of wheat on farms on July 1 were relatively low, being 27,339,000 bushels, compared with the five year average of 29,913,000 bushels.

An 11 per cent increase in the white potato acreage was noted, with all late potato states showing increases, and a total erop of 393,000,000 bushels was indicated. That is 37,000,000 bushels more than produced last year.

Very short crops of most fruits were indicated, with apples appearing likely to be the smallest crop in twenty years with the exception of 1921, and peaches at about two-thirds of last year's production.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Oak Lodge, No. 8, I. O. O. F., of Loch Lynn Heights, sent members to the reunion of Allegany and Garrett counties held last week in Frostburg. Three lodges in the county were represented at this reunion, they being Friendsville, Loch Lynn and Bloomington. The lodge at Loch Lynn boasts a Past Grand Master in the person of Albert T. White, who is now superintendent of the Odd Fellows' Home at Frederick.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Leighton motored to Fairmont, W. Va., Sunday where they spent the day with the home people of Mrs. Leighton.

Mrs. Rhoda David, of Sebring, Fla., arrived here Saturday evening and is a guest at the home of her brother, Mr. H. V. Leighton.

All the cottages have not yet been rented, but all the hotels and boarding houses seem to be full and the crowd on Sunday was a record breaker. The sermons were excellent.

A golf course is being talked of between here and Oakland, which would interest many, as golf has become a sport enticing many in other places within the past few years.

The time fixed for next year's camp meeting is June 28th to July 8th.

We are now having ideal weather, for which we are extremely thankful.

Mrs. List and daughter Miss Bessie List, who spend their winters in Florida, are here now and they expect to remain until fall. They say no climate is like this for a summer outing.

Rev. Joseph Smith preached a splendid sermon one day last week which he termed his birthday sermon when he began anew his Christian ministry here forty years ago following a continued illness.

From all points of the compass visitors are coming and staying from a few days to an indefinite period.

Mrs. Bolgiano and her charming children have arrived and are at their home in Loch Lynn Heights.

Mrs. C. S. Graef, of Chicago, Ill., is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Enlow.

Advertising Signs in Position.

Two signboards, six by fourteen feet each, which advertise Oakland as an ideal town, are now established on the National Highway, one being located east of Keyser's Ridge and one west of that point, according to Raymond Houck, chairman of the committee appointed by the Oakland Commercial Club at a meeting of that body held some time ago.

The signs were painted by Edward Wallace, local sign painter, and were placed in position on the highway one day last week. The number of miles to Oakland and other nearby towns, with a description of Deep Creek Lake, etc., are among the things set forth on the two signs.

MT. LAKE PARK CAMP ENDS WITH LARGE AUDIENCES

Crowd Estimated at Ten Thousand Present Last Sunday.

The annual camp meeting, which was held at Mountain Lake Park this year over a period of fifteen days, closed last Sunday evening, with a crowd estimated at ten thousand people in attendance. It was necessary to hold an overflow meeting in the amphitheatre, as had been done the preceding Sunday.

The camp meetings have been held annually for more than forty years, the present year witnessing the largest crowds in attendance than ever before. The meeting, until this year, was held for only ten days, but the present year the time was extended, because of the great interest being shown, it was stated by the management.

Ministers who spoke during the sessions were Henry Clay Morrison, Louisville, Ky., whom William Jennings Bryan called the greatest pulpit orator in the United States; Dr. Charles H. Babcoek, Los Angeles, Cal.; Dr. John F. Owens, Upland, Ind.; Dr. C. M. Dunaway, Decatur, Ga. Prof. and Mrs. Kenneth Wells, of Indianapolis, Ind., who returned for their fifth year, were the song leaders.

Other workers who helped to make the meeting what it was included Rev. Andy Dalbow, Wilmington, Del.; Rev. M. W. Castle, Wheeling, W. Va.; Miss Minnie Shay, Baltimore, who had charge of the children's work; Mrs. Tillie Albright, Canton, Ohio. Officers of the association are C. M. Hood, president; Dr. Daniel Westfall, secretary; C. A. Lovejoy, Wilmore, Ky.; vice-president, and J. P. Bohlander, treasurer.

To Concrete Highway.

Sealed bids for the construction of one and one-half miles of concrete road to be laid on the graded proposed road leading from Friendsville toward the Pennsylvania State line to connect at some point in the Keystone State with the National Highway near Addison, Pa., are now being asked by the Maryland State Roads Commission, Baltimore, according to an advertisement appearing in The Republican today.

The proposed road is about six miles long, and according to County Commissioner George D. Browning, it has been graded for about one-half the distance.

When this road is completed the people of Friendsville and of the section bordering on Blooming Rose, will have a much nearer outlet to the National Highway and points along that road.

"MUST SELL YOURSELVES" BURRUSS TELLS ROTARIANS

Inspirational Sales Counsellor Spoke Before Oakland Rotary Club Friday Evening.

"Everyone is a salesman and must sell himself to other people," stated W. B. Burruss, inspirational sales counsellor, in a talk given before the Oakland Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the William-James Hotel last Friday evening. The first salesman ever to put in an appearance was William Shakespeare, according to Mr. Burruss.

Mr. Burruss, who lives in Kansas City, Missouri, and Washington, D. C., also ha-sa summer home on the road from Oakland to Table Rock, near Mason school house, called "Love Nest," and has invited the members of the Rotary Club to hold one of their next two meetings at his home. Mrs. Burruss and daughter were also present at the meeting last Friday evening, who, with the speaker, were the honor guests of the organization. The address of Mr. Burruss was an exceptionally telling one and was listened to attentively by all present.

Mr. Burruss took as his topic "Shakespeare as a Salesman." He first showed how the doctor, the business man, the professional man, in fact everybody, had to sell his service and be his own salesman. Everything that one did was part of his salesmanship and it was up to each individual whether he sold himself or not. He took Brutus, Caesar and Marc Anthony as examples of the high quality of salesmanship. When Brutus gave his speech defending his killing of Caesar in the market place he was selling himself and his idea to the people. And when Marc Anthony got up and delivered his speech over [illegible] Caesar, selling Brutus and Garship was taken from the point in Anthony's oration when he said, "Pause a minute." Mr. Burruss said that a pause in the process of salesmanship was necessary also, so that the other fellow would have a chance to have his say. Too many people failed, he said, by never allowing the other fellow to get in a word. Application of the principles of honesty, patience, etc., were also taken from the orations of these two ancient Romans.

Other features of the evening's entertainment were several selections by the Male Quartet of Oakland, composed of Messrs. Wade Hinebaugh, Cecil Smith, Walter Dawson and Jesse J. Ashby, with Bill Gibson at the piano.

CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP DAY, SUNDAY, AUGUST 7.

Services To Be Held Under Auspices of Lord's Day Alliance

Christian Citizenship Day, under the auspices of the Lord's Day Alliance of Maryland, will be observed at Mt. Lake Park, Sunday, August 7th, according to an announcement made by W. W. Davis, general secretary of the society.

Addresses by Dr. Davis, Mr. Henry S. Dulaney, of Baltimore and by local people will feature the meeting. Mr. Dulaney has consented to hold a 30-minute conference for individual questions immediately after the afternoon platform meeting.

"Vision, a Prerequisite to Achievement," will be the subject of a sermon by Mr. Davis at 11:00 o'clock. At 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. Dulaney will speak on "Taking God at His Word." Pastors and Sunday school superintendents are requested to send to this conference one delegate for every twenty-five members of his church or Sunday school.

In the evening there will be three addresses: "The Pulpit and Lord's Day Alliance," by Dr. Archibald Moore, of Oakland; "The Home and Lord's Day Alliance," by Mrs. W. W. Grant, Oakland; "The Pew and Lord's Day Alliance," by George W. Diefenbach, Grantsville.

David Roberts, the Congressional Library, Washington, D. C., the Welch composer and soloist, will have charge of the music during the day and will sing some of his own compositions. The Crellin Boys' Band will give two concerts, one at 2:30 and one at 7:30 p. m.

The local committee is composed of E. R. Jones, H. V. Leighton, Dr. Archibald Moore, Rev. Charles A. Shilke, Rev. F. L. Fultz and Rev. Rowland Aspinall.

4-H CAMPERS RETURN TO THEIR HOMES IN COUNTY

Garrett Will Have Two Representatives in National Camp

Garrett county 4-H girls, numbering fifteen, who were camping at the Girls' Friendly Inn on the banks of the Casselman River, just east of Grantsville, during all of last week, were brought back to Oakland Saturday morning through the courtesy of Oakland's Rotary membership. A full week's outing with lessons in felt and basketry was enjoyed by all, according to those who were present in the camp, which was in charge of Miss Brown, of Oakland, and Miss Bean, of Cumberland. Miss King, of the public health service, also spent a night in the camp.

Dorothy Stevenson, Mountain Lake Park, will attend the National 4-H camp at Springfield, Mass., about the middle of September, she being the best all-round Garrett county girl in the local camp. Dorothy Welch, of Swanton district, now residing at the Park, will also attend the National camp, due to honors previously won. Miss Welch did not attend the camp this year.

Miss Stevenson will also have part of her expenses paid to the Junior Short Course to be held at College Park in August because of honors won last week. "Quite a few of the girls expect to attend this short course," said Miss Kathrine Brown, acting home demonstration agent, "but the names of all are not yet known."

Those who were in camp and returned Saturday morning were: Nina Sweitzer and Clara Baker, Swanton; Mary Martha Miller, Olive VanGilder and Ruby E. Dahlgren, Grantsville; Rebecca Browning, Frances Thrasher and Lola King, Deer Park; Mary Frances Yutzy, Virginia Gilbert, Mildred Stemple, Bernadine Canty and Thelma Wolfe, Oakland; Dorothy Ste-

IN WEEK, DR. GRANT SAYS

$175.50 Now In Hands of the Soliciting Committee

The total amount of funds now in the hands of the soliciting committee for the erection of permanent barracks and a dining hall for the local troop of Boy Scouts, is $175.50, Dr. W. W. Grant, chairman of the committee, said today. "I feel sure that the rest will be forthcoming before the first of next week," he prophesied. Only $24.50 more is needed to complete the fund.

Work upon the dining hall and barracks has progressed materially, according to Harland L. Jones, who is in charge of that department of the work. The metal roofing material has been ordered, all the post holes have been dug and much lumber is already on the ground, he reported. The underbrush was cleared away last week by a group of ten Scouts under the direction of Rev. Paul Linaweaver.

"When all the material has been gathered, it will take but very little time to construct the buildings," Mr. Jones said. "They will probably be completed by the end of next week."

The first week in August is now being considered as the time in which the Scouts will go on their annual camping trip.

Fire Demolishes Engine Cab.

Fire, resulting from an overheated fire box, almost entirely consumed the cab on the locomotive which is now being operated by the Browning Lumber company, last evening about 8:15 o'clock, one mile west of town. The engine was formerly used by the General Construction corporation in the construction of Deep Creek Dam.

The Oakland Fire department responded to the call and extinguished the blaze by the use of the chemical wagon. About $100 damage resulted, which is covered by insurance. Frank Browning, of Oakland, operates the engine over the road and stated that it was his opinion that there was too much fire in the fire box, which blowing out from under the grates, ignited oil and grease about the engine which in a short time found its way to the wooden cab. The locomotive was standing along the track for the night and was not attended by its operator at the time of the blaze.

Ice Pick Punctures Child's Eye.

Beulah Virginia Kahl, aged about five years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Kahl, had an ice pick plunged into her eye by her little brother Tuesday evening. The child was attended by Dr. McComa

It is thought that her sight will not be impaired.

Attorneys To Observe Vacation Period Again This Year.

As has been customary for the past several years, at a meeting of the Oakland attorneys held this morning it was decided by them to observe a half-day vacation period from next Monday, July 25th, to and including August 13th.

During this time the various attorneys will be in their offices each week-day morning and until noon, but the offices will be closed after twelve o'clock. An exception is made in the case of criminal matters demanding the attention of the State's Attorney and other attorneys and these will be given attention whenever necessary.

The several attorneys request that those having business to transact with them during this period endeavor to see them and have said business attended to during the morning hours.

Hoye Home Near Oakland Again Raided By Revenue Agents

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoye, located a mile west of Oakland on a part of the old Charles Shaffer farm, was again raided by Federal Officers Jack, Stotler and Barr and Sheriff W. D. Casteel early yesterday morning. Seventy bottles of home brew were found an ddestroyed and the parties arrested.

A former raid about July 1 was made by the same officers at which time thirty gallons of mash was found on the premises which was destroyed.

Young Girl Seriously Injured In Fall from Horse's Back.

Nora, ten-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kahl, of near Accident, had her elbow joint disarticulated last Friday when she fell from a horse, th eanimal treading upon her arm and almost completely crushing it. Dr. R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, attended the child immediately after the occurrence and she was then taken to the Western Maryland Hospital, in Cumberland, where, it is said, her condition is satisfactory.

Arrested and Fined For Carrying Concealed Weapons

J. R. Murphy, from West Virginia, was arrested last Thursday evening by Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith when it was discovered that he was carrying a concealed weapon upon his person. He was given a hearing before Justice Gonder on Friday morning who fined him $25 and costs, which he paid and was dismissed. Deputy Griffith was in the act of making an investigation of the contents of a Ford car which the man was driving and evidently becoming frightened the man threw the revolver across the street. "It's a great wonder the gun did not explode," said the officer.

MAY SAVE SIGHT OF MAN STRUCK IN EYE BY BULLET

Elwood Markley, 29, Accidentally Shot In Face by J. Frank Browning Tuesday Afternoon

The sight of Elwood Markley, 29 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Markley, of Sines, nine miles west of Oakland, who was struck above his left eye on Tuesday by a bullet fired from a .22 calibre pistol, and who was immediately taken to the Allegany hospital, Cumberland, may be saved, it is said by hospital authorities.

The injured man was accompanied to Cumberland by Frank Browning, who is employed at lumber operation near Swallow Falls, and who was shooting at a target when the bullet struck his friend.

The men, according to a statement made by their employer, were eating their lunch and after having finished their noon-day meal Mr. Browning was firing at a target when the pistol was accidentally discharged, the bullet, after glancing at least three times after having struck that many rocks in its course struck Markley above his left eye. Dr. Sharretts, of the Cumberland hospital, had x-ray pictures of the man's head made to locate the leaden pellet, which was found to be lodged back of the left eyeball. The bullet will not be removed.

CREATING DISTURBANCE CAUSES MAN'S DETENTION

James Conneway Acts Queerly on Street and Was Placed in Jail for Mental Examination

Creating a disturbance on Second street in Oakland by dancing and the performance of other queer antics, caused the arrest of James Conneway, farmer, of near Red House, early on Monday morning by Sheriff Wm. D. Casteel and Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith. He was taken before Justice W. A. Gonder, who ordered that he be held in the County Jail pending an examination into his mentality and whether or not he was a resident of Maryland or of West Virginia.

Mr. Conneway is about sixty years of age and when taken in charge by the officers was emerging from the Garrett National Bank building where it is said he went to consult an attorney. He wore no coat and carried in his hands a piece of an automobile spring and a small black bag. At the request of several small children who had followed the unfortunate man for some time, he began to dance a jig in front of the building when the officers stopped him.

At the hearing before Justice Gonder he acted very queerly, answering questions put to him and in turn asking himself other questions and answering them immediately. He had a memorandum upon his person which contained an outline of exactly what he had to do and when to do it for two or three days. According to Justice Gonder the hour for his arising was stated upon the card as well as whom he was to see during the day.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater, Oakland physician, was present at the examination, and after asking a few questions considered that the man was probably harmless but nevertheless unbalanced.

The man is remembered by many as having been seen about Oakland and vicinity for a number of years, but according to Dr. Broadwater his condition at this time seems to be worse than previously. It was learned Tuesday that the man was a resident of West Virginia and was therefore released on condition that he remain in that State. He was seen in Oakland, however, this morning.

Negro Boy Taken Back to Virginia Reform School.

William Evans alias William Clifford, a colored boy about 20 years of age, who was arrested Sunday, July 3, at Mountain Lake Park by Sheriff W. D. Casteel on a disorderly charge, and who stated at the time that he was an escaped convict from the reform school for Negroes at Woodstock, Va., having been sent to that institution on a charge of theft, was called for on Tuesday morning by a colored deputy sheriff from Hanover, Va., who relieved the local authorities of their charge, taking Evans back to the Virginia institution from whence he escaped. Evans was said to have been raising quite a disturbance when he was rounded up two weeks ago, the charge against him being one of disorder and molesting a number of white women at the Park.

CAR RUNS WILD AND GOES THROUGH OAK ST. FENCE

Wrecking Porch at Residence of Joseph Wolfe, Thursday

Damage estimated at $100 was done the home property of Joseph Wolfe, on Oak street, last Thursday when Melville Cochrane, of Clarksburg, W. Va., who is spending the summer at Mountain Lake Park, unavoidably ran his car, a Diana Eight, through the fence and up on the porch, smashing several chairs, a porch swing, a window and window sill and three wooden pillars supporting the porch roof.

The car driven by Mr. Cochrane, who is a retired Army officer, had evidently gone off the edge of the concrete, according to eye witnesses, and in turning back in an effort to gain the roadway the car swerved and under power turned sharply to the left, shooting across the street, over the gutter and pavement fronting the residence and on to the porch with results above recorded.

Instead of applying the brake, as was his intention, Capt. Cochrane said that he inadvertently stepped on the accelerator. The roadway was wet at the time, which fact did not retard the progress of the car.

In payment of the damage sustained by Mr. Wolfe, Capt. Cochrane made a satisfactory settlement. Fortunately no one was injured and the car was only slightly damaged.

1,000 GALLONS OF MASH AND LARGE STILL FOUND

Federal and County Officers Raid Wednesday, Arresting Seven Men and Women

One thousand gallons of corn and prune mash was confiscated yesterday afternoon by Federal Officers Stotler, Jack, and Barr, Constable A. Shartzer and Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith, when a still was raided about eight and one-half miles northwest of Oakland.

Seven people were arrested by the officers and brought to Oakland yesterday afternoon and given a hearing before W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace, who held them for court under $500 bond each. Bond for each was provided. Those arrested were Minerva Mayle, Belva Mayle, Carter Mayle, Carrie Minard, Steve Minard, Wardon Kennedy and Lulu Barnes.

Besides the 1,000 gallons of mash, one 60-gallon still was seized, one pump, two oxygen tanks, two gasoline burners, one coal oil heater, and one .32 calibre rifle. These were all brought in and placed in the basement of the county jail.

The cars of those arrested bore West Virginia licenses, and upon giving bond, the violators returned to their place of residence. Their residence was nothing more than an old shack, according to Deputy Griffith, with the whole upstairs compartments being used as a still storage room. It was in these rooms that the mash was found. The still was discovered in the dense underbrush near the house.

RYAN'S GLADE FARMER KICKED BY HIS HORSE

Scott Harvey Suffered Serious and Painful Injury Thursday.

Scott Harvey, a prominent farmer of the Ryan's Glade community, had his chest severely crushed last Thursday afternoon when a horse which he was tending in his stable kicked him. Several of Mr. Harvey's ribs were broken and it was feared at the time that he would not survive. Later reports, however, indicate that he is improving and will recover. He was attended by Dr. H. W. McComas, of Oakland.

CREAMERY MANAGER INHERITS $12,553.

A special to The Republican from New York this morning says:

George D. Sprague, of Oakland, Md., will receive $12,553 from the estate of the late Mary E. Requa, which was appraised here yesterday n the office of the State Transfer Tax Department, showing a net value of $53,242. Mrs. Requa died November 29, 1926.

Mr. Sprague is manager of the Oakland Creamery Company and when an interview was sought with him concerning his good fortune he merely stated: "Yes, I knew Mrs. Requa; I haven't received any money, however."

INJURED WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE WAS KIDNAPED

Mrs. Edward Swartz, Scottdale, (Pa.) Found Unconscious Friday Along State Road

Suffering from a fracture of the skull, sustained when she was thrown from a speeding car by her kidnapers a ta point on the Grantsville-Meyersdale highway, about three miles from the Stone House farm, Mrs. Edward L. Swartz, 35, of Scottdale, Pa., who has been in the Miners' Hospital at Frostburg since Saturday Morning, yesterday morning became sufficiently improved to tell her story of the affair. The blow has apparently clouded her memory as she has not been able to give officers a very coherent account of the attack.

Sheriff W. D. Casteel was called early Thursday morning and advised of the mishap, which occurred about one mile from the Pennsylvania State line in Garrett county. Two diamond rings and money are said to have been stolen, which is believed by the authorities to be the chief cause of the attack.

With her husband, who is a barber of Scottdale, Pa., at her bedside, Mrs. Swartz told the following story:

"I had just left our home in Scottdale, on my way to the railroad station when I felt someone grab my shoulders. I tried to jerk away but the man or men who held me began to choke me. Then I felt myself being dragged into an auto. I tried to scream, but the fingers about my throat pressed tighter, and everything went black just as the automobile began to move."

The woman does not remember being beaten. Sheriff Casteel and Sergt. George P. Gearhart, of the state police, who are investigating the case, plan to question the woman further later in the week when she will be sufficiently recovered to undergo a thorough investigation.

It was at first thought that the woman was refusing to talk, in order to shield the driver of the car from which she either fell or was thrown. Her husband has been at her bedside ever since he was advised by hospital authorities of the accident. They were married in 1912, the husband said, and have a fourteen year old son. He said that they had been happily wedded.

SEVENTH-INNING RALLY WINS FOR OAKLAND CLUB

Gilmor Hamill, with Three-Bagger, Makes Victory Possible.

A seventh inning rally, in which Gilmor Hamill knocked a three-base hit with two men on base, was the cause of the downfall of Camp Terra Alta Tuesday evening, who, up until the end of the inning, led by 2 to 1 score. The final score was 3-2, with Oakland on the long end of the count. The game was played on the old Oakland Hotel grounds, where the baseball diamond has been somewhat repaired.

Those who played for Oakland were Gilmor Hamill, Robert Hoffman, John Wolfe, Lew Hanst, John Weber, Jaime Guardiola, Eugene Carney, Harold Yutzy, and George Hanst. Runs were scored by Guardiola, Carney and G. Hanst.

A return game at Lake Terra Alta will be played tomorrow evening, John Wolfe, captain, said today.

Diamond Repaired

Saturday and Monday evenings were spent "skinning" the base lines of the infield and erecting a backstop, the captain stated. The material for the backstop and three balls has put the team in debt to the extent of about ten dollars, but more than four dollars of this will be paid off from the proceeds of the game on Tuesday, according to the treasurer.

The team expects to play two games each week—one at home and one away. Deer Park, which was not mentioned in last week's Republican as having a nine, has requested that they be allowed to enter the league. "The more the merrier," Manager Wolfe said, when he learned of the request.

Husbandry Expert To Visit Garrett County.

R. A. Clarke, animal husbandry specialist from the University of Maryland, will visit various sections of Garrett county during the week of July 25, according to J. L. McGlone, County Agent. Mr. Clarke's visit will be in the interest of beef cattle and sheep.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation for the kindnes and sympathy shown us during the illness and after the death of our wife and mother, Mrs. Edith Stahl. We especially wish to thank those who donated the use of their cars at the funeral and for the floral tributes.

Three Russians Injured in Auto Wreck

About 5:30 o'clock last Thursday evening, on the National Highway at Shade Mills, immedaitely in front of the home of William Turner a large Jordan roadster was wrecked by a collision with a telephone pole. The car overturned and seriously injured the three occupants, who, it is claimed, are Russians from Morgantown, W. Va. They were extricated from the wreck by Prof. M. W. Whiteford, who is managing Mr. Turner's farm during his absence in the west, and several other men standing nearby, and immediately removed them to a hospital in Meyersdale, Pa. It is reported that one man had a fracture of the temple and that the others were not seriously injured. However, later information seems to indicate that all were more or less seriously hurt. The machine was traveling east at a terrific speed and for some reason the driver failed to keep it in the road. The impact with the pole was so great that it broke off beneath the ground and brought the cross-arms on the top of the pole down also. The machine, following its striking of the telephone pole stopped on top of a fence seventy-five feet beyond the point, it being upside down and entirely demolished. The impact was severe enough to throw the front axle entirely clear of the car and burst both front tires. The demolition of the machine was complete. It is very probable that the series of serpentine curves at this point confused the operator of the car who probably was not familiar with the road.

Trimmed a Cadillac.

On Monday evening while traveling east through town, near the Lutheran church, William J. Wright attempted to pass another car. The operator of the latter car was working at a tire on the left side of the machine and somewhat obstructed the road. Mr. Wright attempted to pass and gave him plenty of room, but in doing so failed to properly estimate the speed of an oncoming machine, resulting in his not being able to get to the right side of the road in time, when the two machine came in collision, resulting in a badly damaged front fender and the complete destruction of the running board and rear fender of a new Cadillac. The damage to Mr. Wright's Ford was a broken hub cap. Mr. Wright acknowledged being in the wrong and made an immediate settlement with the owner of the large car.

Child Injured.

Last Wednesday, while playing on a porch swing, Edison, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Durst, of near Mt. Nebo, fell to the ground, severely sprining his arm. It was thought to be broken but an examination at the Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, by Dr. J. C. Cobey, revealed a sprain. The injured arm was bandaged which is now much better.

Resigned as Traffic Patrolman.

Victor B. Glessner, who for three years has been a traffic policeman on the State highway through Brothers Valley Township in Somerset county, Pa., the main highway leading north from the National Highway to Lake Erie, resigned one day last week. The officer had been under fire for over a year, for, it is claimed, being overofficious in the discharge of his duties as patrolman. This leaves the road open without a local man to make arrests, just as other portions of the road have been, and now are. Much favorable comment has been expressed that this section of the road has been freed from a local authority and left to be looked after by the State constabulary, just as other portions of the State are. The drive from Oakland to Johnstown, Pa., over this route is a most beautiful one, all of the road being in excellent condition, the numerous grades easy and with scenery that cannot be equaled.

Hetrick-Bittinger.

Irvin Hetrick, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hetrick, of near Bittinger, and Miss Mae Bittinger, a daughter of Mr. Harvey Bittinger, of near Jennings, Garrett county, were quietly married last Saturday evening. Mr. Hetrick is employed at Listonburg, Pa., and Mrs. Hetrick was employed at the Victoria Hotel here.

Grantsville Boy Making Good.

The Industrial Committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday announced that after negotiations covering a period of two months, it has succeeded in bringing to Johnstown a new industry for the manufacture of paper boxes. A lease has been signed for the third floor of the Fearl building, Railroad street, by the Friendly City Box Company, and it is expected the plant will be in operation about August 1st. H. H. Yost is president and general manager of the company, which for a number of years has been doing business at Connellsville as the Connellsville Box Company. The machinery will be removed from the Connellsville plant to that to be established here and the Connellsville plant will be abandoned, which led the management to decide on the name by which the company will be known henceforth. A working force of approximately 20 will be employed at the outset, according to an announcement, and the output of the company will be increased to include a more varied line of boxes. The products of the compnny at the Connellsville plant have been known as setup boxes, with a lid that is used by candy and cigar companies. Now, besides continuing to serve the companies wanting the setup type boxes, the Friendly City Box company plans to manufacture folding pastry boxes and those used to pack suits. In its location on Railroad street the company will have upward of 4,000 square feet to devote to the manufacturing of the boxes. New machinery to augment that being brought here from the Connellsville site has been contracted for. Johnstown is regarded as an unusually good location for this type of industry because of its distribution facilities over a wide territory. —Johnstown Tribune.

Homer H. Yost, president and general manager of the company above referred to is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Yost, residing in Maple Grove, near here. Following Mr. Yost's discharge from the military service in 1919, he served a short time with the Meyersdale Republican; then purchased the Meyersdale Box Factory and operated it there about a year; he then moved to Connellsville and operated on a much larger scale, making quite a success of the undertaking and built up a very substantial business.

Bus Line Changes Hands.

On Sunday morning the Old Trails Buses were replaced by those of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and are now operating from Frostburg through here to Uniontown, Pa. and Oakland. The Blue Ridge is a subsidiary of the American Water Works Corporation. The Old Trails Bus line has been operating since 1922, having at the time of retirement four buses on their schedule. It is reported that the sale was made to the advantage of the Old Trails line. The officers of the Old Trails line are, J. C. Panzera, Uniontown, Pa., president, and John Engle, Frostburg, general manager. Mr. Engle is a native of Garrett county, a son of the late Ralph Engle of Englewood. Mr. Engle's plans for the future are not known.

Ladies Aid Meeting.

The members of the Reformed Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Noah Warnick last Thursday in an all day business meeting and quilting. Besides completing the quilt, several garments were made. At noon, Mrs. Warnick served an excellent repast.

Entertains At Bridge

Mrs. Annie E. Getty entertained a group of friends at a bridge luncheon in her home last Friday noon. Those attending were: Mrs. Allie Getty and Mrs. Bruce Lichty, Meyersdale, Pa.; Mrs. J. W. McCullough and Mrs. Mason, Friendsville; Miss Annie Birmingham, Cumberland; and Misses Margaret and Mary Dorsey. Prizes were presented to Mrs. Allie Getty, and Mrs. Mason.

Minor Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Swartzentruber, Wellman, Iowa, are spending a month here, the guests of Mrs. Anna Miller and other friends and relatives.

The families of Messrs. S. M. Yoder, H. S. Yoder, Norman Bender, and J. B. Miller are convalescing from an epidemic of measles.

Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Broadwater returned to their home in West Haven, Conn., following a week's visit here with Dr. Broadwater's mother, Mrs. Marian Broadwater.

Mr. Fred. Warr and family spent last week here as the guests of J. J. Bender.

Mrs. Ella B. Keller and daughter Ruth have returned from Atlantic City, where they spent several weeks.

Joseph Keefe and family, of Clinchburg, Va., are spending their vacation here, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Wiley, near Bittinger.

Mrs. Beatrice Endsley has returned home after a week's stay with friends at Mountain Lake Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith, of Everett, Pa., spent the week-end here with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Baker.

Frank J. Folk will spend several weeks with George Folk at Boswell, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Durst spent Sunday with their daughter at Boswell, Pa.

Mrs. Ray Wilson and children, of New Castle, Pa., are visiting Mr. Charles Edwards at this place this week.

Emmons Younkin, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., is spending his vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Younkin.

The thirty-... Annual ... L. A. Rudisill, who was secretary for thirty-three consecutive years, declined re-election on account of ill health. The following was adopted by a rising vote of the property owners present at the meeting:

RESOLVED, That we hereby express our hearty thanks and appreciation to the Rev. L. A. Rudisill for his long and faithful service as Secretary of this corporation.

The Community of Mountain Lake Park was organized July 18, 1880. The charter members were: Rev. C. W. Baldwin, J. B. Vanmeter, S. L. Allen, J. F. Goucher, Sarah C. Harris, Rev. John Thompson, H. H. Vanmeter, J. M. Davis, C. P. Masden, H. A. Bowman, C. W. Conner, Sallie O. Dawson, George I. Richardson, Jennie Smith, Miss E. B. Swan, H. C. Sharp, Fannie E. Sperry, D. E. Offutt. The first officers were: President, J. F. Goucher; secretary, J. M. Davis; treasurer, D. E. Offutt; annual committee, S. L. Allen, George I. Richardson, J. M. Davis and George C. Sturgiss. None of these officials are living today. Of the charter members only Rev. Dr. Baldwin and Mrs. A. R. Sperry survive. Dr. Baldwin is the only member of the early days of the Park Association living today.

June 18, 1889, the taxable basis of the Community was $78,512.00; today it is over $500,000.00.

At the meeting on the 13th inst. the annual committee was instructed to keep the camp ground and the surroundings at Crystal Spring clean and attractive. This action was taken in view of the fact that picnicers scatter paper and other unsightly material, instead of burning such refuse, greatly to their discredit.

The twelfth annual session of the Pittsburgh Epworth League Institute closed Sunday night with a most interesting and impressive service. The Sunday services were largely attended. At 7:00 a. m. a communion service was held and at 7:00 p. m. an echo service, followed by a beautiful and impressive candle-light service was the program.

There were 533 delegates enrolled, and with the faculty and committees this number was increased by 23, or a total number present and participating, of 556. The delegates left the Park Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock on a special train of seven coaches and baggage car, running through to Pittsburgh. The hotels and boarding houses during the week received about $8,000. The bathing at the lake was greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. L. B. C. List and daughter Miss Bess List are spending their vacation in the Park, guests at Allenhurst. In years past Mrs. List was one of the most popular and successful managers of hotels both in the Park and at Loch Lynn Heights.

Some years ago the house now owned by Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr was the property of a Mr. Taney of Wheeling, West Va. Mr. Taney son James with his wife were week-end visitors at this home.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Martin and children and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Brown of Atlanta, Ga., the trip being made to the Park by motor.

Mrs. Busselle, of Allenhurst, is very much improved at this time and is able to be up and about the house. Mrs. James A. Hayden continues in about the same condition and Mr. R. G. Richardson, who suffered what was thought to be a slight stroke of paralysis last Wednesday, has recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stevenson, of Rosewood, Ohio, are here as guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Leighton.

Mrs. John Calhoun, over the week-end had as her guests Mr. and Mrs. Ray Furment and son Donald and Mrs. T. H. Gibson and daughter Ercell, all of Morgantown, W. Va.

We do not remmeber when we have seen so many and so great a variety of wild flowers in the Park as during this summer. Park visitors may be seen coming in carrying great bouquets of flowers they have gathered while roaming about. The number of birds has increased and their cheerful songs are greatly enjoyed by the lovers of nature.

The new and attractive homes of Messrs. Gnegy and Winters at the first entrance to the Park from the State road, call for words of praise and admiration.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smouse motored to the Park from their home in Fairmont, W. Va., returning to that place on Sunday night.

The Baltimore Conference Epworth League Institute began its sessions on Monday night. Services will be held every days this week, both in the morning, afternoon and night. The public will be interested in the evening meetings. Of special interest will be the "stunts." The Leaguers arrived on an extra train over the Baltimore and Ohio, which brought about five hundred sterling young men and young women from Baltimore, Washington and intermediate points along the line, arriving here Monday about 4:00 p. m.

The services next Sunday should attract a large number of people. The sermon to be delivered at 11:00 o'clock will be by one of America's great preachers. At night the candle-light service will prove of more than passing interest. If you have never attended one do not miss this one. The date for holding the annual camp fire has not been announced.

WAIT FOR THE TRUCK.

Last night there was a call sent in for the fire department. It happened that the blaze was of little consequence, but if there had been a million dollar fire the two trucks of the department could not have arrived a minute sooner, and it would not have been the fault of the drivers of the equipment. Considering the obstacles they had to contend with, they made a record run.

But that is not the point. The sound of the klaxon had no more effects on motorists than a siren would have blowing in the middle of the ocean. As the firemen tried to clear the way by sounding the warning, drivers of the cars going in the same direction or in the opposite direction paid no heed whatever.

They had to get there to see the fire and there was nothing stopping them. They had no thought of what might happen if the trucks were delayed any length of time. The fire, fortunately in this case, was small, but the action of motorists will show up at any fire.

Although Oakland has only a volunteer department, its members know their business. Give them a chance to show what they know.

Nine-tenths of the number of people who hurried out to the fire, had it been of any consequence, would have been in the way, anyhow.

If there is one time when one's curiosity should not get the better of him it is when the fire siren lets go.

Sure, it's a hard job, and if it is too hard at least give the department first chance and the right of way. It is coming to them.

EXHIBIT YOUR PRODUCTS

Efforts now being made by the Garrett County Agricultural Fair Association are showing that at least in a financial way the Fair this year is going to be one of the most successful ever held, and it is now up to the farmers to show that the exhibits this year will be along the same line—bigger and better than ever.

Entering one's exhibits in the Fair to be judged along with many other men's exhibits should give the farmers the same feeling that an athlete has when he lines up on the mark to compete with other runners. The winners of the blue ribbons and second and third prizes should have the same feeling that the athlete has when he crosses the tape ahead of his competitors.

Even the thought of being able to raise things well enought to take first, second and third prizes at a county fair should be enough to stimulate the most intense interest, and now that the association has worked out a means whereby all back premiums are being paid and future premiums made certain, the farmers should have no hesitation at all in getting behind Alvey Martin, manager this year, and County Agent J. L. McGlone who are visiting granges this week and in later weeks to discuss fair problems and create a little enthusiasm, if that is necessary.

The Republican does not feel that any enthusiasm needs to be created. It feels that when the farmers realize the efficiency of the fair association the buildings will not be large enough to hold all the exhibits.

Plan now the things that you expect to place on exhibition. It may be too late later in the season to bring out the desired qualities of the articles or animals. Let's all get behind the fair and its management this year and make it what it should be—a true show of what Garrett county is able to produce on her farms and in her workshops, homes and dairies.

Can This Community Support Two Creameries, Is the Question Propounded by a Resident of Oakland Who Has Been Benefitted from the Operation of the Creamery Now In Operation in Oakland.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Being one of the many persons benefitting from the operation of our present creamery, and believing that it is entitled to a hearing, if such it desires, in the consideration of the proposition to establish a new creamery in Oakland, it seems to me there are a number of questions which are pertinent:

Can this community support two creameries? The present creamery Is receiving in the neighborhood of 1400 gallons of milk per day. The proposed creamery requires 2500 gallons. Can the dairy farms of this community raise enough feed to keep the cows necessary to supply this quantity of milk? If they cannot, are we justified in discarding an established industry which has for eight years been a source of income to a large number of people, and which has been, during that period, the only year-round industry which we have possessed, for one which has yet to prove itself?

If this section can supply the requisite amount of milk, then, under the present methods of preparation, will it pass the tests required to make it marketable as "whole milk" in the cities? Will the present creamery take more milk if it is available? If it will not under the conditions now existing, will it take more if the preparation is improved to meet city requirements? Will it take as much as 2500 gallons per day? Under present conditions, how much does the milk net per gallon? Will it net more if the preparation is better? Will it net enough to justify the cost of necessary improvements on the farm? In the event a new creamery is installed, how much will the milk supplied it net per gallon? Will the milk, as it is now prepared, be acceptable to a new creamery? If not, just what will be required?

Have the officers of the present creamery been approched, with a view of ascertaining whether or not, all conditions being equal, they can or will give to the citizens of this community the benefits expected to be derived from the installation of a new creamery?

The manager is an efficient man whose ability is proven and whose interest in the welfare of the community is demonstrated by the variety of public activities with which he has identified himself, without thought of pecuniary benefit. Would not the advice and counsel of one who has made this subject his life work be of inestimable benefit, provided he was willing to co-operate?

The logical conclusion seems to be that if, conditions being equal, the same benefits can be derived from the present creamery that are to be derived from a new one, there is no object in bringing in a new one, since under any circumstances, that entails an outlay of money on the part of the community. But if advantages are to be gained which cannot be met by the present institution, and these outweigh the cost, then apparently the course is clear. Respectfully,

R. T. THAYER.

Oakland, July 19, 1927.

Car Runs Into Culvert Head and is Damaged

A Buick sedan was damaged to the extent of about $50 when the driver failed to make the turn at Houck's garage on Third street yesterday morning. The machine ran upon the culvert head at this point and as a result the frame of the vehicle was bent, as was also the front axle and tire rim.

The owner of the car, Dr. E. C. Diltz, Pittsburgh, Pa., with members of his family, were driving to Davis, West Va., there to get his son who had been in the Carnegie Tech camp located at Davis for the past six weeks, when the mishap occurred.

The damage to the car is being repaired at Houck's garage, which will be completed this afternoon, at which time Dr. Diltz and family will continue their journey. They spent last night at McHenry, where they were guests of friends.

Legion to Have Street Carnival.

Preparations for a street carnival, to be held some time during the month of August, were made at the meeting of the American Legion of Oakland on Monday night. The carnival will continued for three days, according to a member of the Legion committee having the matter in charge, which consists of Charles C. Reckard, I. R. Rudy, C. M. Sincell, W. C. Loraditch and E. C. Liller.

Delegates to the State convention of Legionaires, to be held at Easton, on August 11, 12 and 13, were also named at Monday night's meeting. They are Delbert Davis, post commander; Edward P. Kahl, post adjutant; I. R. Rudy, finance officer, and C. M. Sincell.

To Attend Paris Convention.

Ernest Gortner, of Gortner, and Harvey Gortner, of Grantsville, who are brothers and also members of the local post of the American Legion, will sail from New York for Paris on September 8th to attend the national convention of the American Legion to be held in Paris during the month of September.

Surprise Party Given.

A basket picnic and birthday surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Williams, one mile north of Oakland, near the State highway, in honor of Mrs. Amy C. Williams' forty-eighth anniversary. Music was furnished by Mrs. L. L. Lewis, violinist; Cecil Kidwell, violinist, and G. H. Williams, violin and drums. A barn dance was enjoyed by the guests with Mr. Williams calling the figures. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by Mrs. Williams.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lewis and daughter Velma; Mr. and Mrs. John Kidwell and daughter Elsie; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kidwell, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Montgomery, Miss Emma Jane Sutters, Cullen Dodds, Miss Helen Williams and Mrs. Lila Smith, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Williams; Miss Kathleen Smith, Miss Lila Smith, Dan Smith, Mr. Strawmbaugh and son Donald, of Hazelwood, Pittsburgh; Miss Mildred Miller, Northside, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The honor guests were Mrs. Eppilonia Chambers, aged 86, mother of Mrs. A. C. Williams, Aurora, W. Va.; Mrs. L. A. Cope and son John, of Deer Park.

Released On Bond for Appearance Before Court.

George Tibbetts, who had been in the Garrett County Jail since Tuesday, June 26th, on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife, was released last Thursday evening upon receipt of $200 cash bond, by Justice of the Peace W. A. Gonder.

Tibbetts was apprehended in Washington, D. C., by the authorities there upon information transmitted to them from Oakland charging him with non-support of his wife and child. Immediately upon his release, Tibbetts left Oakland for other points.

Church to Have Pastor.

A congregational meeting following the morning service in the Presbyterian church in Oakland on Sunday morning, was held at which time Rev. T. D. Richards, D. D., of Mountain Lake Park, presided, and Rev. Walter B. Brock, formerly of Cumberland, who is spending the summer at the Park, was given the call to be pastor here during the remainder of the summer. The pulpit in this church has been vacant since last summer, when Rev. Henry A. Grubbs, who had been pastor for several years, resigned to take up work in a new field.

Women's Club Meetings.

The regular meeting of the Women's Club of Friendsville will be held Wednesday, July 27, at 2:00 p. m. in Murphy's Hall. The demonstration lesson will be on nutrition and types of food for simple diseases. The members of the club will have ready suggestions for the County Fair.

The monthly meeting of the Hutton Women's Club will be held Thursday, July 28, at 2:00 p. m., in the Grange Hall. One of the topics for discussion wil be the County Fair. The demonstration lesson will on nutrition.

MARRIED.

Opportunity will be afforded to hear an address by Judge Joseph F. Rutherford, President of the International Bible Students Association to be delivered by him on Sunday, July 24th, at the International Convention of Bible Students in Toronto, Canada.

The facilities of the National Broadcasting Company of New York were extended by its president on June the 15th to Judge Rutherford to broadcast this address without charge to him or to the people. Simultaneously among the people of the entire country and also practically of all foreign lands, there will be distributed a message of comfort and good cheer, which virtually concerns every thinking man, woman and child of today, regardless of their station in life, a message of international importance.

This address will be entirely non-political, unsectarian, nonreligious (in the generally accepted sense of that term), and noncommercial.

The speaker's vioce will be conveyed from the platform of the Coliseum in Toronto by telephone to New York City, and from there broadcasted over the network of interconnected Radio Stations, in that vicinity throughout the country.

This address is being delivered by the courtesy of the National Broadcasting company. Following is a partial list of the nearby stations: Schenectady, WGY; Buffalo, WRG; Washington, WRC; Chicago, WMAQ, KYW, WEBH, WORD; Pittsburgh, KDKA, WCAE; Cleveland, WTAM; Detroit, WJR; Cincinnati, WSAI; New York, WEAF and WJZ.

This program will be broadcast Sunday afternoon July 24th, beginning promptly at 3 o'clock, Eastern Daylight saving time, and continuing until 4:30. Standard time one hour later. Musical program preceeding and following the address, by courtesy of the National Broadcasting company. —Advertisement 22-1t.

Supper and Social.

The ladies of the Swanton Methodist Episcopal church will hold a supper and social in the old Oss & West store room at Swanton, on the evening of Saturday, July 30, 1927. A splendid supper, nicely cooked and pleasingly served, in addition to ice cream and other refreshments will be sold, and every body welcome, is the word sent out by the committee in charge of the affair.

"Tillie The Toiler."

A special picture, with musical program, to be shown for the benefit of the Garrett County Free Public Library on Thursday and Friday nights, July 28 and 29, "Tillie the Toiler." A screamingly funny comedy featuring Marian Davies, is coming at last to the Maryland Theatre on the above date. To see it once is to want to go and laugh at Tillie again.

The Oakland orchestra will play during the picture and between the shows and the Oakland Male Quartet will entertain the audience.

Come and bring your friends and help boost the library, which is badly in need of funds to defray past and present expenses.

The library is pleasantly housed in rooms in the Garrett National Bank Building and a competent librarian is in charge two days a week. Some excellent text books, besides works of fiction, are numbered among the books and the entire county and summer visitors, it is hoped, will be interested in its support. COMMITTEE.

State Reaches Majestic Splendor In Garrett

Mountains Tower Grandly While Forests and Falls Heighten Beauties Of Nature There

Below is a short resume of the history and activities of the people of Garrett county as recounted by Miss Emily Emerson Lantz, special writer for the Baltimore Sun lay Sun, which appeared last Sunday in the feature section of that paper. Other counties of the State have in recent months received like publicity in the columns of the Sun, and the history of Garrett appearing Sunday, followed a short visit which Miss Lantz made to this section about two weeks ago when she was an interested visitor to several points in the county. The article contains comments on wealth and power, forest reserves, banks, activities of the people of Garrett county, farms, cattle, poultry, grain, timber, religion, banking institutions, education, summer resorts, etc.

Following is Miss Lantz's article with the illustrations, the use of which in the columns of The Republican, having been secured by courtesy of the Sun:

By EMILY EMERSON LANTZ.

THE sylvan beauty of Maryland is manifest in her centrally located sections and in her tidewater counties kissed by the sea, but the majestic beauty of the State is only realized when the Allegheny Mountains of Garrett county are visited and one has reached the westernmost and northernmost boundaries of the State.

Mountain range after mountain range rises in darkly green and ever-increasing beauty until an altitude of 3,320 feet is reached upon a nameless peak situated, according to Dr. Edward B. Mathews, of Johns Hopkins University and State Geologist, between Table Rock and Roth Rock.

Garrett county may be called the Great Divide of Maryland, since it is the only county in the State that has rivers flowing westward as well as eastward. The Youghiogheny river rises in Garrett county and is tributary to the Ohio river. A branch of the Youghiogheny flows through Mt. Lake Park where it is converted into a lake, which gives the place its name.

Wealth and Power.

Here nature in her wildest splendor defies the feeble strength of man and barriers of iron ore and rock and glistening coal, locked in the mountain's heart, and streams and waterfalls gushing from the mountainsides are sources of wealth and power to citizens of the State.

The fertile soil brought forth abundant harvest to pioneers who braved the one-time outposts of the West and laurel covered the mountains in such abundance that, in 1872, when a new county was formed from a portion f Allegany county, the name Laurel county was seriously considered before the name Garrett county, in honor of the late John W. Garrett, of Baltimore, was bestowed.

Nor has the identfication of the Garrett family with the county seased with that. The Presbyterian church at Oakland, erected in 1868, and said to be the finest church building in the county, was erected by the late John W. Garrett in memory of his deceased brother, Henry S. Garrett. And in the present generation three immense tracts of land formerly belonging to the Garrett family, have been set apart as forest reserves.

Forest Reserves.

The Kindness reserve, just east of Hutton, and extending along the south side of the county road to Oakland, contains 206 acres; the Swallow Falls reserve of 823 acres lies between the Oakland-Cranesville road and the Hutton Switch road, touching also the county road at Herrington creek, and the Skipnish reserve of 888 acres is in the same vicinity. Swallow Falls is one of the most beautiful free camp sites in Maryland.

Several years ago Henry Ford, John Burroughs, Thomas Edison and Harvey Firestone camped there for two weeks, appreciating to the full the great beauty of primal pine trees and gushing mountain streams.

Youngest County.

Apart from its majestic hills, Garrett county is the gay, larklike school girl daughter of Maryland. Youngest in years she is higger than her staid sister counties, for her boundaries include 660 square miles. The county is bounded on the north by Pennsylvania; on the east hy Allegany county and on the south and west by West Virginia.

Fine Farms are Found.

To the distant dweller in Baltimore, Garrett county is a region closely associated with coal.

So it is, but it is also a county where some of the finest farms in the State are found and where these farms are chiefly owned and developed by the farmers living upon them. Agriculture and lumbering were the chief industries of Garrett county until forests became depleted and coal mining in some measure superseded the lumbering.

Garrett county is a land flowing with milk and maple sugar, which many persons regard as even better than honey. Thousands of sheep graze upon the hillsides. Only a mile from Oakland, the county seat, there is the largest florist's plant south of New York. It has more than a city block under glass with such fine specimens of flowers that they are shipped to the most remote points. The apple orchards of Garrett in springtime are visions of pink and white beauty,while in autumn quantities of fine grapes are gathered and sent to distant cities.

Beef Cattle Abound.

More beef cattle are raised here than in any other county of Maryland. The number of cattle is given as 16,138, with a value of $374,344; horses number 4,735, valued at 550,523; mules, 39, value $3,918; swine, 8,208, value $48,332; sheep, 27,498, value $112,055; poultry, 72,295, value $38,301; dairy products, $145,152. The important cereals--wheat, oats, corn, buckwheat—are raised in large quantities, with tons of hay and forage and many, many bushels of potatoes. Vegetables are raised in large quantities and apples and small fruits abound.

The main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad runs through the southeastern part andthe northwestern corner of Garrett county, while the Western Maryland Railway runs along the Potomac river, which separates the county from West Virginia. With the opening of State highways, farming in Garrett county is rapidly improving and the income from agricultural products steadily increasing.

There are 1,974 farms scattered throughout the county, the majority being located near Oakland, Grantsville, Accident and Friendsville. Up to the present marketing conditions have been difficult except along railroad lines, but with improved roads has come adoption of improved methods of farming. There has been general introduction of pure-bred stock, formation of 4-H clubs, instruction and demonstration in proper methods of feeding and handling of animals, spraying for insects, planting of certified seed and application of lime and fertilizer.

Garrett county has not only the purest mountain water to drink but has abundance of rich milk and dairying is becoming an increasingly popular industry. From 1920 to 1924 there was an increase in the county of approximately 500,000 gallons of milk.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, two leading dairies of the east and the Garrett county agent, J. L. McGlone, now are making a survey of dairying in the county with the hope of establishing new milk stations. Truck lines will collect milk from farms and haul it to stations if conditions warrant.

Grain Acreage Increases.

With the increase of dairy cattle there has been large increase in the county in the production of corn, clover ,alfalfa and other grasses. A large acreage is devoted to raising oats both for feeding cattle and for shipping out of the county to other sections of the State for seed.

The latest development for dairying has been the organization of two Boys' 4-H Club Cow Testing Associations—one at Grantsville, under M. W. Whiteford, agricultural instructor, and the other at Oakland, under O. T. Graser, agricultural instructor. W. E. Tarbel and John Carter, instructors at Accident and Friendsville, are making surveys of their sections of the county and expect to organize milk-testing associations in the near future.

The acreage of hay in Garrett county is almost twice that of any other crop. Legume production has increased from 41 to 149 acres in a short time.

The Glades of Garrett.

In Garrett county one hears constant reference to the glades, one of the most striking features of the county. These are large, level sections of land, part of which are open natural wild meadows with a wet, marshy soil. Ridges between these meadows are timbered with white oak and clear of stone.

It is probable that these glades once were lakes, gradually filling by washing from surrounding mountains and by the decay of enormous masses of leaves and grass. The glade country is celebrated as a potato-raising country, the soil having been known to produce from eighty to one hundred bushels of potatoes on a single acre.

The farms of Garrett county are noticeably well kept, with substantial buildings and bank barns that give comfortable quarters for stock and storage for machinery. About 60 per cent of the farmers raise flocks of sheep, some of them very large ones, that are sold for meat and wool and for breeding stock. Hoge are raised chiefly for home consumption. Breed hogs have been brought in through 4-H Club efforts. Fine draft horses are raised and used in lumbering and farming in the more hilly sections of the county.

Poultry a Specialty.

Poultry is raised on all farms for home consumption and in some sections a specialty is made of this industry. Egg production has increased some 95,000 dozen within the last four years and eggs are shipped to Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Cumberland.

Along with advancing agricultural interests have moved the 4-H Boys' Club work. In practically every section of the county boys are either raising thoroughbred stock or seed potatoes.

Girls' Club Work has increased rapidly. Miss Lola Belle Breen, county home demonstration agent, directs eight women's and twelve girls' clubs.

Cooperative marketing and buying among farmers are increasing, the medium being the grange, which has branches in most communities and meets twice a month to discuss problems of common local interest. Lectures are given by agricultural specialists from the University of Maryland, by the county agent and high school instructors.

Endless Coal Trains.

All day long, and all night long as well, trainloads of glistening coal trail their way through Garrett county. Soft coal is mined abundantly in the county, the miners with the single exception of those at Kitzmiller, being Americans, as are other residents of the county.

Few Negroes are seen anywhere, a climate where the average is 120 days between frosts being too cold to attract the heat-loving African. An enormous amount of coal is mined in Garrett, there being important mines at Crellin, four miles west of Oakland; at Kitzmiller, and also near Grantsville and Friendsville. They are non-union mines.

The Sapphire Lake country of North Carolina has nothing on Garrett county since the creation of the great lake of the Youghiogheny River hydro-electric project, which is one of the engineering feats of the past few years.

This exquisite lake, eleven and a half miles long and sixty-five miles in circumference, lies cradled within mountain peaks and azure as the skies that smile above it. It is spanned by a splendid steel bridge and skirted by the State road. The State is stocking it with mountain trout and already its fame as a fisherman's paradise is spreading.

A pretty roadhouse, known as The Rainbow Inn, has already been established where travelers can find refreshment.

Timber Production.

The timber production of Garrett county is more than double that of any other county in Maryland, and one of the county's chief sources of revenue. Natural gas wells and coal mines may become exhausted, but forests that renew themselves are an unfailing source of future wealth.

Natural conditions for timber growing are excellent—abundan rainfall, good soil, good climate and native tree species of great value. The forests of the county produce annually lumber and timber products valued at $1,300,000. Also the forest industries give employment to large numbers of wage earners.

There are three rivers within the county and one bordering it, in addition to numerous streams possessing great water power.

To conserve this power for greatest usefulness, forests on the watersheds of these streams and rivers must be protected.

Forest Fire Protection.

Practically all the mountain ridges are covered with forest, the land being held hy lumber and coal corporations. White pine disappeared from the region forty or fifty years ago; forests have been cut intensively, and forest fires have depleted much valuable timber.

Today oaks, chestnut, chestnut oak, scarlet oaks and birch trees predominate on the tops of the mountains, while on lower slopes and along ravines are sugar maples, beech, white oak, basswood and cucumber trees with hemlock on the northern slopes.

There are also many hickory, black walnut and black cherry trees. Forest fires that burn not only standing timber but seeds and seedlings designed to perpetuate the forests have proved so destructive in Garrett county that the forest warden system was introduced in 1908 and the county now has forest wardens.

Mounted police patrol and lookout stations are located at Table Rock, Meadow Mountain, Swallow Falls and Sang Run. The county has now stronger fire protection for its forests than any county in the State.

Religious Sects Here.

From Pennsylvania have come into Garrett county numbers of Amish, Mennonites and Dunkards who have established communities of their own and have proved good farmers and valuable citizens because of their integrity and thrift.

They wear the plain garb of their sects. Hooks and eyes are regarded as less wordly than buttons for garments worn by men, while women, from eldest to youngest and even small children, are attired in black. Many of them have orchards of maple sugar trees, which industry is now become most important.

During late winter and early spring many sugar camps may be seen in operation in the vicinities of Grantsville, Bittinger, Gorman and Kitzmiller. Most of these camps are small,, but practically every farm has one. A late annual report of the county for that industry records 30,000 trees, 25,000 pounds of maple sugar and 15,000 gallons of maple syrup. Both are equal in richness of flavor to the much extolled maple sugar products of Vermont.

The maple sugar products are sold locally and are sent long distances by parcel post, but most is purchased by large syrup manufacturers out of the State.

Oakland the Center.

Residents of Oakland, the county seat, call themselves citizens of the "Orphan County," because they are so far removed from all the other counties of Maryland, but being on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio, with express trains stopping at all important points between east and west, they are fully in touch with the rest of the world.

The town is also the hub of State and National roads that lead everywhere. Fine highways connect with the Old National Trail. There is direct motor routes to Virginia and to Baltimore. The old Northwestern Turnpike, to be known as the Seneca Highway, leads to Oakland and connects with the eastern part of the State of West Virginia.

Bus lines and automobiles make travel through the mountains a delight, while never-to-be-forgotten scenic effects are obtained from the luxurious comfort of a Pullman car.

Oakland, Deer Park and Mountain Lake Park are upon the nine-mile Glade plateau on the summit of the Allegheny Mountains, and have an elevation of 2,800 feet.

Oakland derives its name from the splendid oak trees that covered its site when the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad began surveying for the road in 1848, while the town is said to have been laid out by a Frenchman, Dr. Colardeau, who built a beautiful home there and was the first Mayor of the town.

He had been the Governor of the Island of Guadeloupe and married Georgiana Bartlett, niece of the celebrated Enoch Bartlett, who introduced the famous Bartlett pear. She was also the sister of Dr. Edward Henry Bartlett, an early physician and Superintendent of Schools in Garrett county. The latter's daughter, Mrs. James L. Pollock, of Oakland, occupies the Josias Pennington residence on Second street and owns the first piano brought into Garrett county by stage coach.

Developed by Baltimoreans.

The Baltimorean feels much at home in Oakland, because the town was developed largely by wealthy Baltimoreans. Many built summer homes there of unusual elegance and eventually, because of the magnificent climate, became permanent residents.

Because of such beginning, Oakland wears an aspect of wealth and its social life has every evidence of elegance and culture. Crook's Crest, the estate of Mrs. Eliza Fundenberg, is one of the most charming terraced homes of the town and has outlook over Oakland and distant mountain peaks.

The Oakland Hotel, built and operated by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and the Glades Hotel were both destroyed several years ago, but there are still especially well-kept small hotels, with all modern improvements, and the town is bent upon restoring the summer-resort atmosphere by the building of such a summer hotel as the place once enjoyed.

A Modern City.

To find at an altitude of 2,800 feet such an absolutely modern little city is unusual. The place enjoys electric light, natural gas, underground sewerage, modern paving, first-class fire protection, a good street-cleaning system and efficient police, while the price of coal troubles no man. Perhaps this progression is due to vigor induced by climate, but also, perhaps, to the fact that municipal affairs and the business of the town is largely in the hands of young and energetic men.

Mayor Is Alert.

The children of Oakland are noticeably sturdy, and Mayor L. M. Fraley is a young man who is very decidedly on his job; who knows what is happening in the town of which he is chief executive and gives its affairs his personal supervision.

There are no loafers about Oakland, its moving-picture shows are high class and trade is brisk. On Saturday nights in midsummer people motor miles to Oakland which, among other attractions, has become widely known as a watermelon and banana center since these fruits are sold in Oakland in great quantities and at as reasonable prices as in Baltimore, whence they are imported.

The Oakland Commercial Club includes leading bankers and business men and the co-operative spirit is marked.

The City Council includes: Grover C. Stemple, S. B. Aronhalt, J. W. Whorton, Delbert S. Davis, Dr. W. W. Grant and Mrs. E. Z. Tower.

Stated meetings are held at Oakland by the County Commissioners, who are: George D. Browning, president; D. E. Orendorf and Harvey Gortner, with W. G. Meyers, as clerk.

The Judiciary.

The Oakland Court House occupies a commnading site and is an imposing edifice. An American eagle with spread wings surmounts the dome.

The Circuit Court Judge are Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, with Albert A. Doub and Charles D. Wagaman, Associate Judges. E. Z. Tower is clerk of the Court; Julius C. Renninger, State's Attorney; William D. Casteel, Sheriff.

The Orphans Court judges are as follows: Chief Judge, Henry Kamp; associates, Homer Friend and Truman W. Casteel. E. L. Friend is the Register of Wills.

Albert L. Lee is the County Treasurer.

Thomas A. Gonder is president of the Oakland Commercial Club and Ce-

State Reaches Majestic Splendor In Garrett

eil Smith is secretary and treasurer.

Oakland has a vigorous Rotary Club of which Dr. Henry W. McComas is president.

The Garrett County Board of Education includes John O. Thayer and H. A. Loraditch, of Oakland, and J. W. McCullough, of Friendsville, with F. E. Rathhun as County Superintendent.

Garrett is the only county in Maryland that lacks a school for Negro children, but the number of Negroes in the county is too few to justify one. With the completion of State highways consolidation of rural schools is in progress. There are high schools at Oakland, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Friendsville and Accident, there being a good agricultural school in connection with the latter high school.

Among representative members of the Garrett county bar are F. A. Thayer, Gilmor S. Hamill, E. R. Jones, Wm. R. Offutt, Julius C. Renninger, A. T. Matthews and Stuart F. Hamill.

Banks Numerous.

Up to the year 1888 there were no banks in Garrett county. At that date the Garrett County Bank, now the Garrett National Bank, was established at Oakland.

At this time G. S. Hamill is president and G. A. Fraley, cashier of this institution.

Other banks and their officers are: The First National Bank, F. A. Thayer, president; W. W. Dawson, cashier. The Farmers Bank, N. I. Broadwater, president; Berne Teter, cashier. The First National Bank, Friendsville, L. E. Friend, president; Orval A. Welch, cashier. First National Bank, Grantsville, U. M. Stanton, president; A. C. Stanton, cashier. First State Bank, Grantsville, J. J. Bender, president; Charles Keller, cashier. First National Bank, Kitzmiller, R. A. Smith, president; R. L. Wilson, cashier.

Girls' Camp Opens.

Camp Minnietoska, a girls' athletic training school, was opened July 1, five miles from Oakland, close by a lake upon the farm of Dr. Henry W. McComas. Frank Hansen, a supervisor in Baltimore schools, and Miss Lucy Hyde, of the Forest Park Senior High School, are the directors of the camp, and Miss Elizabeth Wise, who has won a Carnegie medal for life saving, will be one of the councilors. Tennis, hockey and other athletic sports will be featured.

Local physicians in Oakland are Dr. H. W. McComas, Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh, Dr. N. I. Broadwater and Dr. W. E. Gattens.

The newspapers of Oakland are The Republican, edited by Benjamin H. Sincell, and the Mountain Democrat, published by the Charles Deflinbaugh estate.

The town has a new postoffice building, with Webster Ravenscroft as the postmaster.

In addition to the Garrett Memorial Presbyterian Church, of Oakland, which at present has no minister, other churches are St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal, the Rev. Archibald Moore, D. D., pastor; St. Mark's Lutheran Church, of which the Rev. Chas. A. Shilke is pastor; St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. Paul Linaweaver is rector. St. Peter's Catholic Church, built of stone and with a parish school in the charge of Sisters, has been until very recently in charge of the Rev. John F. Eckenrode.

Women Are Active.

Intelligent co-operation is the moving spirit of Garrett county and the women of Oakland are as efficiently active as the men in efforts that conduce to betterment of town and county conditions. Nearly sixteen years ago, in March, 1911, the Civic Club of Oakland was organized with twenty-three members, at which time Miss Thekla Fundenberg, of Oakland and Washington, was elected president. By permission of the County Commissioners the Oakland Court House was used for club meetings.

Today the club numbers sixty active and twenty-five honorary members, with many of the charter members on the club roll. The first president, Miss Fundenberg, again is serving as chief executive.

The club is affiliated with the district, State and national federations of women's clubs and its departments are education, legislation, public welfare and entertainment. The men of the locality are invited to become honorary members and with their co-operation much important work has been accomplished.

Annual town housecleanings have been introduced. By community effort over a thousand dollars was raised by the club to build a stone wall about the Oakland Cemetery, while a handsome iron gateway was presented to the burying ground by the Civic Club. A public drinking fountain has been placed before the Court House, and a "Horse and Colt Show," through the co-operation of men and women, developed into a representative county fair.

A Club Cook Book.

The Civic Club also got out a cook book that contains all the special recipes of the best housewives of the locality, and a library association was organized that has proved of enormous educational value and is now entirely independent of the club.

Money was earned by the club to keep the grammar school of Oakland open an additonal month, and in 1923 Oakland showed its appreciation of the excellent work done by the women by electing Mrs. E. Z. Tower, one of the officers of the Civic Club, a member of the Town Council and selecting her that year as the president of the Council. A woman is now regularly elected as a member of the Council.

The Public Health Committee of the Civic Club has successfully assisted the public health nurse of Garrett county and orthopedic clinics in the charge of skillful surgeons from Baltimore have been held. Special effort has been made toward improving the health of children of the county. The entertainments of the Civic Club are among the most pleasant social features of Oakland.

Deer Park Delightful.

Deer Park, like Oakland, is largely associated with Baltimore finance and families. With its exceptionally spacious and beautiful hotel and summer cottage settlement, the place seems an enchanted forest created for the pleasure and benefit of mankind. When a train stopped the other day and a radiant girl in cerise frock and hat ran forward at the station to greet some arriving friend she made an unforgettable picture against this sylvan background where landscape gardening and primal forest unite to welcome the summer traveler.

Small wonder that the late President Grover Cleveland spent several weeks with his bride in one of the cottages at Deer Park. Here are found golf links, swimming pools, tennis grounds and bowling alleys with a spacious ballroom at the hotel and a fine orchestra for dancing. An adjacent lake is named in honor of President Cleveland and fishing and horseback riding are among the diversions. Added to the rare climate of Deer Park is purest water from mountain springs.

Among The Cottagers.

Among old-time owners of cottages at Deer Park were Josias Pennington, J. Swan Frick, C. W. Lord, Mayor Latrobe, J. W. Williams, of Philadelph whose wife was Miss Keyser, of Baltimore, and one of their daughters had a cottage here for many summers. Mrs. J. K. Mitchell also resided here and the Garrett family had cottages in the hotel reservation likewise.

Mrs. A. Nesbit and her daughter, Mrs. Edward Shoemaker, are now occupying their cottage, which is one of the most attractive at Deer Park. Samuel S. Spencer was one of the owners of a home at Deer Park, as was Henry G. Davis, at one time Senator of West Virginia, and candidate for the office of Vice-President.

President Benjamin Harrison spent one season at Deer Park, living in the Spencer cottage, and Senator Stephen B. Elkins also had his summer home here, his wife being a daughter of Senator Davis.

Mountain Lake Park.

Mountain Lake Park is one of the best known summer recreation and educational centers of Maryland. It is situated at an elevation of over 2,500 feet above sea level on a broad, rolling wooded plateau on top of the Allegheny Mountains. It is located between Oakland and Deer Park, on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and has through train service from East and West.

About 1880, Mountain Lake Park was established as an educational center by a company of stockholders and the place developed with summer hotels, auditorium, cottages and facilities for recreation. The tract contained some 800 acres and was laid out in tree-shaded walks and drives, with a lake for boating.

Many conventions were held here and Chautauqua courses established several years ago, largely through the influence of the late Dr. John F. Goucher, of Baltimore. The stockholders and residents of the vicinity made the Park and all of its equipment a gift to the Methodist Episcopal Board of Missions, that the Methodist Episcopal Church might develop the place as a religious center, especially for the training of those who feel a call to the foreign mission field of the Methodist Episcopal denomination.

The Epworth Leagues of Baltimore and Pittsburgh are uniting in conducting Epworth League institutes during the summer months, each league enrolling bteween 500 and 600 delegates. The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church last summer conducted its educational work there in this delightful spot.

Recently canneries for choice peas and corn were established at Mountain Lake Park by the Mount Airy Canning Company.

Epic of Garrett.

The epic of Garrett county—a book tucked away somewhere in every home of Oakland—is a volume entitled "Forty-four Years of the Life of a Hunter," being reminiseences of Meshach Browning, a Maryland hunter. It is a narrative roughly written down and revised and illustrated by Edward Stabler, of Sandy Spring, who died in 1883.

The book has an introductory by the latter with a commendatory line by the late Richard Fairall, of Accident, which in 1859 was in Allegany county. According to his own estimate Meshach Browning had killed from 1,800 to 2,000 deer and from 300 to 400 bear, about 50 panthers and catamounts, together with seores of wildcats and wolves.

How Much Do Your Letters Cost?

A LARGE concern, thinking that the average cost of their letters was about five or six cents, recently undertook a thorough investigation of the cost of their correspondence. They made the discovery that each letter represented an actual outlay of forty cents. This was comprised of the salaries of their stenographers, the cost of stationery and a pro-rate of the general expense of office maintenance.

They also determined that the average salary of the officers who dictated letters was $75.00 per week. Twenty minutes of this time, devoted to a carefully worded letter, was worth about 62c.

Added to the initial outlay, this was $1.02 per letter.

Their officials are now advised that on important business, it is worth while to bring personality into play, by face-to-face conversation over Long Distance. Less important business is still carried on by letter.

GARRETT COUNTY SHEEP BRING HIGHEST PRICES

Ram of H. P. Miller, of Near Grantsville, Brings $56 at Recent Sale

Selling one Shropshire ram for $56 and one Hampshire ram for $50, H. P. Miller, manager of Little Meadows, a farm near Grantsville, brought the highest prices in both breeds at the purebred ram sale conducted at Centreville, Md. by the Maryland Sheep Growers association. Ten purebred shropshire and hampshire rams were consigned at this sale by Mr. Miller.

His rams were in exeellent shape, according to officials at the sale, and made a splendid impression, this faet being apparent from the high average they made. They averaged $42.90 per head in comparison to a general average of $38.44 on the 27 head in the sale. Mr. Miller's reputation as a breeder of purebred sheep has been widely recognized and he has received in recent months, inquiries from all over Maryland as well as from many other states.

Referring to the sale of his rams in Centreville, Mr. Miller said, "I am proud to have consigned the highest priced Shropshire and the highest priced Hampshire ram in the sale. I never try to sell my sheep, I try to have them good enough to sell themselves."

One of the best things that could happen to Garrett county, in the agricultural way, according to some, would be to have a number of men of the calibre and stability of Mr. Miller go into the constructive breeding and improvement of sheep and cattle and other kinds of livestoek.

There seems to be a tremendous demand and splendid outlet for really high elass breeding sheep, according to County Agent J. L. MeGlone. "Mr. Miller has combined the favorable advantages of this section with splendid breeding stock and is in a position to take advantage of these demands," Mr. MeGlone said. "This would be possible for many other farmers."

DEER PARK TO CONDUCT GOLF TOURNAMENT PLAY

Championship of Western Maryland to Begin August 10

The Western Maryland Golf Championship, open to all amateurs, will be held at the Deer Park Hotel, August 10 to 13 inelusive, according to R. J. McGovern, who has charge of the match. All entries must be in by August 10.

The prize trophy of the tournament is the Offutt Cup, whieh has been in competition for eight years. To become the permanent property of players, it must be won three times, but not necessarily in succession, acording to Mr. McGovern. The cup is now held by B. Lee Hutchinson, Fairmont, W. Va., who won it in 1925 and 1926. All winners and runners up in all divisions are to be awarded suitable prizes.

A special tournament dance will be held on Saturday, August 13, in the ball room, and the prizes will be awarded at this affair.

CHILD HURT AT EGLON FROM SMALL EXPLOSION

Two Fingers and Thumb of Right Hand Blown Off

Paul Hauser, 7-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hauser, of Eglon, near here, had two fingers and the thumb on his right hand blown off, and his right eye badly cut with the possibility that the eyesight will be lost as the result of either a dynamite or railroad torpedo explosion which oeeurred near the child's home early last evening. He was taken to Morgantown, W. Va., to the county hospital there.

The child, it is said, was playing with a box containing a railroad torpedo or a small amount of dynamite. He struck a nail in the box with a hammer, setting off the charge.

Conference In Session

About one hundred ministers and ministers-to-be of the Methodist Episcopal church from the Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia conferenees, are attending the Summer School of Theology now being conducted at Mt. Lake Park. The school opened Monday and will continue for a perlod of ten days. Classes and leetures are held until three o'clock each day, while during the evening special addresses are made by some outstanding minister or teacher.

NEW YORK BANKER TALKS BEFORE ROTARY MEMBERS

G. A. O'Reilly Speaks on "Ourselves" Friday Evening

That Europeans think of Americans as being "gold diggers," and "money-grabbers" was brought out Friday evening by G. A. O'Reilly, viee-president of the Irving Bank Columbia Trust company of New York City, in his address before the Oakland Rotary club. Mr. O'Reilly spent 14 years in European countries and is said to be highly qualified in analyzing conditions there.

Following this line of thought he spoke for about 45 minutes on "Ourselves, the People of the United States." People, he said, were all alike. The people in Oakland were Americans just as the people of New York, and would all think along the same lines. He applied science to the process of thinking and showed how everybody was similar in their reasoning.

"This is a seientific age," he remarked. "The banker, plumber, doetor, or the man in the laboratory, must apply partieular science to that which he is doing.

Mr. O'Reilly is the son-in-law of the late Dr. Maurice Franeis Egan, who was minister to Denmark, and who for many years spent his summer months in Mountain Lake Park. Mr. O'Reilly also spends his summer vacation at the Park.

SCOUT FUND OVER TOP WITH $237.50 DONATED

Committee Reported Success to Court of Honor of Local Troop at Monday Evening Meeting

That $37.50 more than was needed had been eollected in the drive to solicit $200 for the erection of permanent barraeks and a dining hall for the local troop of Boy Scouts, was reported Monday night to the Boy Scout Court of Honor by Dr. W. W. Grant, chairman of the committee.

"This more than comes up to our expectations," said Dr. Grant, as the last donation rolled in. "I can truthfully say that during the three weeks which this committee solicited they had no refusals from anyone." One or two felt that they could not aid the scouts just at this time due to other matters, but Dr. Grant did not consider this a flat refusal. "Everyone interviewed were all more than willing to help the boys," he said.

The drive for $200, which now amounts to $237.50, was started more than three weeks ago, after an ineffectual call for voluntary donations to be made at any of the three banks of Oakland. The money was turned over Monday evening to Scoutmaster Scott Shirer and Harland L. Jones, who will have charge of paying it out for lumber, etc. for the two buildings.

Work has gone forward on these buildings all this week, according to Scoutmaster Shirer. On Monday, Rev. Paul Linaweaver, the scoutmaster, and 12 scouts dug all foundation holes and planted all posts. Yesterday nine men and six scouts put things together and all the buildings are now ready for occupancy.

There is now a barracks 20x60 feet, one mess hall, a kitchen and storage room, for the scouts who will go into camp Tuesday, August 2, for a period of two weeks. They will gather around the scout headquarters about 8:30 a. m. and be carried to camp by trucks.

The land upon which these building are being erected is the same upon which the Scouts camped last summer and lies along the shore of Deep Creek Lake, about twenty-five minutes' drive from Oakland.

Erroneous Statement Corrected.

The Garrett County Fair board has offered $5 in gold as first prize for the person selling the greatest number of books, and $2.50 in gold as a second prize, and not $5 for the person having the greatest number of books sold in each community as was stated in The Republican last Thursday.

To the person selling the most books on the mohair living room suite and one gold wrist watch, an additional prize of $2.50 in gold will be given the person in each community selling the most books, Alvey R. Martin, manager of the fair, said today.

The communities are divided as follows, Oakland and vicinity; Kitzmiller and vicinity; Bittinger, Jennings Grantsville, Friendsville, Selbysport, Accident, Deer Park, Mt. Lake Park, Crellin, Hutton, Terra Alta and Kingwood.

TRAIN RIDING IS FATAL TO BOY, 16 YEARS OLD

Guy Smith Caught Beneath Wheels of Coal Train—Dies in Western Maryland Hospital

Falling from a coal car beneath the wheels of the train Saturday morning caused the death of Guy Smith, Corinth, W. Va., early Sunday morning at the Western Maryland hospital, Cumberland, where he had been sent following the accident. His leg was severed at the hip in the fall.

Funeral services were held for the boy Monday afternoon from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Smith, at Corinth. Interment was made in the Terra Alta eemetery.

The victim was only 16 years of age, and he, in company with another boy of about the same age, were riding cars on the eoal train that runs from the Stanley Coal company's mines to Hutton. The Smith boy is said to have lost his balance, falling beneath the moving wheels. As soon as the train had stopped, the other boy ran ahead and notified the trainmen of the accident.

C. W. Ream, president of the coal company, had the boy sent immediately to the hospital in Cumberland where he died Sunday morning at 4:15 from the effects of his injury. Mr. Smith, father of the boy, was employed at Corinth, in the mines of the Lindsey Coal company.

FRIENDSVILLE CHAUTAUQUA BEGINS THERE TODAY

Will Continue With Attractive Programs Friday and Saturday

The annual summer Radcliffe Chautauqua, sponsored by the people of Friendsville, will open this afternoon and will be carried through over tomorrow, closing Saturday evening. The Chautauqua will be held under a tent pitched on the town commons.

The program this year is as follows: First day afternoon, an entertainment will be given by the Alexander Novelty Four, and a leeture entitled "Choosing Your Vocation," by Dr. A. S. Beshore. Evening: Lecture, "The Blind Goddess," by Dr. Beshore and a concert by the Alexander Novelty Four.

Seeond day, afternoon—Two one-act plays, "A Clean Sweep" and "Baby Shoes," by the Radcliffe Players; lecture, "Choosing Your Habits," by J. E. Aubrey. Evening, lecture, "The Silent Empire," by John E. Aubrey, and a three-act drama, "Give and Take," the Radcliffe Players.

Third day: Afternoon, entertainment, "Musie, Magie, Mirth and Mystery by the Dietrics; leeture "Choosing Your Ideals," by Dr. Albert Marion Hyde. Evening, leeture, "The Old Birch Rod," by Dr. A. M. Hyde and an entertainment by the Dietrics.

The committee in charge has made arrangements to take care of a large attendanee. Refreshment stands have been provided and special hotel accommodations have been made available for visitors who may wish to visit Friendsville for the week-end. The Chautauqua at Friendsville has always been a popular event and interest is eonstantly increasing.

K. K. K. Pienie.

The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of Garrett county are planning a pienie to be held at Friendsville the entire day of August 6th. Men and women conneeted with this organization are expected to attend in large numbers. In addition to the pienie, a game of base ball between Oakland and Friendsville will be played.

Lincoln Offspring Victorious In Battle With Giessman Truck

Disproving the old treory that "Might is Right," Mrs. Roger Tower, driving a Ford Sedan, collided with a truek, driven by Blaine Giessman, last evening at the corner of First and Liberty streets, tearing the wheel of her much heavier opponent entirely off, while she eseaped with only a few dents on the fender and running board of her champion. Nither party was injured.

Saving the Sight of Child Still Doubtful.

Whether Beulah Virginia Kahl, aged about five years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Kahl, who had an ice pick plunged into her eye Tuesday evening, July 19, will keep the sight of her eye or not is a question, according to Mr. Kahl, but it is probable that she may do so.

She has been in the Allegany hospital, Cumberland, for the past few days, and has been attended there by Dr. Sharett. She was brought to Oakland Tuesday evening.

FRACTURED SKULL RESULT OF FALLING FROM TRUCK

Clarence Jenkins, Cumberland, A. T. & T. Employe, Seriously Hurt Tuesday Morning.

Thrown from a truek as it rounded a sharp eurve at the intersection of Fourth street and the State road at Helbig's grove at the north edge of town Tuesday morning, Clarence Jenkins, 23 years old, who is a resident of Cumberland, a ground-man employed by the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, sustained a fraeture of his skull when his head struek the hard surfaee of the highway.

Jenkins, with several other A. T. & T. employes, was seated in the body of the truck, whieh was hauling the men to work, when he was hurled to the roadway as the vehiele swayed in rounding the sharp curve at this particular point.

He was taken to the office of Dr. N. I. Broadwater immediately following the accident, who gave him attention, and was later sent to the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, where he is under the care of Dr. W. A. Gracie, who declared the injured man's condition was favorable to recovery.

A group of employes of the A. T. & T. has been in the vicinity of Oakland since Monday engaged in making repairs to the trunk lines of the company, and they expeet to remain here for several weeks on eonstruction and general repair and replacement work.

SHERIFF'S BLOODHOUND PULLS A RIN-TIN-TIN ACT

"Prince," Sagacious Dog, Tracks Down Supposed Criminal

Taking advantage of an opportunity to see whether his bloodhound was as proficient in the art of tracking individuals as those in the picture "Below the Line," shown here a few evenings ago, Sheriff W. D. Casteel yesterday morning "hunted" down a man to his eomplete satisfaction, only the victim eontinued on his way unharmed, and the bloodhound "Prince" got a good-sized bone for his work.

Walter Lee, a Negro, who was traveling from nowhere and going in the opposite direction seeking a similar place, stopped yesterday morning at one o'clock at the office of the Sheriff and wished to be lodged in the County Jail until he had obtained some much needed sleep.

When he left his lodging house yesterday morning he was given somewhat of a start on his way before "Prince" was notified of his job. The dog, which has been in the hands of Sheriff Casteel for about two years, was true to his kind, and came upon the man traveling on the State road north of Oakland, shortly afterward.

"That dog knows his seents," the Sheriff said.

CRELLIN WINS CLOSE ONE FROM OAKLAND; SCORE 5-4

Visitors Make All Their Runs In The First Innings.

Oakland lost a close game to Crellin Tuesday evening at the Old Hotel grounds, when the visiting team got away to a good start and made all five runs in the first inning of the seven inning contest. The final seore was 5 to 4. Oakland scored one run in the first inning and three runs in the sixth. John Wolf, pitcher and captain of the team, except for the first inning, held the opponents to a few well scattered hits.

Metz, piteher for Crellin, held his own all the way through the contest, and came out of a tight hole during the last of the seventh inning when Oakland tried desperately to rally. Runs were made for Oakland by Wolf, Shobe, Riee, and G. Hanst. Sanders, Wilt, Metz, Shaffer and Smith scored for Crellin.

The local team will go to Kingwood this evening to play the Kingwood Athletie elub, and will also play a game at Friendsville on August 6, when the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan hold their picnic there.

The lineup is as follows: For Oakland, Rice, Wolf, Michaels, Shobe, Guardiola, Hoffman, Carney, Yutzy, and G. Hanst; for Crellin, Sanders, Metz, Carskadon, Wilt, Shaffer, Colaw, Smith, A. Carskadon, Bittinger.

One more game at home will probably get the team out of debt, according to the treasurer. "Four dollars and thirty-five cents was donated Tuesday evening by the spectators," he said.

WILL ORGANIZE SOCIETY FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Miss Mary Church of Baltimore, Tells Local Civic Club of Plans

An address by Miss Mary E. Church, of Johns Hopkins Hospital Baltimore, in which she expressed the hope of bringing about an organization in Garrett county that would assist in bringing all children who are crippled to have medical treatment and special education, featured the July meeting of the Oakland Civie Club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of the Club's President, Miss Thekla Fundenberg on Crook Crest.

Miss Church has been selected as secretary of the "Children's Orthopedic Society of the State of Maryland," and she is organizing in each county in the State these groups who are to look after the care of crippled children so that they may become self-supporting.

A general meeting will be held August 30 at Crook Crest when the speaker of the afternoon hopes to bring about a general organization for Garrett county. Miss Church told the members of the club that the five children from the county who are receiving surgieal treatment in Baltimore are all doing well and are having good eare.

A very interesting paper was read by Mrs. A. E. Turner about club work in Honolulu.

Mrs. Arthur Naylor was elected first vice-president of the club and plans were made for a benefit afternoon eard and flineh party to be given during August.

NARCOTIC ACT VIOLATOR BROUGHT TO OAKLAND JAIL

U. S. Marshal Causes Removal of Man from Ellicott City Jail When Found With Drugs

Harry O'Neil, held for trial in the United States District Court for alleged violation of the Harrison Narcotic Aet, was brought to Oakland Monday evening and lodged in the county jail, having been removed from the jail at Ellicott City when it was found that he possessed narcotics. Henry Smith, who was also held by the authorities at Ellicott City, was brought along with him.

George W. Collier, United States Marshal, and Paul E. Zimmerman, who came with the prisoners, explained that the change of prisons resulted from the discovery recently of drugs in the possession of O'Neil while confined in the Ellicott City Jail. O'Neil, Mr. Collier said, was too close to his home at Ellicott City, and he expressed the hope that Oakland would be far enough away to prevent a repetition of drug smuggling.

Before being locked away in the Garrett County Jail, Sheriff W. D. Casteel and Deputy Sheriff Griffith searched the man and his belongings thoroughly to see that no narcotics had been stowed away. A letter which he received yesterday was also opened so that there would be no chance of anything being slipped in.

Another Federal Prisoner.

Joe Katz, a Federal prisoner from Baltimore, will spend four months in the county jail here, finishing out a sentence of five months for bootlegging.

MAN INDICTED IN JUNE IS CAPTURED BY SHERIFF

J. I. Brown To Answer Charge of Stealing Cattle.

J. I. Brown, California, Pa., about 40 years of age, who was indicted for larceny at the last term of the Grand Jury in June, was apprehended Sunday about noon by Sheriff W. D. Casteel, Deputy Joy Griffith, Richard West and Frank Blake, near the Pennsylvania state line around Addison, Pa., as he was departing with a load of household gods for points in Pennsylvania.

Sheriff Casteel, after being notified that the man was expected in Garrett county, gathered up his deputies and placed himself at a point near the road where only one car could pass. After waiting for twelve hours, the man appeared. He pleaded with the sheriff to he released so that he might sell chiekens across the state line, but was refused permission. He was held in the sum of $1,200 bond, which he made good, and was released for his appearnnce at the December term of court. Other arrests of those who are alleged to have been aeeomplices, are expected soon.

H. L. STOTLER IS SHOT AND KILLED BY COMPANION

Federal Prohibition Officer Murdered While Making Investigations Near Hagerstown.

Hunter R. Stotler, Federal Prohibition Agent, about 52 years of age, who was reported yesterday to have been ambushed and killed by moonshiners at a point near Hagerstown, Washington county, was murdered by R. E. Walters, Prohibition Agent of Hagerstown, according to his own confession made last night to officials of Hagerstown.

Walters' confession, which eame after he had been grilled for five hours by the State's Attorney of Washington county at Hagerstown, declared that he shot Stotler because the latter had been too attentive to Mrs. Walters. Stotler, whose home was in Keyser, West Va., lived at the Walters home while in Hagerstown.

Chief of Three Counties.

Stotler was chief of prohibition agents for Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties. He was born near Rawlings, Allegany county, and had been a prohibition enforcement officer more than 15 years. He was appointed four times to positions in the West Virginia state service and three times served in Federal enforcement work. The body of the slain officer was taken to Keyser last evening. He is survived by his widow and by a daughter, Mrs. Xavier Tiddy, of Glenburnie, Md.

Well Known Around Oakland.

He was very well known around Oakland and vieinity, as he had been eleaning out many sections of the county in company with Sheriff W. D. Casteel and other federal agents. Stotler, with agents, C. D. Jack and Perry Barr, left Cumberland Tuesday to join a group of officers in the Hagerstown district who were expecting to make a big raid. Walters and Stotler left the group to make investigations, and at a dense part of the woods, Walters reported that moonshiners had fired from ambush.

Decided Time Was Opportune.

His confession late last night however, tells another tale. Walters is alleged to have told the attorney that sometime ago he had heard that Mrs. Walters and Stotler had improper relations and that she had admitted it upon being questioned. At that time, Walters said, he decided to kill Stotler, but had not formulated any plan.

Engine trouble developed on their investigation trip, and Walters is said to have thought the time an opportune one. He fired a shot into his head, two more into his body, and then fired several shots through the windshield of the car, making it appear that the car had been attacked.

Report of his death was told immediately by Walters, but the circumstances of the ambush would not satisfy the authorities, and he was questioned for about five hours when he broke down and confessed.

Sticks to Story.

Up until the time of his confession Walters stuck to the story that both were sitting in the front seat when in passing a place where shrubbery was very thick, a volley of fire was opened, three shots striking Stotler, two in the breast and one in the head. An inquest will be held this evening.

TO OPEN NEW BUS LINE FROM OAKLAND TO DAVIS

Three Oakland Owners to Operate 7-Passenger Car

The Oakland Bus Company, composed of Guy O. Yutzy, Lawrence Fraley and Raymond Houck, will operate a seven passenger bus between Oakland and Davis, starting next Wednesday, it was learned late this morning. Three trips will be made daily, making connections with all Baltimore and Ohio trains.

The bus is scheduled to start from here following the arrival of train No. 3 at 6:18 a. m., and returning from Davis in time to catch train No. 2 at 9:05 and the accommodation some minutes later. Other details of the schedule had not been made out yet at a late hour.

The proper papers have been filed in Maryland and West Virginia by the owners of the bus line, according to Mr. Yutzy. This will make the second bus line operating between these two points, the Meyer Transit company having commenced operations a few weeks ago.

Lesson for July 31

DAVID AND JONATHAN

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 18:1-4; 19:1-7.

GOLDEN TEXT—There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Good Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—David and Jonathan.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choosing the Right Kind of Friends.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Obligations of Friendship.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan was the crown prince, the heir to the throne. David was heir according to the divine choice and arrangement. Jonathan knew this and magnanimously waived his natural personal rights to the one he knew God had chosen.

I. Friendship Established Between David and Jonathan (I Sam. 18:1-4).

1. Love at Sight (vv. 2).

Following the interview of Saul and David after the victory over Goliath, Jonathan's soul was knit with that of David. He loved him as his own soul. While there was mutual love, this pleasing trait stands out more prominently in Jonathan than in David because it meant great loss to him—the loss of the throne; while it meant immense gain to David, the acquisition of the throne to which he had no natural right.

2. Covenant established (vv. 3, 4).

Following the love covenant between them, Jonathan stripped himself of his court robe and his equipment and gave them to David. This act was a virtual abdication of the throne to David.

II. Jonathan Defended David Against Saul's Frenzy (I Sam. 19:1-7).

David went into the battle with Goliath out of zeal for God and true religion—not for personal glory, but it turned out as always that because he made God first, God honored him.

Upon David's return from victory over the Philistines, according to Oriental custom he was met by a triumphal chorus of women from all the cities of Israel chanting praises to him for his victory over their enemy. They ascribed more praise and honor to David than to Saul. These women seemed to sing as answering chants. The one sang, "Saul has slain his thousands," the other answered, "and David his ten thousands." To hear sung the praises of a shepherd boy surpassing his own was too much for Saul. It aroused murderous envy which had been slumbering in his heart and moved him twice to attempt to kill David. This wickedness was in his heart as a bitter feeling, but this occasion fanned it into a flame, making it a burning passion of evil.

In Saul's third attempt to kill David, Jonathan defended him before his father and evoked from him the oath that David should not be slain. He thus exposed himself to the anger of his infuriated father for David's sake.

III. Jonathan Revealed to David Saul's Murderous Intent (I Sam. 20:30-40).

The beginning of the new moon was celebrated by sacrifices and feasting at which all the members of the family were expected to be present (v. 5). David's excuse for being absent was that he might go home to attend the yearly sacrifice of the entire family. The annual feast was more important than the monthly feast. Matters were now so serious that Jonathan and David renewed the covenant between themselves. In this renewal the terms were broadened beyond the life of Jonathan (vv. 14, 15). Saul's anger was now so fierce that for Jonathan to be found in David's company was most dangerous, so he cleverly planned a sign by which he could make known to David Saul's attitude and purpose. We prove our friendship by warning those who are exposed to danger. David's heart responded by pledging fidelity to Jonathan's seed forever. This pledge was faithfully carried out by David (II Sam. 9:7, 8). Concerning real friendship observe:

1. It should be made while both parties are young, when the hearts are capable of being knit together.

2. Real friends are few. We should be careful in the formation of friendships. For though we should love everybody we can have but few friends. Friendship should be formed for the purpose of helping each other. There can be no real friendship except where merit is on both sides.

3. Real friendship can only be with God-fearing people. Both David and Jonathan recognized their obligation to the Lord.

Satan on Watch

Prayer is the strategical point which Satan watches. If he can succeed in causing us to neglect prayer, he has won; for where communion between God and His people is broken, the true source of life and power is cut off.—Andrew Murray.

GORTNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Swartzentruber, of Iowa; Mrs. S. S. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hershberger, of Springs, Pa., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Swartzentruber at Gortner on Friday last.

Mrs. Anna Bittinger and son Lawrence are visiting relatives near Chicago, Ill., at this writing.

Mr. Abraham Metzler and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Clover, of Masontown, Pa., spent Sunday in Gortner. The former preached for us in the morning and at the evening services. The texts were "They that compare themselves among themselvs are not wise," and "Sins of Commission and omission." The party returned to Masontown following the evening service.

Mr. Ted Quinn, of Reedsville, W. Va., and Miss Eva Egger, of Gorman, spent the week-end at the home of Webster Slabach.

The Dodge family was called to Terra Alta Sunday on account of the death of a relative, who was instantly killed as the result of a fall while engaged at work in his barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Hershberger and Mr. Ernest Yoder, of Grantsville, visited here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Slabach and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Shank, of Akron, O., are visiting at S. W. Slabach's this week.

Mrs. Maggie Allen and son and grandson, of Keyser, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Gortner.

Mr. D. J. Swartzentruber, accompanied Aaron Liller and family to a meeting at Chestnut Grove near Eglon, on Sunday.

Mr. William Weller, of Cumberland, spent last week here with his cousin, Mrs. Artie Dodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Petersheim and daughters and Mrs. Ernest Zimmerman returned to Sugar Creek, Ohio, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Tressler and sons, of Ursina, Pa., visited at the Lichty home here on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Wotring and children, of East Liverpool, O., and Mrs. Owen Martin and family spent Sunday here with Mrs. Hoff.

The Republican Commercial printing department is one of the best equipped plants you will find. The work done in it is strictly high-class.

MARYLAND MINE BUREAU COMMENTS ON WORK DONE

Short Course For Miners Held at Frostburg Normal School During Month of June

"I wish you good fortune in your Summer School for Coal Miners which is such a valuable aid to better operations in the coal industry. As I have often said, I think the resources of the United States are not the key to its great prosperity. Other countries, such as China and Russia, including Siberia and perhaps Asia Minor, are more favored. Our wealth is in our technical men of all kinds, high and low, business and other, and it is our great need to see that these men continue to be leaders in better practices and more skilled operation. This is the work in which you are engaged and it is one in which all must wish you the utmost success."

Short Course for Coal Miners.

The fourth Short Course for Coal Miners began June 6th at Frostburg Md., in the State Normal School building, with a staff of four instructors and on attendance of nineteen mine employes, ten of whom work on the night shift and attend the school in the day time. Seven of the students are sent by their companies. Two of the students have taken advantage of the offer of George Stern of Frostburg, who loaned $100 without interest to those men desiring to attend the summer school.

The work is progressing very nicely and District Mine Inspectors Powers and Watkins and Vocational Mining Instructors Hutson and Fleming are cooperating in the conduct of the course.

On June 11th, Mr. L. F. Gerditz gave a talk on methods of recovering the Big Vein pillars in the Jackson Mine at Lonaconing to the members of the class studying the subject, "Methods of Working Coal," and on June 18th General Superintendent Snyder of the Consolidation Coal Co., Frostburg, addressed the same class, describing the panel long wall methods with the use of conveyors as followed at No. 17 mine located near National, Md.

Railroad Car Sampling.

The Maryland Bureau of Mines, in cooperation with the United States Bureau of Mines, has recently concluded a series of railroad car sampling in George's Creek and the Upper Potomac ragions during which time 29 cars were sampled at 22 different mines. In almost every case every grade of coal that was being loaded and shipped was sampled.

The Maryland Bureau of Mines had this work in mind for several years and has finally been able to accomplish it. From time to time some employe of the Maryland Bureau of Mines takes face section samples in the various mines, especially in the newer ones, and these are analyzed and results of the analyses are furnished the operators, but, heretofore, except in a few mines no car sampling has been done.

The analyses of the car samples show the operator just the quality of the coal that he is shipping; it is the coal which the customer receives and for which the operator is paid. In many cases he is probably able to load better coal than he is loading but the analysis of the car sample shows the quality of coal that he is actually loading. A comparison of the results of face section samples with railroad car samples will show the operator the possibility of loading better coal and should be a strong argument with the miner in regard to his loading cleaner coal.

Recently a representative of the Bureau had an opportunity to observe the results of burning Tyson coal from George's Creek and high volatile coal from the Pittsburgh District, Pa., in locomotives which were running side by side. The locomotive burning Tyson coal gave off practically no smoke and no cinders whatever were observed, while considerable smoke came from the stack of the other locomotive and a constant shower of small cinders, the quantity of which was so great that they could be felt under the feet while walking on the pavement alongside of the locomotive burning the high volatile coal, and persons standing by the train were subjected to great inconvenience and annoyance from the shower of hot cinders.

This fact should be borne in mind when Maryland operators are endeavoring to market their coals, especially the Tyson coal for locomotive use.

On June 9th, Mr. G. M. Kintz of the United States Bureau of Mines, examined 36 men in First Aid preparatory to the issuance of U. S. Bureau of Mines certificates. These men had previously been trained by District Mine Inspector John B. Watkins. The men examined were all from Finzel, Garrett county ,and vicinity.

Demonstration No. 12 was finally concluded. This test was the substitution of nut and egg mixture Bakerstown coal for No. 2 hard white anthracite. A total of 628 net tons of Bakerstown coal, or 703 gross tons, were supplied. Compared with 750 tons of anthracite used and contracted for, the admitted saving on the anis believed that the sum saved is nual fuel bill is somewhat in excess of $3,000 for the season. Moreover, it considerably in excess of the amount named since there was little or no repairs necessary for the different heating systems, and during most of the time only one furnace was used in one building where previously two furnaces had been used continuously when anthracite was employed. This is the most convincing demonstration thus far made in testing Maryland bituminous coal in competition with anthracite. It was shown that practically only half of the ash was made and all the ash was free from clinkers. Even in cooking ranges and laundry stoves this Bakerstown nut and egg is capable of replacing antracite, and all that is needed is the opportunity to demonstrate the feasibility of this substitution.

A Returned Traveler Sees The Exquisite Beauty of This Mountain Region and Compares It With the Tropics and the Far West.

To the Editor of The Republican.

The East has a beauty all its own, and so has the West, and so also have the tropical and semi-tropical Polynesian Islands of the Pacific, as well as the far-away Nile country. The one may be contrasted, but not compared with any of the others, for there is little and often nothing in common.

The gentle, long stretching slopes of the Alleghenies, the Blue Ridge and the Catskills, interspersed with here and there more rugged features eall forth very different emotions than do the Rockies with their towering cloud-capped peaks, their deep impenetrable canyons, their marvelous shale formations, or the lofty Sierras with their pinnacles of snow.

Then, too, their flora. In the East, the graceful elms and willows, the maple and oak, the hemlocks and the chestnut; and in the West the ever prevailing cottonwoods, the mighty moss-covered oaks, the eucalyptus, the redwoods, the coniferous forests; in the Tropies, the banyan, the gorgeous poncianas, the galden and pink showers, the African tulip, the mahoganies, the royal and date palms, the fan and wine and betel nut palms, the monkey pod, the amarind, the jackarandas and hundreds of other species and varieties.

The East quickens your pulse and gladdens your heart with the entrancing wild flower friends of your youth: the trailing arbutus, peering forth in all its pink beauty from under the snow, the little Quaker ladies in blue, the dog-tooth violets, the trillium, the honey-suckle, the azalia, the laurel, the rhododendron, and oh! so many others, many of which are never found in the West—home of the golden poppy and many legumes—neither in the Islands of the Pacific, where the blossoming trees are gorgeous in their flaming reds and yellows, and pinks, and lavenders, but not the tender, appealing, delicate blossoming of the apple and pear, the cherry and the peach; and where the beneficent Nile runs her course there are the lotus and papyrus, the lily, and the yellow clustering blossoms of the date palm, but the little children of the oasis and the desert never gather the butter-cups and the wind-flowers, the daisies and the wild roses, nor find a Jack-in-the-pulpit, nor blow merrily away the feathery seeds of the dandelion.

But the East! How many, having left the parent home years ago and now living in the far West beyond the Mississippi or on the Islands of the Pacific, or even in the Orient, look back and long to return once more, for awhile at least, to the beloved haunts and the tender beauty of the re-birth of the spring season.

Years ago in these mountain glades few traveled far from home and scarcely knew how very beautiful was the surrounding country.

Now there are splendid State roads without a peer anywhere on the Continent passing through the hospitable town of Oakland and embracing in its route the Old National Road. No finer glimpses of nature ean anywhere be had. It is a marvelously beautiful country. Within a radius of perhaps thirty miles even the sky-line has not been denuded of its forest trees and there are near-by forest reserves totaling, perhaps, two thousand acres, where grassy pockets, skirted by dark hemlocks invite one to picnic or to camp, and close by is the Deep Creek Lake where trout abound, where boating could be a pastime and in imagination one already sees summer bungalows dotting the shores of this lake whose irregular circumference is about seventy miles, the wooded hills sloping upward and away from it, for even at this elevation of perhaps three thousand feet the country is rolling and the forests are broken by fine, prosperous looking farms where substantial homes nestle, fat cattle graze and where the apple and pear and peaeh trees are in evidence; where the wheat and oat fields assert themselves in wave-like motion over their surface, and where the buckwheat in all its white serenity adds another touch of beauty.

Then there are Table Rocks and Lovers' Paths, with sunlight and shadow flitting across; there are falls of rushing, tumbling waters inviting one to come and rest awhile and drink in the rare beauty of these sylvan retreats in this cool bracing atmosphere.

Along the State road there are the Rainbow and other inns close by the lake inviting week-end guests to tarry awhile and refresh themselves with the icy cold pure spring water and unrivaled mountain fare.

A two hundred mile trip can be taken by auto via Addison and Uniontown in Pennsylvania and Morgantown, Kingwood and Terra Alta in West Virginia. The pretty little town of Kingwood in itself is a gem. Fine homes with the red and pink rambler roses at every door or on every lawn, as well as here and there all along the route.

The outlook from elevated points in the town of Oakland gives charming vistas of green meadows, groves and forest land, and far away mountains in the blue distance. Even the occasional light fogs that settle over the town serve but to soften and beautify, lending mystery and charm even to the half-concealed and half-revealed fine homes and lawns.

Nature lovers can ramble about finding ever-increasing joy and pleasure in wooded haunts or through forests of hemlocks which also should be visited during the winter season when every bough is laden with the pure white snow and the ground is a carpet of glistening white. Then, if ever, reverently bowing before Nature's God, will the soul be lifted into an atmosphere as pure as the surrounding scene.

May many seeking summer pleasures far from the city's din visit these haunts where wild flowers abound, and where the azalia, the laurel and the rhododendron gladden and quicken the heart, and where the robin and bluebird and thrush pour forth their melodies. E. A. T.

Mrs. Blanche Perkey and Mrs. Grace Graham, of Cumberland, were visitors in our town last week.

Rev. Z. C. Adkins and family, of near Huntington, W. Va., are visiting relatives and friends here and elsewhere while attending Summer school of Theology. He preached at the Sunday evening service, which was greatly enjoyed by his friends here.

Mr. F. N. Reis returned to his work on Tuesday after a week's absence because of an infected finger.

Miss Kathleen Thrasher, of Washington, D. C., is at her home here.

BITTINGER.

Although the rains that fell during the closing days of last week were badly needed for growing crops, many farmers were obliged to allow much hay to remain in the field over Sunday, which was cut and ready to put away when the rain eame.

Victor McQuiggin, of Connellsville, Pa., is spending some time at the George Wiley home, near here.

Mrs. George Stark returned to her home here a few days ago after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sneicher, at Accident, following an operation for the removal of her tonsils.

William Speicher, of Accident, has been helping Chauncey R. Broadwater with his hay making for the past week.

Oliver C. Buckle and family drove over to St. Paul, Pa., last Sunday for a brief visit at the Charles J. Sechler home.

Rev. E. E. Campbell, pastor of the local Lutheran church, and Clayford Detrick, are spending this week at Camp Royal, near Annapolis, Md.

Mrs. Oliver Beaehy and son, Earl, were shopping in Frostburg last Saturday afternoon.

The regular Sunday evening Luther League service of the village was not held last Sunday evening, for the reason that the lighting plant was out of commission and the batteries down.

TEACHING TOO LATE.

Experience is a great teacher, but sometimes the knowledge experience gives comes too late to be of any benefit. Such a case happened Saturday near Crellin and has happened many times before even in this one county.

Guy Smith. a boy of sixteen. in company with another boy of about the same age, were riding on a coal train between Crellin and Hutton when the Smith boy was thrown beneath the wheels of the car. The wheels severed his leg at the hip. He died as a result of his injuries Sunday morning at the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland.

This is only one of many such cases where young boys are endowed with an extreme desire to a "hop" a train and enjoy a free ride. Some get by without an accident. Experience never teaches them anything along this line. But others are caught beneath the grinding wheels of cars and are either killed or maimed for life. Experience has taught them, but it has taught them too late.

When will the time come when the experiences of others will serve as the personal experience of individuals?

When this time comes, and only then will there be a let-up of railroad accidents, automobile mishaps and other costly happenings contributed to by the foolhardy acts that result in the loss of life or the maiming of individuals following.

FITTING REWARD

A fitting reward for the success of the scout troop in Oakland will soon be a reality—a permanent barracks and dining hall for its members along Deep Creek Lake. The $237.50 which has been donated by the people of Oakland for these two buildings shows that they have faith in the troop continuing to be what it has been for the past three years.

Many times an attempt to organize a scout troop here failed for one reason or another. It remained for Rev. A. J. Torrey, who was formerly rector of the Episcopalian church here, to start things and start them correctly in order that they might continue. That is just what happened, and Scoutmaster Scott Shirer, who has had charge of the scouts since Reverend Torrey left, has held them together very efficiently.

The troop has become important in the community, and since being backed by the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Court of Honor, the scouts themselves have seemed to realize the importance of keeping on with this great work. That they have kept on in real earnestness is shown by the fact that the $200 needed to furnish them with a permanent camp has been donated easily by the Oakland people with an extra $37.50.

The success of the Oakland troop shows that it can be done. Why not have more scout troops in the county? There are excellent chances in Friendsville, Grantsville, Accident, Kitzmiller, and perhaps Crellin. Some interested person to start things and keep them going is all that would be needed.

This Writer Wants New Creamery So That He May Increase Production and Make Dairying Worth While In Garrett County.

To the Editor of The Republican:

The idea of bringing to this community a new milk shipping station is to increase production and to make dairying worth while in Garrett county, one of the most natural dairying counties in this section of the United States today. Production can be increased and will be increased at a profit to the farmers of the county providing there is some competition created in opposition to our present concern, because it must be admitted that competion is the life of trade in industry, and by two concerns being here, will give the farmer something worth while to work for.

It might be stated that a questionaire sent from the county agent's office in order to obtain information as to what the farmers were mostly interested in and what problems they wished to solve, ninety percent of the questions returned show that the farmers were interested in dairying and complained as to the existing conditions with which they had to contend.

The business men have also realized that the establishment of another milk shipping station will be a benefit to this community and have been working on this problem to ascertain what could be done in order to benefit the farmer.

After having made a survey of the county, interested parties decided that conditions were so ideal for dairying that the dairy industry could be built up to support two creameries.

Have you ever thought of the amount of acreage in a radius of only ten miles of Oakland? If you will figure the same, your answer will be surprising, as but one gallon of milk will be required from every acres of land to amount to 2,500 gallons of milk in addition to what is now being produced. It can easily be seen that enough feed can be grown to produce the milk, since many hundred acres of land in this community is now idle but can be used for pasture and grain fields.

It is not the purpose to destroy the present creamery, but on the other hand, it will benefit by the increased production of milk in its locality. The milk produced in this county will not pass inspection to be marketed as whole milk, and until it will pass for whole milk, the supply will be used for milk products such as butter, ice cream. cottage cheese, etc.

It is not a requirement of the new concern moving here that conditions around the barns be improved, but rather State laws, and it is to our advantage to improve our milking conditions now rather than wait longer when we will be forced to make improvements at a greater expense.

The price for milk will be set by agreement between the producers association and the dairy officials and will be agreed upon before the beginning of a month rather than after the end of the month. as is now the the case.

If competition means anything, then it is a logical conclusion that another milk station locate here in order that our farmers may derive such benefit as the two creameries will afford.

This Correspondent Would Like to See Twilight League in Preston and Garrett Counties—Suggests That Such an Organization Be Complete Next Year.

To the Editor of The Republican.

It is very evident that we should have a twilight league in this section of Garrett county. I believe the proper thing to do is to organize at once, although we do not get it working in a proper manner this year, we shall have it when the season opens next year.

My idea is that we should get three representatives from localities which are interested. I believe we can best start with Oakland, Crellin, Mt. Lake Park, Terra Alta this year, or probably more would like to get in, but I believe it best to begin small. During the winter months we could work on new vicinities, such as Accident. Friendsville. Deer Park, Grantsville, probably Kingwood and Aurora.

I think we should arrange to have a meeting at once and get some interest aroused. I believe Lawrence Fraley would act on such a committee, and with two others the Oakland committee could be formed. I suggest that C. W. Ream, Stanley Ashby and R. C. Ford be the committee to represent Crellin; Terra Alta, C. A. Miller, Dr. Dailey and Mr. Dodge; Mountain Lake Park, H. C. Leighton, R. C. Tassie and M. G. Brown.

I am just making the above as a suggestion. Then if letters were sent out arranging for a meeting, things ought to get started pretty quickly.

Double Wedding Solemnized.

A double wedding was solemnized in St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal church in Oakland on Monday morning at eleven o'clock.

Lee Darwin Saunders and Mildred Rachel Welling, and Richard Daniel Barger and Mildred Jane Eckley, were the contracting parties, the ceremonies joining the couples in wedlock being performed by the Rev. Paul Linaweaver, pastor of St. Matthew's. It was Rev. Linaweaver's first experience in performing this holy rite, he having only been recently licensed as a minister of his church.

Both couples will reside at Clearfield, Pa., all the parties except Mrs. Saunders having lived there formerly. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley W. Welling, of Mountain Lake Park, her husband being a son of John Sanders, of Oakland, but has been making his home in Clearfield for the past five or six years. Mr. and Mrs. Barger are natives of Clearfield.

The church altar was vested in white and the decorations were white phlox. Both brides were attired in traveling suits and carried corsage bouquets of sweetheart roses. Immediately after the ceremony they left for Washington, Baltimore, Annapolis and other eastern cities.

TWO CARS IN COLLISION AT CRELLIN ON SATURDAY

Occupants of Auto Unhurt, but Machines are Damaged

A head-on collission on the State highway near the Youghiogheny River bridge at Crellin Saturday caused considerable damage to two cars, but none of the occupants was seriously hurt, small cuts and lacerations being the extent of any injuries received.

The driver of the Ford car, whose name is not known, and who had his wife and several children with him, did not remain near the accident long, in fact they did not even wait to get their car, according to reports, but started walking down the road.

The driver of the Chevrolet coupe was Ben Moon, of Terra Alta, who, with his wife, was on his way to his home when the accident occurred. The Ford struck the Chevrolet with such force, it is said, that the coupe was shoved through the guard rail backward causing considerable damage to the front of it. The Ford was damaged to the extent of almost totally destroying its vlaue.

DIED.

HENRY C. FOWLER.

Henry C. Fowler, aged 77, died at his home in Mountain Lake Park Sunday evening, July 25, after an illness of several months' duration. He was born on Sept. 28, 1849. Funeral services took place yesterday afternoon at his late home, followed by a service with sermon at the Red House Lutheran church, where he had been a member for more than fifty years. Interment was made in the church yard. Rev. Walter E. Waybright, pastor of the church, and Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's church in Oakland, conducted the services at Red House. Mr. Fowler was married more than fifty years ago to Miss Catharine Gower. He was a veteran, of the Civil War, seeing hard service with the Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry under General Philip Sheridan. He is survived by five children: Mrs. Ora Ridder, of Sunnyside; Mrs. William Hamill, of near Deer Park; Mrs. Kelzy Adams, Clarksburg, W. Va., and Harry and Miss Olive Fowler, at home; two brothers, Charles and Asa, both of Uniontown, Pa., and two sisters, Mrs. Hughes, of Fairchance, Pa., and Mrs. McCann, of Masontown, Pa.

RICHARD M. SHAFFER.

Richard M. Shaffer, son of the late James H. and Anna (Wotring) Shaffer, was born July 30, 1850, at Aurora, Preston county, W. Va. He departed this life at his home in Baltimore on July 22, 1927, and was buried in Woodlawn Cemetery, Baltimore, on Sunday. His early manhood was spent around Aurora. Besides his wife, Sarah Roth Shaffer, he is survived by three children, Charles A., Homer B. and Mrs. E. S. Clark; his brother, Lloyd C. Shaffer, and Mrs. Lewis Bush, of Oakland; two half-brothers, J. Albert and Harry G. Shaffer, of Washington, D. C., and one half-sister, Mrs. J. O. Lantz, of Hartmonsville, W. Va. The late Mrs. John A. Lantz, of Aurora, was also a sister. Mr. Lloyd C. Shaffer and Mr. Roy O. Winters, of Oakland, attended the funeral.

ORVAL SCHROCK.

Orval Schrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Schrock, Gortner, died Saturday morning after a lingering illness of tubercular meningitis. He was aged 4 years, 7 months and 3 days. Funeral services were held on Monday. Dr. N. L. Broadwater, Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh and Dr. John E. Legge were called in consultation, but their efforts to save the child's life were of no avail. He is survived by his parents and one brother, Norman. Those attending the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schrock, of Dover, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Burkholder and two children, Mr. Joseph Yoder and family, of Meyersdale, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Summy, of Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eichorn, of Grantsville.

DANIEL O'BRIEN

Daniel O'Brien, aged 89 years, died Sunday night, July 24, at his home in North Glade, following a stroke of paralysis which he suffered earlier in the day. He was buried on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock from his late home, the Rev. William J. McVeigh, newly appointed rector of St. Peter's Catholic church, Oakland, officiating. Interment was made in the family burying ground on the home farm. At the funeral service Rev. McVeigh was assisted by four students from Holy Cross, Washington, D. C., who also rendered a very beautiful quartet. Mr. O'Brien is survived by five sons and four daughters. Two daughters preceded him in death.

MRS. EMMA MOON.

Mrs. Emma Moon, 78 years of age, widow of the late John T. Moon, Sunnyside, died yesterday at her residence. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ida Sacks, of Baltimore; Mrs. Roy O. Winters, of Oakland, and Mrs. Saville Sanders, at home; four sons: Harry, George, Ellsworth and Roy, all of whom reside in Garrett county.

MRS. BENJAMIN CROSS.

Mrs. Benjamin Cross, 77 years of age, Sines, Garrett county, died last Wednesday. She had been an invalid for a year following a stroke of paralysis which she suffered a year ago. She was buried Friday in the cemetery located on the Bray farm, near Sines, the Rev. Phineas Snyder, of the German Baptist church, officiating.

INJURED WOMAN RETURNS HOME; ONE DAY A BLANK

Mrs. Edward Swartz, Who Sustained Fracture of Skull, Cannot Recall Day's Events.

Mrs. Edward L. Swartz, 35, Scottdale, Pa., who was found on the Grantsville-Meyersdale highway Saturday, July 16, suffering from a fracture of the skull, sustained when she was thrown from a speeding car by her kidnapers, returned to her home one day this week, with one day of her life apparently a complete blank.

She was taken to the Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, following the discovery of her inanimate form on the road and has since claimed that she is unable to remember what happened to her from the time she left her home on Friday evening, intending to take a train to Pittsburgh, until she regained consciousness Saturday morning in the hospital.

Sheriff Wm. D. Casteel and Sergt. George P. Gearhart, of the State police, who investigated the ease, have accepted the woman's story that she can recall nothing that might aid the officers in apprehending her assailants.

Mrs. Swartz declared that two valuable rings and other jewelry she wore when she left home, are now missing. Her husband, who was constantly by her bedside during her stay in the hospital, believes she was first stunned by thugs and then thrown from the car seventy miles from her home after she had been robbed. He is a barber and musician of Scottdale.

"I don't know whether I was kidnaped or not," she said before leaving the institution. "All I know is that I left home Friday evening to go to Pittsburgh and from then on my mind is a complete blank. I can recall nothing further until I regained consciousness here in the hospital."

It was at first thought that the woman was refusing to talk, in order to shield the driver of the car from which she was either thrown or fell, but at the hospital Mr. and Mrs. Swartz gave every indication of being greatly attached to each other.

MARRIED.

Kistler—Saylor — Sidney McClintock Kistler and Norma Irene Saylor, both of Johnstown. Pa., were quietly married in St. Matthew's P. E. church in Oakland at three o'clock Monday afternoon, the Rev. Paul Linaweaver, rector, performing the ceremony. The couple was accompanied by friends from Johnstown. Pa., and Keyser, W. Va. They will spend their honeymoon in eastern cities.

Fowler—Mitchell—Miss Clara Mitchell, daughter of the late John T. Mitchell and Mrs. Kansas Hamill Mitchell, of Oakland, and Mr. William M. Fowler, Wenatchee, Washington, were united in marriage at the Central Methodist Episcopal church at Spokane, on Wednesday, July 20th, the Rev. Mr. Jeffries performing the ceremony. Immediately following the weeding the couple left by motor for a trip of two weeks. They will make their home at Wenatchee, Washington, where the groom is employed as a bank inspector. Mrs. Fowler left Oakland about a year ago and has been engaged in the millinery business at Wenatchee.

He is remembered by a host of friends in Oakland, as he has been here upon several occasions in the past two or three years.

Miss Julia Bonafield, returned missionary from China, who has been spending a portion of her vacation period with her niece, Mrs. Bruce Falkenstine, at Mountain Lake Park, will leave this week for her former home at Tunnelton. Miss Bonafield, during her stay at the Park, has had on exhibition and for sale some of the handiwork of Chinese boys and girls. The proceeds from the sale of the articles is devoted to mission work.

SECOND AND OAK STREETS OAKLAND, MD.

Miss Hazel Roberts and the Misses Elizabeth and Ann Cummins, of Wheeling, West Va., spent Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bush.

Rev. William J. McVeigh, recently assistant pastor of the Holy Comforter Church, Washington, D. C., and former assistant pastor of St. Michael's Church, stopped off here last week to visit friends prior to leaving for Oakland to assume his new duties as pastor of St. Peter's Church.—Frostburg Public Welfare.

Sealed bids for the transportation of school children, and for coal for the public schools of the county are being received at the Board of Education, according to an announcement appearing in The Republican today. There are six routes to be bid for in the transportation of the children, and bids for supplying coal may cover all schools of Garrett county or just one. These bids will be received until Saturday, August 6.

Eighth Annual Labor Day Picnic To Be The Best Yet!

When Garrett Lodge, No. 113, Knights of Pythias of Oakland makes the announcement of a Labor Day picnic one can depend on it that it is a picnic "what am" and not to be confused with the family reunions and smaller gatherings such as are held from time to time.

The committee meets twice each week and is perfecting plans and completing arrangements in detail.

To the casual visitor or passing motorist who catches but a glimpse of the crowds and observes the hustle and activity on picnic day, they can but partially conceive of the extensive preparations necessary for a successful picnic. The men behind the lines who actually carry on the fraternal, social and business phases of Garrett Lodge, are vitally interested in and love their work. They stand ready to give of their time and energy and really constitute the backbone of Garrett Lodge. Nothing will be spared to give the public what they demand and what they deserve on picnic day.

One of the main attractions this year will be the contest for possession of the car which is to be awarded. Tickets will be on sale shortly and you owe it to yourself to purchase liberally. The committee deems it a good fortune to be able to offer a 1928 model Chevrolet coach, costing $654. Someone is going to get a car of which they will be proud. Interest is being shown in the picnic as a whole, but the Chevrolet coach will be the center of attraction.

The committee is assured of a merry-go-round and Ferris wheel. There will be a prominent speaker and music. In fact, everything will be complete. Life is made up of hopes and aspirations, so begin hoping now for a jolly time and aspire to do a kind act by bringing the children and making them happy. COMMITTEE.

Oscar Wields A Mean Broom

There are many who have wondered why the Court House lawn is considered by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and other jurists as well as others who occasionally visit Oakland, the best kept property in any county of the State.

There are many who wonder how the offices in the Court House as well as the corridors are kept so clean; how it is that in the winter time, with the mercury hovering about the zero mark, as it often does, the offices are always warm at eight o'clock, and that the walks around the building are always clear of snow.

There is only one reason for all of this and that is the janitor, Oscar Notes, aged colored man, who has worked there for the past twenty years and has missed only two months' time in all those years. It is he who gets up at four o'clock on cold winter mornings and fires the Court House furnace and shovels the walks free of snow. It is he who goes all through the building each evening and sweeps the corridors and offices clean, afterwards dusting every nook and cranny. It is he who makes the Court House lawn what it is, calling forth the response from Judge Sloan that it is the best kept lawn in the State.

Oscar Notes was eight years old at the time of the Civil War and lived in Keyser, West Va. When the Court House was built in 1905, Oscar was in Oakland and had been for some time prior thereto, but he did not begin to work there until 1907. The grates in the two furnaces in the basement are the same ones that were in use when he started to work, showing the care that has been taken by him in preserving these things. Each year these furnaces and the multitude of pipes leading from and to them, are given a new coat of paint and the boilers thoroughly cleaned on their interiors by the janitor, who must also look after all the other duties mentioned above.

A close inspection of the basement rooms showed them to be in spotless condition with everything in its place. Even the coal storage room was clean and orderly. Oscar looked around with pride as he showed these rooms, which he termed his own.

Away in one end of the basement is a room shut off from the main compartment by an iron door, which, when opened, revealed many records that had been stored away since the erection of the county building. Records of elections, school board work and of the County Commissioners, etc., were piled in their proper places.

Oscar is so proud of his work and takes himself so seriously in everything he does about the public building, that he tries to do more than is required of him by his employers. He has a perfect right to feel that way, for his work is appreciated by the Court House officials as well as by every public spirited citizen in the county.

He has been commended by many of the judges and others who have visited the Court House on business or otherwise. "Oscar knows his stuff" when it comes to looking after the Court House or anything he is engaged in.

NORTH GLADE.

James A. Fitzwater is erecting a fine new home on his farm at this place which he expects to have ready for occupancy in the near future.

Our all-day meeting here Sunday was a decided success. Rev. Adkins, a former pastor, gave us a splendid sermon in the morning and Rev. Thayer preached a very acceptable sermon for us in the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. E. Kesner and Mrs. Pearl Sweitzer, of Mountain Lake Park, helped furnish some excellent music for the occasion. After a few impressive words by Rev. Brown, the meeting a journed. Many expressed their intention of going to Thayerville next Sunday to enjoy a similar meeting.

Farmers are all busy making hay, which is a good crop.

Quite a heavy rain storm visited this section on Thursday and Friday.

George H. Beckman and Richard Custer drove up to Oakland on Friday; also Mr. and Mrs. Newton Merrill.

Russell Moon, of Cumberland, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Moon, on Sunday.

Mrs. Newton Merrill and son Lloyd, visited friends and relatives at Swallow Falls on Saturday and Sunday.

Henry Fries, of Swallow Falls, was in our community on last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller, of Sand Flat, were visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Merrill, on Sunday.

Boyd Lohr purchased some fine calves one day last week.

Mrs. Daisy Barnard has moved to the Henry Johnston farm in Green Glade.

SWANTON.

Quite a number of the people of this place attended the all-day meeting held at North Glade on Sunday.

Mrs. Ray Johnson and sons Julius and Thomas, of Charleston, W. Va., are here visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Burk.

Miss Winifield Sweitzer, who is in training at the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland, has returned to her duties in the hospital after spending a vacation of two weeks here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sweitzer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Friend and family, of Connellsville, Pa., were in camp here for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Ashenfelter, of Keyser, W. Va., spent Sunday here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ashenfelter.

Mrs. John Friend and children, of Shallmar, formerly of Swanton, spent the week-end with relatives and friends in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Friend and their fine twin boys, from Keyser, W. Va., are spending the summer months with their parents and friend in Swanton.

Mrs. Mary Burk, of Piedmont, W. Va., spent Sunday with relatives

GRANTSVILLE.

Trial Attracts Attention.

A trial was held in the municipal building before Justice William G. Keller last Wednesday evening, in which Dewey Yommer, of Grantsville, was charged by James Morton, of Frostburg, with secreting musical instruments which Mr. Morton claims were taken from an automobile or automobiles used by the orchestra some time during April, 1926. Mr. Yommer, who is a conductor on the Casselman Valley Railroad, together with other members of the train crew, found the instruments concealed behind some timbers near the railway tracks, and took charge of them, keeping them safely until the owners should be found. Mr. Morton claims he advertised the loss of the missing instruments. Mr. Yommer was dismissed and Mr. Morton regained possession of his instruments. Attorney Wm. R. Offutt was counsel for Mr. Yommer, and Attorney Minnick, of Frostburg, for Mr. Morton. The trial attracted the largest number of persons that have attended a hearing before a Justice for a long time. Every bit of available space within and around the municipal building within hearing was crowded.

Slides Off Road.

Gilber Friend, accompanied by his brother from Swanton, while traveling eastward up the west side of Negro Mountain on Saturday afternoon in a Buick roadster, was slightly cut when their car suddenly lurched over the bank and rolled down the hill for a considerable distance, damaging the machine considerably. Wet, oiled macadam is said to be a constant menace to safe motoring whether up hill or down. There have been a large number of accidents on this particular mountain, most of them due to the slipper condition.

Lightning Causes Injury.

While taking in hay a flash of lightning, last Thursday afternoon, caused the team of Irvin Baker to run away with a load of hay, throwing Daniel Baker off, bruising him considerably but, fortunately, no bones were broken. Mr. Baker has been confined to his bed since that time, but is improving. Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Baker and their son, Allen, were all more or less shocked by the flash. Allen states he was in the act of putting a fork full of hay on the load when the stroke came. The current ran up his arm and caused him momentary blindness. Messrs. Guy and Hubert Stanton, with their men, Bursey Whitacre and Sherman Hare, who were at work across the river in the same locality, all distinctly felt the shock. They saw the Baker team run away; saw Mr. Daniel Baker being picked up by his son, unconscious, giving them much concern as to his safety.

Negro Mountain Rattlers.

Edward Beachy and son, Alvin, while taking up hay in one of their fields several weeks ago encountered a large yellow rattle snake, which they succeeded in capturing, the prize having nine rattlers and a buttton. Mr. Beachy states he kills several rattlers on his farm each summer and that finding several in a day in his hay field requires a good nervous system to keep going.

Miss Conner Advancing.

Miss Marie Conner accepted a position at teacher of shorthand in the New Jersey College of Commerce, Atlantice City, last week, beginning her duties on Monday of this week. Miss Conner entered the Strayer Business College, Baltimore, last November and completed the stenographie course in a creditable manner in spite of having been compelled to lose two months from her work last winter because of the illness of her aunt, Miss Gertie Hone. Miss Conner taught in the public schools here in the county for a number of years and in the elementary schools of Cumberland for two years before entering the business college to prepare for her new field of work.

44th Studio Evening.

The 44th Studio Evening program was given last Friday night by the puipls of the Holmes and Wallace Studios in two parts.

Part I.

Thoughts for the Discouraged Farmer, Mr. Clyde Miller.
Serenade, ... Miss Mabel Younkin
What My Lover Said, Miss Helen Folk.
Bride Song, Mrs. Geo. Diefenbach.
The Guerdon, Miss Agatha Black.

Part II.

Fraudvoll und Leidvoll, George Diefenbach.
Deaf Beethoven, Miss Dorothy Edwards.
Presto from Sonata Op. 10, No. 2, Miss Helen Folk.
Minuet from Sonata, Op. 49, No. 2, Clyde Miller.
Tribute to Beethoven, Lee Roy Shumaker.
Adagio from Sonata Op. 27, No 2, Miss Mabel Younkin.
Nature's Adoration, Miss Christine Winterberg.

A feature of the second part of the program was the reading of the prize Beethoven essay, of which five were submitted by the members of the Junior Studio Club, after a study of Beethoven, his music and life, since last winter. All of the papers were excellent, so good that they were submitted for judging to a musician, high in his profession, and an ardent student and admirer of Beethoven, who, with two of his best pupils, rendered the decision, in which Mr. Lee Roy Shumaker was given first, and received a beautiful volume of History of Music. Miss Helen Folk was awarded second place and received a picture of Beethoven suitably framed.

Services in the churches next Sunday as follows: Methodist—Sunday school at 10 a. m.; Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m. Reformed—Sunday school, 10 a. m. Lutheran—Sunday school, 1:15 p. m., and worship at 2:30 p. m.

Hoover—Yommer

Harry Hoover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hoover, of Jennings, who is employed as an engineer by the Casselman Valley Railroad Company, and Miss Olive Yommer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Yommer, of near Grantsville, were quietly married by Rev. E. E. Campbell at the Lutheran parsonage in Bittinger on May 25th. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover's marriage was not generally known, although they made no effort to conceal the fact. For the present each is residing at the parental home.

Quarterly Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the M. E. church for this circuit, of which the Rev. J. E. Johnson is pastor, will be held at New Germany by Rev. Shultz on Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, with the administration of the Holy Communion. The announcement made in last week's Republican stated this meeting was to be held at Jennings, which was erroneous.

Club Picnic

The Women's Community Club will hold their regular monthly meeting and annual picnie next Wednesday afternoon, August 3d, at High Point Camp, on Negro Mountain. Each member of the club will pack her basket. All members are urged to be in attendance.

Entertains Tourists.

The Truip Bus Line Co., of LaGrange, Indiana, which operates a fleet of tourists' busses, has made the National Hotel their headquarters in this community. A party enroute to Gettysburg and Washington was entertained at this well-known hostelry on Sunday night. Other parties are expected at various times during the summer.

Farewell Party.

The Bridge Club entertained last night at Little Crossings in honor of Mrs. M. W. Whiteford, one of the members, who will be leaving the community about August 1 for Washington where Mr. Whiteford has secured a position as farm manager. Mr. Whiteford has been teacher of agrieulture in the high school here during the past two years. The couple will be greatly missed in the community.

Minor Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hanft entertained at dinner Sunday evening the following relatives and friends: Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Friend and children, Mr. and Mrs. James Kimmel and son, Espy Clark, Roy Hoffman, Richard St. Clair, Henry Resh, Pauline Swearman and Pearl Horner, all of Bell, Pa. They also had the following named relatives call at their home on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Hanft, Mrs. Otellia Urich and children, of Keyser Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner, of Chestnut Ridge, and Mr. and Mrs. David Glotfelty and children, of Salisbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Broadwater and children, of Bell, Pa., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Beachy.

Mrs. Margaret DeBolt, of Confluence, spent several days here with her friend, Miss Gertie Hone.

Mrs. Albert Miller and children, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Miss Amy Hodges, of Washington, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Miller last week at Little Meadows.

Mrs. Michael Nathan suffered a stroke of paralysis last Thursday and is reported in a critical condition.

Mrs. Benton Broadwater and Miss Florence Gregg, of Westernport, Md., were calling on friends here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Younkin and son Emmons, Mrs. Thomas Younkin and sons, Walter and Clarence, visited Truman Bittinger at Mt. Lake Park, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hershberger, of Waterloo, Iowa, were visiting friends in this locality last week. They spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Miller on the Kuykendall farm at the old stone house, and known as Little Meadows. Mr. Hershberger was manager of this farm for a number of years, moving from it to Watreloo, where he and his family are happily located and his sons engaged in a prosperous retail business.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kinsinger and family, of Confluence, Pa., spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kinsinger and Mr. and Mrs. Henry McKenzie.

Mrs. Martha Gregg and daughter, Mrs. Amy Dixon,of Westernport, Md., are visiting relatives and friends here and at Jennings and Bittinger this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Bittinger, of Akron, Ohio, are spending a week here with their uncle, Wilson Bittinger.

MT. LAKE PARK.

Mr. Lewis Stone, of Wheeling, who came here with Mrs. Stone some time ago, was taken suddenly ill on Sunday afternoon. Dr. H. W. McComas attended him and after an examination pronounced his trouble a serious kidney disease and advised taking him to his home in Wheeling, which was done Sunday evening, Dr. McComas accompanying the patient, who returned to Oakland Sunday night. Mr. Stone stood the trip quite well.

This week there is gathered at the Park a host of preachers from various conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church, forming the Pittsburgh area Summer School of Theology. Dr. R. B. Cuthbert is the dean of the school. The night meetings are proving of much interest to increasing congregations. The school will close on August 4th. The program for next Sabbath is one of the best of the season of 1927. Among the able speakers now present are Bishop Francis J. McConnell, one of America's greatest pulpit orators; Prof. Albert C. Kundson, of Boston University, and Dr. Allen MacRossie, educational director of the Methodist Episcopal church.

August 8-13, the eighth annual tennis tournament for the Western Maryland championship takes place under the auspices of the Women's Civic Club of the Park. This tournament is sanctioned by the United States Tennis Association. For particulars see or write Mrs. W. L. Camden, Mountain Lake Park.

Miss Dorothy Stevenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, will attend the National 4-H camp at Springfield, Mass., about the middle of September, she being the best all-round Garrett county girl at the 4-H camp recently closed at Grantsville. Congratulations.

Sunday, August 7th, is Tri-State Christian Citizenship Day, in charge of Dr. W. W. Davis. A great program is always provided for this day. The speakers at the evening meeting will be Dr. A. Moore, Mrs. W. W. Grant, of Oakland, and Mr. George W. Diefenbach, of Grantsville. Services will be held at 11:00 a. m.; 3:00 p. m., and 7:30 p. m.

Messrs. McClelland Friend and Hervey Smouse, district assessors, visited the Park the latter part of last week looking over the property and making the assessment as required by law.

Dr. Kauldwell, a converted Hebrew, connected with the Bible School at Washington, D. C., gave a very interesting talk to a number of our citizens assembled on the large porch and front rooms of Mrs. Davidson's home here one afternoon recently.

A troop of well behaved and gentlemanly Boy Scouts from Fairmont, W. Va., had five tents and their camping outfit near the lake several days of last week.

Rev. Dr. U. S. Wright, a former resident of Loch Lynn, is in the State Sanatorium at Sabillasville, Md., on account of ill health. Mrs. Wright is living in Lonaconing.

Miss Virginia Richardson, a trained nurse connected with the Hospital for Women in Baltimore, who has been here on a visit to her parents, returned to Baltimore on Tuesday.

Mrs. John A. Clark, Mr. John A. Clark, Jr., and family, and Mrs. W. F. Black, of Fairmont, W. Va., moved into the Clark home on G street last Monday.

Mrs. W. H. Murphy, of Fairmont, is a guest at the home of her son, Mr. Frank Murphy.

Attorney and Mrs. Showalter, of Lewisburg, Pa., are guests of Mrs. Harry Clayton.

Monday morning a maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tenhagen, fell dead while standing at an ice chest in the home at an early hour on Monday. The deceased was aged about 45 years and had been in the employ of the family for several years. An attack of the heart was given as the cause of death. The remains were removed to the Bolden undertaking establishment in Oakland and later sent to relatives in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey were Cumberland visitors part of last week.

I wish to give a note of warning to bathers at Swallow Falls who are unable to swim, as there is a whirlpool about one hundred feet below the falls, just above the large boulders on the west side of the stream. Recently a young woman plunged into the river at this point and went under twice before she was rescued.

The following from the New York Christian Advocate will be read with interest by many people of this section:

"Dr. Charles W. Baldwin, in his eighty-eighth year, is remarkably active in service, though holding the retired relation, and he is an inspiration and joy to the members of the Baltimore Conference. His plans and activities are for the many days of the future. Here is the way he does it, when he wishes to celebrate the sixty-sixth anniversary of his graduation from Yale College: On Tuesday, June 21, he left Baltimore in a sleeper at 8:35 p. m., and arrived at New Haven at 6 a. m., Wednesday. He participated in all the commencement exercises of the day with great enjoyment; spent Thursday in New York with relatives and got back to Baltimore at 3:30 p. m., Friday, in perfect health and comfort. At the request of Dr. Baldwin, the Baltimore and the Washington Preachers' Meetings will hold their first meeting in the fall, September 19, at the Baldwin Memorial Church, Millersville, Anne Arundel county, and will celebrate the sesqui-centennial of Francis Asbury's coming into Southern Maryland. On this historic day, besides the ministers and their wives, representatives of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church, will be guests of honor; Bishop W. F. McDowell will be the presiding officer and Bishop L. B. Wilson will make the address. At the urgent request of the enlarged committee of arrangements, Dr. Baldwin will read a paper on "Early Methodism in Southern Maryland.'"

Dr. Baldwin was one of the founders of the Community of Mountain Lake Park and is spending the present summer in the Park with his family.

Rev. Dr. Arbuthnot, a former M. E. minister of Oakland, is spending a few days in the Park.

Miss Dessie Rodeheaver arrived in the Park, being accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Henry G. Sanders, from the Allegany County Hospital, in Cumberland, Monday evening, where the former had undergone an operation for the removal of her tonsils a few days before.

VACCINATION PARTIES

Being Held on the Eastern Shore Prior to the Opening of School

Promp vaccination of all children who will enter school this fall and who have not been protected against smallpox is strongly urged by Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health.

The lead in this direction was taken by one of the colored schools in Easton. In preparation for the opening of the schools in September and for the questions that will be put to all new first graders, "Have you been vaccinated against smallpox? Show us your scar?" the teachers arranged for a vaccination party to which any unvaccinated children in the school and their young sisters and brothers were invited. According to all reports the party was a complete success.

At the child health conferences that are being held throughout the State under the auspices of the Bureau of Child Hygiene, special note is made of the children who will reach school age this year and who have not been protected against smallpox. Their mothers have been advised to lose no time in taking the children to their family doctors to have them vaccinated.

In one of the conferences, thirteen out of fourteen prospective first graders had never been vaccinated. In others, over half had not been vaccinated. None of these children would be eligible for admission to school. Out of a total of 3231 children, from 5 to 7 years old, examined at the health conferences in 1926, about two out of every three children—1960 altogether—were unprotected from smallpox. Hurry calls had to be made to their family doctors or to the nearest health officer and the children vaccinated before they could be received in any of the schools.

"Though smallpox has been on the increase in many other States," Dr. Futon said, "Maryland has been almost free from the disease, with only 16 cases in 1925; 2 in the counties and 14 in Baltimore City, and with 5 in 1926, all of them in the counties; none in Baltimore City. It has only been through the careful enforcement of our vaccination law which makes it impossible for a child to be admitted to school unless vaccinated and thru the intelligent co-operation of the people of the State that Maryland has been able to have a clean slate so far as this most loathsome disease is concerned."

Aphids Making Parking Unwise Under Maples.

And now the poor motorist, it seems, must also keep an eye out for the aphid. If he doesn't it is altogether probable that Mr Aphid and Mrs. Aphid and all the little aphids will conspire to ruin the nice, glossy finish of the motorist's brand new limousine.

This most recent addition to the list of the motorist's incessant worries will be found occupying preferred parking space. High overhead on the underside of the leaves of the Norway maples resides the aphid family, busily extracting the succulent juices from the leaves and excreting the excess sap as a sticky substance known as honeydew.

It is this sweet molasses-like material which causes the motorist so much worry; for a few days' accumulation of honeydew and dust will quickly change the appearance of the most elegant finish.

The prevalence of aphids or plant lice on the Norway maples this year is attributed by E. N. Cory, State entomologist, to a scarcity of their natural enemies. The prevalent rains have prevented the parasites and predators from depositing their eggs in the clusters of lice, while on the other hand the lice, occupying almost exclusively the underside of the leaves, are protected from the rains and multiply unchecked.

Examination of trees in various parts of the State indicates, however, that parasites and predators of the pest are increasing and will gradually wipe out the infestation, says Mr. Cory.

Five Hundred Boys and Girls to Attend Club Week.

Plans are being made for the instruction and entertainment of the five hundred 4-H club boys and girls who are expected to be at the University of Maryland to take part in the activities of Club Week, August 4 to 9.

The program being arranged will provide a course of intensive instruction in agriculture for the boys and a similar course in the household arts for the girls' classes will occupy the morning hours, while the afternoons will largely be devoted to games and various other amusements. Campfire sessions, featured by stunts from the different county delegations, are also scheduled for the twilight hours of evening.

There are approximately three hundred and fifty 4-H clubs throughout the State and most of the counties are expected to have representatives at Club Week. Teams of both boys and girls which will represent Maryland at Camp Vail, a 4-H club encampment held each year in connection with the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., are to be selected during the week, it is announced by E. G. Jenkins, State Boys' Club Agent.

Several interesting contests for the girls have been planned by Miss Dorothy Emerson, Girls' Club Agent, and suitable prizes will be offered the winners. Among them will be a demonstration contest in which a number of counties have entered teams. A silver cup, presented by the Rural Women's Clubs of the State, is the standing prize of this event. It was won last year by a team from Allegany county.

The sightseeing trip to Washington will again be a feature of the week.

Alfalfa Is Exacting But Not Hard To Grow

While alfalfa is not a difficult crop to grow, it is an exacting one and has probably given disappointment to more farmers than any other single farm crop. Usually, however, the disappointment has been due to the fact that one or more of the essential requirements for alfalfa has been overlooked or not adequately met, says F. W. Oldenburg, specialist in agronomy for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

The essentials for successful alfalfa production in the order of importance are a fertile, well-drained soil, an adequate supply of lime, good seed of the proper variety, a carefully prepared seed bed and inoculation on land that has not previously grown alfalfa or sweet clover.

While alfalfa is a legume and is generally classed as a soil improving crop, it is not a poor-soil crop. Almost any type of soil, provided it is well drained, will produce alfalfa, but it must be reasonably fertile. Alfalfa will not thrive on poorly drained soil.

Lime is necessary for successful alfalfa production and it is unwise to attempt to grow the crop on soil that has not been tested for acidity.

Common alfalfa seed from the northwest is recommended for Maryland conditions. Seed from the southwest or from irrigated regions should be avoided while seed from South America or from other foreign countries will mean disappointment. On soils where alfalfa heaves out badly in the spring, Grimm alfalfa may be better than the common variety.

Too much work cannot be devoted to preparation of the seed bed. The land should be plowed well ahead of the expected time of planting and should be kept in fine condition and free from weeds by frequent disking and harrowing following rains.

Planting about the middle of August gives alfalfa the best chance to make a good and enduring stand. On well prepared land the seed should be broadcast by hand and pressed into the soil with a cultipacker. If a drill is used, it should be set very shallow. There is danger of planting the seed too deep. Twenty pounds to the acre is the usual rate of seeding.

OUTING STARTS WITH 36 IN CAMP AND 3 TO FOLLOW

Boy Scouts Left Tuesday For Two Weeks' Stay In Barracks On Deep Creek Lake Shore

With a total of thirty-six Scouts and officers, Oakland Troop, No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, are now in camp in their headquarters on Deep Creek Lake, having left Oakland on Tuesday morning for their annual encampment of two weeks. The camp this year is the largest that has ever been held and three more Scouts are expected next week. Only two Scouts who are eligible for camping privileges are not now in camp, according to Scoutmaster Scott Shirer.

The equipment was moved to camp in trucks donated for the purpose by the West Penn Power Company, G. A. Fraley & Son, D. M. Dixon & Son, W. E. Shirer, C. N. McIntire. Those who furnished cars for transportation of the Scouts from their headquarters in Oakland to the camp were Mrs. J. C. Kendall, T. A. Gonder, Floyd Stahl, Playford Naylor.

Camp Aetivities.

The first day at camp was devoted to "digging in," and despite the soggy condition of the weather the camp routine has been fully carried out, the Scouts using the barracks for study and indoor sports. The new buildings and general camp improvements,made possible by those interested in Scouting in the community, are claimed by the Scouts to answer every requirement and they are loud in their praise of the new facilities and also of the new cook, William Turney, who, according to the boys "surely knows his stuff."

Wednesdays and Sundays are visiting days and the troop has extended a very cordial invitation to the people of the community to visit them on one of these days. Rev. A. J. Torrey, a former Scoutmaster of this troop, arrived in camp Tuesday evening for a two days' visit. Rev. Torrey is now Chief Scoutmaster of Logan county, West Va., and with him are four Scouts of his troop. His visit came as a complete surprise, but was a most welcome one.

List of Contributors to Fund

Cash donations for the camp fund which went over the top last week, were received from the following persons, the money donated being used for the erection of buildings at the Scout camp: A. L. Lee, A. D. Naylor, G. S. Hamill, W. R. Offutt, F. A. Smouse, Henry Lauer, Wm. Glotfelty, C. N. McIntire, Dr. N. I. Broadwater, Dr. A. Moore, L. K. Dixon, Harry L. Miller, Dr. W. W. Grant, J. E. Harned, Dr. W. D. Reed, Miss Fundenberg, B. H. Sincell, Bittner & Stahl, F. A. Thayer, J. C. Renninger.

Sincell, K. of P. Lodge, J. W. Whorton, W. H. Hinebaugh.

Material Donated.

Donations of building material were made by C. W. Ream and Guy Gregg. Those who donated the use of trucks were Oakland Garage, Abraham Lawton and W. E. Shirer. The use of team and driver was given by Sanford Moon. Labor in the erection of the buildings was donated by J. G. Altstetter, S. D. Whipkey, W. E. Shirer, Harry Hinebaugh, Milton Sincell, C. Harry Loar, Andrew Miller and son.

ROAD FROM FRIENDSVILLE NORTH WILL BE BUILT NOW

Of Macadam Instead of Concrete as was Originally Contemplated

Sealed proposals for building one section of State highway from the town of Friendsville toward the Pennsylvania State line, for a distance of 2.15 miles are to be received by the State Roads Commission until August 9th, according to an advertisement inviting such bids appearing in The Republican today.

This advertisement is made neccssary because of the fact of a ehange of plans concerning the proposed road. Originally it was the intention of the Highway Commission to construct a mile and one-half of the roadway, using concrete as the material, while the advertisement appearing today specifies penetration macadam and will be nearly twice as long as the concrete highway originally advertised, carrying the improved road to the point at which grading and draining has been completed, near the Blooming Rose Church.

TO PLAY KINGWOOD CLUB TODAY ON HOME GROUNDS

Oakland Team Out For Revenge On Victors of a Week Ago—John Collins In Lineup.

The Kingwood baseball club, with John I. Collins, former Oakland player as one of the main cogs, will play the Oakland club here this afternoon on the grounds of the old Oakland Hotel, on the State road leading to Crellin. The game is scheduled to start at six o'clock, and Oakland players have stated that they are out to avenge their defeat of last Thursday at Kingwood.

Oakland was swamped in the two games played during the past week, Kingwood winning 11 to 2, and Camp Terra Alta being victorious Tuesday evening, 8 to 1.

The game at Kingwood was a nine inning contest, and Oakland's much older and more expericnced opponents had little trouble scoring at will. The two scores of the local team came late in the game. The lineups as follows: Kingwood—Liston, Bobo, Collins, Jackson, Whetsell, Carroll, Harrison, Corrick, Craig; substitute, White. For Oakland—Vosper, John Wolf, Jim Rice, Fred Wolf, Guardiola, Hoffman, Lew Hanst, Arnold and G. Hanst; substitutes, Weber and Yutzy.

The contest Tuesday evening at Camp Terra Alta was carried through for eight innings, the camp boys scoring three runs in the second and three runs in the seventh, giving them a safe margin. Oakland's lone tally came in the sixth inning. The lineup for Camp Terra Alta—Moore, Harper, Bode, Howdy, Burke, Underwood, Vosper, Pritchard and Carson. For Oakland—Fred Wolf, Hoffman, Hamill, John Wolf, Ricc, Guardiola, Weber, Lew Hanst and G. Hanst.

The Oakland team will go down to Friendsville on Saturday and play the Friendsville club at the Ku Klux Klan picnic.

Tucker County Gold Rush.

"The gold rush into Tucker county," says last Thursday's Elkins Enterprise," is taken much more seriously away from here than in Parsons or Tucker county or on Clover Run or anywhere in the so-called 'gold fields.' For instance, Rev. Ross Johnson, the pastor of the Methodist Protestant church in Parsons was in Elkins this week and informed us that the State Conference of that church was to be convened in Parsons next month and that he had received a letter from the Bishop of the church in which he said that he had been reading all about the gold rush to Tucker and the crowded condition of Parsons with tents up all around the town and wanting to know if they had better not ehange the Conference to some other town where they would have more room and not be crowed so badly. Rev. Johnson replied that he failed to see the tents as yet or any special rush of gold seekers and that there was no necessity so far to make any ehange."

Small Wreck at Bear Creek Last Sunday Afternoon.

Attempting to pass a string of cars coming toward Oakland on Sunday afternoon, Ray Kolb, of Accident, driving a Chevrolet car, collided with another Chevrolet, occupied by Howard White and Miss Kathleen Lawton, both of Oakland. The wreek occurred on the State road at a point near the Friendsville road at Bear Creek. Damage was slight, as both the cars were going at slow speed. No one was injured.

BUSINESS MEN MAY HAVE CHARGE OF FAIR ONE DAY

Meeting Will Be Held In City Hall Monday Nght To Take Definite Action on Matter

Whether or not the business men of Oakland will have charge of one day of the Garrett County Fair, to be held September 20, 21, 22, and 23, will be decided at a meeting Monday night in the City Hall of all the business men of the community or their representatives, according to Cecil Smith, secretary of the Oakland Commercial Club.

The subject was brought up at the regular monthly meeting of the eleven members of the board of directors of the club on Tuesday evening, and it was decided then to put the question up to all the business men for their decision.

Should they decide to have charge of the fair for one day, there will be a parade including the displays of the business houses of town and other things of interest to business men.

Alvey R. Martin and H. P. Stuck, members of the committee appointed, interviewed the business men and notified them what the meeting would be for and urged that they either attend in person or send a representative.

Either the second or fourth day of the fair will be given over to the men, should they decide to accept the responsibility.

FORMER GARRETT COUNTY LAD MAKES SMALL PLANE

Which Is Being Exhibited In a Morgantown Display Window

Irvan Speicher, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mahlon Speicher, who formerly resided at Accident, Garrett county, has been putting his ingenious powers to work, according to a newspaper account appearing in the Morgantown (W. Va.) Post, in which city the boy and his parents are now living. The lad built a miniature airplane representing the "Spirit of St. Louis," which was shown in one of the display windows of a Morgantown store in connection with a sand box exhibition.

Following is the article:

Boyish Ingenuity.

Youthful ingenuity was displayed in building the sandbox now on display in A. R. Price's window, according to Mrs. Lynn Hastings, director of the Wiles Hill playground, which won the city playground contest Thursday evening. The original sand box, portraying in miniature the Wiles Hill playground, measured 16x20 feet.

When Richard Chalfant, aged 12, and Russell Houston, aged 13, were delegated to reproduce the sand box for public display they were allotted a space measuring only 2½x3½ feet. But they succeeded admirably in building the playground to scale anyway, as anyone may bear witness who will pause before Price's this evening or tonight, while the sand-moulding will be on display.

An airplane built by Irvan Speicher aged 16, also of Wiles Hill, was part of the original sand box scheme. It represents the Spirit of St. Louis with Lindbergh coming down to land on the Wiles Hill playground. A battery furnished by F. L. Frankenberger, of the Morgantown Battery Company, connected to a small engine in the plane, causes the propeller to revolve.

A ukelele made from a turtle's shell by Irvan Speicher is also on display in the window.

Wants Children to Share In Song Service Sunday.

Prof. David Roberts, a Welsh composer and soloist, of Baltimore, who is to have charge of the music at Mountain Lake Park for the Lord's Day program on Sunday, August 7th, has announced that he would like to have the children of the community share in the service. He is hoping that there will be one hundred boys and girls up to 16 years of age meet him at St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, on Saturday afternoon for a rehearsal of the songs he wants them to sing. Transportation will be furnished for all boys and girls to and from Mountain Lake Park Sunday afternoon.

New Ambulance Purchased

An up-to-date combination ambulance and hearse has just been purchased by Emroy Bolden, undertaker, to be used in Oakland or at other points where it may be required. The new ambulance is a "Meteor" and was purchased in Piqua, Ohio. Mr. Bolden and Alva Gortner went to Piqua on train No. 21 Sunday night and returned Tuesday evening with the new car. The ambulance which has been used by the undertaking establishment for some time past will be sold.

COOLIDGE SPRINGS A BIG SURPRISE IN STATEMENT

Yesterday In Which He Declared He Does Not Wish To Run for President in 1928.

President Coolidge yesterday issued the simple statement that "I do not choose to run for President in 1928," taking his close associates completely by surprise. He gave no extra comment with the announcement. The fourth anniversary of his taking the oath of office upon the death of Warren G. Harding was selected by the President for making the announcement, which yesterday seemed to have lighted the fires of the 1928 political campaign.

Whatever may have been in the President's mind, it is believed from circumstances yesterday that he knew exactly what he wanted to say some time before he said it. The concensus of opinion among Senators and political leaders is that his statement was a definite stand and that he would not be a candidate for the nomination next year.

IMPOSSIBLE FOR COUNCIL TO FATHOM POOLE'S DEPTH

Kitzmiller Magistrate Blandly Refuses To Hear Case

Walter Taylor, August and Tom Hanlin, had all been arrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly at Kitzmiller and had been lodged in the city "cooler." They wanted a trial, and they had a right to demand it, but circumstances did not permit this until Tuesday evening when one of the Oakland magistrates, W. A. Gonder, accompanied by E. R. Jones, attorney for the city of Kitzmiller, went to that place and the young men were given a hearing by the Oakland Justice, Mr. Jones appearing as the representative of the town in the matter.

The Justice of the Peace at Kitzmiller, Grover Poole, was said by Justice Gonder to be literally "on the outs" with the Mayor and Town Council and therefore refused to give the offenders "against the peace, dignity and majesty of the State" a hearing. Mayor T. W. Ebert would have stepped in and heard the case except for one thing—he is deaf, and therefore declined.

There was nothing else to do. Either the boys would have to be tried or released from the lock-up, and as there was no sign of a thaw between the magistrate and the Town Council, Oakland was called on for help.

Justice Gonder fined the offenders $5 and costs each, which they paid and were dismissed after they entered a plea of guilty to the charges against them.

Picnic Committee Enthused and Working Overtime.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the Labor Day picnic is going strong and seemingly have plenty of pep. Two meetings are held each week—Monday evening at 6:45 and Friday evening at 7:15. Not only is the presence of each committeeman requested, but anyone who has a good suggestion or who can lend a hand in the furtherance of this picnic, will find the welcome sign displayed.

The Chevrolet coach seems to be one of the topics of conversation on the streets and in public places. We can predict the number of tickets that will be sold when in the hands of such competent salesmen as A. G. Gortner and S. L. Townshend? Townshend, whom we affectionately call "Red", brought home the bacon last year and rendered a good account of himself. As a dispenser of tickets he is unexcelled ,so do not forget to give him the once over.

Slight changes have been made in the personnel of the picnic committee, but generally speaking they will stand as announced. We wish to explain to the public concerning the omission of the name of one of the most interested members of this Labor Day outfit. The gentleman in question is the general chairman of the committee and bears the burden of hearing the report of each member twice a week and in reality outlined the committees and appointed the various members. He is none other than Chancellor Commander Paul Bartlett Naylor. He shuns publicity, dodges the limelight, prefers obscurity and is a power behind the throne of Pythianism. Upon him depends much, but as he and Manager W. O. Droege are efficient in their respective fields of endeavor, success should crown their efforts and make the 8th annual Labor Day picnic the greatest of all.

BAND HAS NOT RECEIVED ANY FINANCIAL AID YET

Boys' Band of Oakland Practicing Regularly

"Although the Oakland Boys' band has not received any financial aid or any encouragement, progress is being made," R. R. Gilbert, director, said yesterday. "The number of boys practicing has increased to 18, but advancement is made difficult, because of the old instruments."

The two members are Junior Dixon and Fred. Peddicord, Jr.

"It is discouraging for a boy to have to blow upon a horn which only brings out discords," Mr. Gilbert pointed out, "and for that reason, either the parents or otber interested people, should see that new instruments are provided."

The success of the band will depend upon the interest of the members being kept up, according to Mr. Gilbert, and this can be done only by the parents helping out. "No, there has been no offer for financial aid," concluded Mr. Gilbert.

SEARCH FOR NEW MOTIVE IN MURDER OF STOTLER

Officials Do Not Believe Reason Given For Slaying of Prohibition Agent Was Real Motive

Searching for a possible new motive in the slaying of Hunter R. Stotler, prohibition chief who was well known in Garrett county, the effects of the murdered man are being examined by Federal and county authorities. R. E. Walters, the confessed slayer of his chief, has denied that he was the tool of a bootlegging ring and still maintains that he killed Stotler because of the latter's alleged intimacy with is wife.

In the letters, personal files and other correspondence of the slain man, the authorities hope to find evidence to show that Stotler was suspicious of Walters' alleged conspirency with the moonshiners of the Frog Hollow section of Washington county, where the murder took place.

Mrs. Stotler, widow of the dry agent, indignantly denies that her husband had illicit relations with Mrs. Walters' allegedconspiracy with the Walters sticks to her story of being drugged by Stotler and becoming his "love slave."

The first hint that Walters was connected with moonshiners was obtained from Edwin M. Rinker, private detective, who formerly served as prohibition agent and worked with both Stotler and Walters. He made no definite charge against Walters, but intimated that Stotler had learned of a plot which involved Walters with a bunch of moonshiners. It is known that this moonshine gang had threatened to "get" Stotler, but whether or not Walters was the tool of this band is a question.

Funeral Last Friday.

Funeral services for Stotler were held last Friday afternoon at Keyser, West Va., the Rev. Watson E. Holly, officiating. Interment was made in Rose Hill cemetery, Cumberland.

Anti-Saloon League Meeting.

Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, in 1920 the choice of the late William Jennings Bryan for President, has been secured as the principal speaker for the annual Anti-Saloon meeting to be held at Mountain Lake Park, Sunday, August 21, according to information issued from the headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland.

An all-day meeting is being planned with J. C. Renninger, State's Attorney of Garrett county, and G. W. Crabbe, superintendent of the League for this State, as speakers for the forenoon, and Senator Owen for the afternoon. There will be special music.

Ladies Honored at Weekly Rotary Dinner.

Members of the Rotary Club with their guests, totaling more than fifty, marking the semi-annual "Ladies' Night" of the local club, were present last Thursday evening at the William-James Hotel. The speaker upon this occasion was the Rev. D. M. Funk of Morgantown, W. Va., where he is at present located as pastor of St. Paul's Church.

The speaker's address was given over mainly to driving away the blues, his subject being "Bouncing the Blues", or getting the best things out of life. The address was one of the best ever delivered before the club.

Another feature of the meeting was the special music rendered by the club quartet, this organization singing several special selections.

CHANCES GOOD FOR NEW WHITE WAY, SAYS MAYOR

Inspection of Town Lighting System Monday Night May Assure Illuminated Section

An inspection of the lights and the lighting system of Oakland will be made Monday evening in connection with the probability of having a "Great White Way" for the business section of the town, it was learned yesterday from Mayor L. M. Fraley. The inspection will be conducted by Charles Snyder, a representative of the West Penn system, who was present at the meeting of the Town Council held Monday evening, and who laid his plans before that body.

Appeared Last Month at Meeting

Mr. Snyder appeared before the governing body of the town at its meeting held on July 5th, and discussed the matter pretty generally with members of Council, but no definite plans were reached at that time, although members of the body were favorably impressed with the proposition.

"Chances for the installation of the new lighting system are very good," Mayor Fraley said yesterday. "After the inspection on Monday evening something more definite will be known."

Mr. Snyder, as representative of the West Penn, has offered to supply the equipment free of charge, the only expense that the town need bear being the monthly lighting bill, which has been estimated by Mayor Fraley to cost about $50 per month in excess of the sum now paid the company.

Other Business of Council.

Other matters claiming the attention of Council at its meeting held on Monday night was the passing upon of the monthly payroll and the discussing of minor questions.

The next regular meeting of Council will probably be held on Tuesday, September 6th, as Monday, the regular meeting night, is Labor Day.

IN AND OUT OF HOSPITALS.

Small Child Operated Upon.

Charles Philip Gonder, five and one-half months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Gonder, of Oakland, was operated upon Monday morning at 11:00 o'clock in the Allegany Hospital, Cumberland, to relieve a pressure upon its brain. The boy is one of the twins born to Mr. and Mrs. Gonder on St. Valentine's day, February 14.

The child is doing as well as could be expected following the seriousness of the operation, and according to hospital authorities the chances for its complete recovery are excellent.

Kahl Child Improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Kahl returned home yesterday afternoon from Cumberland to which city they had taken their little daughter earlier in the day for an examination of its eye, which was punctured one day recently by an ice pick. An improvement in the child's condition was noted by the surgeon examining it.

Reta Lawton Will Undergo Operation This Morning.

Reta, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lawton, was taken to Cumberland this morning by her parents and upon arrival will undergo an operation for the removal of her tonsils.

Injured Child Taken Home.

Paul Hauser, 7-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hauser, of near Eglon, who had two fingers and the thumb on his left hand blown off and his right eye so badly injured that it had to be removed as the result of either a dynamite or railroad torpedo explosion, more than a week ago, was taken to his home yesterday evening from the hospital in Morgantown, W. Va., where he had been treated for his injuries. The child, it was stated by his father yeserday afternoon while he was in Oakland en route home with the boy, was playing with a box supposed to be empty and struck a nail in it with a hammer, setting off the contents with the above deplorable result.

To Erect Filling Station.

The erection of an oil and gas station and storage room for tires and accessories, will be started immediately at the corner of Third and Green streets by Chester Browning, where the blacksmith shop of E. G. Naylor now stands, according to information received from A. D. Naylor, who sold the property to Mr. Browning.

There will be a new blacksmith shop erected on the Helbig property near the Mill, where Mr. E. G. Naylor will continue his business.

4. C. E. Ingling, P. B. X. switchboard operator from Washington, who takes care of the telephone calls for the official party. This switchboard is located in the Rapid City high school.

5. The South Dakota state game lodge which is being utilized as the "summer White House" by President and Mrs. Coolidge. This building, picturesquely situated in the Black Hills, gets the President away from the turmoil and bustle of the city, but the telephone keeps him in touch with the affairs of the nation.

President Coolidge at his summer headquarters in the Black Hills of South Dakota keeps in touch with the affairs of the nation by telephone. The facilities of the system are always at the disposal of the nation, and just because the Chief Executive planned to spend his summer holiday in this semi-isolated section is no reason for people thinking that he is out of touch with the country at large.

In reality the Black Hills have a high standing with middle-west vacationists and in the past few years the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company has added many lines to the network of wires which connect practically every town, camp and mining section in this mountainous area with the telephone system of the country.

The state game lodge, which is in reality the "summer White House", has three telephone lines which terminate in a private branch exchange switchboard installed in the Rapid City high school building where the executive offices are located, 32 miles away.

The same method of handling calls for the President has been adopted that is used in Washington. Telephone calls for the Chief Executive go first to the official private branch exchange switchboard in the executive offices where the operator refers the call to the secretary of the President or one of the assistant secretaries. Unless the call is of unusual importance it probably goes no further than the secretary. The secretary, of course either properly disposes of the matter or has it referred to the President at his convenience, whic his the routine followed in Washington.

From this P. B. X. board there are trunk lines to the Rapid City long distance switchboard. From this board there is a direct long distance line to Washington and three to Chicago, besides other telephone lines for the use of the press associations and newspaper correspondents, who are reporting the activities of the executive party during their stay in the Black Hills section.

The fact that the nation's Chief Executive chose a supposedly isolated region for his summer vacation has given the telephone system an opportunity to demonstrate the fact that "universal service" is not a meaningless phrase. It emphasizes the fact that the network of telephone lines, linking the 18,000,000 telephones in the United States together make every section accessible to every other section of the country.

The construction of telephone lines in the Black Hills is more individual, however, and it was necessary for the telephone engineers to use a considerable amount of ingenuity in constructing the lines in the narrow valleys and canyons where in many cases it was necessary to use side cross arms on the poles which were set in solid rock against the cliffs. Due to the roughness of the country the wires span short valleys and deep crevices in a great many places, but, recognizing the fact that "a chain is only as strong as its weakest link," the engineers have used extra precautions to make the construction heavy enough to carry the strain.

Up to a few years ago long distance calls over distances such as connections are established today could not be made, for the equipment to make such service possible had not been developed. Even now people frequently ask "what type of apparatus has been provided to make such long distance conversations possible?" The answer is the telephone repeater. Without the use of telephone repeaters it would not be possible to transmit speech between distant points through cable, and without the use of cable the construction cost of long distance lines would make toll rates almost prohibitive, as compared with established rates.

On open wire lines where wires are spaced about one foot apart the voice energy does not diminish as rapidly as it does when traveling over the closely spaced wires of the cable. For this reason it is necessary to establish repeater stations at intervals of about 50 miles along cable routes so that the transmission may be boosted from time to time as required, but the telephone repeaters are indispensable to long distance conversations whether the circuits are in open wire or cable.

Just as sound waves traveling thru the air gradually die away the farther they go, so do the electrical currents carrying the voice waves over the long distance circuit weaken as they proceed away from the speaker. To overcome this difficulty the engineers of the telephone company developed the repeater equipment which is used universally on cable and open wire telephone routes throughout the country.

The first telephone repeater to be used commercially was installed on a long distance circuit between Boston and Amesbury, Mass. This was known as a mechanical type repeater. It employed a device somewhat similar to the present telephone transmitter. This type of repeater was used more or less successfully for a number of years, but after the vacuum tube repeater was developed the old type was replaced.

The present type repeaters are vacuum tube amplifiers similar in principle to the amplifier used in the Bell public address system and in radio receiving sets where suitable transformers for connection to the line circuits are employed. The first important use of this type of repeater was on the transcontinental telephone circuit which was placed in service between New York and San Francisco on January 25, 1915. This circuit contained three repaters, located at Pittsburgh, Omaha and Salt Lake City. Since that date the use of the telephone repeaters has increased rapidly until at the present time they are being used in large numbers throughout the country, enabling the human voice to be transmitted to distant points clearly and accurately.

Card of Thanks

We desire in this manner to thank our many friends for their kindness and the many favors extended us during the illness and after the death of our husband and father, Henry C. Fowler. We also wish to thank those who so kindly donated the use of their cars and for the floral tributes.

DAVID SPARES SAUL

LESSON TEXT—I Sam., chap. 26.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

PRIMARY TOPIC—David's Kindness to His Enemy.

JUNIOR TOPIC—David Shows Mercy.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Treat Those Who Wrong Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Overcoming Evil With Good.

I. Saul in Pursuit of David (vv. 1-3).

Ever since David took his departure from Jonathan (ch. 20), when that crowning act of friendship was shown, Saul had been hunting him as a wild animal. He now pursues him with 3,000 chosen men. David flees from place to place and is in hiding as an outlaw. Sometimes he is in the enemy's country doing disreputable things. This is the period of his schooling, which fitted him to be the future eminent king. It was a bitter period in his life, but God sent him to this school and adapted the instruction to his needs. David could never have been the broad man that he was had he not been prepared in this crucible of bitter experience. He learned many lessons, among which may be mentioned:

1. His own weakness. It was necessary that he be humbled under the sense of his infirmities. Before any one is fit to be raised to a position of prominence he must be made to know his limitations and weaknesses. Unless a man has learned this lesson, sudden elevation to power will utterly ruin him.

2. His dependence upon God. David's many miraculous escapes caused him to realize that the Lord had redeemed him out of his adversity.

3. He learned the country and people over which he was to rule. By knowing the grievous afflictions which Saul had heaped upon the people, he could sympathize and remove them.

4. He learned the magnanimity of self-control. This a man must know before he can be a true King. He that ruleth his spirit is better than he that taketh a city (Prov. 16:32).

II. Saul in David's Hands (vv. 4-20).

1. David sends out spies (v. 4). This he did to find out whether Saul was come in very deed.

2. David in Saul's camp (vv. 5-11). He took with him Abishai and went in the night to where Saul was sleeping. Abishai asked to be allowed to kill Saul, but David forbade him because Saul was the Lord's anointed.

3. David takes Saul's spear and cruse of water (vv. 12, 13). Once before at Engedi (chap. 24) David spared Saul's life. Now again he was at his mercy. This David did that he might show tangible evidence to the king that he had no evil intent.

4. David taunts Abner, the king's bodyguard (vv. 14-16). He calls to Abner and taunts him for his listlessness—his failure to watch over the Lord's anointed, the evidence of which is the cruse and spear in his hands.

5. David reasons with Saul (vv. 17-20). David reasoned with Saul, showing that he had nothing but good intentions toward the king. He asked that he would show what wrong he had done, or what evil intent was in his heart. If the Lord was directing Saul he was willing to appease His wrath with an offering. If Saul was only hunting him because wicked men were urging him, a curse should be pronounced upon them. David is very humble and begs Saul to relent, for surely if he had any wicked purpose he would not have saved his life twice when the Lord had placed Saul wholly at his mercy. David recognized the fact that the Lord had delivered Saul into his hands not to kill, but to save. He did not kill, neither did he allow his servants to kill.

III. Saul's Confession (vv. 21-25).

1. He confessed that he had sinned. The sad feature about his confession is that it lacked conviction, for he went right on sinning.

2. He confessed that he had played the fool and erred exceedingly. We see about us daily many using such expressions, but still they go on repeating their sins. David shows his magnanimity of spirit, however, in delivering the cruse and spear to Saul's servant. He knew that Saul's confession was not genuine, so he was afraid to go near. He still appeals to Saul's kindness to him, and they part never to meet again.

The following poem, "He Has Went," one of the most famous of all "newspaper classics," is the product of the well known poet, Douglas Malloch, and first appeared in an article in 1905, entitled, "The Joys of a Country Editor."

HE HAS WENT.

He has went, has went and left us,
Went and left us all alone,
Left us alone in sorrow,
Sorrow heavy as a stone.

Heavy as the stone gigantic,
Stone that crushed the Greek of yore
Or the stone beside the highway,
Highway down by Skinner's store.

Skinner's store where in his lifetime,
Lifetime full of pleasant hours,
Hours he used to set a-talking,
Used to set a-talking hours.

Hours while other men were toiling,
Toiling in the race for wealth.
Wealth he never wanted while he Could get credit and had health.

Health, however, was not lasting,
Lasts no longer than the rain.
Rain that soaks the morning-glory
Glorious blooming in the lane.

Lanes they say must have a turning,
Turning, twisting and again,
And again we see turn upward
Upward turn our Ezra Lane.

Ezra Lane used blasting powder,
Blasting powder tried to dry,
Tried to dry it did our Ezra;
Ezra then was called on high.

High to glory he ascended,
Ascended and we know, alack!
From a lack of things returning
Returning we'll never see him baek.

Back within our pleasant circle,
Broken by unhappy fate;
Fate the circle has uncireled
Where he used to circulate.

He has went and left alone here,
Left alone here parents, two,
Two and twenty aunts in sorrow,
Sorrowing uncles, too, a few.

Few may hope to win where Ez is,
Ez is sundered from his Liz,
Liz who'd gladly follow if she,
If she knew just where he is.

Dairy Questions That Don't Have Much to do With Dairying.

Q. The white cows of Mr. Ezra Tinkleberg cost twice as much to keep as his Guernsey cows. What causes this?

A. Mr. Tinkleberg has twice as many white cows as he has Guernsey cows.

Q. What breed of cow will give the largest quantity of milk?

A. It depends altogether on who does the milking and whether the cow is fed.

Q. Are there enough cows in Garrett county to supply milk for two stations?

A. Yes; did you ever stop to think that if all the cows in Garrett county were placed end to end they would stretch for a great distance.

Q. How much is a quart of milk?

A. A certain amount.

Scoop will endeavor to answer any questions relating to this subjeet, providing they are technical enough.

How to Avoid a Libel Suit.

Every editor who is not a soft soapist and who likes to tell the truth in plain words has to keep his weather eye open for libel suits.

To sue an editor for libel is one way in which obscure people can attract momentary attention to themselves. It is an expression of swollen ego.

One country editor, harassed by libel suits, so the story goes, studied the libel law. When he discovered how easy it is to libel anybody, this is the way he wrote up a party:

A woman giving the name of J. G. Jones, who is reputed to be one of the society leaders of this section, is said to have given what purported to be a reception yesterday afternoon.

It is understood that a considerable number of so-called guests, reported to be ladies noted in society circles, were present, and some of them are quoted as saying they enjoyed the occasion.

It is charged that the firm of Bower & Black furnished the refreshments and Stringham the alleged music.

The hostess is said to have worn a necklace of alleged pearls which she declares was given her by her husband.

An hour after the paper appeared the editor quit figuring on how to get away from libel suits. He began to figure on how to get away from town.

The 11:30 p. m. freight, bound west, solved the problem.—The Vagabond.

* * *

The story about the magistrate being "on the outs" with the town council and because of this refusing to try a case in which the town was the prosecutor, is about as bad as the one told about the conductor who never stopped his train at a certain town because he was mad at the station agent.

GRANTSVILLE.

By G. W. Diefenbach

Mrs. Virginia L. Nathan.

Mrs. Virginia L. Nathan, wife of Michael Nathan, died last Wednesday afternoon at her home in Grantsville, following an illness of several months from which until very recently she seemed to be recovering. However, a succession of paralytic strokes early last week proved more than her physical powers could overcome. She was over 64 years of age and the daughter of Samuel J. and Ruhamah Beachy. She was married in 1891 to Michael Nathan. Two children, a son, Carroll C. Nathan, and a daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Endsley, survive, as also do her husband, two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. David Durst, of Oakland; Mrs. Ella Augustine, of Friendsville; Ward and Charles Beachy, of Grantsville. Mrs. Nathan's funeral was conducted Saturday morning from the M. E. church in Grantsville, the services being in charge of her pastor, the Rev. J. E. Johnson, with interment in the family lot in Grantsville cemetery. Undertaker Winterberg had charge of the interment. Mrs. Nathan was a faithful member of the M. E. church, a good wife and mother and a most excellent neighbor.

Injured by Rolling Log.

Jonas E. Beachy suffered severe and painful bruises of both his legs by having a large log roll upon him last Wednesday afternoon while engaged in logging for VanSickle Brothers on the J. U. Stanton tract of timber near town. He was endeavoring to put the log upon the sled by having wrapped a chain around it, fastening with a grabb. The scheme worked until the grabb pulled away, allowing the log to roll backward, and he being in its path could not get away quickly enough to avoid being caught. Fortunately a number of his fellow-workmen were nearby and immediately went to his rescue and extricated him from his perilous position. His injuries were attended by Dr. N. R. Davis and he has been confined to his bed ever since the accident befell him.

Teaching German at Home.

A school for the study of the German language is being conducted at the A. M. Childrens' Home, in the school building by Mr. J. B. Miller, under the auspices of the Amish Mennonite church. The funds have been set aside especially for the teaching of German, and not being needed, they have been devoted to the work at the Home. The school opened on July 11 and will continue for six weeks from that date. There are about 25 pupils in attendance.

Membership Campaign.

The Woodmen of the World, Camp No. 41, of Grantsville, is conducting a membership campaign to last for thirty days. State Officer Luther C. Jones, of Washington, D. C., is here directing the operations. The quota for Garrett county has been set at 100 and it is planned to hold initiations at the dedication of the lodge's new hall in Hagerstown on September 3d.

"Comedy of Errors."

The Shakespeare Club, in its meeting last week read "The Comedy of Errors," which consists of five acts. The reading was much enjoyed, it being short and humorous.

Quarterly Meeting

A very well attended quarterly conference and communion service was held in the New Germany M. E. church on Sunday by Rev. W. M. Shultz, of Fairmont, Superintendent of the Morgantown District, assisted by Rev. Swan, of Lumberport, W. Va., and the pastor, Rev. J. E. Johnson. Several children were baptized.

Missionary Society Meetings.

The Reformed Missionary Society met in the home of Mrs. N. R. Davis last Wednesday evening with a large attendance. Miss Ruth Keller discussed the topic assigned for the meeting. The hostess served refreshments before the adjournment of the meeting.

The Lutheran Women's Missionary society met on Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. James Schaefer and Mrs. Elizabeth Lohr, west of town, in their regular monthly meeting of study and devotions.

In Children's Hospital.

Miss Iva Klotz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Klotz, is in the Children's Hospital, Baltimore, under the care of Dr. Bennett, for the restoration of a limb deformed by infantile paralysis in babyhood. Her case came to the attention of Dr. Bennett early in the spring while conducting a Children's clinic in Garrett county, who feels certain her condition can be much improved by the proper treatment.

Returns From Tour.

Mr. William Turner and family and chauffeur Forest Beachy returned to their home at Shade Mill last week after being absent for five weeks on a tour of the mid-west, visiting relatives and friends in Illinois, Wisconsin, South Dakota and Iowa. Needless to say their journey was pleasant and much enjoyed by the entire party.

Injured In Mine.

Phineas Durst, of Meyersdale, a former resident of Garrett county and brother of Mr. E. B. Durst, was severely injured last Friday in the mine of the Mountain View Coal Company at Garrett, Pa., by a fall in the roof, breaking his left leg and left arm. He was immediately removed to the Hazel McGilvery Hospital, Meyersdale, where his broken limbs were set. His condition, while serious, is favorable to recovery.

Visiting In Canada.

Roy Beachy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Beachy, and Alvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Beachy, are touring in Canada. They visited Buffalo and Niagara and will visit relatives in Mercer County, Pa., before returning home.

CHEVROLET

Consistent Progress and Proved Design—have resulted in the most Amazing Quality in Chevrolet History!

The vast resources of General Motors and the tremendous manufacturing facilities of Chevrolet have made possible this amazing quality.

GENERAL MOTORS

The Chevrolet Motor Company is a unit of the General Motors Corporation—the greatest automotive organization in the world. Utilizing the vast resources and engineering facilities of the organization, Chevrolet enjoys, to the fullest extent, these manufacturing advantages—a fact that is largely responsible for Chevrolet's amazing values.

PROVING GROUND

The General Motors Proving Ground comprises a tract of 1245 acres. The entire tract is criss-crossed with roads of every type—from a concrete straightaway and speed track, to deep-rutted clay lanes. There are hills that vary in steepness from a slight inclination to 24%. Fleets of Chevrolet cars are under constant test at the Proving Ground—driven day and night under every conceivable condition of road and load.

TWELVE GREAT FACTORIES

Chevrolet cars are manufactured in 12 great factories, located at strategic shipping points throughout the country. Every factory is equipped with the most advanced modern machinery known to engineering science—performing every manufacturing operation with scientific precision and maximum efficiency.

Today's Chevrolet embodies the most amazing quality in Chevrolet history—the result of 14 years of consistent development and improvement—building, at all times, a modern automobile for transportation needs.

In carrying out this policy of consistent betterment, the Chevrolet Motor Company has profited greatly from its close association with the General Motors Corporation—the world's greatest producer of automotive products.

The General Motors Research Laboratories, under the direction of the most famous scientific staff in the automotive industry—

ROOM FOR TWO.

There is a story of a man in a certain kind of business coming into a town where another man in the same business was making a profitable living. The result in a few years was that neither was making enough to live on. Where there was room for one, there wasn't room for two. But there is one thing that wasn't taken into consideration: The size of the town did not warrant the support of two.

There is a somewhat similar case in the town of Oakland today.

There is one milk shipping station doing a profitable business, and there are prospects of there being another one. If it can be proved that there is room for two, then let the other one come in. Yes, it really has been proved, and figures and facts show that Garrett county can support two milk shipping stations.

Therein lies the difference between this case and the one first enumerated. Where the field was not big enough, the two merchants failed; where the field is so extensive that two milk shipping stations can be supported, both will have a profitable business.

Take for instance this one fact, that in order to produce the extra 2,500 gallons per day that the new station can handle, there need only be one gallon of milk from each 80 acres of land within a radius of ten miles of Oakland. Just this area alone within this radius will produce the necessary quantity of milk. That looks anything but impossible.

The other milk station, should it be located here, will be exactly similar to the one already here, that is, there will be milk gathered within the county and shipped to another town where it will be used for milk products, the same as is now being done. Cheese, butter, ice cream and other products will be made from it. This will not necessitate any immediate improvement of barns on the part of farmers, because if one company can accept milk from barns already housing the cattle, the other company can and will do the same.

The Republican does not desire to detract from the established creamery or its manager, George D. Sprague. He knows the dairying business from A to Z, and is the first man to ever make a milk shipping station a success here. He has worked hard for the interest of Garrett county, but that is beside the point. The fact is that the present shipping station will continue to ship as it has done in the past. The new station would not encroach upon it in the least, as the county could easily produce the extra 2,500 gallons required. There is sufficient milk being shipped to points each day than is needed to supply the other station.

A survey of Garrett county showed that it is an ideal spot for dairying, and The Republican feels that if this is the case, then it ought to be made a county with dairying as its chief industry. It is only by finding the ideal that the farmers will prosper, and if milk shipping stations are going to do that, then let them come.

STILL WORLDSTOCONQUER

There are still plenty of places left for the ambitious explorer, according to a recent news article in which it stated that parts of Canada, and neighboring islands, parts of Africa, the South Polar regions, the North Polar spaces, and all of the great deserts still remained practically unknown as to their geography, forms of life, etc.

The spots that remain unexplored are of such character that only those people who are willing to stand hardship and possible death in their search for new things, will be the conquerors of the now little-known regions. People of such character, however, are mighty few.

When Columbus set out on his voyage he didn't know where he was going, and it required courage for him to start, but he at least had the assurance that he would be kept warm, would be clothed and had a sufficient supply of food at hand for himelf and his crew. When the Norsemen came down from their country in search of new lands they had the same assurance.

But those who explore the Polar regions accurately will have to undergo hardsbips such as few explorers have ever faced. Those who explore far into the desert regions will have difficulties to face that never confronted the average explorer. Intense heat, intense cold, lack of water supply, elements that are absolutely essential to man, will have to be met on journeys into the now lightly explored spots of the world.

The men who attempt to explore these regions will have to be a different type of explorer from those of the old days. They will be more the type of Peary and Amundsen and Lindberg. But the work is there for anybody of that type who thinks that he would like to find out something that isn't known.

Alexander, Caesar and Hannibal deplored the fact that they had no more worlds to conquer. That was many centuries ago, but there are still places that have remained unconquerable. It only remains for the new type of explorer to make them known to the world.

ADVERTISING PAYS.

Edison R. Waite, of Shawnee, Oklahoma, has made some timely statements about the value of newspapers and newspaper advertising to the business men and people of communities:

"Newspapers are the great leaders that aid most in a city's ambitions, growth and progress.

"They are read by every family.

"They should have the confidence and support of all the people.

"Their advertising columns are a reliable servant of all buyers and sellers.

"The old saying, 'There is no form of advertising as good as newspaper advertising,' is as true today as it ever was and will remain true for all time to come.

"Business concerns should never forget what a tremendous service they render the public.

"Well written advertisements have a world of meaning to the buyer.

"The up-to-date merchandiser always advertises that which the time and trade requires.

"Buyers know that they can depend on the offerings made by the consistent advertiser."

That advertising pays is an old, tried and true principle. Try it and see.

IT IS NOT ALWAYS SIZE

Friendsville, Garrett county, held a Chautauqua last week, which was enjoyed very much. Many people went from Accident so that they might get the benefit of the entertainments and word has come from Friendsville that the citizens of that town have already guaranteed its return next season.

Friendsville has a population of six hundred or seven hundred souls, yet they are able to make it profitable for Chautauquas to be held there.

Oakland's population is approximately 2,000, but we have not been able to support a Chautauqua here for the past two or three years except at the expense of the guarantors in a considerable sum. The reason is that there is not sufficient interest shown for real good entertainment, and when we make this statement it is not intended as a knock on our home town, but is a statement of fact that can be borne out by the guarantors of the two Chautauquas that made a stand here three and two years ago.

When a town of 600 can support a Chautauqua and one of 2,000 apparently cannot do so, there is something wrong somewhere. Friendsville is to be congratulated and her people commended.

STRUGGLING ALONG

The Oakland Boys' Band has been struggling along in a remarkable manner, taking into consideration the fact that no financial aid or word of encouragement has been offered in any way to either the director, R. R. Gilbert, or the boys who make up the organization.

In spite of the progress that has been made, Mr. Gilbert is not satisfied, and he shouldn't be. When he spends his time with the boys and furnishes the money for light bills, music, reeds for clarinets, and other incidentals, it isn't any wonder that he wouldn't be satisfied.

What he hates the worst, is the fact that his pupils must be made to play upon old instruments whose last mellow and correct tone departed several years ago. To get nothing but discords out of a horn in which the boy put in a perfectly good breath, is enough to discourage both the instructor and pupil. But they are not discouraged, merely dissatisfied, and there will be dissatisfaction until better instruments are provided for the boys to play upon.

"Give me the right instruments," Mr. Gilbert said, "and I will guarantee that the boys will be able to play them." That seems to be the fix, and unless an organization is formed that will back the boys in spirit and in financial aid, the band is going to have a hard row to hoe.

It is announced that Liberia has entirely paid off its war debt to the United States. Paris papers please copy.

LUTHERAN DAY TO AGAIN BE OBSERVED AT MT. LAKE

With a Full Day's Program of Addresses, Music and Good Fellowship, August 11th.

Lutheran Day, a day for the purpose of fellowship and recreation of Lutherans of Garrett county and nearby communities, will again be established at Mountain Lake Park next Thursday, August 11th, according to the announcement appearing in the Park program and following a resolution recently adopted by the representatives of the church in convention at Clarksburg, West Va., during the first weeks in June. Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, is chairman of the committee having the matter in charge.

The address of the day will be made by Rev. R. T. Vorberg, D. D., pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Keyser, West Va. Greetings will be brought by Rev. W. P. Kline, of Fairmont, who is president of the West Virginia Synod. Rev. D. M. Funk, of Morgantown, formerly pastor of the Oakland church, will also have part in the program. A special anthem will be sung by the choir of the Keyser Lutheran church.

A Lutheran Day was a part of the annual program of the activities of Mountain Lake Park for many years, but was discontinued several years ago, and with the reestablishment of the day again this year it is expected that hereafter it will become an annual event.

Another Person Is Interested In The Dairying Question that Confronts The Farmers of Garrett County.

To the Editor of The Republican.

I have been reading up on the letters written by different persons on the subject of the proposed new milk and cream station that may be established in Oakland, and I would like room in this week's Republican for these few lines.

I, perhaps as well as anyone, am interested in dairying in Garrett county. Another milk and cream station to operate in opposition to the present creamery should make good prices for milk, cream and milk products. If I understand things rightly, the manager of the Oakland Creamery has been on the job for eight years and during all these eight years he has been working hard to get the farmers of Garrett county to get their barns in a more sanitary condition and then they would have the right to expect more money for the milk they sell to the creamery.

Would it be fair to pay one person fifty cents a gallon for his milk that would pass all inspections and come out as A No. 1 grade, and pay another man fifty cents for a gallon of his milk that would not pass any inspection at all? If the farmers in Garrett county can get down to business and put their dairy barns in a sanitary condition for this new milk and cream station, why could they not do the same for the Oakland Creamery Company, which amounted to very little before the present manager arrived here to take charge?

It may be said that he built the trade up that they now have, and if the farmers and dairy men of the county would have co-operated with him they would have had a market for all of their milk and cream and would have been getting a good price for it.

I am not talking for the Oakland Creamery, nor am I knocking the new plant (proposed), but it seems to me that it is a little one-sided. Consider both sides of the thing and see for yourself. Are you giving the Oakland Creamery Company a square deal?

A Tribute to the Late Mrs. John W. Maroney.

Mrs. John W. Maroney was one of the most endearing of God's creatures—a rare soul—unconsciously loving and sweet. No pen can portray the tender motherliness with which she received all who approached. She impressed all with whom she came in contact with a feeling of serene peace which became peculiarly contagious from her still, quiet conscience—the peace which is above all earthly dignities. Small insincerities, even large ones, had no power to ehill her affectionate heart. To saint and sinner alike she was as tenderly charitable as is the Saviour. Was there a friend down with a dangerous illness, she was found present at the bedside with her willing, helping hands; was there sadness and death she was found beside the casket, and with her prayers and tender words of comfort striving to stay the despair and tears of the sorrowing mourners. Called upon by death to endure sad losses in her own family, while sinking beneath the bitter cross of a bereaved mother and wife, it became her sorrowful mission to comfort and sustain her afflicted and stricken children as only a loving mother can. Though growing weaker for months from poor health, she kept going with her heroic patience, with her tender smile at death's approaching shadows undimned to the end. But those dear eyes are closed; those dear arms will no more enfold her loved ones this side the Valley of the Shadow.

An angel came to visit us; we knew that only after she had gone. Within his wings of darkness death enveloped her pure spirit, bore it away to dwell forever with her dear ones gone before. Throngs of friends arrived from east and west, testifying by their presence the loving esteem she implanted in every heart.

The community of St. Peter's has lost a loving sister. This generation will have passed before she is forgotten. May she rest in peace.

A FRIEND.

DIED.

ADEN CLAREY WILT.

In sad but loving remembrance of Aden C. Wilt, born August 17, 1873; departed this life July 15, 1927, aged 53 years, 10 months and 28 days. Mr. Wilt had been to Piedmont the day prior to his death and had returned home in the evening. He had retired with unusually good health, but the Death Angel saw fit to take him away before the dawning of another day. His sudden death was a great shock to his many neighbors and friends as well as to the members of his family. Oh! may the Great Physician heal the wounds which death has made, for He has promised to never forsake us and to give grace sufficient to bear our burdens.

His funeral was conducted on the Sunday following his death, the services being conducted at his late home by Rev. Burke, pastor of the M. E. church at Beryl, W. Va. His remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground on the John A. Wilt farm. He was born and lived his entire life at Frankville, Md. In his early life he was united in marriage with Lulu Pritts. To this union twelve children were born—six boys and six girls, two of whom preceded him to the great beyond. Besides his wife those surviving are: Mrs. Goldie Umstot, Piedmont, W. Va.; Mrs. Carrie Rounds, Mrs. Gertrude Ward, Frankville; Daniel, Richard, Michael, Luther, Aden, Blanche and Mabel, all at home. He also leaves two brothers, Daniel and John Wilt, and a host of other relatives and friends.

While our hearts are filled with grief and pain, there is a hope of heaven, where loved ones meet again.

A FRIEND.

JAMES LLOYD FRAKER.

James Lloyd Fraker, only son of Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Fraker, departed this life July 13, a short time after the midnight hour, being ill but a short time. He was aged 20 years, 10 months and 16 days. He united with the U. B. church at the age of 12 years and was an active member at the time of his death. He was very much interested in the young people's work, and at various meetings spoke to them about living the better life. While the parting was almost too sad to endure, we have the assurance that some sweet day we shall be united where there will be no heartaches and no goodbyes. He is survived by his parents and grandfather and by a host of other relatives and friends. The funeral was conducted in the U. B. church at McHenry on July 17 by Rev. F. L. Fultz. The pallbearers were Arley Winters, Will McRobie, Boyd Paugh, Ralph Dawson, Robert Miller, Gordon McRobie. The honorary pall bearers were members of his Sunday school class, namely: Arthur and Paul Savage, Walter and John Bowman, Webster Brenneman, Edward Glotfelty. The flower bearers were Margaret and Catharine Sebold, Pauline and Verna Savage, Effie, Annabelle, Margaret and Mabel Glotfelty, Bess Griffith, Mary Schmidt, Helen DeWitt and Mary Jeffries. Interment was made in the Flatwoods cemetery, near McHenry, where the body was buried by the side of a brother whose death occurred eight weeks preceding.

A RELATIVE.

EMANUEL B. KING.

Emanuel B. King, aged 81 years, 2 months and 3 days, died at his home near Deer Park, Sunday, July 31. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the M. E. church, in Deer Park, Rev. F. L. Fultz, officiating. Interment was made in the Deer Park cemetery. Mr. King was twice married, his first wife and one son preceding him to the grave. He is survived by his second wife, eight children, a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

MISS ALMA ELRICH.

Miss Alma Elrich, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Elrich, of Gorman, died Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Death was due to leakage of the heart. Funeral services will be held today at the home of the deceased parents and interment will be made in Rose Hill cemetery, Cumberland. She is survived by her parents, three brothers, Austin, Edward and Wesley Elrich, and by two sisters, Misses Nellie and Cora Elrich.

A Sudden Death Last Night.

Mrs. E. H. Thalaker, of Petersburg, West Va., a sister of Mr. Louis Bush, of Oakland, died very suddenly last night, according to a telegram received here this morning. No details aside from the announcement of her death, were contained in the message. Mrs. Thalaker was aged about 70 years and has resided in Petersburg for many years.

MT. LAKE PARK.

The School of Theology, with one hundred and five ministers from the Pittsburgh, Erie and West Virginia Conferences enrolled, and with a faculty of fifteen, is moving along most successfully. The final examinations will be held today following which the school will close for the year. The earnest and aggressive preparation being made by these young men certainly means success for the future of the church. Dr. Allen MacRossee, of Philadelphia, Pa., educational director of the Methodist Episcopal church, preached a most excellent sermon in the auditorium on Sunday morning. His message was greatly enjoyed by all in attendance.

Mrs. Annan, of St. Louis, Mo., who has been spending her summers here for a great number of years, was taken back to her home last night, she having suffered an attack of appendicitis. She will probably be operated upon as soon as she arrives in her home city.

Many of the old residents and visitors are back with us again this year. Rev. C. W. Baldwin, now in his 88th year; Mr. Parker and Mrs. Parker; Dr. Hinkle, of Norfolk, Va., who was here thirty years ago, and a number of others, who have returned to spend their vacations.

James Jarboe, of Jacksonville, Fla., is here on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Arnold.

Next Sunday is Christian Citizenship Day. A full day with three services. The Crellin band is to be here all day.

Rev. E. R. Hauser and family, of Clearfield, Pa., are here and are occupying the Falkenstine cottage on E street.

Nathan Enlow and two daughters, of Cedar Falls, Iowa, and Mr. Hans McCullock, of Wheeling, W. Va., visited at the home of J. A. Enlow a few days ago. Nathan Enlow had not seen his brother for forty-five years and it was with great difficulty that the two recognized each other.

Mrs. Ray H. Hamill and children, of Huntington, W. Va., arrived here a few days ago and are occupying their summer home.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. J. A. Hayden is much improved. She was able to be out doors for a short time the past week-end.

Miss Amelia Thomas, one of the Park's summer citizens, is quite ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. W. Baldwin, the illness dating from a recent stroke of paralysis.

On the program of the Preachers' Institute last week was Rev. S. K. Arbuthnot, a former pastor of the Oakland-Park charge. The many friends of the minister gave him a warm greeting.

Because of alleged high water rates the canning company and the Mountain Lake Hotel installed independent water plants. They secured an abundance of pure water and will save more than half a thousand dollars a year. As far as their properties are concerned they have solved the water problem.

The Pittsburgh Conference Epworth League has signed a contract for the Institute to be held here early in July, 1928. This contradicts the rumor that the League would not return to the Park next season.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richardson, of Piedmont, were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Richardson, Sunday.

Thomas Compton and family have moved into the Kiesner cottage on F street. Mrs. Kiesner has a lunch stand in operation on the Keyser Ridge State road.

On last Monday we had rain, sunshine and hail. Then in the evening the new moon appeared, hence moonshine. A chilly experience for August.

The following is the program for the first half of August:

Sunday, August 7—11:00 a. m., Tri-State Christian Citizenship Day, address; 2:30 p. m., Crellin Band concert; 3:00 p. m., address; 7:30 p. m., Crellin Band concert; 8:00 p. m., addresses, Dr. A. Moore and Mrs. W. W. Grant, Oakland; Mr. George Diefenbach, of Grantsville.

August 8-13—Western Maryland Championship Tennis Tournament.

August 11—Lutheran Day. Plan to attend upon this occasion.

August 14—Foreign Missionary Day. John R. Edwards, a great preacher, will speak at 11:00 a. m.

BITTINGER.

A delightfully cool breeze, accompanied by occasional showers, rendered living in this section most agreeable the past few days.

Rev. E. E. Campbell and Playford Detrick returned last Saturday evening from a ten days' stay at Camp Royal, near Annapolis.

The regular annual picnic of the Lutheran Sunday school of this village will be held in Broadwater's Grove on Saturday, August 27th, and a similar picnic will be held at Meadow Mountain, in Brenneman's Grove, on Saturday, August 13th. The usual features of a thoroughly enjoyable picnic will be arranged for both days. Old and young will be entertained and everybody will be supplied with all kinds of refreshments at reasonable cost. Come, spend the days with these good folks and be happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Bittinger and son Ross visited relatives in Somerset county, Pa., last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Jane Boucher, of Rockwood, Pa., spent last week here as the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Ellithorp.

Mrs. Martha Gregg and daughter, Mrs. Amy Dixon, of Piedmont, W. Va., spent part of last week visiting relatives in this neighborhood.

Hon. N. R. Selby and daughter Miss Lettie Selby, of Selbysport, were very pleasant callers in this neighborhood one day last week.

ALTAMONT

Consistency.

When cigarettes are lacking,
With many a sigh and groan,
He takes his sack-o'-backer out,
And calmly rolls his own.

When modern styles are ceiling,
With puff, sigh and groan,
She grasps her hose below the knee
And calmly rolls her own.

When these two meet they woo and wed
And build for them a home;
Then in a carriage down the street,
They calmly roll their own.

Put some fun in your "circle"! Work, play, recreation—you should have them all in "the circle of your activity." It's a wonderful thing always to be ready for a game with the children, a hike, or whatever fun is suggested. But you must have good feet. This means feet that are not abused. For abused feet sap your energy and take away your pep. Healthy, vigorous, comfortable feet are assured by wearing the BOSTONIANS or FLORSHEIM SHOES. Try a pair of our shoes and make your "circle" what it should be.

Weak and Broken-Down Arches

Let us relieve your foot troubles

We are not satisfied to sell just shoes. We want to protect you against being foot-miserable, the same as we have many others in this community. Whatever your foot trouble may be, you will find here, as they have, the way to quick and lasting relief.

Owing to our fitness to handle all types of foot trouble, Dr. Scholl, the well-known foot authority, has appointed us as his authorized representative.

Silo Proves Factor in Efficient Farming.

The farm silo not only provides a succulent and palatable feed for cattle, but is a prime factor in efficient farming, says R. W. Carpenter, specialist in farm engineering for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

"Experiments show that fully forty per cent of the corn crop on many farms is entirely wasted or else fed dry in a condition that gives it little value as a food. If this same corn were put in a silo it would furnish an ideal winter feed and in many cases tide the farmer over a period of drought in summer.

"In regions where the European corn borer is working, the silo furnishes the best single means whereby the individual farmer can fight the pest. According to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, if the farmer cuts his corn two inches above the ground and puts it in the silo, he will kill practically all the borers that would otherwise take up winter quarters in the stalks."

The ideal silo, according to Mr. Carpenter, is one which will keep silage perfectly, will give its owner a long period of service at low cost and will require little expense for upkeep. The modern silo is wind-proof, vermin-proof and fire-proof.

"The use of concrete in the construction of the silo," says Mr. Carpenter, "has enabled the farmer to build a structure which meets all of these requirements. Frequently farmers erect their own concrete silos with the assistance of some one familiar with concrete construction to superintend the job. It is probably best, however, to engage a contractor to do the work. These are many examples of the different types of silos in Maryland and it may be wise for the farmer to inspect a number of different kinds before definitely launching upon a building program.

More Care Needed Now to Make Hog Profits.

Recent advances in corn prices have had a marked influence upon profits from swine growing, says B. E. Carmichael, professor of livestock husbandry at the University of Maryland, the significant factor being that the price for live hogs dropped at about the time of the market rise in corn prices.

"The result has been," says Mr. Carmichael, "that many swine producers have felt that there is but little opportunity for profit and have virtually gone out of business. Others have materially decreased their production, while still others are proceeding on a normal basis, feeling that future market conditions may be less unfavorable and that eventually they will be able to make a profit on their hogs.

"The high efficiency of the hog as a converter of corn into meat has made it possible for profits to be secured when feed prices were not especially high even though the best methods have not been followed. Careful producers, however, made more money under favorable conditions than those following less efficient methods and it is only the careful producer who can hope for profits under prevailing conditions.

"Marketing hogs at relatively light weights would seem to be one of the wise things to do under the present conditions. This would help the producer in three ways. It will keep the cost of production relatively low. It will give the producer the advantage of the higher price paid for light weight hogs. And, furthermore, it will reduce the aggregate production from a given number of hogs, thus tending to reduce the amount of pork in the market and to encourage better prices in the future.

"Good green forage should be used whenever it is possible to supply it. While green feed is not an adequate feed by itself, the use of good pasture in connection with a generous grain ration will materially reduce the cost of production and will just about cut in half the amount of high protein supplemental feed needed for use with corn.

"A suitable high protein supplement, such as fish meal, tankage, skim milk ,linseed oilmeal, or other similar feed, should be supplied if the best possible use is to be made of the high priced corn.

"Sanitary conditions also should be good so that danger of losses from contagious diseases and parasites will be reduced to a minimum. The essentials of sanitation are neither expensive nor difficult to put into practice and every swine grower should familiarize himself with what is known as the McLean county system of sanitation.

"In spite of present unfavorable corn-and-hog price relations, there is every reason to believe that efficient producers will be able to adapt their methods to prevailing conditions in a way that will permit them to continue to make a profit from their business."

ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Arthur Scrogum and daughters, Betty and Ruth, returned Friday from a three weeks' visit with relatives in Peru, Indiana.

Mrs. Elsie Weyrick and children and Miss Thelma Hoover, of Belair, Ohio, returned to their home Sunday, having spent several weeks at the home of James Speicher.

Miss Ola King is spending a short vacation with relatives on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Mrs. F. E. Spoerlein returned home Friday from the Western Maryland Hospital at Cumberland following an operation for the removal of her tonsils.

A great many of the people from Accident attended the Radcliffe Chautauqua at Friendsville during the past week. The entertainments, both afternoon and evening,were highly appreciated,the lectures being especially uplifting and inspiring. We were glad to hear that the guarantors have insured the return of the Chautauqua next year.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tarbell and daughter Betty Ann spent Saturday in Cumberland.

Messrs. Eldridge and Carey, of Johnstown, Pa., and Mr. Wilhelm, of Somerset county, officials of the Penn Public Service Corporation, were dinner guests at the home of Henry M. Speicher Wednesday evening.

Mrs. William Reel, son Ewald and daughters Hilda, Christina, Margaret and Mrs. Zembower, of Cumberland, were week-end visitors to relatives and friends here.

The St. John's English Lutheran Sunday school of the Cove has arranged for an outing at Mountain Lake Park and also to observe Garrett County Christian Citizenship Day at that place.

Many of the folks here are interested in Lutheran Day, August 11th, at Mountain Lake Park, and there will likely be a large attendance from this community .

The commodious parsonage of the English Lutheran church will be filled with a week-end reunion of the brothers and sisters of the Rev. G. W. W. Amick. Those expected are: Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Amick, of Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. Park Amick, of Philadelphia; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Blackwelder, of New Springfield, O.; Mrs. Mary Bowser, of Ohio, and Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Wyndman, of Bridgeport, Ohio. These, with some nephews and nieces, will spend a few days In our mountains.

Here and There Health Department News.

The appointment of Dr. Wm. S. Keister as full time county health officer for Prince George county, has been announced by Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health. Dr. Keister was formerly health officer of Albemarle county, Virginia, with headquarters at Charlottesville, serving at the same time as associate professor of public health at the University of Virginia. He has also had experience in public health work in Illinois and in Alabama. He was graduated from Johns Hopkins Medical School in 1914; following this with graduate work at the School of Hygiene and Public Health. His headquarters will be at Upper Marlboro.

Survey of Drug Stores.

A survey of drug stores throughout the State is being made by the Bureau of Food and Drugs of the State Department of Health, with special reference to the operation of the pharmacy law which requires all pharmacies to be in charge of registered pharmacists. As a result of the survey, pharmacies in various parts of the State have been found in charge of persons not legally qualified to compound physicians' prescriptions and to deal generally in medicinal preparations. Such conditions, in the opinion of the department, constitute a menace to the safety and security of the people of the State, when in need of an intelligent pharmaceutical service. Notice of the requirements of the law was accordingly sent to all dealers engaged in selling, dispensing or compounding drugs and medicines with the warning that failure to have legally qualified competent persons in charge, would be sufficient cause for prosecution.

Health on Wheels.

Since the first of June the healthmobile of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health has parked in over forty places in Prince Georges, Charles, St. Mary's and Calvert counties . In each place visited, health conferences for the babies and young children of the neighborhood have been held under the direction of the local health officer by the physician in charge of the health bus, assisted by the public health nurses. During June 629 children, 507 white and 122 colored, were brought to these conferences. The healthmobile will spend some time in Anne Arundel county next and then will visit Queen Anne and Kent counties. The regular child health conferences are being held as usual during the summer throughout the rest of the state.

Midsummer Care of the Baby.

Because the summer weather, especially during and following a heat wave, is likely to be accompanied by a flare up of diarrheal diseases among babies and young children, the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health, gives the following suggestions to mothers:

1. Mother's Milk. Give your baby mother's milk. No food can compare with it . It is especially suited to the baby's needs; it is practically free from germs and it is usually given in just the quantities the baby needs.

2. Cow's Milk. If mother's milk is not available, give the baby the next best substitute—carefully handled, clean—cow's milk, diluted with water according to the doctor's directions. This mixture should be boiled for two or three minutes to destroy the germs that enter cow's milk even with the most careful handling. The milk should be boiled in the same way when given to older children.

Feeding Intervals. Let at least three hours pass between feedings. If cow's milk is used it is better to have four hours between feedings.

4. Cooled Boiled Water. Give the baby cooled, boiled water to drink between feedings.

5. Flies. Keep flies away from the baby; from his food and from everything connected with him.

6. Clothing. Dress the baby according to the temperature. Be careful to have a light cover at hand to slip over the baby when there is a sudden drop in the temperature.
